REVEAL BANK BACKERS

State Lists Applicants

The board of directors of the 7-year-old Bank of Arlington Heights is trying to bring a new bank into the downtown section of the village.

The applicants for the new bank to be known as the Arlington Heights Bank and Trust Co. include W. C. Wolf, Stephen Jurco, Robert M. Calvin, Keith G. Wurtz, and John Henricks, all listed as directors of The Bank of Arlington Heights as of last July.

This information was released by the banking division of the I'linois Department of Financial Institutions in Chicago.

Bernard Rabens of the banking division said that the identity of the organizers is a well-known fact, and said that the application was received at the end of August.

The capitalization figure for the proposed bank is $750,000.

OFFICERS AND directors of The Bank of Arlington Heights indicated that they either did not know or could not confirm or deny that their bank was behind the plans for the new facility.

Jurco, the agent of record for the organizers said that he "was not at liberty to tell our (The Bank of Arlington Heights) position with regard to new banks in the area."

He said that he thought a new bank would be good for Arlington Heights, adding, "We always enjoy competition."

Jurco said that he personally could give no opinion on the starting of a new bank at this time "because you can only give such opinions when you have all the facts."

He said that he did not know what effect the new bank would have on the First Arlington National Bank, the only bank now in the downtown area. He said that he didn't think there would be any unfavorable effects on his own bank because it is located away from the downtown area.

JOHN L. Frieburg Jr., vice president and cashier of The Bank of Arlington Heights, said he did not have any information on the new bank, and said that he could neither confirm nor deny that his bank was connected with the application.

The applicants are currently listing their address at 25 E. Campbell, site of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Arlington Federal executive vice president Donald Morton said that the new bank would either build on the southeast corner of the intersection of Evergreen and Campbell or occupy the present offices of Arlington Federal.

The southwest corner is owned by Arlington Federal. "We would like to see a good building built on a prime corner," said Morton. He gave this as the reason that the savings and loan group has agreed to let the organizing group use the association's address for business purposes.

He explained that if the new bank did eventually occupy the Arlington Federal building, the association would put up a new building on the southeast corner.

Morton said he didn't think that the presence of a new bank would hurt the savings and loan business. He explained that under new federal regulations, the most a bank can pay on time certificates of deposit is five per cent, while savings and loan associations can pay up to five and-one-quarter per cent.

THE ARLINGTON Federal has no part in starting the new bank, according to Morton.

At least one banker in town is convinced that the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago is the financial power behind the new bank.

Douglas Dodds, head of the First Arlington National Bank, says he has no doubts that the Chicago bank is financing the proposed undertaking.

The Continental Illinois, charged Dodd, is one of the leading proponents of branch banking in the state, and is financing many new banks in an effort to establish itself in case branch banking becomes permitted in Illinois.

Dodds said that Continental Illinois backed The Bank of Arlington Heights, and pointed out that Robert Bukowski, a director of the local bank, is also a vice president of Continental Illinois.

Dodd said that he had been

Citizen Committee to Study Defeat of School Tax Issue

A "blue ribbon" citizens' committee to study the recent tax referendum defeat was expected to be set up by Arlington Heights Elementary District 25's Board of Education Wednesday night.

Formation of the lay citizens' committee was suggested by a special school board committee appointed earlier to evaluate the Sept. 26 tax referendum defeat.

Norval Stephens, 402 S. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights, was expected to be appointed chairman of the lay citizens' committee, pending approval of the committee by the school board.

AIMS OF SUCH a "blue ribbon" committee would include evaluating and challenging District 25's basis for calling the last tax referendum. The citizens' committee would be asked to return with a report of its findings, and with recommendations for future tax referendums.

The special school board committee, headed by Theodore Seiler, met with District 25 administrators during October and came up with four general reasons for the tax defeat. They are:

1. The uncertain economic tenor of the times coincident with local reluctance to approve any further increases in the real estate tax as a result of a series of prior successful referendums.

2. The campaign to inform the voters was not carried to enough people on a sufficiently direct basis to overcome the anti-tax sentiment.

3. The campaign did not effectively identify and emphasize the critical educational consequences which would result from a defeat.

4. There was not adequate opportunity for public participation in developing the need for a referendum.

THE SCHOOL board committee last night was expected to reinstate the district's position for the need to raise additional school monies.

District 25 voters said "no" to the 33.5 cent tax hike in September in a three to one majority. The higher tax rate would have prevented a serious "retrenchment" program in the system by adding about $425,000 to the school's coffers.

$24,000 Taken in Fund Drive

United Fund campaign chairman William Pailey says that last week's drive has netted more than $24,000 in the neighborhood collection alone. This is about 80 per cent of the residential goal of $29,000.

Campaign president John Gillen said he is confident that the total residential goal will be attained, and said he was hopeful that the village would reach its over-all goal of $57,000. He said that the business collection seemed to be going a little more slowly than he had hoped.

The totals to date will be made known at 8 o'clock tonight at The Bank of Arlington Heights.

Last year the residential campaign in the village raised only $12,000.

Ogilvie Win Could 'Cripple' Demos

by DAN PRIBILSKI
Political Editor

Is it the Year of the Elephant? Is this especially so in Cook County?

The Democrats next Tuesday face one of their strongest tests as they face stiff Republican competition in several important county offices.

Indications are that the Democratic Donkey will take a stamping from the GOP Elephant.

Top of the list of the important contests is the one for Cook County board presidency. Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie is vying with former Chicago Postmaster Harry H. Semrow.

AN OGILVIE victory will seriously cripple the Cook County Democratic Organization. At stake is not only an important administrative post but at least 10,000 patronage jobs now controlled by the Democrats.

Another important post is that of sheriff. Republican Joseph I. Woods is battling Democrat Minor K. Wilson. Woods is the former chief investigator for the Better Government Association and Wilson is the former chief aide of Chicago Police Supt. O. W. Wilson (no relation).

The Republicans also are battling hard to pick up county board commissioner seats. All 15 seats are up for election. Presently, the GOP holds the five suburban seats, and the Democrats the 10 Chicago seats. Even picking up one seat in Chicago would substantially help the Republicans.

Ogilvie hopes that by carrying the county board presidency, he will also carry on his coattails a few city commissioner seats.

Besides county presidency and sheriff, another office which seems to be up for grabs is that of county treasurer. Republican Edmund Kucharski, chief Ogilvie investigator, is vying with Democrat Marshall Korshak, present state finance director.

THE DEMOCRATS seem on safer grounds in the contests for clerk and assessor. In the clerk race, Earl Eisenhower is challenging Democratic incumbent Edward J. Barrett; and for assessor, Republican Homer H. Fields is attempting to unseat P. J. Cullerton.

Democrats also seem to be ahead in the race for county superintendent of schools. Democratic incumbent Noble J. Puffer faces Robert P. Hanrahan.

Other county offices to be voted upon are the board of appeals and 13 Circuit Court judgeships.

Grabbing for headlines along with the county races are the contests for Metropolitan Sanitary District trusteeships.

DEMOCRATS have been particularly embarrassed here because "scandal" has become the regular by-word in the district as civil service job fraud has been uncovered.

Democrats seeking re-election are Frank W. Chesrow, John B. Brandt, Francis P. Kane and Earl A. Deutsch. Republican challengers are Eugene H. Dibble, Abe Eiserman, George Thiem and Gerald M. Marks.

The dullest local race is the one for the Third State Senate District seat. Incumbent Republican Sen. John Graham is faced by Norman Nelson Jr. Graham is from Barrington, Nelson from Elk Grove.

The district is Republican and Graham has not shown the slightest sign of worry. Nelson has done little to cause the senate veteran concern.

DEMOCRATS Eugenia Chapman (Arlington Heights) and Bernard Peskin (Northbrook) have lit a small candle of interest in an otherwise dreary Third District House contest.

Each is working to capture the third of the three state representative seats available. Being a Republican district, shoo-ins will be incumbent Eugene Schlickman (Arlington Heights) and David Regner (Mount Prospect).

Peskin, who leads in the Democratic primary, seems the likely winner. To win, Mrs. Chapman will have to do substantially better in Wheeling Township where she resides.

Third District consists of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Palatine, Barrington and Hanover townships and portions of Northfield and Maine townships.

Results on Telephone, WGN Radio

Paddock Publications after 5 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday will have election news and vote returns from the northwest suburbs on its Public Service telephone, 392-2100.

As returns become available, special emphasis will be given the state representative contest in the Third District.

NORTHWEST suburban election news also will be provided on WGN radio in cooperation with Paddock Publications.

WGN, which carries extensive election night coverage, will have northwest suburban reports direct from the Paddock newsroom around 5 p.m., 7 p.m., 9:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m.

This is the second time WGN radio and Paddock Publications have teamed to provide the fastest coverage in the northwest suburbs. The first joint effort was in 1964's general election.

Democrats in Top Campaigns Form A Complicated Picture

One Democrat seriously in trouble, one leading slightly, one maybe, and one who hasn't a chance.

Or if you prefer:

One Republican leading, one trailing slightly, one maybe, and one sure shoo-in.

THIS IS HOW the contests for U.S. Senate, state treasurer, state superintendent of instruction, 13th Congressional representative shape up.

The Democrat in serious trouble, of course, is Sen. Paul H. Douglas who is seeking a fourth term.

Douglas, 74, faces his most serious challenge with Charles H. Percy, 47, leading in political party and newspaper polls.

A major issue in this contest, but one not bantered from political platforms, is age. It appears Douglas faces a defection of the independent voters who normally would vote for the silver-haired incumbent.

This is true in Chicago and the suburbs. A Democratic worker in one Chicago ward recently commented privately that his precinct is taking a complete turnabout and going Republican this year over the issue of age.

His story could probably be told over and over again by other Democratic troops.

In attempts to hypo Douglas' chances, Illinois has been visited by many party personalities including Sen. Robert Kennedy, Sen. Edward Kennedy, Vice Pres. Humphrey and now, tomorrow, Pres. Johnson.

THE "SHINING light" on the Democratic ticket appears to be Adlai Stevenson III, son of the late Governor and U. N. Ambassador Stevenson. In fact, it appears he'll lead the Democratic ticket.

Stevenson, 35, certainly has an advantage over his Republican opponent, Harris Rowe, 42, because of the easy name identification.

They seek the office of state treasurer.

Rowe is little known especially in northern Illinois. But he has been extremely active in meeting people in the area and gaining recognition. By Nov. 8, the apparent Stevenson edge could be wiped out.

THE "MAYBE" race is for state superintendent of instruction with Republican incumbent Ray Page facing Dr. Donald M. Prince.

Page has the obvious advantage of being an incumbent, but Prince has gained a great deal of support. His educational background, currently director of the Center for Educational Administration at Illinois State University at Normal, outshadows that of Page who was a Springfield basketball coach before his 1962 election.

The Democrat given no chance at all is James L. McCabe who is challenging Cong. Donald Rumsfeld.

The 13th Congressional District is traditionally an overwhelmingly Republican district. McCabe has had little success in stirring up interest.

IN FACT, Rumsfeld helpers have been ordered to work for Percy's candidacy because things look so safe.

Besides being in a Republican district, McCabe also has the disadvantage of being from the western part (Arlington Heights) of the district. The majority of the voters are along the north shore.

On Nov. 8, two Illinois Supreme Court seats will be voted on. Candidates are Republicans Charles R. Barrett and Arthur W. Sprague and Democrats Daniel P. Ward and Thomas E. Kluczynski.

Woman Hurt In a Fall

An Arlington Heights woman suffered facial lacerations in a car collision Monday afternoon at Arlington Heights Road and Oakton Street in Arlington Heights.

Nancy J. Woodruff, 20, of 21 S. Belmont Ave., was treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital.

Police said her auto was struck while she was crossing Oakton Street by a car operated by Elsie M. Valenzo, 56, of 816 S. Cleveland Ave., Arlington Heights.

Police cited Mrs. Valenzo for failure to yield right of way.

The new fence was erected after a rash of vandalism in the cemetery last year. Total cost of the fence: $1,889.

GOP Told To Stay Neutral In Chapman-Peskin Contest

Wheeling Township's Republican organization has been instructed to keep "hands off" in the Democratic state representative race.

Eugene Schlickman, township GOP chairman, has told his captains not to take sides in the fight between Mrs. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights and Bernard Peskin of Northbrook for the single state representative seat the Democrats can win in this heavily-Republican Third District.

SCHLICKMAN, sure to be returned as state representative, says indignantly, "Of course I do," to reporters who ask him whether he cares which Democrat comes out on top.

"The re-election of Mrs. Chapman will provide the Democratic organization of Wheeling Township with an elected position," points out Schlickman. Any such gain for Wheeling Democrats works to the disadvantage of township Republicans, he adds.

Nevertheless, Schlickman says, his precinct captains have been told to keep hands off.

A LETTER SENT out to all captains by Schlickman instructs them:

"Tell any skeptic that by casting just one of his three votes for a Democratic candidate they're upsetting our cherished two-party system."

THE LETTER goes on, "The Democrats are assured of one state representative from this district. Let them decide for themselves which one of their two Democratic candidates they want to represent them. We did this in the primary, but the Democrats begged the issue until now."

Schlickman, who took over the top township GOP spot from Houser, Percy's campaign manager, in June after a tough tussle with challenger Tom Novotny, says his organization is stronger than ever before.

"I've never seen the depth in precinct organization that we have today," the party leader declared. "And the credit for this should go to 66 wonderful precinct captains, 15 wonderful deputy committee-men, and my wonderful wife.' "

HE SAID RAY Page, incumbent Republican state superintendent of public instruction up for re-election, was profuse in his praise of the Wheeling GOP's organizational efforts Monday during a day-long visit here.

Schlickman says the Republicans are aiming next Tuesday for a "presidential year" election turnout.

If they make it — and this Schlickman won't predict — 90 per cent of Wheeling Township's 38,972 registered voters will go to the polls.

TRADITIONALLY the margin of Republicans to Democrats in Wheeling Township has been three to one. Schlickman thinks this margin still holds.

The Republican committeeman, however, does expect to see differing totals from Wheeling Township voters as far as the top Republican candidates are concerned.

HE CITED a metropolitan paper's straw poll that predicted an 88 per cent margin in Wheeling for Richard Ogilvie, Cook County sheriff seeking election as president of the Cook County Board. The same poll predicted an 83 per cent margin in this township for U. S. senatorial candidate Charles Percy.

If those margins hold, Schlickman says, he'd expect Page to be given between 75 and 80 per cent of Wheeling Township's ballots.

HE ESTIMATES Republican state treasurer candidate Harris Rowe will draw 70 to 75 per cent of the vote here in comparison to 25 to 30 per cent for his Democratic opponent, Adlai Stevenson.

Schlickman says his general attitude, five days before the election, is one of "cautious optimism."

"I'LL ACCEPT the polls. But I plan to emphasize to our own organization that results of the polls do not indicate the number of people voting," he declares.

Republican workers will be out all weekend ringing doorbells to try to boost the turnout and bring out the suburban margin necessary for GOP hopes of a statewide victory.

Students Appear in Randhurst Program

Two eighth grade students, Debbie Chase of Palatine and Linda Schoepke of Arlington Heights, were presented in a piano recital Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Lyon and Healy recital hall at Randhurst.

Debbie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chase, 518 Burno Drive, and Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willian F. Schoepke Jr. of 501 W. George St.

The girls, both 13 years old, are advanced pupils of Mrs. Marilyn Siegert of Palatine. They have studied piano under Mrs. Siegert for five years.

The comprehensive program was opened and closed with duets played by the two girls, starting off with Confrey's "Kitten on the Keys" and concluding with Koelling's "Hungary."

Parents of the girls were hosts at their homes following the recital at receptions for friends and relatives of each family.

LINDA SCHOEPKE, left, and Debbie Chase were presented in a piano recital last Friday at Lyon-Healy, Randhurst.

Old Vail St. Home Marked for Razing

Arlington Heights downtown beautification program will move a step forward in the next few weeks with the razing of the old home at 7 N. Vail Ave.

The old building, once the family home of the Frederick Redekers, one-time president of the People's Bank (now the First Arlington National Bank), is owned by Anthony C. Hesch, 816 W. Northwest Highway.

Commenting on his decision to tear down the building, Hesch said:

"I JUST WANT to say I'm very much in favor of the village board's plans to update and modernize the downtown business area.

"I was invited last spring to meet with the Arlington Heights plan committee to discuss the modernizing program they had in mind. At that meeting I agreed to raze the building I own at 7 N. Vail as soon as the tenants vacate it."

HESCH SAID the last tenant has made plans to move out of the building tomorrow. Hesch has signed with the wreckers who are waiting for word from him to go ahead with the demolition.

Hesch said he had planned to tear the building down earlier but had stopped because of parking restriction on new construction. Now he is planning to build on the property next spring.

"However," he said, "I am a little perturbed with the village's parking demands at this time. I had hoped they would be a little more considerate of parking requirements so that I could follow through with a new building that would be proper for that location and also be an asset to the Arlington Heights business district."

Nov. 10 Set for Start on Evergreen Project

Members of the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) have set Nov. 10 as a target date for getting the Evergreen Avenue special assessment project off the ground.

As the project now stands, it includes underground improvements north from Hawthorne Street to Willow Street. The street area to be paved runs north from Hawthorne Street to the south edge of the St. James Junior High School playground, and from the north edge of the playground north to Willow Street.

JOHN J. WATERS, owner of the property on both sides of the proposed 122-foot stretch of street south of the playground, has filed a request to install his portion of the improvement by private contract.

Waters, who has gotten village approval of plans for the improvement, has yet to deposit either a letter of credit or cash with the village to cover the project.

He told BOLI last week that village engineer Charles Tower had insisted that the bids on the project be in before the amount of money to be deposited be set.

BOLI MEMBERS asked that Waters have another conference with Tower and agree upon an amount of money.

"We've got to get this thing off dead center; we've been kicking it around for a year," BOLI member Harold Klingner told Waters.

"Frankly, I don't feel that you're doing your best effort to get bids in on this allocation," he said.

THE PRESENT BOLI project is the second project drawn up for street and sewer installation on Evergreen Avenue. The first project was discarded when the village board vacated the street right-of-way through the school playground several weeks ago.

Waters first asked for a private contract arrangement over a year ago. His plans for the improvement have been altered several times since then to fit stipulations set up by the village and BOLI.

WATERS SAID the delay in the improvement has cost him a great deal of money in engineering fees as well as the loss of a sale.

Klingner told Waters in no uncertain terms that there would be board action on the project at the next meeting. "The point is that on Nov. 10 I will make a motion including you in the project if your money is not up," he said.

Community Makes Start, But Ignores Some Needs of Aged

by BETTY FORRESTER
Staff Writer

The senior citizen, seldom considered a typical suburbanite, has, in the past six years, gained recognition as a very real part of the Arlington Heights citizenry.

HIS NEEDS, however, have not been completely met by the community, according to leaders of local senior citizen groups.

"It's hard for younger people to understand what it's like when the spirit is willing, but the body says no." Mrs. Elizabeth Meyer, director of the local Over 50 Club said. She described the need of older people to get together with people of their own age despite their physical failings.

"WE NEED our own building and it should be open at least five days and nights a week," Mrs. Meyer said. She explained that the club meets in park district rooms that are also used by other groups.

She further voiced a need for transportation for older people. Most of the 200 members of the Over 50 Club don't drive, and getting them to and from meetings is one of the biggest problems, she said.

JACK MARTIN, initiator of High School District 214's Gold Card Club, said there is a need in this area for a combined effort to provide facilities for the social gathering of older people.

One of the essentials is providing an adequate budget, he said. Martin suggested that the high school taxing district might be the best area to work with.

MARTIN SAID he has been unable to find out how many people are being missed by present programs for senior citizens.

"The county doesn't seem to have the figures," he said.

"We did find," he said, "that we not only have people living here who are retired with fixed incomes, but we also have a number of people who live with their children. Their children are constantly trying to find interesting things for them to do."

PRESENTLY Arlington Heights senior citizens are offered two "non-political, nonsectarian, non-profit" programs for the recreational, social and intellectual activity.

The Gold Card Club, new this fall, is open to all persons who are over 65 and live in the high school district. Upon request, senior citizens are issued cards which admit them, free of charge, to high school sponsored events such as plays, sporting events and even adult night classes.

AMONG the night classes, the travel and adventure series has been the most popular with Gold Card holders, Martin said.

He said that although the program has only been in operation for two months there are already about 500 Gold Card holders. New memberships are being added at a rate of about 10 or 12 each week.

"We were hoping this would spread," Martin said. Village Theater, he pointed out, is cooperating in the program.

The Over 50 Club, one of three branches of the Wheeling Township Over 50 Club, is supported by its portion of a $10,000 township allotment for the three clubs.

AS THE CLUB now operates, members hold their business meeting and an informal get-together on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. These business meetings are held at the Pioneer Park Fieldhouse from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The group spends the first, third and fifth Thursdays at Recreation Park. Among the favorite activities are cards, sewing and ceramics.

EVERY FRIDAY members of the club meet at Pioneer Park to work on crafts. Many of these handmade projects will be on sale at the club's annual bazaar next month. Every third night the club has informal get-togethers at the park buildings.

Just recently the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club has started serving the club once a month. The women put on a Halloween party for the Over 50 Club members just last week.

THERE ARE organized programs, trips and parties. A planned schedule of events is offered at only $1 a year. The club elects its own officers.

But Arlington Heights has its senior citizens who don't participate in either of the programs —people who can't get out of the house or don't know anyone they'd want to visit.

These people, the local public health nurse admits sadly, are some of the loneliest people in the community.

Leaders of the local programs for the senior citizens are the first to admit there is room for much more work with the older residents and that present programs are not serving anywhere near the number of persons they could. (A

Library Gets Grant: Building Begins Soon

The Illinois State Library Board gave its approval this week to Arlington Heights' request for a $268,055 federal library construction grant.

"It's what we all wanted," library board president Mrs. Florence Hendrickson said Tuesday upon reading the letter announcing the grant. "Now I just wish they'd start digging tomorrow!"

Library board member Norval Stephens analyzed the grant in terms of present economic trends.

"First," he said, "the increasing cost of the library was caused by inflation—inflation caused by national economic policies.

"IN EFFECT," he added, "this national economic policy will be paid for by the federal grant.

"Second, we (the library board) have not changed or altered our plans at all . . . inflation has been sizable in specialized construction where the increase has been as great as 30 per cent," he said.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, who heard of the grant from Secretary of State Paul Powell, said, "As a person who has been asked to be one of the principle sponsors of library acts in the next legislative session, I am very happy to see the Arlington Heights library receive this grant."

Funds granted represent the total amount of a revised request submitted by the local board two weeks ago. The board at that time cut its original request by more thon $120,000 to make it more acceptable to the state board.

THE LOCAL BOARD has heard that its original request for more than $393,000 would not be approved as submitted.

The request revision eliminated a $120,000 contingency fund and changed the estimated cost per square foot for the new building from $35 to $30.

The total of the library project was estimated at $1,683,055 in the revised application.

In a letter accompanying the amended request, the local board reserved the right to ask for additional monies should construction bids run higher than the new estimate.

Mrs. Hendrickson said that, according to her figures, library construction could begin either late this month or early in December.

Board members said Tuesday they hoped to be able to muster a quorum for a special meeting tonight (Thursday) to discuss the grant and construction plans. (A

Greenbrier Rezoning Compromise Approved

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission approved a rezoning compromise last Wednesday for a $2.5-million project at the far north side of Greenbrier subdivision.

Plans for development of the 15-acre tract are expected to come before the Board of Trustees Nov. 7.

Commissioners approved rezoning of one lot on the east end of Alleghany Drive from residential (R-3) to multiple-family use (R-5). A request to rezone a second lot was denied.

The petitioner, Miller Builders, Inc. of Chicago, received plan commission approval for rezoning of four acres from limited retail (B-1) to general business district (B-2).

The plan commission approved a recommendation to eliminate a number of categories from the B-2 district for the Greenbrier project. The covenant, running with the property, prohibits construction of amusement establishments, bowling alleys, feed stores, frozen food lockers, hotels and motels, pawn shops, second-hand stores and taxidermists shops in the four-acre strip.

Edgar Butterline, 2334 N. Champlain St., spokesman for Greenbrier Civic Association asked the commission to make the covenant part of the rezoning recommendation.

BUTTERLINE said residents did not oppose rezoning from B-1 to B-2 if these restrictions were added.

The new B-2 property is south of Rand Road, and lies east and west of Kennicott Drive.

Miller Builders plans to build a Humble Oil Co. service station on the southeast corner of Rand Road and Kennicott Drive.

Developers plan to construct a group of apartment buildings on two sides of Kennicott Drive north of Shiloh Drive. One apartment unit is projected for the north side of Alleghany Drive at the Kennicott intersection. (A

Caravan of Church Visits Scheduled

The AHEAD committee of the Clergy Fellowship of Arlington Heights plans a caravan of church visitations beginning at the First Methodist Church, 1909 E. Euclid, at 2:30 p.m. this Sunday.

"We are inviting everyone in town to visit churches with us," said Gene Shull of Rolling Meadows, chairman of the church visitation committee.

"We have chosen four churches, each of which represents one of the major traditions. This is an opportunity for everyone to stretch his knowledge to other traditions besides his own."

SHULL, A member of Southminster Presbyterian Church, points out that the First Methodist Church which will be visited first is part of the episcopal tradition; St. James, the Roman Catholic tradition; Our Saviour's, the Lutheran tradition, and the Christian Church, the free tradition.

The caravan of cars will meet at the First Methodist Church at 2:30 p.m. for a short tour and a talk on the history and tradition of the church. The caravan will visit St. James Catholic Church, 841 N. Arlington Heights Road, at 3:15 p.m.; Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, 1234 N. Arlington Heights Road, at 3:55 p.m., and the Christian Church of Arlington Heights, 333 W. Thomas, at 4:30 p.m.

The church caravan will be the first major activity of a week of ecumenical activities that will formally start Nov. 13.

These activities have been planned by the Clergy Fellowship's AHEAD (Arlington Heights Ecumenical Activities and Discussion) Week committee headed by the Rev. W. Rowland Koch, pastor of the Congregational United Church of Christ. (A Fund-Raising Event Set for Tomorrow

Handmade projects and homemade food will be featured tomorrow at the annual bazaar of the Arlington Heights Branch of the Wheeling Township Over 50 Club.

THE BAZAAR, the group's fund raising activity, will be held in the main room at the Pioneer Park Fieldhouse from noon until 5 p.m. The club will sponsor a card party in the fieldhouse at that time, also.

Mrs. Elizabeth Meyer, director of the club, said the club members raised about $600 through the bazaar last year — enough money to buy its own kiln.

AMONT THE items to be for sale are aprons, ceramic figurines and dishes, knitted nailpolish bottle holders and white elephant items. Persons who are not members of the Over 50 Club are encouraged to contribute food and used items for the bakery and white elephant sales to assist the fund raising effort.

Card players will be asked to donate 75 cents. Coffee and cake will be served. (A

HANDMADE CERAMIC FIGURINES and dishes will be featured tomorrow at the Over 50 Club annual bazaar at Pioneer Park. Parking Problem May Prompt Policy Change

Village policy for off-street parking in the central business district is slated for review by a group of Arlington Heights officials.

The need for new policy guidance came about during plan commission discussion about a rezoning request made by the First Arlington National Bank.

Bank officials are seeking rezoning of two lots at the corner of N. Arlington Heights Road and Eastman Street to allow for parking spaces.

The 53-space parking lot is required by village ordinance for the bank's expansion at 14 W. Campbell Street.

"THE PARKING problem in Arlington Heights is greater than this case," said chairman Harold Carlson.

Commissioners asked Carlson to arrange a meeting with Village Atty. Jack Seigel, Village Pres. John Woods and zoning board of appeals chairman John Kirkland.

The plan commission will hold off its decision on the bank request until a decision on off-street parking has been reached.

Present village statute requires one parking space for every 300 square feet of floor area in a new building constructed in the downtown section. The parking must be within 1,000 feet of the building.

ACCORDING to Douglas Dodds, vice president of First Arlington National Bank, the distance from the front door to the farthest point in the north side parking lot is 1,129 feet.

Commissioner Fred Ainslie emphasized that the distance was a long way from the central business district.

"In this day and age people won't use parking lots 1,000 feet from the building," he said. "I can't see how we can stretch the distance requirements any more."

"We have to give and take," Carlson replied. "The village would be gaining off - street parking."

HE POINTED out that the bank parking lot would not be restricted to bank customers.

The First Arlington National Bank cannot receive a building permit for its expansion on the north side until it has met village approval for its proposed parking lot. Parking requirements for the bank's second story expansion has been met. Building Commissioner H. C. Best said a permit had been issued for the construction. (A

Money Funnel: A Thief Proof Parking Meter

Handy, cheap, tamper proof, and pilfer-safe — these are the features of the new devices Arlington Heights put into use Tuesday to collect money from parking meters.

Trade named the "Bishop Money Funnel," the new collection method was developed by two village residents as the result of a chance conversation on a plane trip.

Former village trustee Robert Bishop, whose company manufactures the device, said that he got to talking with village Public Works director Eugene Gilroth about meter collection.

Gilroth, whose firm collects from all meters except those in parking lots, asked if something could be done to develop a handier device than the pails his men were then using.

THE MONEY funnel sports a wide plastic throat into which the coins flow from the meter. The coins then pour into the throat of the device and then into the canvas bag below.

A cone-like device in the throat prevents coins from being shaken out of the bag once they are in, and the bag itself is sealed to the plastic throat. Any tampering would be immediately noticeable.

The money funnels may be carried on the shoulder with a strap — just like old-fashioned handbags. Attached to the bag itself is a canvas handle.

Wilroth and Bishop are named as joint inventors of the device, which lists for $26.50 to $29.00, depending on the number purchased.

The village of Arlington Heights, in which the units were tested and developed, has purchased 31 of the new money funnels, at a price of $877.30.

"There is nothing like it in this price range," Bishop said. He added that he has received inquiries about the device from Evanston, Kankakee, Des Plaines and Wheaton, among others. (A

Beauty Boutique's Grand Opening Set

Bee's Boutique of Beauty at 1306 W. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights, will have its grand opening next Monday.

Champagne and sandwiches will be served to patrons of the beauty shop as part of the official opening celebration.

Mrs. Bertha (Bee) Schmidt, owner of the beauty shop, says that during November the new establishment will have half-off prices Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays for all permanents or hair color treatments.

SIMILAR half-off prices will prevail at Mrs. Schmidt's other beauty shop, Mae Belle's Beauty Salon at 207 S. Emerson, Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Schmidt said there will be three beauty operators at the shop, which has been open for business for about a month under the present management.

DIRECTOR OF personnel at Goldblatt's for many years, Mrs. Schmidt and her husband have resided in the Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect area since 1960.

They lived in Arlington Heights and owned a home in Mount Prospect before moving to their present dwelling at 2024 Algonquin Road, Mount Prospect. (A

KEEP PHONING

by ED LANDWEHR

We subscribe to electronic literature that keeps us posted about new methods and equipment that enable us to be more efficient and faster. But some of the new inventions are almost in the realm of fantasy.

For example, an experiment has achieved a degree of control over human behavior through the use of radio-controlled medication implanted in the body. Controlled electrical impulses introduce signals into the nervous system that trigger the release of drugs. A nervous, agitated person can be calmed within minutes by this electronic direction.

Sometimes we could use this 'becalmer' at LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights when four or five TV jobs pile in at the same time. But we like it, and a satisfied customer calms us. Phone CLearbrook 5-0700 and keep us busy.

Area News Roundup

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS—The state of Illinois has released the names of the organizers of a new bank in downtown Arlington Heights, and all of them were listed as dlrectors of The Bank of Arlington Heights in July of this year.

ELK GROVE—The Elk Grove Village Water Department will begin sewage tests next week to track down illegal dumping of chemicals from industries in Centex Industrial Park. The violator could have operations shut down and be fined $100 a day.

WHEELING—Democratic committeeman in Wheeling Township, James Stavros, says his party will make some gains against the Republican majority in next Tuesday's general election.

ROLLING MEADOWS—Announcement is expected tomorrow, Friday, that Hallicrafters is about to commence construction of corporate offices on a 38-acre tract in Rolling Meadows. Another major addition to the industrial development is the start of construction of the Chemplex Company headquarters offices and research facility in the city.

HOFFMAN ESTATES—Announcement was made by the Hoffman Estates fire protection district that it will ask residents to vote for a $250,000 bond issue on Dec. 8 to finance the construction of a second fire station and the purchase of basic equipment. Growth of population and land area in the community have caused the need for enlargement of fire protection, said district trustees.

MOUNT PROSPECT—New late-hour closing times for local liquor establishments are near at hand. The village board Tuesday authorized the draft of an ordinance calling for 3 a.m. closing times Saturday and Sunday mornings, an hour later than the present deadline.

PALATINE—Rumors fly and candidates announce their intentions as the United Citizens Party begins to select a slate for village offices and library board positions.

ADDISON—A Citizen's Advisory Council to Addison's School Board was reactivated this week after two years. The purpose of the council will be to gather data to aid in planning for future growth of the district.

ITASCA—Village Pres. Wilbert H. Nottke came under fire from several sources after he endorsed a Democratic candidate on village stationery. Nottke, and most of the village trustees, are Republicans.

BENSENVILLE—The Bensenville Park District will hold a $1.5 million bond issue referendum Saturday. Voters will be asked to approve the purchase of up to 300 acres of open space for future park sites, and to approve development of existing parks.

ROSELLE—Former Roselle Mayor Albert W. Jordan died Sunday in Sherman hospital, Elgin. He had been on the village board a total of 18 years. During that time he was village president a total of eight years. He retired in 1965.

"Howl, you howlers! Curse the trusts and the minute you get $10 ahead send in an order to some department store and help support the biggest trusts in the country. What if you do get the goods a little cheaper? . . . Every dollar you send to a mail order house is that much contributed toward building up a trust."

The malicious mischief and property damage done by the lawless desperados on Halloween calls for a halt and vigorous protest. It was a dirty contemptible trick to torment a poor woman and drive her cow into the public school house and there was no sense in breaking windows and causing needless expenses to innocent parties. Such antics lead to state prisons or the gallows . . .

Members of the Arlington Heights village board have taken a definite stand against selling water to adjoining subdivisions. An offer from W. C. Teckett to pay $100 for each connection made to city water mains for lots in Scarsdale Estates was refused by the board. The officials think that Scarsdale Estates is property that under normal conditions should be annexed to the municipality and pay its just share of taxes for fire, police and other services that are available to them.

Activities to Prove 'Education Adds Up'

Schools in Arlington Heights Elementary District 25 will commemorate the 1966 American Education Week (AEW) next week with a series of activities.

AEW launched Nov. 30, 1921, by presidential proclamation, focuses on all aspects of today's education. It aims to call public attention to the fact that the problems and achievements of the nation's schools are the personal responsibility of each citizen.

The AEW theme, "Education Adds Up," will be observed with displays of mobiles and posters in each Arlington Heights school. AEW bookmarks are to be distributed to all schools and local libraries.

SPECIFIC plans for the AEW observance in each school are:

—Members of the three junior high PTA executive boards will visit classes, tour the buildings, and lunch in the school cafeterias.

—In addition, Thomas Junior High students will compete in a composition writing contest. The winning theme will be read over the school's intercom system.

—Parents of Dryden and Dunton students are invited to visit classes.

—The PTA executive board of Dwyer and Patton will visit and lunch in the schools.

—Greenbrier students and teachers will work together with in-class projects. Skits, posters, discussions and reports are on the agenda.

—Ivy Hill students are planning an assembly for parents Thursday at 2:30 p.m. Musical selections, poem recitation, and skits are slated.

—CREATIVITY had been selected as Kensington's theme for AEW observance. Posters and exhibits will be on corridor display.

—Olive kindergarten classes are planning an Art Fair for parents.

—Ridge and Park school fourth and fifth graders will write essays on "What Education Means to Me," describing the history and importance of American education.

—Westgate students will develop educational themes th through songs, poems, stories, choral readings and plays.

All schools will be open for parent visitations during the entire week.

Robbery Case Goes to Court This Monday

Anthony Lizio of Chicago, charged with the Sept. 25 armed robbery of Monaco Drug Store, 1828 N. Arlington Heights Road, is slated to appear in Circuit Court Monday.

Lizio was apprehended by police minutes after he fled the drug store with a money bag containing more than $4,000.

He was released from custody on $25,000 bond.

Bidding for Salt Not Competitive

Salt is an important ingredient in the diet of any midwestern street during the winter, and Arlington Heights is still waiting to get its supply.

Village manager L. A. Hanson reports that he has received sealed bids from five major salt manufacturers. And, oddly enough, they all quote the same price for 1,500 tons of salt.

"I could understand this if all the companies were located in the same area, and if they all had the same manufacturing process and storage facilities," said Hanson.

"But how could all these be the same for all five companies?" he asked.

HANSON SAID he has now readvertised the bid for salt for the third time. He said that several cities across the country have entered suits against salt manufacturing firms on charges of price fixing.

Hanson said that one of the companies last year entered a bid $1 a ton below the other bidders. All the rest of the bids were the same.

"We've got to have salt," said Hanson. "If I don't get a break in the bidding this time, I won't bid it again. Time is running out."

Hanson said that his office has called for bids on Nov. 7. The total cost of the salt will be paid for out of allocations from the Motor Fuel Tax Fund.

HE SAID THAT the village can obtain salt from other sources in small lots if need should arise, but added that every ton the village buys by that method comes out of another fund supported directly by the village.

The state has indicated that it will accept any bid which the village approves, but Hanson said that he would like to receive a competitive bid before proceeding further.

The cost of the 1,500 tons of salt the village needs will cost approximately $19,200, based on a cost of $12.80 per ton.

Of Holidays And Youth

by DAVID B. HOYT
News Editor

XMAS! XMAS! MERRY XMAS! A hearty hey-nonny-nonny and a nuts to those merchants who managed to work Christmas into their front windows even before Halloween was rattling its last breaths.

The one arch villain in this category is the hardware, with its vast assemblage of decorated trees and toys. The other eagerness award goes to the paint store, first to use that hideous corruption "XMAS" in its window. Yessir, mothers, if the "I want" season begins early at your house, you owe it all to your friendly merchant.

Someday, when you have all day, ring up city hall. That's how long it takes them to answer the phones down there. We, who call that number often, put in a special plea for a full-time switchboard operator. As it stands now, the girls have to double in brass—rushing frantically back and forth between the phone and other duties.

It seems that the youth council is pushing for increased recognition of youth. Perhaps if members of the community—the council included—have trouble recognizing youth, the young people should be made to wear large yellow placards.

Such methods are really not necessary, however. Adults may register for an easy short course in youth recognition by strolling along downtown Campbell Street between the hours of 3:30 and 5:30 p.m. There can be found a goodly number of youth from 13 to 18, frantically puffing on cancer sticks and ignoring the world of adults around them.

Oh wholesome members of the youth council! Don't you think that after being exposed to the smug bigotry and social climbing of so many parents, after being bombarded with Otis Quick Scoring, Kuder Preference, Iowa Mental Abilities, SAT's PSAT's and other crutches of the inept educator, and after being categorized, programmed and organized, don't you think that youth ought to be left to itself—just for a little while? Must they constantly be grouped together under adult supervision to prevent all hell from breaking loose? If so, I suggest there is something radically wrong with the adult community that spawned these teenage terrors.

Inside joke: Word is circulating that local Republicans used torches for their parade efforts this weekend past because members from Stonegate demanded traditional lighting.

Public Works Ready For Winter Snows

With the fluffy white stuff just beginning to fall on Arlington Heights, public works director Eugene Wilroth reviewed the equipment he has on hand to deal with snow removal.

Three salt spreaders are new this year. The three were purchased at a bargain price of $2,500 from the Illinois Tollway Commission.

Wilroth described the vehicles as too slow for high speed work on the freeways, but ideal for the needs of the village. He put their worth at $20,000 each.

WITH THESE trucks and his 21 other blade-equipped vehicles, Wilroth says his men should have the village streets swept of snow within four hours of its fall.

One problem he noted is clearing snow in cul-de-sacs. The areas are too small to reach with conventional truck plows. The village uses International scouts — four-wheel-drive vehicles — with power reversible plows to handle the turning and dodging in those tiny pockets of street.

The director asked that motorists kindly observe the village ordinance which forbids parking on the streets following any snowfall of one inch or more.

Plan Dinner for Past Officials

Past board members of Wheeling-Buffalo Grove elementary school district will be invited to a special recognition dinner now being planned by the district.

The dinner will be held some time after the first of the year, with all members who had served on the board since the district was drawn up in 1948, invited.

Electrical Bids Approved

Wheeling - Buffalo Grove School Board accepted Alfred's Engineering Co. $3,550 bid on electrical repair work at Walt Whitman School.

The work is needed to bring the school, the oldest in the district, up to standards set by the State Life Safety Code.

Other bids received were: W. J. O'Brien — $8,300 and Charles Johnson, $3,960.

FROM RIDGE PARK

Luncheon guests at the Donald Wheelers', 714 W. Elm, on Oct. 29 were celebrating the sixth birthday of their son, David. Seated around the table were Bill Stumpf, Timmy and Steve Tagge, Scott Walsh, Richard Bossert and David's sister, Debbie.

Guests at Michael Dunne's eighth birthday Oct, 29 arrived at 1016 N. Illinois in their Halloween costumes.

Following lunch at the Joseph Dunne home, Robert Buckley, Joe Zeinz, Mike Stein, Mark Peterson, Bruce and Keith Reiter, Mark Talaber and Michael's brother, Joe, were treated to an afternoon of cartoon movies at St. James. A family celebration was held on Halloween for their daughter, Eileen's birthday.

BEST WISHES for a speedy recovery are extended to Jerry Winters who is home at 1015 N. Princeton after a stay in St. Anne Hospital.

Dinner at Lake Lawn Lodge in Delavan Wis., was enjoyed by the Edward Koois, 904 N. Kaspar, on Oct. 30. It was Marcella's birthday and celebrating the occasion with her were her husband and two sons.

The George Wojtkiewiczs, 920 N. Ridge, got into the spirit of things when they attended the Knights of Columbus Halloween dance at their clubhouse on Oct. 29, accompanied by Norb and Dolores Leja. Other Ridge Parkers in attendance were Jane and Al Klein, 1003 N. Kennicott and Barb and Frank Kieca, 821 N. Salem.

Lunch at the Big Whopper and bowling were enjoyed by the guests of the John Almdales' twins, Jim and Jeff, on Oct. 29 for their 12th birthday. Invitations from 903 N. Illinois were extended to Rick and Dennie Goers, Robert Boyd and Tim and Steve and Curt Manning.

The Wyman F. Careys' daughter, Lisa Ann, celebrated her fifth birthday Oct. 28 at 914 W. Elm with a Halloween theme. Contemporaries joining her were Martin and John Keci, Lisa Jo Etherton and Cheryl Reynolds.

The following day the grown-ups did a little celebrating, when grandparents, aunts and uncles arrived with their congratulations.

DAVID DENNIS celebrated his sixth birthday Oct. 23 with a dinner party at 1004 N. Kaspar. Besides his parents, Gretchen and Roger, and his brother, Mark, also attending were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Budde of Crystal Lake and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dennis of Rockford, aunts and uncles, the Tom Laraks and Carl Rudes of Cary and John Dennis of Rockford, and cousins, Christine and Todd Larak and Mathew and Heather Rude, all of Cary.

A supper party was held in honor of John Korte, son of Althea and Loren, on Oct. 19 for his seventh birthday. At 821 N. Harvard for the occasion were Chris Marquis, Kevin Wilson, Lois Bloom, Mathew Kelly, Bobbie Jones and John's sister, Kathy.

The Lou Bensingers' house-guests at 945 N. Ridge since Oct. 30 have been their daughter, Peg Klask, their newest grandchild, Lisa Ann, and her brother, Joey.

The Jack Jessens, 939 N. Kennicott, invited the Mike Pighini family to their home Oct. 21 to help celebrate Kimberly's second birthday.

TWO BIRTHDAY parties were given by the Mike Pighinis at 943 N. Kennicott in honor of their son, Michael's third birthday. On Oct. 22, his sister, Cynthia, and brother, Richard, plus David and Kenneth Klein, Carl Anderson, Douglas Baker, Jennifer Baird, Kimberly Jessen and his cousin, Lisa Foti, were partying in his honor. On Sunday, a dinner was held for him and the guest list included his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Foti of Villa Park and Mrs. Jenny Pighini of Chicago, great-grandmother, Mrs. Rosa Carrani of Chicago, and aunts and uncles. It was really a double celebration, as it was also Mary's birthday.

Nov. 1 was Mike's birthday and a return trip to the Pighini home was made by the Philip Fotis, Mrs. Jenny Pighini, Mrs. Carrani and Mary's brothers and sisters for more celebrating.

For more than 10 years, 704 W. Elm has been occupied by the Alfred Hansens, but on Oct. 28 they left to live in Phoenix.

FROM SHERWOOD

Friday afternoon Cindy Bronwell, offspring of the Richard Bronwells, 1117 Burgoyne Road, celebrated her 14th birthday. Guests for the festivities included Donna Boyles, Ellen Olson, Lynn Gray and Debbie Warejcka, now of Barrington.

On Oct. 29, Susie Helfers celebrated her ninth birthday at 1215 Watling Road with an assist from her parents, the William Helfers. Other guests invited for the occasion included Carole Kolari, Amy Coffin, Dawn Johnson, Julie Putzier, Diane Swisher, Ann and Ellen Bauske of Des Plaines, Patty Brogan, Nancy Rohan and Susie's sister, Ellen.

Tomorrow Wayne and Eleanor Holloway will be waiting to welcome weekend guests at 1004 W. Oakton. Their daughter, Debbie and her husband, Ron Schubel, will be arriving from Warren, Ohio, for a visit.

SUNDAY AT 1014 Burgoyne Road, the James Johnsons said goodbye to their daughter, Mrs. Tom Pray of Boise, Idaho, who had been here for a week, visiting with her parents and attending parties and a coffee given by friends and former neighbors. Formerly of 1015 N. Harvard, she moved west a year ago and this was her first time back. When she left here, she continued on to New Orleans to meet her husband who had been to New York on business.

Jim and Dorothy Poole hosted a birthday party Oct. 30 for the first birthday of their grandson, Steven Michael. After dinner at Jim Saines' Tralee Farm Restaurant, they returned to 1106 N. Princeton for ice cream and cake. Other celebrants included Steven's parents, Bill and Deatra Poole, and their other son, Jeffrey, of Virginia Terrace, maternal grandparents, the Paul Reicherts of Joliet, aunts, uncles, Ronnie and Sharon Reichert and their baby of Joliet and Bonnie and John Carlson of Virginia Terrace, and Don and Gayla House of Sherwood, his paternal grandmother's sister and brother-in-law.

A CHANGE OF scenery and climate was thoroughly enjoyed by the Harold Sorters of 1405 N. Harvard when they flew to Florida Oct. 21 and stayed at Ocean Ranch in Pompano Beach. With temperatures in the 80's, they swam every day and relaxed in the sun. Their daughter, Georgia, had the time of her life collecting shells. They also visited friends of theirs and of Dorothy's father, Oscar Johnson, who was with them on their trip before returning home on the 30th.

Guests for the 11th birthday of Candy Burkett, daughter of the Richard Burketts, were treated to a performance of the Ice Follies the evening of Oct. 29. Returning to 1221 N. Harvard, they continued the celebrating, ending with a slumber party. Enlarging the Burkett household were Nancy Martinson, Pamela Graczyk, Dawn Bruhnke, Patricia Engelbretsen and Linda Stevens.

No longer with 1112 N. Princeton as their address, the H. L. Edwards moved from Sherwood on Oct. 24, just two months shy of 16 years there, to take up residence at 101 Lincoln Lane in Arlington Heights. (A informed by the state that the savings and loan association might move out of its present quarters and erect a new building in order to accommodate the new bank.

Reveal Applicants For Proposed Bank

HE TERMED this arrangement "An attempt by the two groups to gang up on us," and "an attempt by the savings and loan association to dominate the financial picture in the downtown Arlington area."

The banker said that he had no doubt that such a move would hurt the growth of the First Arlington National Bank.

State banking official Rabens said that his office would complete investigation of the application for the new bank by the end of November.

He said that his men and investigators from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation would probably work in conjunction with one another, checking with merchants and others in the area to determine if there is need for another bank in Arlington Heights.

The Arlington Heights Bank and Trust Co. is applying for a state charter and for individual deposit insurance with the FDIC, said Rabens.

He explained that the capitalizations figure of $750,000 was arrived at by taking eight per cent of the applicants' projected deposits at the end of three years of operation. The applicants evidently believe they will have nearly $9,375,000 in deposits by that time.

RABENS EXPLAINED that his state examiners and the FDIC will compare this figure with the capitalization and growth figures of other area banks.

If the Illinois and federal examinations are favorable, then the applicants will be issued a permit to organize and accept subscriptions. When the group is ready to proceed further, it must prove that there is $750,000 in a bank and available.

The organizers of the bank also must guarantee, under state law, that they will each purchase one per cent of the stock issued by the bank.

Precinct 48 A National Indicator

Precinct 48 in Wheeling may help set election trends and outcomes next Tuesday night in the general election.

ABC News has chosen the precinct as a "typical precinct" and has asked the League of Women Voters to feed information on voting into its New York headquarters. There it, along with several other precincts, will help project who will win in the U. S. Senate race and others.

ABC said the precinct was chosen for several reasons including cultural, religious and economic factors. (W

Dedication of Park Building Set Sunday

Dedication of the new $190,000 Wheeling Park District building in Heritage Park on South Wolf Road has been set for Sunday, Nov. 13.

Tentative plans call for a flag-raising ceremony, and installation of a time capsule under a plaque at the foot of the flagpole.

The flagpole, which will be placed in front of the park building soon, is one Wheeling has donated to the district. Park commissioners have asked veterans organizations in Wheeling to participate in getting the pole to the park site.

Bernard Erlin, public relations committee chairman, for the park district, is slated to master of ceremonies. Board Pres. Richard Ault will deliver the introduction speech.

AN OPEN HOUSE at the building is planned immediately following the ceremony, said Erlin. The park board hopes to get the award-winning Wheeling High School band to perform at the ceremony. This has not been confirmed, however, officials said.

Officials of School Districts 21 and 214 and the Village of Wheeling will be invited to the ceremony, park board spokesmen said.

Veterans organizations have agreed to take the lead in raising funds to build a memorial to those who have served in United States wars.

Representatives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Amvets met with the park board recently to discuss the proposed memorial.

THE IDEA FOR such a memorial came from Wheeling's public relations commission. The commission has made sketches of possible memorials which could be erected near the new park facility.

Ralph Hunter, representing Amvets, said the groups agreed to help raise funds for the memorial, but would not take its own funds for it.

All three groups hope that the memorial will be erected by Memorial Day, next May 30. Tentative location for the memorial would be at the northeast corner of the park building.

Designs prepared by the public relations commission set the height of the memorial at eight to ten feet.

At the Oct. 20 meeting Mrs. Audrey Christiansen, park board member, said she would like to see it higher, perhaps as high or higher than the park building."

Hunter said costs might prohibit that proposal, however.

Holmes PTA To Elect Officers

Election of officers will be a major item on the agenda at the Nov. 14 open house and organizational meeting of Oliver Wendell Holmes PTA.

THE SLATE submitted by the nominating committee includes Jerry Greenman for president; Sue Priehs, first vice president; Carol Blackburn, second vice president; Jean McGowan, secretary; and Carol Van Heltebrake, treasurer.

Nominations will be accepted from the floor during the meeting. (W

Village Votes To Vacate Alley

A 350 foot long alley which extends north of Mors Avenue to Park Avenue will be vacated by the village of Wheeling, trustees decided last week.

The village will, however, reserve an easement for the entire width and length of the alley, on the recommendations of Village Atty. Paul Hamer.

Homeowners adjoining the 16-foot alley have complained recently about its cluttered condition. Besides three privately owned homes, an apartment complex and a gasoline station border the alley.

Sept. 29 the board asked Hamer to study what action could be taken to relieve the village of any responsibility in the matter. Vacation of the alley was one of the things suggested by Hamer. (W

Pubs May Come to Town Again

Taverns may again be allowed in business districts of Arlington Heights if the village board acts next Monday in accordance with recommendations of the plan commission.

The commission voted to amend the village code which had not provided for taverns in downtown sections. It recommended that taverns be allowed in areas zoned B-2 (general business) and B-5 (central business).

Also scheduled to go before the board is a request for preannexation zoning for that area south of the village known as the Behn farm. The land, located north of Algonquin Road, east of Wilke Road and south of the Nike base, will be developed by Miller Builders Inc., of Chicago. There has been considerable debate on how much land should be zoned R-5 (multiple family) and B-2 (general business).

ANOTHER recommendation of the plan commission due to come before the board is an amendment to village statute 7.2 which would permit location of a library, museum, art gallery or similar structure in any "R" (residential) or "B" (business) district.

The final plat of Ben Pekins Knob Hill subdivision is also up for approval. The planned development and zoning ordinances on the land have already been passed.

The plan commission has also asked that the board rezone land already annexed in order to legalize the uses existing at the time of annexation. (A

Grass Fires

Arlington Heights firemen responded to numerous grass fire calls last weekend.

South Side firemen put out a grass fire at 2100 E. Northwest Hwy. Saturday afternoon, and another grass fire at 406 W. Kirchoff Road Saturday evening.

North Side firemen also extinguished two grass fires Saturday — in the 1300 block of N. Arlington Heights Road and at 7 Suffield Drive.

Sunday morning the South Side department doused a blaze inside a semi-trailer truck at Highland Avenue and Noyes Street. Firemen said there was no damage.

North Side firemen extinguished a grass fire at 626 N. Arlington Heights Road Sunday afternoon. The South Side department put out a straw blaze in the backyard of a home at 1338 W. Park Street.

Monday evening firemen responded to a rubbish fire at 1948 E. Northwest Hwy. and a leaf fire on a parkway at St. James Street and Dryden Avenue.

Girl, 8, Hit By Motorist

An eight-year-old Arlington Heights girl received minor bruises when she walked into the path of a car at Vail Avenue and South Street in Arlington Heights.

Cynthia M. Coy, 209 S. Dunton Ave., was treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital Thursday morning.

Police said the driver of the auto, Philip Sorce, 62, of West Chicago was not cited. (A

Library Board Gets Bids on Old Houses

The Arlington Heights Library Board will be a little out of its element tonight (Thursday) as it considers bids on everyting from bathtub legs and railing spindles to perennial flowers.

Bidders, submitting their offers Tuesday, concentrated primarily on the smaller items in the two old homes that will be torn down in about three weeks to make way for the new $1,683,055 library. Doorknobs and glass lamp shades received bid upon bid, while hardwood floors, one fireplace, fairly new kitchen cabinets, plumbing fixtures and wooden doors went unnoticed.

A TOTAL OF 29 bids, some on duplicate items, were received by Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, project director of the new library.

"I'm dumbfounded that there weren't more bids on everything," Hanson said Tuesday, after the last bid had been opened. He said he was also surprised that more antique dealers had not submitted bids. Several persons who had shown an interest in specific items in the buildings had failed to submit bids, he said.

Hanson will submit his recommendation on awarding of the bids at today's meeting at the library at 8 p.m. The library board has reserved the right to reject any or all bids on the buildings and their contents. The board has also to decide whether or not to give the historical society the marble fireplace and newel post that it has requested.

BIDDERS WILL BE notified whether or not their bids have been accepted. The time for removal of the articles purchased will be announced later.

As for the items that were not bid on, Hanson was not certain Tuesday as to how they would be handled. He said he thought that a person who was interested in a particular part of one of the buildings might be able to buy it before the razing.

Hanson said the village will probably act as the regular contractor in razing the buildings. Arlington Heights will rent the wrecking equipment and then take the buildings down the cheapest way possible, he said.

NOV. 13 TO 20 — DIABETES WEEK

About one out of every fifty persons has diabetes and those who know they have it lead normal healthy lives, as long as they observe proper care.

THERE ARE MANY UNKNOWING DIABETICS

Unfortunately, no painful discomforts disclose the beginning of diabetes. It can cause serious harm before it becomes known.

URINE SUGAR A WARNING SIGNAL

By dipping a testing paper in the urine, you can tell if sugar is present. This indicates the possibility of diabetes and a quick visit to a physician for further tests is a "must." We have these inexpensive testing papers in our Diabetes-Aids section.

DIABETES IS OFTEN HEREDITARY

It is not contagious, but if there are diabetics in the family, diabetes is a hazard. This danger is increased by overweight.

DIABETICS CAN LIVE LONG LIVES

But, they must have regular physician checkups and carefully follow instructions. Insulin can control the most serious cases. And, now we have oral antidiabetic drugs. The important rule is to always observe diet restrictions. We carry in stock the drugs or testing material any physician may specify.

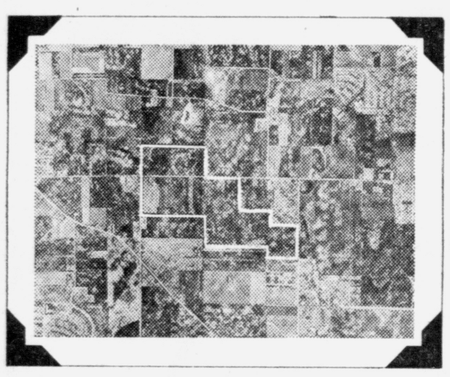
This is our baby picture



It takes a lot of planning to raise a baby. Our infant, Arlington Industrial and Research Center, is no exception. As a matter of fact, we have spent years nursing this project.
In the coming months, our center will be growing. It will receive its nourishment from various industries requiring a planned site in a strategic and prestige Chicagoland location.
Arlington Industrial and Research Center . . . with more than 350 acres of planned and developed property . . . has facilities for your offices, plants and warehouses.

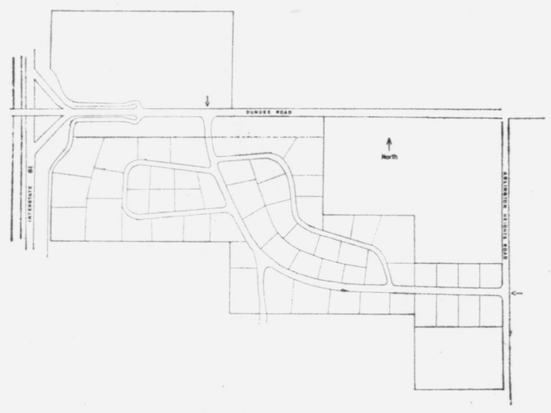
A drawing of our plans

These are our plans. We feel they contain all the important elements necessary to design an excellent industrial and research center.



In this drawing you can see that our 350 acres, located on new Interstate 61, has all the identification and accessibility required for a successful center. What you can't see are our four-lane paved roads, complete underground utilities (including electrical and telephone cables) and landscaped parkways. Incidentally, O'Hare International Airport and other major expressways are nearby. Although we don't show it on the map, our plans call for construction of a unique multiple use building offering tenants offices, warehouse and manufacturing facilities.

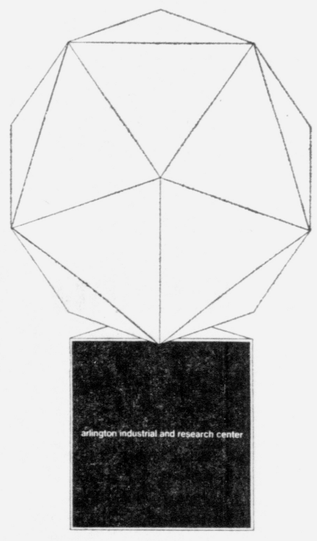
A Symbol



Our symbol, constructed in steel and marble, at Arlington Industrial and Research Center. It is an Icosahedron.
Definition:
Icosahedron (i-kos-a-he-drun), n.; pl. -drons. 1. A geometric figure composed of twenty equilateral triangles. 2. Entrance symbol at Arlington Industrial and Research Center.
We think it is a fitting symbol for industry and research, because of its sturdy and exacting appearance. The Icosahedron seems very mathematical, yet it is rather handsome. In some ways it is much like the center itself.

This is the fourth ad introducing the Arlington Industrial and Research Center. The previous advertisements gave you some idea of our pride in this 350 acre industrial and research development.
We are especially proud to be located in one of the nation's fastest growing communities. Its potential is very much a part of our plan and our appeal.
We are looking forward to a long and friendly relationship with the people living in and around Arlington Heights. Won't you be a part of it?

Planners Consider Tighter Restrictions on Duplexes

A tightening of zoning restrictions in the duplex housing (R-4A) category will be considered by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission Dec. 7.

The zoning committee of the Plan Commission last Wednesday proposed the zoning changes to bring duplex standards up to other residential categories.

ZONING committee chairman, Norval Stephens, indicated that the duplex housing standards presently are similar to low grade multiple housing (R-5) or dense single-family housing (R-3).

He emphasized that the attached two-family units are the "worst tax eater" in the village.

"The concentration of school children in a duplex area," he said, "is 60 per cent greater than in a single-family residential area and may be as high as 100 per cent greater."

Stephens cited that an average of two school children come from a single-family unit.

Nearly four children would come from an attached two-family unit — a unit built on a lot presently smaller than a single family residence (R-3).

Suggested changes in the R-4A zoning ordinance are:

—increasing the minimum lot size from 8,750 square feet to 14,000 square feet.

—increasing side yard requirements from 10 per cent to 20 per cent with a minimum frontage of 125 feet.

—making one garage per unit with driveways mandatory for all construction.

THE ZONING committee recommended that petitions for R-4A zoning be held up until the Plan Commission and Board of Trustees have acted on the proposed changes.

Stephens said he anticipates a reaction from Chesterfield Builders on the proposed changes. The Chicago firm is petitioning the village for about 24 acres of duplex housing in its 345-acre development on the far north side.

"We hope to hear some reaction," Stephens noted. "The Plan Commission has not closed the door on this issue."

Presently the lowest single-family dwelling unit (R-3) requires 9,500 square feet. In comparison, the current minimum requirement for one duplex unit is 4,375 square feet. Stephens pointed out that each duplex unit typically has three or four bedrooms.

In his report, Stephens indicated that townhouses or attached single-family dwellings are the "greatest possible burden on school systems."

THE AMOUNT of taxes needed to service an acre of R-4A is twice as much as an acre of single family dwellings (R-3) because of the intensive school population, he added.

Stephens stressed that the recommended changes would not remedy the situation but would restrict impact of R-4A to "slightly more" than R-3.

Suggested revisions included requiring one garage per duplex to make construction standards and appearances comparable to single family zoning.

Currently R-4A zoning requires only off-street parking.

The recommendation to increase side yard standards would give "more air between homes" according to plan commissioners. (A

Pearce To Sing At Evangelical

Bill Pearce, radio personality and recording artist, will present a program of sacred songs at the Evangelical Free Church of Arlington Heights, North Dunton and St. James, at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Pearce has been associated with the radio division of Moody Bible institute for 16 years as an announcer, instrumentalist, and vocalist. He currently hosts programs on Moody-owned radio stations WCRF-FM in Cleveland, WMBI AM-FM in Chicago, and WDLM in East Moline. Two of his best-known programs are "Something to Sing About" and "Night Watch."

IN ADDITION to his radio work, Pearce sings bass in the Melody Four Quartet and has recorded six Word Record albums with them. He has also done several recordings of duets with Dick Anthony and a number of albums of vocal and trombone solos.

Pearce has also appeared as co-lead in two motion pictures produced by Anderson Films.

The program is free and open to the public. (A

BOLI Takes Action on Eastman Project

A street improvement that's been in the mill for a long time saw some informal action last week when the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) worked on plans to straighten Eastman Street.

BOLI HOPES to acquire a 33-foot wide strip of land on the north side of the present street right of way running from Ridge Avenue 244 feet west on Eastman Street. The land in question is owned by George Poole, 4001 W. Northwest Highway.

Stephen Jurco, attorney for Poole, asked BOLI members exactly what type of arrangement they wanted to make with Poole.

BOLI member Harold Klingner said he thought the village would be willing to install the street in exchange for a dedication of the land.

A total of 8,052 square feet of land would be involved in the proposed exchange. The village's contribution, the street installation, is estimated at close to $6,000. (A

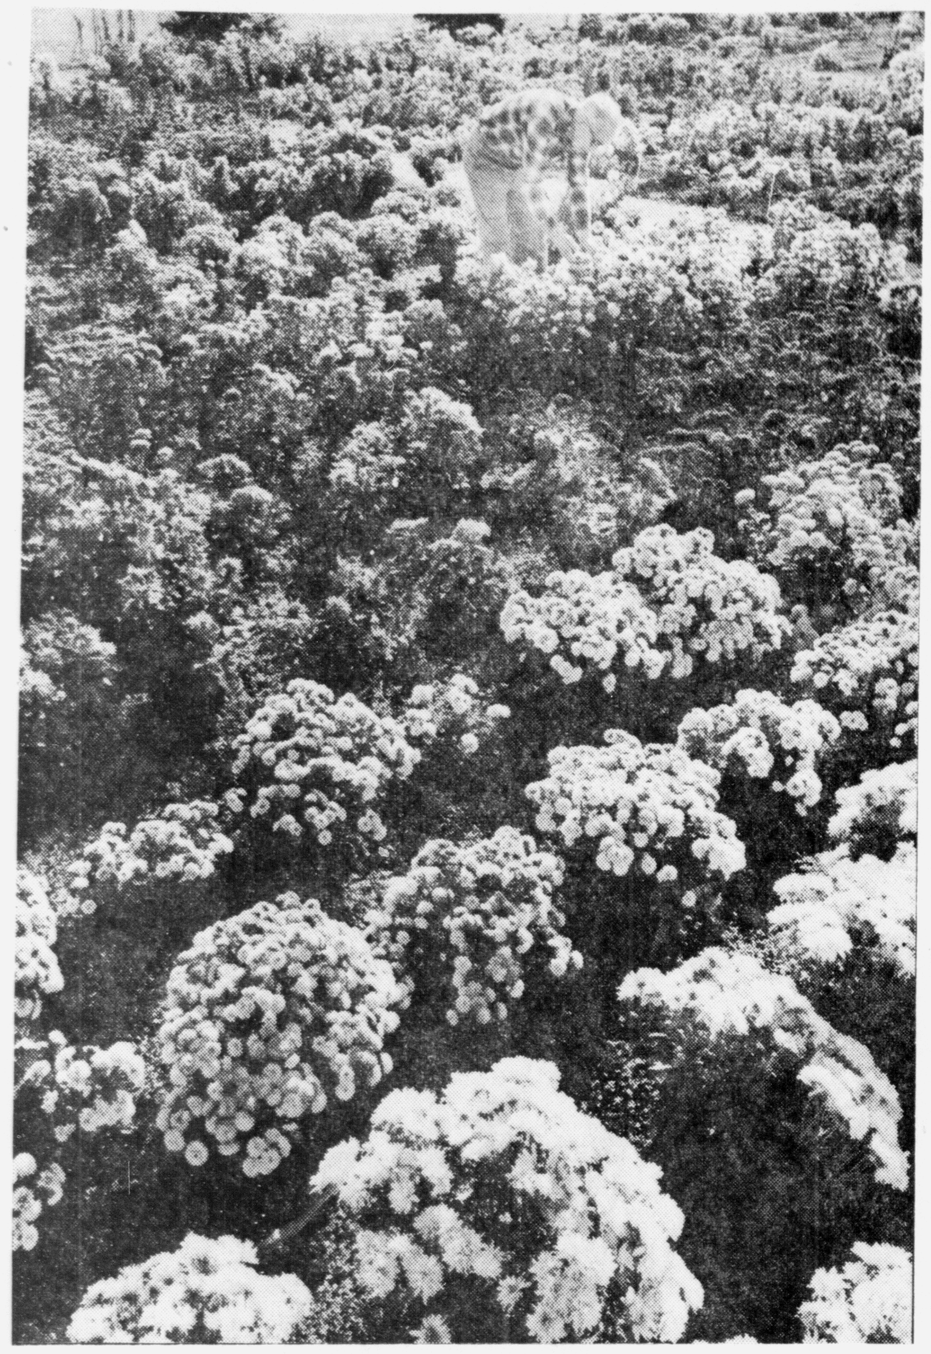
Mums Hobby Grows into Full-Time Business



MUM'S THE WORD and it's a big word for Art Thon, 25 W. Golf Road, Arlington Heights. Here Thon works in his colorful trial gardens that sport 4,000 chrysanthemum plants in over 200 varieties. Earlier this fall visitors were able to see the gardens in full bloom. (Staff photo) (A

by BETTY FORRESTER
Staff Writer

A pastime that grew beyond hobby proportions has blossomed into a full-time retail mail order business for Art Thon.

Mums by the thousand, 4,000 in fact, drew him away to the garden plot from a 23-year career in the automobile industry. Now he, his wife, Margaret, and their son, Jerry, work together mailing out between 100,000 and 125,000 rooted mum cuttings yearly.

Their trial gardens, which were open to chrysanthemum enthusiasts earlier this fall, sport 215 varieties of mums in a splashy display of nearly every color except blue. The flowers themselves range from the big, loose spider mums to the compact, buttonlike "Chiquita's Rival."

"They'll grow anywhere," Thon said of the mums as he pointed to a map of the United States in his home-office at 25 W. Golf Road, Arlington Heights. He said he ships the slips to Canada, New Zealand, Mexico and England, as well as to every state in the union.

HE KEEPS a record of the average frost dates for all areas of the country so that he can send the mums out at the proper planting time.

The Thons said they may be the only mail order business in the county to limit its flower production to mums.

And why?

Thon and his son agree that it's hard to pin-point their reasons for choosing the hardy flower. They noted that the popularity of the plant and the methods of its cultivation had influenced their decision.

"The mum is probably the only perennial which could be the basis of an entire business," Jerry Thon said.

SECOND IN popularity only to the rose, the mum was originally an oriental flower and dates back more than 2,400 years, Thon said.

The Thons do not have an over-the-counter business. They print about 20,000 to 25,000 catalogues listing the 180 or so varieties of mums they sell. Orders are received well in advance of the date the slips are to be shipped.

Once the order is received, Thon said, it is compiled with all other orders to be shipped the same week. After the total number of slips of each variety is determined, the Thons take the cuttings and put them in a special moss to develop.

It takes the cuttings three weeks to develop roots strong enough for shipping.

THON EXPLAINED that they sell only those varieties of mum they feel will do well in the garden. They test grow many others.

The elder Thon did not go into the mum business full-time until about 1960. At that time his son's work with the flowers became too much for one man to handle. The business is still primarily a family enterprise.

They started on a small scale, filling only 38 orders the first year and working with a number of other perennials besides the mum.

"A lot of people in Arlington Heights don't know we're here now," Thon laughed.

Right now they are closing things up for the winter. The trial gardens are being dug up, the new catalogue is in the making and the plants are beginning to get their winter treatment.

THON SAID one of the unusual things about mums is that the flowers will bloom in the winter if they are not lighted for a portion of the night. The Thons' mums are usually artificially lighted for a four hour period between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m.

"I think the pilots use our place as a landmark," Thon joked as he explained the plants' peculiar lighting needs.

A member of the National Chrysanthemum Society, the Thons sponsor several garden club prizes and supply cuttings to places such as Milwaukee's Whitnall Park as well as individual gardeners and homeowners. (A

ALL MEMBERS of the Thon family work together to make a go of the mum business. Here Mr. and Mrs. Thon and their son, Jerry, work with the Nebraska Centennial mums. This flower will be designated as the flower of the 1967 Nebraska Centennial. It was developed at the University of Nebraska. (Staff photo)

THE ENGLISH, SECOND ONLY to the orientals in their zest for mum cultivation, are "unbelievably far ahead of us in the number and quality of shows," according to some observers. This white mum is an English import. (Staff photo)

Vacatian for Ken Woehlck of N. Pine Court ended the weekend before last, with a good yield to account for his days behind the duck blind on Owl Lake. The trip north also included a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Woehlck at nearby Webster, Wis.

Year-old Steven Snell of N. Douglas Avenue celebrated his first birthday on Oct. 24 with a family party in his home. Halloween decorations added a festive touch for brother Jim, sister Linda and his parents.

Another birthday celebrant last week was Debbie Bark of N. Hickory Avenue, who was 11 years old on Friday. An after-dinner Halloween party observed the occasion with 14 of her school and neighborhood friends costumed as beatniks, witches, Orientals, the cat woman, a maid, Alice in Wonderland, bunnies and a jack-in-the-box. A pumpkin-decorated cake graced the birthday board, after bobbing for apples, a cake walk and several other games.

HOSTING A Halloween party last Saturday afternoon was 7 year old Scott Evans of N. Hickory Avenue. Robin and Batman, Raggedy Ann, Little Red Riding Hood and a hobo were some of the characters represented by the ten neighborhood and school friends who attended. Games and party fare were the order of the day. Earlier in the week grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cautice Huffins of downstate Girard, ended their week's visit with the family.

Year-old Priscilla Otis and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Otis, hosted a Halloween party in their N. Beverly Lane home last Saturday afternoon. Dressed as a diminutive beatnik, Priscilla helped greet little devils, witches, bunnies, a gypsy, and a clown—15 children in all—ranging in age from 1 to 10. A pleasant surprise was a visit from grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Mascow of Barrington, who had just returned from a vacation in Hot Springs.

Also hosting a Halloween party was Susie Damiano of N. Pine Court, who planned her party for Monday evening, beginning at 7 p.m. Bobbing for apples, a scavenger hunt and ghost stories were enjoyed by her ten friends, after an afternoon of tricks and treats.

Halloween "beggars" who toddled, sprinted or eagerly punched the doorbell of the Andrews home at 1200 N. Hickory were surprised by eerie, wailing sounds, followed by the appearance of a green-faced, long-nosed witch (Mrs. Andrews), whose tarantula earrings bobbed about as she squeakily offered "poisoned apples" to one and all.

Saturday evening ended a week's vacation for Leslie Shannon of N. Hickory Avenue who spent her holiday in northern Wisconsin's Springstead area.

Garden Club Sponsoring Yule Prizes

Start planning for Operation Sparkle!

The Arlington Heights Garden Club this year is sponsoring the village's annual Christmas Outdoor Lighting and Decorating contest.

Six prizes will be awarded to homeowners with the most original, tasteful, and aesthetically pleasing decorations. Categories include best doorway treatment, lawn, religious theme, non-religious theme, and best use of lighting.

LOCAL MERCHANTS supporting Operation Sparkle soon will have entry blanks available at selected stores. Judges, under the direction of Carl Klehm of Charles Klehm and Son Nursery, will inspect each house entered in the contest.

Neighbors interested in organizing a block effort similar to that carried along the famous Nottingham blocks in Chicago each year are asked to contact Mary B. Good, publicity chairman of the Garden Club at 259-0156.

Rules and details of the contest will be available at a later date. (A

Scavenger Drivers Eye Wage Hikes

Spokesmen for the Laseke Disposal Co. of Arlington Heights report that its drivers and other members of the teamsters union will meet tonight (Thursday) and vote on whether or not to accept the current wage increase being offered by the local scavengers association.

The union is reportedly holding out for a $14-a-week hike in pay. The offer of the scavenger association is thought to be one-half the teamster demand.

The outcome of the vote will determine what sort of proposal will be made by the Laseke Co. for rate increases to Arlington Heights residents for monthly garbage collection.

Still in the planning stage is a proposal by which the village would purchase and service the garbage trucks, which would be operated by the Laseke Company. (A

Coronets Schedule Dinner

The Coronets drill team, sponsored by Arlington Post 981 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will sponsor a dinner and dance Friday night at the V.F.W. Clubhouse at Yale Ave. and Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

The price is $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12. The funds from the dinner will be used to help the drill team make its quota for a trip to New Orleans to the national convention of the V.F.W. in August 1967.

THE CORONETS are sponsoring a tag day Nov. 8 in Arlington Heights to help them raise money for operating expenses.

The team also will hold a paper drive pickup Nov. 19 and 20. Those who wish to have papers picked up should call Mrs. North at CL 3-4342 or Mrs. Plant at CL 3-7732. During the days of the drive phone calls should be made to Mrs. Stipp at 392-4488. (A

Mrs. Allen Attends Xmas Seal Luncheon

Among those who attended a luncheon for local Christmas Seal Drive chairmen Oct. 19 was Mrs. John Allen, 116 W. Euclid, Arlington Heights.

The luncheon, held in the Wedgewood Room of Marshall Field and Co., Chicago, was sponsored by the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County to kick off the 1966 Christmas Seal campaign season.

A MILLION-DOLLAR goal—the highest in history—has been set for this year's drive.

John Egdorf, executive director of the Tuberculosis Institute, told the assembled chairmen that of every Christmas Seal dollar collected, "93 cents stays within Chicao and Cook County to support and further the local TB control program and to explore the largely neglected field of respiratory diseases (RD). Seven cents goes to the National Tuberculosis Association for medical and social research and public health education." (A

Eagle Eye Chiefs Named

William F. Griffith and Mrs. Earle Miller have been appointed Wheeling Township co-chairman for Operation Eagle Eye according to Charles Barr, chairman of Eagle Eye, and Eugene Schlickman, Republican committeem an of Wheeling Township.

Operation Eagle Eye is the anti-vote fraud arm of the Cook County Republican Central Committee. It was formed in 1962 to recruit and train poll-watchers to assure party representation in all Chicago precincts.

SKIN CANCERS CAN BE COMPLETELY CURED

About 18% of all cancers are skin cancers, They are not contagious. But, early diagnosis is important, so watch out for the danger signals.

A "mole" that has grown in size, look irritated, bleeds, or is changing color is a frequent offender, particularly if it is located where it is subject to friction. Wart-like growths, often due to excessive sunlight exposure or x-rays are suspect.

Eczema-like patches on the breast may be skin cancer. Do not be afraid to check with a physician. Removal is painless. Skin cancer is curable, if detection is early.

Expect Stamp of Approval on Task Force Recommendations

The Illinois Task Force on Education will put the final stamp on its recommendations for state school changes at a meeting next Thursday, Nov. 10.

The 57-member committee will meet in Chicago to argue through its recommendations in the areas of financing and administrative structure.

The Task Force will be asked to okay recommendations that include:

—Increasing the state's school support level to $600 per elementary pupil and $750 per high school pupil.

—Tying the state aid increase to standards of district size and quality of program, in an effort to encourage unification of small school districts throughout the state.

—Replacing the present elected state superintendent of public instruction with an appointed state board of education and an appointed state superintendent.

—Formation of regional or intermediate districts to replace the present county superintendents of schools.

THE CHANGES are among Task Force recommendations to come up before the committee, appointed jointly by Gov. Otto Kerner, the state superintendent of public instruction and the School Problems Commission and charged with taking a top-to-bottom look at Illinois schooling, elementary and secondary education.

The text of the committee's report, its details firmed up next Thursday and at earlier fall meetings, will be released in December.

The principle author will be Task Force executive director William P. McLure, University of Illinois professor.

The executive committee, made up of heads of Task Force subcommittees, is expected to stay in Chicago an extra day to go over the written text.

AT GOV. KERNER'S direction, two versions of the Task Force report will be released.

One, for general distribution, will present recommendations of the Task Force in simplified form.

The other, a technical report, will include research material provided by McLure and his staff to support the Task Force recommendations. (A-15

Junior Miss Winners To Be Named Nov. 13

Nineteen high school senior girls will compete Sunday, Nov. 13, for the honor of being one of four Paddock Publications' Junior Miss titleholders.

The finals of the 1966-67 Paddock Publications' Junior Miss Pageant will begin at 7 p.m. Nov. 13 in the auditorium of the new Elk Grove High School, Arlington Heights Road and Elk Grove Boulevard.

Selected in preliminary judging to compete at that time were the following girls:

Paula Schomburg, 305 S. Evergreen; Carol Ann Spomer, 222 S. Walnut; Lyda Phillips, 608 W. Central; Linda Heffernan, 616 S. Burton Place, and Elizabeth Hughes, 410 S. Lincoln, all of Arlington Heights.

SHARRON SAWICKI, 306 W. Kenilworth, Prospect Heights; Karen White, 417 N. Russell St.; Susan Courtenay, 606 S. Pine, and Jo Rogers, 1117 Juniper Lane, all of Mount Prospect; Katherine Philippe, 224 E. Hicks Place, and Peggy Swanson, 2115 W. Hickory Lane, both of Palatine; Kathy Molbeck, 134 Kingman Lane; Liza Christiansen, 260 Ashley Road; Janis Fortman, 207 Frederick Lane, and Carole Kuk, 109 Ashland, all of Hoffman Estates:

Jean Minar, 184 S. Bloomingdale Road, Bloomingdale; Linda Marshalla, 5N041 Medinah Road, Addison; Kathleen Carter, 1261 Aspen Lane, Elk Grove Village, and Donna Rautenkrantz, 1184 S. Hewitt, Des Plaines.

The 19 finalists were chosen from among 79 senior girls entered in this year's Pageant. They were judged on the basis of scholastic achievement, mental alertness, poise and appearance and youth fitness.

THESE 19 finalists will each demonstrate their talent in the creative or performing arts Nov. 13 in a program that will be open to the public.

The four winners will receive engraved loving cups and the right to represent their hometowns in the Illinois' Junior Miss Pageant Dec. 26-30 at the Mill Run Theatre, Niles.

At the state Pageant, sponsored by Chicago's American and Chevrolet Division, General Motors Corp., they will compete with Junior Miss winners from nearly 40 other Illinois communities for $4,500 in scholarship and the right to represent Illinois in America's Junior Miss Pageant next March. (A15

Head Start Program Begins; Funds on Way

Operation Head Start this week began its winter-spring program in four northwest area townships in spite of a delay in the administration of federal funds

David Fankhauser, program director, said that the program began on schedule after receiving enough federal funds for one month's operation through regional offices administering grants under the federal Economic Opportunity Act.

Fankhauser and members of NORWESCO, community supporters of Head Start, feared that the program would be delayed and possibly canceled because of belated federal funds that had already been earmarked for the project.

FANKHAUSER THIS week said that he was "optimistic" that the remaining federal money would come through so that the program could continue in the townships of Palatine, Elk Grove, Wheeling and Schaumburg.

The remaining federal funds for the full 10-month operation have been held up pending further study of the project proposal by federal officials, Fankhauser said.

Without operating funds, Head Start could only expect to continue its operation for a month before discharging pupils and teachers, Fankhauser said.

Affected by any possible shutdown of the program would be 225 children of culturally and economically deprived families. The year-long program is concerned with the perceptual, language, muscular and emotional development of preschoolers from low-income families.

The five Head Start centers are at the First Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights, the Church of the Good Shepherd in Prospect Heights, Community Presbyterian Church in Wheeling, Bethel Lutheran Church in Palatine and the Holy Spirit Church in Elk Grove Village. (A

Drive Needs $2,000 More

The Friends of a Museum for Arlington Heights must raise only $2,000 more to meet their goal of $10,000 by Nov. 15.

Historical society treasurer Melvin L. Kurtz said Tuesday that the group has collected a total of $8,016.54 since it began its drive last summer.

Kurtz said this figure did not include donations from local businessmen. "We haven't heard from many of the businessmen yet," he said, explaining that no report on the progress of that portion of the drive had been turned in.

Friends' chairman Virgil Horath said he has sent a letter to the local churches asking that a free-will offering for the museum be taken on Nov. 13. The First Presbyterian Church, 302 N. Dunton Ave., initiated the idea with a collection last Sunday. (A

Local Resident Hurt in Mishap

An Arlington Heights woman was injured Tuesday evening in an automobile accident at Arlington Heights Road and Willow Street in Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Wanda Kavanaugh, 45, of 904 W. St. James St., was treated for head cuts and released from Northwest Community Hospital.

Police said the car her husband was driving was turning onto Willow Street. A second car, operated by Rudi W. Roll, 37, of Chicago, struck the Kavanaugh car.

Police cited Kavanaugh for failure to yield on left turn.(A

Basin's Ownership Is Settled

Arlington Heights ownership of land for a storm water retention basin bounded by Douglas Avenue, Marion Street and Hickory Avenue was affirmed in circuit court Friday.

The land was originally dedicated to the village by John M. Minneci, 1311 N. Hickory Ave., when he subdivided the Hickory Meadows area.

In a suit against the village, Minneci claimed ownership to the land.

Minneci based his claim on a conversation with the late Hugo Thal, former village attorney. Minneci maintained that Thal had told him that the dedication was for only five years. Minneci also questioned park district use of the land for an ice rink.

Judge Daniel Covelli ruled that Thal had no authority to make such an agreement for the village. Covelli said Thal's conversation with Minneci was not binding on the village. (A

Assessment Costs Jump For 'Loner'

The high cost of special assessment street installation was given a new twist last week when the board of local improvements (BOLI) reviewed figures on a small project.

If big special assessment projects are expensive, pulling out of them and waiting for your own special assessment project proved more so for one Arlington Heights property owner.

Robert Bishop, special commissioner on many BOLI projects, calculated that a property owner on North Kaspar Avenue, who had refused to be included in the paving project for the portion of the street north of Northwest Highway, will pay close to $800 more for the project now than he would have had he been included in the original project.

BOLI engineers' estimates approximate the cost of paving the 167 foot half street to be about $4,318.44 now. Had it been included in the regular project, the cost would have been only about $3,600. (A

Stewardship Weekend Plans Told

Interpreting the "Thrust Toward Servanthood" will be the topic of James W. Shaver, Friday, Nov. 4, as the annual Stewardship weekend begins for the members of the Arlington Heights Congregational United Church of Christ, 1001 W. Kirchoff Road.

Shaver is the head of James W. Shaver Inc. of Barrington, the firm which has been commissioned by the Illinois Conference of the United Church of Christ to help local churches in developing their stewardship programs. The conference is stressing the three areas of commitment—time, talent and treasure.

THE EVENING will begin at 7 p.m. with a smorgasbord dinner, which is being planned by Mrs. Gordon Johnson.

The second phase of the program will be Sunday, Nov. 6. The men of the church will meet at 8:15 a.m. for the training session for callers. Charles Aldag is in charge of this session. He will be assisted by William McNeal, chairman of missions and stewardship committee and John Schneiter.

The third and final phase will be Sunday afternoon when all families in the church will be visited to discuss their areas of increased commitment. (A

Boy Slightly Injured In Bike Mishap

A ten - year - old Arlington Heights boy was slightly injured when his bicycle struck a car in the Westgate Shopping Center parking lot Thursday.

George Vukovich, 647 N. Wilke Road, was treated for a bruised leg and released from Northwest Community Hospital.

Driver of the car was Virginia R. Lemke, 48, of 815 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights.

Police made no arrests. (A

Stavros Tells Confidence In Democratic Candidates

The Democrats "expect to make some gains" against the Republican majority in Wheeling Township in next Tuesday's general election, Committeeman James Stavros says.

Most of the Democratic votes will come from the Village of Wheeling, where in recent years inroads have been made in the once solidly Republican community.

Stavros said he hoped to maintain the 2-1 ratio in the township. Some candidates will do better than others in the election, but Stavros expects Sen. Paul Douglas to be the leading vote-getter in the township.

"There's no bigger vote-getter than Sen. Douglas," said Stavros. "He's the strongest man in the Democratic party," he added, "and I think the people will vote for him because of his experience."

"That's what counts with me," he said.

THE COMMITTEEMAN believes Harry Semrow, running for the Cook County board presidency against Republican Richard Ogilvie, will win a "big victory."

He olso expects Adlai Stevenson III to win the state treasurer's post against Rep. Harris Rowe of Jacksonville.

Minor K. Wilson, the Democratic candidate for Cook County sheriff will be a "shoo-in" against his opponent Joseph I. Wood, Stavros predicted.

Stavros claimed the Democrats "have 80 per cent of the endorsements of organizations and newspapers," and listed this as one of the reasons why they would win.

In the race for state representatives in the Third District, Stavros' comment was "That will be a very interesting race."

In the heavily Republican Third District two GOP representatives and one Democrat are expected to be sent to Springfield. This in effect pits two incumbent Democrats, Mrs. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights against Bernard Peskin of Northbrook.

STAVROS SAID Mrs. Chapman has a tough fight, but he added that he thought she can win it. "She deserves to go back to Springfield," he added.

The Herald asked Stavros how he thought Mrs. Chapman would do in the Village of Wheeling, but he evaded the question and said "she will do well all over." The Arlington Heights housewife received less total votes than Peskin, a veteran legislator, in the June primary.

Some Wheeling Democrats reportedly were not as confident of Mrs. Chapman's victory. Peskin, who has been in the Illinois House for four terms, is still a favorite of several in the village.

One Democrat who declined to be named, said Mrs. Chapman might be in trouble, and added that she had seen none of her literature distributed in the neighborhood.

Stavros admitted that Peskin will get "his share of votes," but added he thinks people would prefer to keep a representative "from the center o the district." Mrs. Chapman hails from the population center of the Third District. (A

'Golden Age of Comedy' Film Topic

The New Horizon adult lecture-film series will feature "The Golden Age of Comedy" for its program Tuesday night.

The film, directed by Robert Youngson, is considered one of the better silent comedy anthologies, according to the Rev James F. Farrelly, C.S.V., who set up the series.

"IT PRESENTS the humor of Sennett and Roach, the two men who did most to shape the comic film tradition, and features such great talents as Laurel and Hardy, Harry Langdon, and Ben Turpin," he said.

James Wicklund, head of the English department at Notre Dame High School, will introduce the film and lead discussion of it following the showing.

The program will be held in the St. Viator High School auditorium, 1213 E. Oakton St., at 8 p.m. Admission is $1. (A

Suburban Voters May Hold Key to Outcome of Election

Once again suburban voters have the opportunity on Nov. 8 to demonstrate their voting muscles to the state.

Suburban Cook County and DuPage County has 19 per cent of the voters in Illinois, according to figures just released by the secretary of state.

If Lake County is included, the figure tops 20 per cent.

SUBURBAN COOK and DuPage County are Republican strongholds. Certainly, the Democrats are strong in some locales, but they are a long way from being able to say Republicans should worry.

In Chicago, Democrats are in the majority. They will continue to be, but in talking of Cook County politics, this election may well be an omen for the future.

What strength Republicans have in Chicago, combined with suburban strength, could well mean Republicans this year have a "knock out" punch.

Chicago has 34 per cent of the state's voters. However, strong enclaves of Republicanism have existed, particularly in the northwest, southwest and Lake Michigan areas.

Chicago has 1,797,000 voters; suburban Cook County has 815,000 voters.

ROUGHLY SPEAKING, Republicans in Cook County politics, to deliver the "knock out" punch, will have to maintain their 70 to 30 per cent lead in suburbia and get at least 45 per cent of the Chicago vote.

One trouble with this election is that it cannot be said one candidate can represent a weather vane to determine who is going to come out on top.

In the state and Cook County races, indications are that Democrats will take some offices, Republicans others.

It would be nice, for instance, to say that the County Board Presidency is the office to watch. Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie is battling former Chicago Postmaster Harry H. Semrow.

But an Ogilvie victory will not necessarily mean that he will bring with him other offices such as clerk, assessor or treasurer or even gain a few county commissioner seats.

THE IMPORTANCE, of this race, of course, is that should Ogilvie win, the Republicans will have access to 12,000 county patronage jobs.

DuPage County, long a Re-Republican machine - controlled county, has 189,000 registered voters. Being overwhelmingly Republican, the county has much significance in state politics.

The trouble with speaking of suburban voting power is that the raw registration figures do not tell the whole story.

The story is written by how many voters from the total registered actually go to the polls.

Just as the Republicans smell victory in the state and county levels, they must also get the voters out.

ONE REPUBLICAN worker recently told a reporter that the big worry of the GOP is that their people, believing victory is assured, will not work as hard.

Disaster could come, if say Mr. Jones in Mount Prospect, doesn't bother to go to the polls. This could happen.

The reason it could happen, particularly in Cook County and especially in northwest suburbs, is that the Republican organizations are not marked by much brilliance. Politically, as strong, viable organizations with solid precinct work, there is much that is lacking. This is the story in such townships as Palatine, Schaumburg and to a lesser degree in Wheeling and Elk Grove.

Cook County Clerk Edward J. Barrett released these figures for Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Hanover and Barrington townships:

Wheeling, 38,972 registered voters; Elk Grove, 23,749; Palatine, 18,407; Schaumburg, 10,317; Hanover, 8,190; and Barrington, 3,524.

It should be noted that Hanover Township in northwest Cook had the only registration decline compared with 1964 figures. In 1964, Hanover had 8,329; today it is only 8,190.

OF COURSE, Democrats face a similar problem of getting their voters out. This is probably truer in suburbia. In Chicago, with the leverage of patronage and a solid political machine, the Democratic troops will be turned out.

Republicans have an initial advantage in that traditionally Republican voters have a higher percentage turnout than Democrats. (A15

HELP!

On November 8, you will vote on the Illinois Banking Act Amendments. These amendments are non-controversial and non-political. Consequently people don't know much about them.

Here are some facts:

- ★ They have been endorsed by 1,051 state and national banks in Illinois . . . plus leaders of labor, agriculture, government and industry.
- ★ They are simply designed to create a separate and independent state banking department to regulate banking in Illinois, keep it up to date—capable of serving you more efficiently.
- ★ They will not cost you a red cent in increased taxes.

Because of confusion with other special ballots, these important amendments may be either neglected or voted against. The best legal brains in the state took two years to write them. They must be passed. They need your help.

Representation, Experience Are Congressional Issues

The northwest area needs a Congressman who is truly representative of the people, states James L. McCabe, Democratic hopeful for the 13th District seat.

He charges that two-term incumbent Donald Rumsfeld is, and has not been, representative of the 13th District which encompasses suburban Northshore and northwest Cook County.

Rumsfeld, 34, comes from Wilmette; McCabe, 34, is from Arlington Heights.

For the most part, the Rumsfeld campaign has been a quiet one. Rumsfeld can be assured, as incumbent and Republican, that his opponent has a nearly impossible feat of unseating him.

AS IN PAST campaigns, the Democratic challenger attempts to gain votes by labeling Rumsfeld a reactionary who opposes more than he proposes or supports.

"I've supported, I suppose, easily 80 per cent of the bills that have come before Congress," Rumsfeld says.

He adds, "On another 10 per cent, I've supported Republican substitute bills that were different in emphasis . . . and in some cases I've opposed completely."

RUMSFELD ON 13th District matters cites support of vocational education, manpower training and development, higher education bills among educational bills.

Transportation and conservation also are mentioned as important areas of concern in the state and 13th District.

McCabe also cites education and transportation as major areas for concern.

If elected, McCabe says his interests would be directed most toward education.

"I think education is probably one of the most important things we're involved in in this country," McCabe says.

McCabe is a lawyer and served for two years as an assistant state's attorney.

RUMSFELD SERVES on the science and astronautics committee and its manned space flight subcommittee, the committee on government operations and its subcommittees on foreign operations and on legal and monetary affairs.

He was one of the major proponents of the recently-passed freedom of information bill and currently is working toward passage of a bill taking postmasters out of politics. (B10

Judgeships Pay Highest Salaries

So you'd like to be an elective official? Maybe you've heard salaries are low and have shied away.

Well, it's probably a matter of your present economic status whether or not you think running for office is worth it or not.

Without doubt, the choicest state job — since you may want to start at the top — is that of Supreme Court justice of Illinois.

A justice serves a 10-year term, is not notably overworked, and earns $37,500 a year.

A CIRCUIT COURT judge serves a six year term and earns in Cook County $29,000 a year; associate Circuit Court judges made $26,500.

The Cook County board president gets $15,000 a year; county commissioners $10,000 a year.

County offices such as clerk, assessor, sheriff, treasurer and superintendent of schools carry $20,000 salaries.

State senators and representatives earn $18,000 per biennium.

But don't drool too much at these salaries.

Certain obvious and hidden expenses are involved. You'd better figure on having a private income as well.

While no exact figures are available, it is known that candidates for judge must "pay" for their office via a party contribution. It is no paltry sum.

OR TAKE A legislator: for a Chicago area legislator, he must provide living quarters for himself in Springfield during the normal six-month bienniel session plus maintain various other "political" expenses such as contributions to his party.

To get a political post, or even consideration by a party, you must have been a loyal worker of years standing or have some sort of outstanding qualification peculiar to an office.

Obviously, not everyone will be considered, for instance, for county superintendent of schools or sheriff.

ANOTHER PROBLEM is that political life can be an uncertain life. If you have to live on your elective salary alone, you had best also make sure you are never voted out of office.

One major compensation, however, for many offices is that you make friends, lots of friends, and these friends have been known to do favors for their friends.

Former Illinois Gov. William Stratton learned this. (B10

Teacher-Bargaining Talks Set for NW Suburban Meet

The right of teachers' groups to officially bargain with school boards for salaries and improved working conditions will be the topic of two talks next week.

Both will take place at the Illinois Education Association's Northwest Suburban Division annual meeting next Wednesday at Elk Grove High School.

The 8 p.m. meeting will follow a 6:30 p.m. dinner at the school.

SPEAKING on collective bargaining for teachers will be Dr. Donald Thomas, president-elect of the IEA division and Mrs. Eugenia Chapman, Democratic state representative running for re-election.

Dr. Thomas, who teaches school law for Bradley University and the University of Illinois in addition to serving as Elk Grove High School principal, will speak on "The Law and Collective Negotiations! Trends and Issues."

"Legislative Activity in Collective Negotiations for Teachers" will be Mrs. Chapman's topic.

THE TWO TALKS— and any discussion that will follow, may well set the tone for IEA activities to secure collective negotiations rights with local school boards in this area.

One area board, Fenton High School District 100 at Bensenville, presently has a negotiations agreement with its teachers' association.

A Niles Township school district was threatened with a strike when the school board refused to allow an election to determine whether a teachers' union or the IEA would represent the district's teachers.

HIGH SCHOOL District 214's school board had presented to it last year, in report form, a negotiations' agreement recognizing the Teachers' Association as spokesmen for the faculty. It was not acted on because attorney Allyn J. Franke advised that the right of a school board to enter into such agreements was not clear.

Persons attending a Tri-County Division meeting of the Illinois Association of School Boards at Proviso Township High School last month were told that "professional negotiations—or collective bargaining—was sure to come."

Panelists at a Tri-County discussion session on the subject termed professional negotiations another term for "teacher power," a "revolution" designed to give teachers a more equal voice with superintendents and school boards in determining their salaries and other working conditions. (B10

High School Plans Nurse Aide Course

High School District 214 will soon start a nurses aide training course at Magnus Farms, south Arlington Heights home for the elderly.

Twelve nurses aides will be trained during the eight-week course, given 100 per cent financing by the federal government under the Manpower Training and Development Act.

Cost of the course will be about $100 per student, according to District 214 adult education director W. L. (Pat) Randle.

Randle said Nov. 15 has been set as target date for opening the training program.

APPROVAL OF the government for the course itself has already been given, he said, and District 214 is now awaiting an okay on the instructor.

She will be Mrs. Dawn Bleckman, who is now in charge of District's exercise class for pregnant women.

Randle said the school district may start another MDTA-financed airline ramp serviceman's training program and is discussing the possibility of adding a practical nurses' course.

Twenty men took a similar ramp serviceman's course last spring, with United Airlines providing the men and instructors and District 214 serving as contracting agent with the federal government.

Now, Randle says, United Airlines would like to repeat the course—but for 240 men. District 214's role would be the same this year, he said—that of supervising the course and funneling the funds from the U. S. government to the airline's teachers.

THE PRACTICAL nurses' course, if started, would not be financed under MDTA.

District 214 would instead receive two-thirds reimbursement from state vocational training funds.

District 214 and neighboring Maine Township high school district are talking of co-sponsoring the practical nurses course, similar to one taught last year by the Niles Township high school district.

A final decision on the course has not yet been made, Randle said. (ACME

UNICEF Cards On Sale

Mrs. John Muller of Arlington Heights is local representative selling UNICEF greeting cards, note paper, games and calendars.

UNICEF, the Nobel Peace Prize-winning United Nations Children's Fund, is a program which benefits needy children and mothers in more than 100 developing countries.

Mrs. Muller, a member of the local League of Women Voters, reports that in 1966, the year of UNICEF's 20th anniversary, it is hoped that a birthday gift exceeding last year's proceeds of $3 million will be realized through the sale of cards.

THE ARLINGTON Heights League has sponsored sale of the cards for several years in the area and last year received a certificate of merit for presenting better understanding of goals.

Last year's funds, said Mrs. Muller, were sufficient to provide equipment and drugs for 10,000 small maternal and child health centers, 1,000 vehicles for mobile health teams, and enough penicillin to cure 20 million children of yaws.

In terms of UNICEF's life-saving arithmetic, proceeds from a single 10-card box at $1.25 will provide a daily glass of milk for a whole week for 40 hungry children, enough vaccine to protect 50 children against TB, or the antibiotics necessary to save five children afflicted by trachoma from blindness.

THIRTEEN designs donated by talented artists from Argentina, Canada, France, Germany, Haiti, Hungary, Japan, Lebanon and the U. S. are included in the 1966 UNICEF card offering.

The UNICEF items may be seen by calling Mrs. Muller, 392-9355. She has sample items now and will show them through the first part of December.

ELECT TO THE CONGRESS
JAMES L. McCabe
"This district deserves a change from its past negative and obstructive role in Congress."

EVALUATE THESE FACTS BEFORE YOU VOTE!

ISSUES	☒ FOR McCABE	☒ AGAINST McCABE'S OPPONENT
EDUCATION	In favor of an educational program to meet the needs of this district and of this nation.	Voted against the Elementary and Secondary Education Act which is intended to meet such needs.
REPRESENTATION	One Man — One Vote Representation.	Voted against One Man — One Vote Representation and in favor of representation by acreage instead of population.
TRANSPORTATION	For the development of mass transportation programs which are sorely needed in all suburban areas, particularly this district.	Against the appropriation for study of and development of mass transportation program.
TAXES	For maintenance of tax burden at lowest possible level.	Against 1964 tax cut.
VIET NAM	For termination of hostilities in Viet Nam consistent with our National interest.	His party has acted obstructively and has failed to present one positive program to achieve a just and lasting peace.
THE 13th DISTRICT	Strongly supports a positive and vigorous program of representation of the people of the 13th Congressional District for the full term of Congress.	Past representation of this district has been a program whose sole plank is the NO vote and the introduction of legislation in time to make election news rather than law.

Democrat Battle in State House Limelight

Easy GOP Victory In Third District

Incumbent Democrats Eugenia Chapman and Bernard Peskin definitely are the attention-getters in the Illinois Third District.

They want to be returned to the Illinois General Assembly's House. But it is certain only one can succeed because both reside in a Republican-dominated district.

Voters are being asked on Nov. 8 to vote for three state representatives from the Third District. Four candidates are running. The other two are Republicans Eugene Schlickman, an incumbent, and Davig Regner.

Schlickman and Regner, because this is GOP territory, are sure to win. Therefore, Mrs. Chapman and Peskin must fight for the third largest plurality.

THE CONTEST for the state senate seat is hardly given much thought. Sen. John Graham, seeking his third term, is opposed by Norman Nelson Jr. Democrat Nelson has very little chance of even coming close to victory over the GOP incumbent because of the dominance of the Republicans in the district.

As Graham puts it, "it's the quietest campaign I've ever been involved in."

So, Republicans can rest comfortably in the Third District and watch Mrs. Chapman and Peskin battle.

The Third District is composed of the townships of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Hanover and parts of Northbrook and Niles.

Peskin, 44, is from Northbrook—tucked away in the corner of the district. A lawyer, Peskin seeks a fifth term.

Mrs. Chapman, 43, is an Arlington Heights housewife, who was elected in 1964 in the at-large election. A former school teacher, she was a member of the District 214 high school board prior to being elected a representative.

The reason Democrat is fighting Democrat grows out of a party order this year.

SET UP by law, an Illinois district is represented by three, two of the majority party and one of the minority party. Here, the minority is Democratic. In previous years, only one minority party candidate effectively ran—that was Peskin.

Then, there was the 1964 at-large election and Democrats made substantial House gains. This year, party leadership ordered that two Democrats would run in every district, not just one as had been the custom.

In previous years, the primary decided who among Democratic hopefuls would carry the banner. In the past June primary, Peskin beat Mrs. Chapman but still she will be in the general election.

Now, Peskin must seek to retain his earlier primary majority over Mrs. Chapman. She's got to do better than in June.

IN THE ELECTION, a voter has three votes. He may cast one for each of the three candidates, give 1½ to two candidates or cast all three just for one candidate.

Casting all three votes for one candidate is known in political parlance as "bulleting."

Bulleting is expected to be the order of the day.

Neither Mrs. Chapman nor Peskin would publicly admit that they seek bullet voting (it doesn't look good for members of the same party to come right out and say they want their brother-in-arms defeated), but that's what their strategies are all about.

Mrs. Chapman can claim an advantage of being from Arlington Heights, more populous than Northbrook where Peskin comes from. She has the backing of Wheeling Township Regular Organization.

BUT PESKIN can claim organizational support, too. One sign of this was last Friday's cocktail party given in Elk Grove for state treasurer candidate Adlai Stevenson III. It was a "non-regular organization" function sponsored by a citizens committee.

Peskin was present and Mrs. Chapman was not. Peskin was praised by Stevenson and Dr. Donald Prince, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction. Both urged his re-election.

According to some informants, captains in the Elk Grove organization will plump for Peskin.

Mrs. Chapman is making an active campaign of getting Republican support to overcome the already established lead Peskin has via his primary victory. Peskin, to some extent, already has such support, especially in Northbrook, which while "tucked away" in the district, is populous.

The two candidates privately make it quite plain they don't care for each other. Peskin would like to send the housewife back to her kitchen and Mrs. Chapman believes it's time "old guard" Peskin was sent back to his law practice on a full-time basis.

CHAPMAN

NELSON

PESKIN'S legislative record includes sponsorship of the Battered Baby Bill, the bill creating the new Dept. of Children and Family Services, the Illinois Anti-Trust Law, the Illinois Charitable Frauds Law, the new Mental Health Pay Plan and the "Peskin Bill" giving financial assistance to parents of retarded children, enabling them to enter private schools while awaiting admission to the Lincoln-Dixon state schools.

Mrs. Chapman's claim to legislative fame is as chief sponsor of the 1965 Junior College Act.

Both Democrats have shown interest in education, and both back legislation to make the state superintendent's of instruction office appointive rather than elective.

Mrs. Chapman and Peskin are opponents of the Blue Ballot Revenue Amendment.

THE THIRD Democrat on the district's slate is Norman Nelson Jr. of Elk Grove.

A lawyer, Nelson, 39, strikes out at Sen. Graham's "rubber stamp" record in the Republican dominated state Senate.

"There is a lack of creativeness on Sen. Graham's part," Nelson believes.

Among the things he would like to propose if elected would be a credit reform bill and certain anti-crime measures such as allowing wire-tapping based on a petition signed by the court.

The three Republicans, Graham, Schlickman and Regner, might be referred to and lumped together as a "team." That's how they're portraying themselves in recent press releases, "the Republican team."

BUT THEY are also quick to mention that being on a team and having "unity" does not mean they will agree with each other on all legislation.

The incumbent senator, 54, lives in Barrington and operates an appliance store in that community.

Claiming much economy can be effected in the state, Graham has been an ardent opponent of a state income tax and would have voted against the Revenue Amendment had he been in the Senate when it was voted upon.

Graham suffered a stroke earlier this year but shows marked improvement. While needing a cane to maneuver, he remains mentally alert.

Schlickman, 35, is a lawyer and resides in Arlington Heights. He is seeking a second term, having been elected to the House in the 1964 at-large election.

Top problem for the state, Schlickman believes, is financing the Junior College Act passed on in the last General Assembly. He supports the Revenue Amendment.

REGNER'S political claim to fame only is that he is a Republican and likely to win in the Third District.

The independent insurance agent and accountant is 34 and comes from Mount Prospect. He is the only non-incumbent in the Third District.

He says his major aim if elected would be reform in the procedure of adopting a state budget. (B10

Cook County Voters To Elect 15 Judges

Voters of Cook County on Nov. 8 will have the opportunity to elect 15 judges, two of which are for the Illinois Supreme Court.

Supreme Court justice candidates are Republicans Charles R. Barrett, now a Circuit Court judge, and Arthur W. Sprague, most recently a state senator; and Democrats Daniel P. Ward, currently county state's attorney, and Thomas E. Kluczynski, currently chief judge of the Illinois Appellate Court.

Ward and Barrett are vying for the vacancy created by the death of Justice Joseph E. Dailey. Justice Dailey's term has eight years left.

SPRAGUE AND Kluczynski seek the post of Judge Harry B. Hershey who resigned. Six years remain in his term.

Twenty-six men seek the 13 Circuit Court judgeships. Of these, only one, 12th Ward Ald. Arthur V. Zelezinski was rated not qualified by the Chicago Bar Association committee on candidates.

Although the candidates carry party labels, none run against each other for the 13 seats. Candidates with the highest total votes are elected.

Chicago Bar members cast 3,061 votes in making endorsements. To receive an endorsement, a candidate must get at least 30 per cent of the votes cast.

IN THE CONTEST for Supreme Court justice vacancies, Kluczynski (2,003 votes) and Ward (1,560 votes) were endorsed.

Following is a list of the Circuit Court candidates with an asterisk before their names if endorsed by the Chicago Bar:

Republicans for unexpired terms:

L. Sheldon Brown, *Reginald J. Holzer, Joseph T. Lavorci.

Democrats for unexpired terms:

*Archibald J. Carey Jr., *James C. Murray, *James C. Spangler.

Republicans seeking full 6-year terms:

Francis T. Delaney, *Thomas R. McMillan, Harry S. Stark, Raymond E. Trafelet, *Ralph H. Eisendrath, Edward T. Shableski.

Democrats seeking 6-year full terms:

*Mayer Goldberg, *Walter J. Kowalski, *Philip Romiti, Earl E. Strayhorn.

Democrats seeking unexpired terms as associate:

*Raymond K. Berg, *John F. Hechinger.

Democrats seeking full 6-year terms as associate judge:

David Cerda, *Nathan J. Kaplan, Glenn T. Johnson, Arthur V. Zelezinski, William D. O'Malley, *Harold A. Siegen, Edward L. Stepnowski, Louis A. Watson.

IN ADDITION to voting for the new judges, a judicial ballot for the retention of 28 Circuit Court judges and five suburban associate judges will be in the Nov. 8 election.

A simple majority of "yes" votes retains a judge in his present office. This ballot is the result of the new Judicial Article and reason is to take politics out of the courts. The judges up for retention are on a non-political ballot without their parties listed. (B10

County School Head Seeks Eighth Term

Noble J. Puffer, 65, seeks his eighth term as Cook County superintendent of schools.

His Republican opponent is Robert P. Hanrahan, 32, assistant to the superintendent of Thornton Township High Schools and Junior College in Harvey.

Puffer believes the superintendent's office, during his 27 years as its chief, has developed into "a real service organization."

Hanrahan counters that the "office needs a dynamic individual."

THE INCUMBENT believes his record shines in teacher recruitment, bus inspection and school safety. His office has helped schools develop programs using educational TV and promoted cooperative arrangements for special education programming.

Hanrahan believes Puffer could have done more. He has criticized Puffer for not visiting schools more often than the required once a year. He believes Puffer could have provided more consultant service.

The youthful challenger has charged Puffer's office has hired people fired by school districts and that Puffer has exercised nepotism by hiring his son as an assistant superintendent.

Puffer maintains that for the money his office had to offer, his son was the best qualified man available. (B10

MY DEAR FELLOW VOTER:

I am just an average citizen and taxpayer, but speaking for myself, I can't remember . . . one single important thing that Senator Douglas has ever done in 40 years . . .

(a) to improve business;

(b) to increase efficiency, or reduce Government spending; or

(c) to increase jobs or to promote prosperity for all.

Luckily for all of us . . . the greatest thing that ever happened to Chicago, in my opinion, has been . . . CHARLES H. PERCY . . . to take over the Senate job, and to represent the people of Illinois.

MR. PERCY is young, vigorous, capable and efficient . . . and by sheer hard and intelligent work . . . he has become one of the very top business executives in the United States, and President of Bell & Howell Corporation.

We all can now count on him for safe, sound, progressive and efficient government for all and not (only) for any special interests. All of MR. PERCY'S business friends . . . all of the thousands of employees of Bell & Howell, (past and present) . . . all of his neighbors, so testify.

His announced platform is straight-forward . . . it is simple . . . it covers all vital items of the greatest public interest. Already he has proposed plans to provide schools and schooling for all children from age 4 upwards.

CONCLUSION: Please let us not continue to fiddle and diddle and dawdle forever on ethereal spending projects . . . let us tighten our belts . . . help bring our boys back as quickly as possible . . . let us work to restore peace . . . to restore law enforcement so that our homes . . . our wives . . . and our families are safe and let us restore prosperity and happiness to all.

Sincerely,

LEWIS F. JACOBSON,
Chairman

re-elect EUGENIA S.

CHAPMAN

DEMOCRATIC STATE REPRESENTATIVE

"The Democrats have more idea men . . . among these Eugenia S. Chapman of Arlington Heights."
CHICAGO SUN-TIMES

"We believe this district will be best served by the re-election of State Representative Eugenia Chapman."
PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS

EUGENIA S. CHAPMAN, a Blue Ribbon candidate elected in 1964, stands for re-election this November 8. Gene's active leadership during the last General Assembly won for her widespread endorsements and acclaim as "Best Freshman Legislator." Long active in community affairs, Mrs. Chapman has served as President of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters, member and secretary of H.S. District 214 Board of Education and on committees that helped bring about court reorganization and the village manager form of government. During this period of rapid growth, the Northwest Suburbs need experienced, dynamic representation in the State Legislature.

GEORGE THE BARTENDER can't conceal his reaction to the harmonizing of Alfie P. Doolittle and his cronies in this scene from "My Fair Lady," to be presented Nov. 26 and 27 and Dec. 3 and 4 by Best Off Broadway Players. Playing Eliza's father, left, is Hank Vandenboom of Wheeling. His cronies Jamie, at the piano, and Harry, right, are Jerry Butz of Palatine and Fred Schiavo of Arlington Heights. In the role of the less than enthusiastic bartender is Howard Risberg of Hoffman Estates. The ever-popular Lerner and Loewe musical will be staged at Wheeling High School with Richard Tyler as director and Dick Moderhack of Arlington Heights as production manager. Lutheran Leader Breaks Race Relations 'Silence'

"To talk about race relations is not welcome. The subject has been relegated to the same category as religion and politics in polite society."

Thus began Dr. Karl Lutze, professor of religion at Valparaiso University, who went on to be "impolite" to the 40 persons who came to St. Peter Lutheran Church Sunday afternoon to hear him discuss "Black Power, White Power, Christian Power."

"The trouble is," said Dr. Lutze, "I am so prejudiced, you are so prejudiced. It never occurs to us that we might have a relative marry a Negro. It was hard enough a few years ago to realize our sister might not marry a German Lutheran!"

INDICATING THE need for changing the concept of racial justice in the Missouri Synod, Dr. Lutze reviewed a little history.

"It used to be, not very long ago, that if one of our American pastors did not do well here, we sent him to Africa. If he did not do well there, we sent him to the Negro home missions."

Considering such background facts, Lutze continued, it should be no surprise that in 30 years, 40 Southern congregations of this kind brought less than two new communicants each per year.

"White power has rendered Negroes impotent," said Lutze. "Having no other way to get power, they grabbed it. It was not legitimate, so it was put down by superior force."

"Superior force is wasted force," he said. "We have wasted and weakened ourselves by holding the Negro powerless for so long. A 'dead nigger' is not just a 'dead nigger.' He is a wasted creature of God. A dead policeman is not just a dead policeman. He, too, is a wasted creature of God."

Dr. Lutze, who was a pastor for 15 years before teaching at Valparaiso described some of his own experiences among Negro parishioners.

He told of a father of 13 who left school at age 11 to support his brothers and sisters when his father died — and courageously left his own family later on, so that they might receive welfare checks.

"The man had no education and was limited by a kidney disease from his youth," said Lutze. "He could get no work. I didn't speak to him about integrity, or honesty. He lived on park benches and in terminals to support the family he loved. Our society has made that the only contribution he could make."

"We must remedy our whole Christian outlook," Lutze concluded. "Today an incipient Richard Speck or Charles Whitman, or even the murderer of Valerie Percy, could move this town easier than could most cultivated Negro, sim because he is white. Unless change, we may expect a ocaust."

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From Mrs. Olen Partridge, Leesburg, Florida: I remember the old spinning wheel. My mother made all our clothes. We sat by the fireside at night and picked seeds from the cotton by hand for spinning.

I remember the green coffee beans mother roasted on the fireplace and ground in the coffee mill on the wall. Mother cooked on the fireplace, using iron pots, with lids. She raised gourds and cleaned them well to keep milk in. Father raised all our meat and vegetables and made plenty of syrup.

Every fall, several families made up a covered wagon expedition and went to the coast for a barrel of mullet. They would trade potatoes, syrup and bacon for the fish.

Our lamps were bottles with a large wick and water came from shallow, home-dug wells with open tops. We got biscuits only on Sunday morning — the rest of the week it was corn pone.

Mother-Politician Tells How She Can Handle 'Dual Role'

Mother-Politician Tells-4-42 ital

How does a wife and mother manage to run a political campaign and a household at the same time

According to one who is trying, "It isn't always easy!"

Successfully coping with the dual role is Mrs. Gerald M. Chapman, wife of an Arlington Heights attorney and mother of four children, alias State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, Democrat seeking re-election as Third District state representative.

She admits the household is "quiet chaos" during these final days of campaigning before Tuesday's general election.

"But these are only a few weeks out of a two-year period," explains Eugenia, who says her formula for "dual success" is simply "organization and an understanding family."

IN ADDITION to her husband, the "understanding family" includes George, 14, an Arlington High School freshman; John, 12, a seventh grader at Miner Junior High School; Katherine, 7, in the second grade at Ridge School; and Andrew, 3.

During this final week of campaigning, the family and household are under the supervision of Mrs. Chapman's aunt, Mrs. Selma Donner of Chicago. The balance of her re-election campaign has included her full-time handling of the household as well as politicking.

"I try to build mealtimes around the children," she explains, "lunching as often as possible at home. I never leave in the morning until all the children have had a nourishing breakfast and are off to school, and I plan my day so I'm home when they get home in the afternoon."

The exception, of course, has been this final week when the campaign climax has kept her on a hectic daily schedule. "But that's where Aunt Selma has been such a wonderful help!"

Eugenia still cooks the family meals, although lately the menus have emphasized convenience foods easily prepared. "Most important, of course, is to make certain the family has a balanced diet."

WHILE BUSY on her final whirlwind campaigning, she's indulged the family's preference for Chinese food and carry-out beefburgers.

A 70-hour week as campaigner doesn't keep Eugenia away from home as much as one might suppose, she explains, since much of this time is spent telephoning — a task which keeps her within both ear and eye-shot of her youngest, 3-year-old Andrew.

He poses the greatest problem for his mother since the other youngsters are in school during the daytime.

A helpful neighbor, Mrs. Wanda Pilip, has solved much of the mother-politician's dilemma by "baby-sitting" with Andrew or Kathy while Eugenia is at coffees or special luncheons. Both children enjoy the "playtimes" with the Pilip's own six children.

Eugenia acknowledges that certain household duties have had to be delegated in recent months. These include acquiring the services of a cleaning woman once a week, and two women who help with ironing and mending.

AS FOR HUSBAND Gerald, "He expects and gets the same attention as always, including the usual commuter pick up and delivery service at the depot."

State Rep. Chapman readily credits her family with the decision to seek legislative office in 1964 as a "blue ribbon" candidate as well as the decision to seek re-election this year.

"The only reason I agreed to run in the first place was because my husband encouraged me to," she relates. "He takes a great personal interest in the campaign, offers advice and encouragement."

As for the children, she firmly believes her involvement in government is beneficial.

Kathy is eager for mother to be re-elected so she can go to Springfield and "swim in the pool." (Eugenia takes the children with her to the Capitol as soon as school is dismissed.)

George admits to a "fascination" for Springfield, and especially the computer voting board in the House. It appeals to his "scientific, mechanical interests."

John is the fledgling politician in the family, and acts as her page during the final weeks of the session.

Andrew is described by his mother as an "adaptable, flexible child who gets lots of attention and seems to thrive on the excitement." The campaign doesn't really have much impact on him — except he sees "so many pictures of mama" — and her activities have no more effect than if she was an ordinary working mother.

"THE OLDER children can get much from my being a legislator," explains Eugenia. "They benefit from the experience, from being with me and seeing firsthand what most children only read about. They see live government in action."

Actually, being a state representative doesn't require full-time, year-round absence from the home. The legislature meets for six months every other year, requiring Eugenia to commute for a few days each week during that period. For the days she is absent, a young grandmother serves as housekeeper.

Why are women legislators important?

"Women are often more concerned with how people feel, what their needs and wants are, especially with regard to children and family," says Mrs. Chapman, pointing to her interests on the education, public welfare, and safety committees. She says most important to the legislature are interested, concerned, capable people — whether male or female.

Outside of a few months devoted to heavy campaigning every two years, the demands of legislative office "are not any heavier than the usual civic, service, and community work which she would be engaged in, anyway." (B10

List Requests Of Conference

The Northwest Municipal Conference, representing villages and cities from Park Ridge to Barrington, has 14 different recommendations to make to the Illinois Municipal Problems Commission.

Conference representatives will make the recommendations during a public hearing before the commission on Nov. 17.

The 10 a.m. public meeting will take place in the O'Hare American Motel, Touhy and River Roads, Des Plaines.

The docket of legislative recommendations was approved at the municipal conference's meeting last Wednesday in Mount Prospect Village Hall.

REDUCTION OF county zoning jurisdiction and changes in regulation of motor fuel taxes top the list.

John G. Woods, Arlington Heights village president who currently chairs municipal conference meetings, will ask the state problems commission to reduce county zoning authority.

Park Ridge officials will present recommendations regarding changes in MFT use and will ask that local governments be allowed home rule.

A half-cent increase in the retailers' occupation tax--commonly known as the sales tax--will be recommended. Arlington Heights will also make this presentation.

Barrington officials will recommend that the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Planning Commission's official name be changed to the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, the name the NIPC customarily uses now.

ELK GROVE Village, which would like to have the Metropolitan Sanitary District service 200 acres of industrial property bordering the village in DuPage County, will appear to recommend--in the conference's name--that sanitary district authority be extended.

Elk Grove will also recommend legislation specifically authorizing planned development zoning and permitting municipalities to hire professional social and welfare personnel.

WHEELING WILL speak for the northwest officials' conference to urge tighter regulation of solicitors.

Palatine will ask in the conference's name that polling hours in the suburbs be extended to 8 p.m. and that better flood controls be provided.

Park Ridge will also appear to ask for legislative regulation of central antenna television (CATV) systems and recommend that a state department of urban affairs be established.

Teachers to Meet The Candidates

Area teachers can "Meet the Candidates" this afternoon (Thursday) 4 to 6 p.m. at Prospect High School's Little Theater.

The meeting is sponsored by the Illinois Education Association's Northwest Suburban Division, which this spring took the unprecedented step of voting to endorse a candidate.

The one they are backing, Democratic state representative Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights, will be among candidates attending the meeting this afternoon.

ALSO APPEARING to be questioned by the teachers will be Dr. Donald Prince, Democratic candidate for state superintendent of public instruction; James McCabe of Arlington Heights, Democratic candidate for U.S. congressman; incumbent Cook County Superintendent of Schools Noble Puffer, a Democrat and Robert Hanrahan, Republican candidate for Cook County superintendent of schools.

Appearing with Mrs. Chapman will be two other incumbent state representative candidates, Democrat Bernard Peskin of Northbrook and Republican Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights.

IEA officials planning the candidates' meeting said invitations to the meeting had also been extended to Republican State Sen. John A. Graham, Democratic state senator candidate Norman Nelson of Elk Grove Village, incumbent State Superintendent of Public Instruction Ray Page, incumbent U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld and Republican state representative candidate David Regner of Mount Prospect. (B10

Y Dance Classes To Begin Nov. 7

Twelve new ballroom dance classes for adults, junior high and high school students will begin the week of Nov. 7 at Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Beginner and advanced classes for all ages start next Monday, Thursday and Friday evenings and will feature the latest in American and Latin American dances.

All classes are taught by Grace V. Hansen, director of the dance department of the Metropolitan YMCA of Chicago and suburbs.

OVER 50 couples attended a recent dinner dance at the 'Y' when members of the adult ballrooom classes and their friends gathered for a buffet meal and social evening.

The next dinner dance is slated for Dec. 3 and will be an "Aloha Party." Men will be asked to wear colorful shirts, and the women will don muumuus.

The 'Y' may be called at Cy 6-3376 for all dance registrations. (B10

How Crucial Is BGA Label to Candidate

By DAN PRIBILSKI
Political Editor

If a politician is endorsed by the Better Government Association, he is sure to send out information to this effect to all media.

But if he does not, he is likely to be bitter and denounce the BGA.

The BGA is hailed as an independent investigative organization. But its critics, Republican and Democrat alike, claim i is only an arm of the Republican Party, and the conservative arm at that.

Whether rightly or wrongly, the impression of most observors, newspapermen included, is that the BGA is closely aligned with the Chicago Tribune, most conservative of the Chicago newspapers.

HENCE, THE belief that the BGA is not only "more Republican that Democratic" but also more conservative than moderate.

How much credence should a voter give to a BGA endorsement or lack of it?

George Mahin, executive director of the BGA, has refused to comment on what basis a particular candidate was endorsed, or rather why an endorsement was not given. When it is not given, the queries start. This is the case in a DuPage County contest.

EUGENE Schlickman, incumbent Republican state representative, Third District, has been endorsed and had endorsement withheld. The lack of endorsement involved his successful bid for Wheeling committeeman. Thomas Novotny was endorsed.

What made supporters and Schlickman angry was that he was never interviewed prior to endorsement.

In the races for GOP committeeman in Schaumburg Township and the Democratic committeeman in Palatine Township, the BGA apparently relied on Paddock Publications' preference rather than through independent investigation or detailed interview of candidates involved.

The BGA rates candidates with such terms as "very well qualified," and "qualified." What determines such rating is never explained in any BGA releases.

FROM discussions by a reporter and several candidates over the last six months, the impression is gained that usually a candidate merely fills out a questionnaire with a brief statement of beliefs.

By its own title, the BGA connotes something more than its recent record, would tell people. (A15

St. Philip Banquet

The St. Philip Alumni Association will hold its annual Alumni Banquet on Friday, Nov. 11, at Mar-Lac House, 104 S. Marion Street, Oak Park. More than 2,500 men who attended St. Philip High School, Chicago, comprise the St. Philip Alumni Association.

Tickets are available from Robert Maher, 102 S. Wesley Avenue, Oak Park (848-9246).

'Tax Error' Gripes Need Analyzation

Complaints of harassed taxpayers that their tax bills are too high should be thoroughly analyzed to determine if the fault lies in improper valuation of their properties, said Homer H. Fields, Republican candidate for Cook County assessor.

"The objective should be to determine whether the assessor erred in appraising the taxpayer's property, or whether the tax collector erred in computing his bill," Fields said.

"SUCH A STUDY, aside from identifying the office holder responsible for the error, would enable either office to correct any shortcomings in its operation so as to prevent similar mistakes in the future.

"My feeling is, however, that many taxpayer complaints of over-charging are due to improper assessment of their properties. Pinpointing of the reasons for these inequities should enable the assessor to take the necessary steps for eliminating them."

Fields, a professor of economics at Lyons Township Junior College, LaGrange, has more than 18 years of experience in appraising and merchandising residential, commercial and industrial real estate. (B10

Patronage Plums at Stake

County Board Presidency Is Hottest Political Battle

SEMROW

OGILVIE

The most important contest for Democrats and Republicans alike this year is the battle for Cook County Board presidency.

Sheriff Richard B. Ogilive is battling former Chicago Postmaster Harry H. Semrow.

What makes this race politically important is that an Oglivie victory will seriously damage the Cook County Democratic organization.

At stake are 10,000 to 12,000 patronage jobs. At a time when the Democrats are facing their most serious challenge for offices, loss of such a post as county president could be doubly crippling.

Ogilvie, who cannot succeed himself as sheriff, will, if victorious, emerge as the single most powerful elected Republican official in Illinois.

PERSONALLY, this is an important contest for Ogilvie.

While patronage is very much at stake, Semrow and Ogilvie take a different approach toward it. In terms of power politics, this is the biggest single difference between the two men.

Semrow avoids the discussion of patronage, skips around it. But when pressed, he argues for it. And, officially at least, he expresses little concern about it. He leaves the impression that patronage is a party matter to be resolved by others than he.

Ogilvie, on the other hand, has expressed a willingness to do away with the patronage jobs, or at least part of them. He argues strongly for civil service. His record as sheriff, by obtaining a merit system for deputies, bears out this position he now takes.

Semrow sees all the dangers in civil service; Ogilvie sees the dangers in patronage.

THE SEMROW position is that civil service entrenches people and takes away the effectiveness of an administrator to run his office as he sees fit. Ogilvie sees the evils of patronage by using it as a political tool for power and entrenchment of a party.

Ogilvie is a highly partisan man—he is calling for a "knock out" punch of the Democrats. In his opinion, little good has been accomplished by the Democrats in power at the County Building.

Semrow stands for an "open door policy," which he describes as one where Democrats and Republicans work together. He believes he has the ability to get solid cooperation from both sides of the fence.

He calls the GOP county board commissioners his friends and he touts highly the virtues of George Dunne, presently the effective Democratic ruler of the county board.

MAJOR AMONG Ogilvie's campaign platforms is a promise to create a "Little Hoover Commission" to study county needs now and for the future. The Republican also sees a serious need for what he calls "professional" finance planning by a board other than the finance committee which is headed by George Dunne.

Semrow has a potpourri campaign platform which calls for an expansion of forest preserve facilities, highway safety, cooperation with all factions and a betterment of morale among county employes.

Oglivie, 43, was a federal prosecutor prior to election as county sheriff.

Semrow, 51, is a businessman with a factory in Des Plaines and a broadcasting firm in Evanston. He was a state legislator before his appointment as Chicago postmaster.

GOP Commissioners Sure of Suburb Win

Richard B. Ogilvie and Harry H. Semrow both will have seats on the Cook County Board of Commissioners no matter which is elected board president.

They both must run for commissioner posts.

Ogilvie is from Northfield and is sure to be elected as one of the five suburban commissioners. It is Republican territory, and Democrats are not rated as having even a slim chance.

SIMILARLY, Semrow, from Chicago, is a sure winner as a commissioner. Republicans are not likely to challenge Democratic dominance in the commissioners' contests in Chicago.

Suburban voters on Nov. 8 are to elect five suburban commissioners. Traditionally all have been Republicans. In Chicago, the reverse is true and 10 Democratic commissioners are elected.

In the suburban contests, the northwest area candidates are incumbent Republican Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines and Democratic challenger Herman F. Koeneman of Arlington Heights.

Fulle maintains that the 1960 comprehensive zoning ordinance be up-dated and modernized. He has generally shown concern for zoning in the area and been a spokesman for municipalities in the area on zoning matters.

The Republican also sees a need for upgrading county hospital facilities and an expansion of forest preserve facilities.

KOENEMAN IS a claims examiner, Bureau of Liquidations, Dept. of Insurance, Illinois. He has a background in banking, business management and real estate. He served for five years as a real estate field appraiser for the county assessor.

The Democrat also sees a need for improved hospital and medical services. He also sees a need for better flood control and an improved highway system.

The other three Republican candidates, all incumbents, are William Erickson, Evanston; Charles Chaplin, Winnetka; and Charles J. Grupp, Chicago Heights.

Suburban Democratic candidates besides Koeneman are Irving Drobny, Glencoe; Raymond Cox, Berwyn; Leslie Johnson, Tinley Park; and Edward Kaplan, Skokie.

Other County Contests

GOP Pins Clerk Hopes on Magic of Eisenhower Name

Other Cook County races include clerk, assessor, and treasurer.

The incumbent clerk, Edward J. Barrett, 67, faces Republican Earl D. Eisenhower, 58, brother of former Pres. Eisenhower.

Politically, Eisenhower is not considered much of a challenge of Barrett who has served as clerk for 10 years.

Barrett is an old hand in politics. He served as treasurer one term, state auditor two terms, secretary of state for two terms.

As county clerk, Barrett claims modernization of all departments in his office, creation of massive microfilm record file.

EISENHOWER is taking his second plunge into politics as an elective candidate. He is a retired newspaper public relations man and was elected a State representative in the 1964 at-large contest.

In answering a League of Women Voters query on what improvements the clerk's office needs, Eisenhower replied, "Voting machinery should be made better—more automation in certain divisions."

Eight-year incumbent, Assessor P. J. Cullerton, 69, is faced by Homer H. Fields, 59.

Cullerton, politically powerful in Chicago Democratic organization politics, is not considered to be seriously threatened by Fields.

FIELDS IS running a campaign on the platform that he would make fair and as equitable as possible assessments under the existing laws. He would hope to have schools for deputy assessors to train them better.

The Republican assessor candidate is a professor of economics at Lyons Township Jr. College and a real estate broker and appraiser. He is currently an auditor of Lyons Township.

One of the more colorful races in the county has been that of Marshall Korshak, 56, Democrat versus Edmund J. Kucharski, 50, Republican for county treasurer.

KORSHAK, presently state director of revenue, has engaged in a colorful campaign full of thousands of public relations releases, special billboards and buttons and capturing a fistful of partisan and non-partisan endorsements.

Kucharski, on the other hand, has gotten most of his publicity via his present job—that of chief investigator for Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie. His name has popped up consistently in investigations, notably the recent sanitary district scandals.

This is Kucharski's second try for the county treasurer's post. In 1962, he unsuccessfully ran for his party's primary nomination. He has been a 12th Ward alderman, clerk of Superior Court and is a former sanitary district trustee.

Korshak was a state senator from 1950 to 1962 and also is a former sanitary district trustee.

REPUBLICANS FOR
CHAPMAN
3rd DISTRICT STATE REPRESENTATIVE

EUGENIA S. CHAPMAN

"We believe the district will best be served by the re-election of State Representative Eugenia Chapman."

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS

Eugenia Chapman's record in Springfield during the past two years indicates that residents of the 3rd District would do well to support her bid for re-election on Nov. 8. Winner of the "Best Freshman Legislator" award, Mrs. Chapman was chief sponsor of the Illinois Public Jr. College Act.

Prior to her election in 1964, Gene was active in Northwest Suburban civic affairs, a member of High School Dist. 214 School Board and a former president of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters.

As a result of her deep involvement in community activities, coupled with her experience in the legislature, Mrs. Chapman is keenly aware of the problems and needs of our area and the means by which they may be satisfied.

We strongly urge all voters of both major parties and independents as well to cast their votes for EUGENIA S. CHAPMAN to assure our community of continued intelligent representation.

The Republicans for Chapman invite you to join us on Nov. 8 to elect this well qualified local candidate.

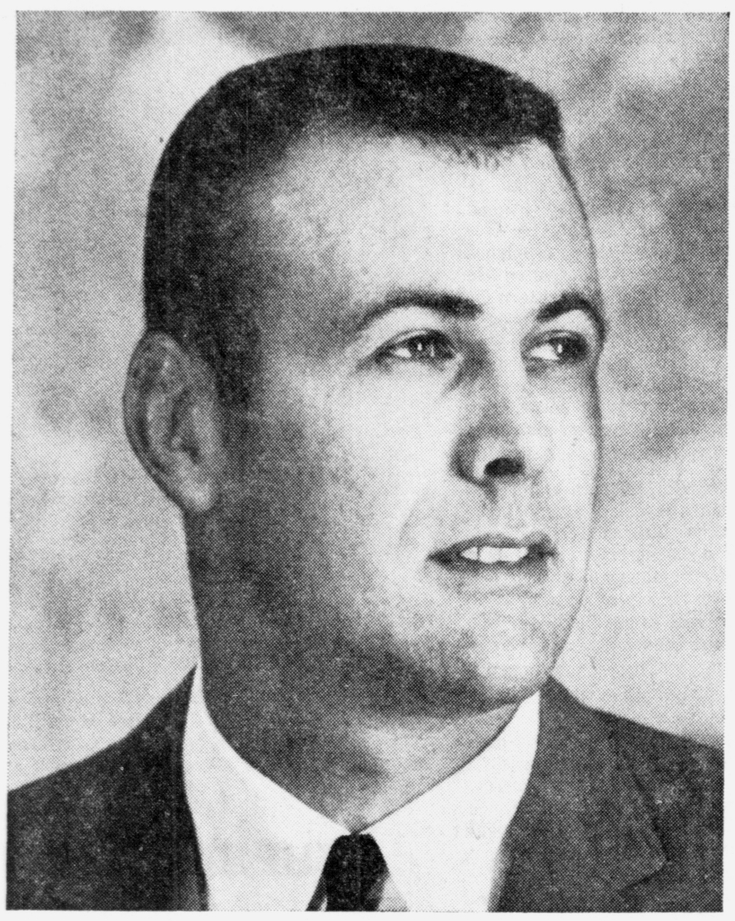
Donald Rumsfeld

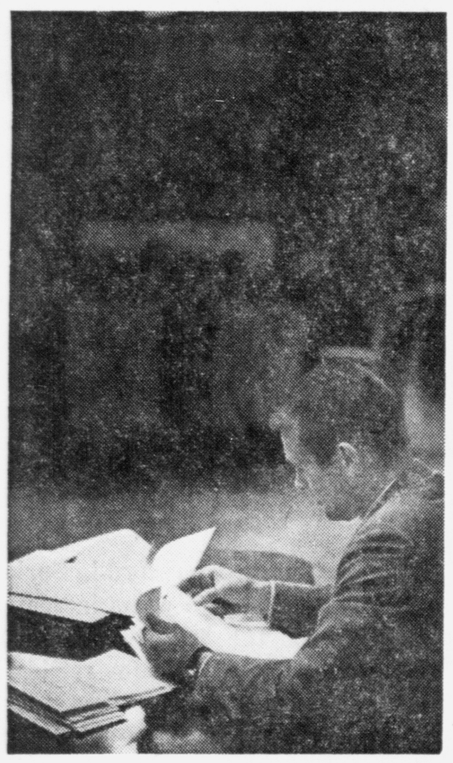
is achieving the national stature this District deserves from its Representative in Congress



Donald Rumsfeld was elected to the House of Representatives in 1962. He is a respected member of the House COMMITTEE ON SCIENCE AND ASTRONAUTICS, charged with legislative responsibility for the manned lunar landing and other NASA space research programs.

As a member of the House COMMITTEE ON GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS, which has "watch-dog" jurisdiction over almost all activities of the Federal Government, Donald Rumsfeld serves as an active and influential force on the Subcommittee on Foreign Operations and Government Information, and as the ranking Republican on the Subcommittee on Legal and Monetary Affairs.

He was named to the House REPUBLICAN POLICY COMMITTEE in July, 1966, one of the youngest members to serve on this committee that formulates policy for House Republicans.

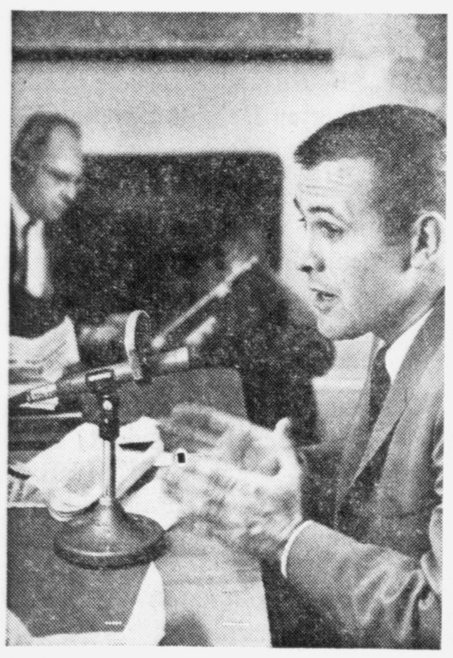


He creates legislation and leads with ideas

Donald Rumsfeld was one of the key leaders in passing the long overdue "FREEDOM OF INFORMATION" bill, and he co-sponsored the HUMAN INVESTMENT ACT to encourage private enterprise to train workers in new skills. He has also introduced legislation (1) to help solve air and water pollution problems, (2) for Congressional reform and ethics, (3) for tax credits for parents for partial costs of education expenses.

A key member of the Congressional team investigating waste in U.S. aid to Viet Nam

This inquiry by the Subcommittee on Foreign Operations and Government Information has already brought specific reforms in the management of U.S. non-military aid funds to Viet Nam and substantial dollar savings to the American taxpayer.



Rumsfeld is regularly interviewed on VOICE OF AMERICA programs

Donald Rumsfeld is one of three Members of the U.S. House of Representatives who regularly participate in Voice of America broadcasts. These broadcasts are translated into 35 languages and are beamed all over the world.

Don Rumsfeld is exceptionally well qualified to represent this District

Born and raised in the 13th District, he attended Winnetka public schools and graduated from New Trier High School and Princeton University. He was a Navy pilot and flight instructor for over 3 years; an investment broker; and served on the staffs of two Congressmen in Washington, D. C. Don, his wife Joyce, and their two daughters, Marcy and Valerie, live in Glenview.

Recognized and Respected

"[Rumsfeld's] four years in Congress have shown him to be able, conscientious and hardworking... We believe he deserves re-election on his own merits; his experience and talents are assets Congress needs."

Chicago Sun-Times
October 11, 1966

"Rep. Donald Rumsfeld... [helped lead] the House fight for this bill [Freedom of Information]... He deserves thanks for his battle."

Chicago's American
June 21, 1966

"The nation is indebted to... Donald Rumsfeld... for examples of how the [President's] club has worked."

Chicago Tribune
September 2, 1966

"Rumsfeld is a hard working and constructive lawmaker... who has consistently fought inflationary federal spending... The Daily News recommends that [he] be returned to office."

Chicago Daily News
October 25, 1966

"[Rumsfeld] brings to his work high-powered professionalism. He does his homework thoroughly. He operates in a world of political power with skill and frankness."

The Christian Science Monitor
May 25, 1966

"Already, at the age of 34, he is one of the brightest young lights in the Republican Party.
"We think it is important for the 13th District voters to return him to Washington to continue his valuable work there."

Hollister Publications
October 20, 1966

"We strongly recommend the re-election of Donald Rumsfeld... [He] has served two terms with distinction.... He brings to Congress... qualities of youth and enthusiasm."

Paddock Publications
October 27, 1966

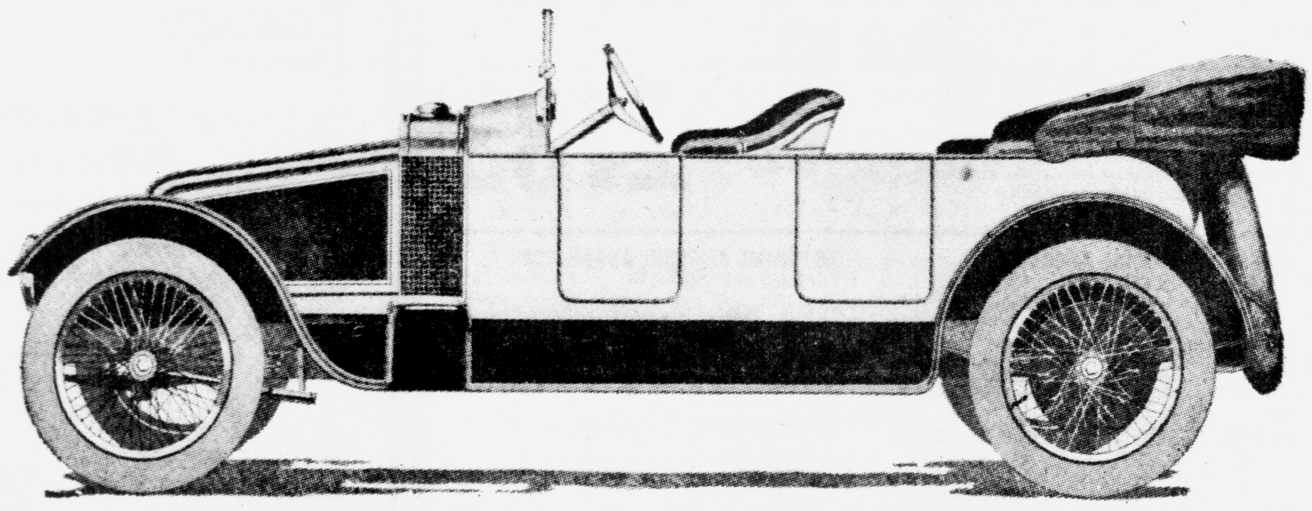
Classic Car SCRAPBOOK



The 1913 KEETON TOURING CAR

Few people will deny that they consider foreign cars better in many ways than those made in this country.

They are distinctive and more attractive in design, and have several features of construction which mean more efficient service. But the only fault found is in the price, which is very exhorbitant to most buyers, because of the methods employed by the European builders and the high tariff.

Now in the Keeton you have a car that combines the very best ideas both in construction and designing, that have been produced on both continents.

And you buy the Keeton, with these advantages, at the American price.

The Keeton car answers every requirement of those people who want a car of foreign design, yet who feel that they do not want to pay the high prices.

The Teen's Image

BY Bill Even

The portrayal of the teenager given by the press is often, if not primarily, in black-and-white terms. The kid who gains recognition through the news media has to either save somebody's life or do something at the opposite extreme such as stealing a car. He is not in a position to gain recognition in any other manner.

The adult world is the world as we know it. Keeping a society such as ours moving requires the maturity and experience found in adulthood. The teenager who stands out in the adult world then must do something on an adult scale, and this is a somewhat unusual accomplishment for a teenager. The problem is that the few activities of the teenager that make news present a false representation of teenage society.

THE TEENAGE WORLD matches the adult world in most aspects except development. Where the adult has an occupation, the teenager goes to school. Where the adult is taking an active part in the functioning of his society, the teenager is learning to do the same. Where the Congress represents democracy in its fullest power, a student council represents the same on an amateur scale.

Teenagers cannot be expected to compete on the adult level even though they are compared on that level, and the small number who make it through to the adult level leave the majority of teenagers back in the shadows.

It is difficult, however, to give an accurate picture of that majority, for they do not have a definite image to give forth. Their image is one of learning, experiencing, and maturing, rather than giving forth. It is best shown by the manner in which the teenager's development is carried out, not by isolated instances which have least importance, but most attention.

Today, for example, teenagers as a group are readily connected with long hair and loud music, neither of which are major factors in identifying a class of people. Meanwhile, topics such as curricular and extra-curricular achievement remain in the background.

IT SEEMS THAT THE RIGHT emphasis is being placed too much on one side of the question and not enough on the other. A definite trend is visible among teenagers today. They are less inhibited by accepted standards and more open to new ideas. Styles and fashions are being less and less limited, open objection to the draft and school rules is growing, but these subjects have cornered the image market, making an overnight, radical, all-out revolution among teenage morals seem imminent.

Most of the kids, however, still lead absolutely normal lives without feeling it necessary to protest anything. They are still, contrary to popular belief, the leadership and adulthood of tomorrow, who, in about 10 years, will be running this country just as well as it ever has been run.

Election-Eve Political Quiz

by Maryann Buczek

We Highlighters are alarmed—and chagrined! You see, many of us didn't know some of the answers to this quiz and we're supposed to be journalists!

So, just for fun (and your own education incidentally), take our quiz below and don't peak at the answers (on another Highlights page) until you're through.

A Column Devoted Exclusively to Your Spare-Time Activities

'Lemme Clue Ya'

This issue of High School Highlights marks the debut of a new column, "Lemme Clue Ya." The column will be devoted to providing the teens of the Paddock reading area with leisure time suggestions of places to go and things to do.

Also, we will present reviews of latest records, books, etc., which we believe will be of interest to teens.

Paul Wants You!

Time to toss in the pencils again! Grab 100 of your hard-earned pennies and head for the Cellar.

This week the Cellar presents for your enjoyment tomorrow (Friday), The Mauds and The Other Half. Saturday will feature The Little Boy Blues from Chicago and Saturdays Children.

On Sunday, you can see four brand new groups just starting in this area.

A Good Book!

Would it appeal to your sense of adventure to take a trip through a man's body in a microscopic submarine? Would you consent to be reduced to atomic size in order to enter a human being's blood stream and destroy a blood clot in the hope of saving his life, even if it means giving up yours?

This is the decision facing four men and one woman in Isaac Asimov's recent novel, "Fantasic Voyage." In the company of four scientists and a secret service agent, the reader can take one of the most realistic and believable science fiction journeys since "Journey to the Center of the Earth."

A biologically accurate picture is painted of the human anatomy from the inside of the body. The infinitesimal ship "Proteus" is injected into the carotid artery of a scientific genius who holds the secret that will decide the fate of the world. If Benes dies, the world will die, too.

The "Fantastic Voyage" begins with miniaturization of the ship and its passengers and goes through the living heart, lungs and lymph system to its destination in the brain to destroy a deadly blood clot.

Asmimov's novel is readable and absolutely believable. Soon to be shown as a full-length color motion picture in neighborhood theaters, it is a must for entertaining reading.

For Listening Fun!

The Monkees' first album, titled (logically) "The Monkees," has something in it to please everybody. As a matter of fact, if you listen to it, you'll probably find just about everything in it pleases you.

The Monkees—David Jones, Mike Nesmith, Peter Tork and Micky Dolenz—have recorded not one or two, but 12 fabulous cuts:

"Tomorrow's Gonna Be Another Day" features a driving, superdanceable beat.

"Papa Gene's Blues" has appealing country and western overtones.

"Saturday's Child" will leave you speechless—it's too great for words.

"I'm Gonna Buy Me a Dog" is a hilarious bit of cutting up between Micky and Davey.

"Let's Dance On" is rock'n'roll, simple and swinging.

"I'll be True To You" and "I Wanna Be Free" are sung by Davey (what a babe!) Jones, and if they don't leave you dreamy-eyed, no song will.

"Sweet Young Thing" has a unique Scottish bag-pipe sound.

"Take a Giant Step" and "This Just Doesn't Seem to Be My Day" combine an optimistic outlook on life in general with two very catchy tunes.

Finally, but far from least important, there is the Monkees' hit, "Last Train to Clarksville" and their theme song, "The Monkees," which serves as a promise of great things to come from a great new group.

Prospect Class Boards Work Under New System

By JOY ANDRUP

Prospect High School's class boards will be run according to a new system this year. Freshmen, sophomore and junior lunch study halls have selected members to represent them in their respective class boards.

James Kunnen, director of student activities, devised the new class board system. An automatic vote will be given to the elected members at the meetings. Students who actively participate in class activities will be chosen as "representatives at-large" by class sponsors.

The duties of each member are to attend board meetings regularly, to vote and to report every Thursday to his fourth hour study hall on the proceedings of the class meeting. At the same time, a specially assigned Student Council member will report on the activities of that Tuesday's meeting.

Any senior willing to participate in class activities was asked to volunteer to be a Class Board member. Three unexcused absences would constitute the loss of their vote.

KUNNEN mentioned two benefits of the new system. He said, "I think the most important advantage is that we have a direct line of representation in all class boards because during the fourth-hour lunch study period, the representatives can get the opinion of the students on various class affairs. We never had this before.

"The second advantage is that we now have a cross section of students involved in student government." Student Council members or elected officers of major clubs are not eligible to be elected members of a class board.

Freshmen who were elected were Dan Beck, Vickie Bernin, Janet Edwards, Marcia Gattas, Susan Harris, Karen Layes, Peggy Liebenow, Debbie MacAskill, Linda Madl, Nancy Maurer, Mary Newsom, Cheryl Shanapata, Ann Wichman, Judy Wienecte and Gail Willock.

FOREST VIEW HIGH SCHOOL

Teacher Honored

Miss Rosemary Chilstrom, sponsor of Forest View High School's Future Teachers of America, has been appointed FTA Coordinator for the Northwest Suburban Division of the Illinois Education Association.

Miss Chilstrom will be responsible for assisting in the formation of FTAs in the high schools and for promoting programs in districts 214 and 211.

The goals she set for herself are "to help other sponsors make their FTAs active" based on her experience at Forest View.

Both Miss Chilstrom and her assistant, James Baker from Prospect High School, were appointed last week by the executive committee of the IEA for one-year terms.

Field Trip Taken

Fifteen students of the Chemistry Club took a three-hour tour to the Argonne National Laboratory Saturday.

The trip consisted of a tour through the physics and chemistry sections, which involved the production of artificial radio-active elements and the breakdown of radio-active substances.

The highlight of their visit was seeing several atomic reactors and touring the Zero Gradient Betatron, a large installation which accelerates electrons so as to split the nuclei.

The Argonne National Laboratory does research work on peaceful uses of atomic energy. It is the largest laboratory of its kind in the world.

Trip Is Relived

French Club members at Forest View will see colored slides of a trip to France taken this summer by some of their members. Three girls — Carle Schwake, Lee Ann Cope and Ev Davidson — spent last summer at a French Lycee (boarding school) besides traveling through Paris and parts of England.

Clubs Help Others

One main purpose of clubs and activities at Forest View High School is to help others.

For example, the Future Homemakers will provide Thanksgiving food baskets for needy families; the National Honor Society plans to buy a microfilm reader for the school library from $500 made at concessions; and the Future Nurses will make presents for hospital patients at Christmas and Easter as a service to the community.

Also, on the Future Nurses agenda is a plan for some members to volunteer to work at a nursing home and to work with the Migrant Council on a tutorial program to help Spanish-speaking people in this area.

The German Club plans a visit to the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights.

Scholarship Program

Fifty nine Forest View students have qualified as semi-finalists in the 1967-68 Illinois State Scholarship program. Approximately 11,000 out of 37,000 students who took the test have qualified as semi-finalists.

The selection of semi-finalists is based on the student's ACT test scores and his rank in class.

Scholarship semi-finalists from Rolling Meadows are Bonnie Berglund, Pamela Ekblad, Clayton Hadick, William Kowaleski, Daniel Lawson, Jacqueline Lombardi, Robert Nelson, Kenneth Ritzenthaler, Paulette Ruwe, Glenn Schumacher, Daniel Semple, Diane Spillios and Ernest Troutman.

Semi-finalists from Mount Prospect are Richard Appleton, Howard Brasch, Maryann Buczek, David Casper, Steve DeHaven, Edward Ellesson, Randi Hagen, Michael Kondrat, George Mells, Patricia Moore, Janet Olsen, Celia O'Rourke, Steven Pierce, Jacqueline Raschke, Carlanne Sheets, Bruce Steffens, Patricia Tenerowicz, Deborah Tweed, Robert Urban and Kathleen Willert.

From Elk Grove the semi-finalists are Kathleen Carter, Mary DePalma, Elizabeth Fenn, Mary Lynn Fyfe, Rodney Malinowski, Karen McKelvey, Barbara Muhlack, Patricia Murphy, Kathleen Sanders, Christine Skittone, Michael Szczepanik, Barbara Teslik and David Venlos.

Patricia Ayres, Robert Brown, Andrea Farmer Trudy Melone, and Charles Teske are semi-finalists from Aroington Heights.

Semi-finalists from Des Plaine are Carol DeSain, William Ford, Donald Heringa, Mary Ilseman, Neil Krey, Sally Krueger, Patricia Turner and Linda Zierfuss.

Announcement of the winners will be made in February.

SACRED HEART OF MARY HIGH SCHOOL

Fashion Show Held

A Mother-Daughter Luncheon and Fashion Show, sponsored by the Sacred Heart of Mary High School Parent's Council, was held at the Post and Paddock in Arlington Heights Tuesday.

Mrs. John Berdelle of Des Plaines was chairman of the affair, which featured fashions by Point of View of Long Grove and Glenview.

The models were Mrs. Thomas Cashion and Mary, Mrs. James Paoubek and Kathy, Mrs. Carl Lund and Mary, Mrs. Alphonse Mied and Mary Louise, Mrs. Paul Demsey and Sarah, Mrs. Kenneth Wilson and Jennifer, Mrs. John Alonge and Mary, and Karen Keck.

The Frank Amorose Trio furnished music.

Among the many women working behind the scenes to make the program a success were Mrs. Lowell Slack of Mount Prospect, ticket chairman; and Mrs. Kenneth Wilson, also of Mount Prospect, fashion show chairman.

Seminars Attended

Seven students from Sacred Heart of Mary High School were accepted by DePaul University to attend science and mathematics seminars because of their high school record, interest in science, ambition and personal recommendations.

The students and the subject they are studying are Kathy Schroeder, '68, physics; Colleen Roe, '68, mathematics; Bev Balkey, '67, Kathy LcLaughlin, '67, and Kathy Simons, '68, chemistry; and Linda McMahon, '67, and Judy Bevacqua, '67, biology.

The purpose of these seminars, which meet four times during the school year, is to help foster a keener interest in science and to give the high school student first-hand knowledge concerning science studies at the University level.

Speech Contest

Ten students represented SHM at the Senior Forensic Contest held recently.

The prose and poetry division was represented by Barbara Menke and Chris Yeager, who read prose selections, and by Marilyn Rossi and Mary Schneider, who read poetry.

Extemporaneous speaking was demonstrated by Sharon Kilfoy and Debra Threedy. Kathy Robins and Pat Paynter, in non-original oratory, and Peggy Moran and Mary Pat Sweeney in original oratory, completed the SHM team.

Peggy Moran, a senior, was the only member of the team who qualified for the finals, and then went on to capture the first place trophy in original oratory. She was ranked first speaker by each of her final judges.

The school whose team had amassed the highest number of points was Regina Dominican High School. Loyola and St. Joseph, respectively, were the next highest.

FREMD HIGH SCHOOL

New Highlighter

Carolyn Johnson will represent Fremd High School this year as a correspondent for Paddock Publications' High School Highlights. She will be the first representative since Fremd became separate from Palatine High School.

Among Carolyn's new duties will be the writing up of such things as dances, sports, drama productions, and other school activities. In addition to these assignments, she also will work with teen-agers from other schools on group projects.

Carolyn, a junior, is a member of the journalism class at Fremd and is also an artist for the school paper. She volunteered for the position at Paddock Publications because she would like "to put my writing talents to work."

The job is voluntary. At the end of each year, Paddock Publications awards a $100 scholarship to a student for outstanding work.

Carolyn is the daughter of Frank C. Johnson, 2289 Westwood Lane, Plum Grove Estates.

Choral Workshop

Six of Fremd's singers went to Northwestern University Saturday, October 22, for a choral workshop. They were Joan Andreasen and Barb Gieffers, sopranos; Gail Heisel and Esther Molloy, altos. Craig Rutz, tenor; and John Tindell, bass.

The singers learned some good singing techniques.

Yearbook Is aFirst

Fremd students will have an opportunity to begin a tradition this year with its own yearbook, the first in Fremd history.

Junior members of the staff are Karen Oliver, Karen Osbourn, Ellen Bak, Sally Edwards, Sue Scroggins, Leslie Johnston, Paulette Planz, Sue Scholz and Margie Lochner.

Information on the naming of the yearbook will be announced later.

School Crest

Tomorrow (Friday) Fremd students will choose an official Fremd Viking Head. The head selected will then be incorporated into choices for the school crest. After the crest ideas submitted have been narrowed by a committee, the students will again vote to select the official school crest.

Editors Attend Seminar

Ron Raup, Fremd High School newspaper editor-in-chief, and John Templeton, sports editor, attended the Chicago Tribune Seminar for High School Newspaper Editors at McCormick Place October 15.

The editors attended classes on copyreading and makeup and then concluded the day with a workshop on reporting. All the classes were conducted by Tribune staff members.

Music Assembly

Fremd's music department has set November 17, second hour, for its debut. The a Capella Choir, Concert Band, Boys' Chorus, and Girls' Chorus will participate in the assembly.

The a Capella Choir will sing "August Noon," "Adoramus Te," and a "surprise" number. "Fantasia" and "Cumberland Gap" (the theme of the TV show Bonanza) will be the selections of the Concert Band. The finale, a massed number, will be "Born To Be Free."

ST. VIATOR HIGH SCHOOL

Student Honored

Peter McCall, 255 S. Brookdale, Palatine, a student at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights, was among those chosen as first place or honorable mention winners in the 1965-66 Catholic School Press Association's writing - art - photography contest. The results were announced recently by director of CSPA, Clifford L. Helbert, dean of Marquette University's college of journalism.

McCall won first place in the high school editorial division for his piece, "Student Protest: A Case Study in Irresponsibility."

News stories, features, articles, editorials, short stories, poems, art and photographs which appeared in member publications during the 1965-66 school year were eligible for the 34th annual contest.

WHEELING HIGH SCHOOL

DE Conference Held

The annual Distributive Education Conference took place at Wheeling High School last week.

This was a workshop intended to acquaint members of DE in areas other than their own. Techniques such as merchandising and display were discussed.

Area schools which attended included Arlington, Forest View, Palatine, Conant, Adlai Stevenson, Dundee, Cary Grove, Lake Zurich and Wheeling. Wheeling's conference chairman was Christine Neph of Arlington Heights.

Distributive education is a vocational co-operative education program. The students learn about marketing and distribution in the classroom and gain on-the-job experience at a selected and approved training station.

Officers of Wheeling's DE are Jim McCraw of Wheeling, president; Jan Newren of Mount Prospect, vice-president; Carol Jarvis of Mount Prospect, secretary; Helen Wuich of Arlington Heights, treasurer; and Laurie Bliss of Arlington Heights, reporter. Faculty adviser is Dale Ells.

Semifinalists Named

Forty - two seniors from Wheeling High School have been named as Illinois State Scholarship Commission Semi-Finalists.

The students are Constance Andrew, Laura Bertrand, Mary Burns, Linda Crain, Thomas Day, Marcia Dentino, Beth Dolan, Russel Filip, Jan France, Carol Geske, Sheila Giles, Gail Goepfert, Joyce Heimeshoff, Bonita Hoffman, Fritz Hudson, Robert Johnson, Nancy Katagiri and Robert Lee.

Also, Judith LeForge, Gerald Lemke, David Liu, Susan McCullough, Michael Meagher, Eric Meisenheimer, Becky Morrell, Barbara Noll, Charles Nute, John Olson, Keith Pacheco, Lois Papen, Fred Patten, William Reed, Donald Savage, Robert Selan and Gregory Shornden.

Also, Sandra Stabb, David Stanowski, Cathleen Taylor, Bonnie Tipsword, Maureen True, Sharron Vincent and Linda Wolf.

The winners of state scholarships from the 11,097 semi-finalists will be made in mid-February, 1967.

Officers Named

Linda Crain, a senior, has been elected president of the Wheeling High School chapter of Quill and Scroll, the international honor society for high school journalists.

Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Crain, 1007 Greenfield, Mount Prospect.

Elected secretary-treasurer of the organization is Judy LeForge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert LeForge, 1105 N. Maple Lane, Prospect Heights.

OTHER MEMBERS of the society are Connie Andrew of Prospect Heights, Maryann Keeney of Mount Prospect, Vicki Solsberry of Arlington Heights, and Tim Sroka of Wheeling.

The major function of the group is the planning of the annual Publications Banquet in the spring.

Faculty advisers to Quill and Scroll are Mrs. Penny Hirsch, Joseph Wellman and Richard Nelson.

CONANT HIGH SCHOOL

Correction

We wish to make a correction in the Highlights article "Peace, Policemen and the People" which appeared in the Oct. 20 edition of High School Highlights. The author of the article was a guest of the Schaumburg police, not the Hoffman police as stated.

Semifinalist Named

Gerry Boesch, Conant High School senior, has been named semifinalist in the 1966-67 National Merit Scholarship competition.

She is among the highest-scoring students in the state of Illinois on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, administered last spring in 17,500 schools nationwide. More than 14,000 semifinalists were appointed across the country.

Student Council

The Student Council hopes to try an experimental computer dance party, where individuals who have turned in personal IBM answer cards are subsequently matched with four "ideal dates" for an evening by a computer.

Plans at the present time call for a double-school dance, with Conant inviting Forest View students to participate, making for more potential surprise matches. Tentative date fo the experiment is November 10.

In the near future, the Council will consider establishing a special in-Council sub-structure of junior and senior class coordinating committees since there is much business concerning each of these two classes specifically (i.e., Prom, concessions, graduation).

Also, Council officers will hold a major press conference in November.

ELK GROVE HIGH SCHOOL

Names can have special meanings. Sometimes a name is used to tell a story. This seems to be what the EGHS yearbook staff had in mind when they chose the name "The Montage."

The word "montage" is a French word meaning a series of pictures which occur in rapid succession that tell a story.

A prize was given to Chris Nabkey for submitting the only individual entry. The name she submitted was "Esprit de Corps."

WILLOWBROOK HIGH SCHOOL

Almond Sale

Scholarship Fund Drive, sponsored by Willowbrook Student Council, goes into action Nov. 9-18. 'Brookites will sell chocolate-covered almonds for $2 per box. Proceeds from the drive will benefit seniors receiving Student Council scholarships later in the year.

'Brookites will view an assembly Oct. 26 to reacquaint them with the product and general sales procedures. Advance order forms will be distributed in homeroom, Oct. 28. Regular forms will be received Nov. 2. Distribution of the almonds will take place Nov. 9. In order to be eligible for prizes, money must be submitted between Nov. 9 and 18.

Among the prizes for selling 12 or more boxes of almonds are a $2 gift certificate, theater discount card, box of almonds, and lines of bowling. For selling 12 boxes, each individual gets a chance to win a transistor radio in the name drawing.

Anyone selling 24 boxes or over has the choice of a Centurion, $5 gift certificate, or 2 "12 box" prizes. A chance to win a tape recorder will be entered for these people.

General chairman of the Scholarship Fund Drive is senior Wally Lopatka.

ST. PATRICK ACADEMY

New French Club

Cercle Francais, a new club for the French students at Saint Patrick Academy in Des Plaines, was organized Thursday.

Maureen Serbin, 1711 Greenleaf Ave., Des Plaines, a senior student was elected president. Junior Barbara Millhiser, 709 N. Hamlin Ave., Park Ridge, was chosen as vice-president. Cathy Burns, sophomore, 707 S. Candota Ave., Mount Prospect, is the secretary-treasurer.

The objective of the group is to learn more about the culture, life and practices of the French people as well as to stimulate their desire to speak the French language.

Sister Mary Sulpice, R.S.M. is moderator of Cercle Francais.

57 at Prospect Vie For Scholarships

High School Highlights

Among the 11,097 students qualifying as semi-finalists for Illinois State Scholarships were 57 Prospect High School seniors.

Named as semi-finalists by the scholarship commission were Bruce Allison, Robert Anderson, Sofia Andoniadis, Jeff Bates, Stephen Beck, Roberta Butz, Judith Carlson, Leslie Chisholm, Larry Clark, Ronald Creamer, Glen Dedering, Robert Denne, Penny Erhardt, Doreen Faith, Maurice Gallagher, Evelyn Grimm, Jeffrey Hansen, John Hardt, Raymond Hearl Ann Hesness and Corinne Hugh.

Also, David Hunter, Cathy Hutton, Nancy Irwin, Marcia Johns, Charlotte Kreusch, Pamela Krumtinger, Sandra Logan, Thomas Lundstedt, Janet McNeil, Donald Medal, Michael Mueller, Steven Neibuhr, James Phelan, Nancy Pontoni, Faith Pukszta, Janis Reek, Robert Robinson, Judith Rolzon, James Sesterhenn, Edward Settle, Diane Siewert, Janet Skibbe, Rodney Skryzynski, Larry Stein, Cathleen Swanson, Chris Thorpe, Sheryl Thuerk, Janice Vermillion, Candace Wadle, Karen White, Don Whitlock, Roger Willis, Gary Woodward, Valerie Youle, Robert Youngquist and Kenneth Zaleski.

ALL SEMI-FINALISTS must be in the upper half of their class and have done exceptionally well on last spring's A.C.T. test. They are then required to fill applications, which are to be sent back to the commission by Nov. 10.

The commission then awards certificates of merit and scholarships ranging from $300 to $1,000. The scholarships are awarded only to those students who plan to attend a college or university in Illinois that has been approved by the commission. (11Y

OVERSEAS DELIVERY AVAILABLE

VOLKSWAGEN OF AMERICA, INC.

We made the car go faster.

We've added a full 3 m.p.h. to the top speed of the Volkswagen.

If that doesn't sound like a lot to you, it's because it isn't. And wasn't meant to be. We put most of the power increase (from 50 horsepower to 53) into the lower gears. So you could climb hills easier. And accelerate quicker.

But we didn't do all this at the expense of the engine. In fact, we made the engine turn even slower. So it would last even longer.

You'll be very happy to know this speedy new Volkswagen has dual brakes as standard equipment. If the front brakes should ever fail, the rear brakes will stop you. And vice versa.

And the engine go slower.

We even put in some changes you can see, like retracting seat belts, recessed inside door handles, and back-up lights. They're standard, too.

And so are the letters V-O-L-K-S-W-A-G-E-N on the engine lid.

So you'll recognize the new bug when it passes you.

With its new, slower engine.

New Career Day Format Launched

by ELAINE CASPER

Forest View High School's student body responded bynamically to the presentation of Prof. George Walters, speaker of the Career Day opening assembly, last week.

Professor Walters is dean of men and director of teacher education at Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis.

Walters' speech, "Three Coins in the Fountain," clearly made the point that students should strive for a career in life which they believe in and with which they'll be happy.

THIS ASSEMBLY was the beginning of a new kind of career program this year, one which will replace the traditional Career Day. The career choices indicated recently by the majority of the student body will be included in the career conferences.

The proposed program will include between 10 and 15 of these career conferences, which will be attended by interested students on a volunteer basis. No one will be forced to attend.

Besides the representatives from these occupations, there will also be some field trips planned for the same purpose.

THE STUDENTS may talk to the representatives all periods of the day except lunch hour.

The administration hopes this will make the students realize the importance of finding the right careers for themselves.

Arlington's Fall Concert Touches All Musical Bases

by LINDA HEFFERNAN

Everything from classic to madrigals to folk songs will be sung in the annual fall concert, "Autumn Haze," at 8 p.m. today (Thursday) in the Arlington High School Boys' Gym.

For the opening number, Senior Choir and Mixed Chorus will combine to sing Mozart's "Gloria in Excelsis." John Hicks, a counselor, will direct the work. Hicks is a former music teacher at Arlington.

The Freshman Boys' Ensemble will then sing "Navy Hymn," by John B. Dykes; "Shenandoah," by Don Regner; and "Hullabaloo Beley," by Livingston Gerhart. It will be directed by Jerome Pugsley.

Freshman Girls' Chorus, directed by Boyd White, will sing Randall Thompson's "A Girl's Garden" and "Someday My Prince Will Come," by Frank Churchill.

A MADRIGAL, "Eyes of My Beloved" and "Lemon Tree" by Will Holt will be sung by the Choraliers, a mixed ensemble directed by Jerome Pugsley.

Girl's Glee will sing "He's Gone Away," by Leslie Bell, and "Three Songs from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" by Henry Halstrom.

Revelairs, an ensemble made up of junior and senior boys, will sing "When Good Men Sing" by David Pland and "Hernando's Hideaway" from the musical "Pajama Game," by Richard Adler and Jerry Ross.

Mixed Chorus, a group of sophomores, will sing a Negro spiritual, "I Hear A Voice A-Prayin," by Houston Bright; "Heather-Winged Bat," a folk song; and "Ours Is the World," by Haydn Msogan.

The last ensemble to perform will be Harmonettes, a group of 13 junior and senior girls. They will sing Randall Thompson's "Come In," with words by Robert Frost, and "It's a Good Day."

THE 92-VOICE Senior Choir will begin its portion of the program with "Let Thy Blessed Spirit" by P. Tochnekoff. After that the choir will sing "Softly Along the Road of Evening" by Lekbert, "Michigan Morn" by Owen Read, and Bach's "Honor and Glory."

As a special feature during the program, Pugsley, a baritone, will sing "Nueignung," a German art song by Strauss.

Accompanists for "Autumn Haze" will be senior Sharon Dillon, juniors Sandy Ohman and Lyn Whiting; sophomores Pat Kamp, Lynn Johnson and Anne Zonsius; and freshmen Carol Lepowski and Mary Tuomi. Mrs. Boyd White and Pugsley will also be accompanying.

"This should be a concert that everyone can enjoy," White said. "There will be something for those who enjoy classical music as well as for those who like lighter numbers."

High School Highlights

The Show? 'Kids'; The Stars? Kids

by KATHY WASHBURN

"Kids" is not only the theme for the upcoming variety show at Forest View High School, but also what the show is made up of.

One hundred kids, making up 51 acts, participated in the tryouts. Twenty-one acts plus a singing chorus and a dancing chorus were chosen.

Concerning the V-show, Harold Petersen, director, explained, "The show displays the various types of talent possessed by some of the students in school. It also gives some kids a chance to appear on the stage who wouldn't normally be involved in a stage production."

THE FORMAT of the show is entirely different this year. There will not be one continuous script as in the past. Instead there will be many acts tied together with "entre acts."

For instance, between two major acts there might be one or two short skits going on in front of the curtain to permit set removal and still keep the show rolling.

The acts which have been selected are as follows: two folk singers; a boys quartet; the Vocalles, a girl's trio; a mock opera, and two organists.

Also, a jazz dance, adagio, two accordion players, a combo, three baton twirlers, a comedy dance, Charleston dancers, and some group pantomimes.

All these plus the two choruses will make up the talent for the variety show. (16Y

'Someone To Talk To'

How One Counselor Looks at Counseling

by ELAINE CASPER

"Although guidance and counseling are actually one field, it is important to differentiate between the two," Richard W. Stanowski, director of pupil personnel services at Forest View High School, said recently in an interview.

Guidance is mainly giving information on topics such as colleges or just facts on something, whereas counseling is concerned more with the students' problems and the dynamics involved, he added.

"There are many specialized areas in this field. Our counselors are trained in each of these areas in order to get a degree," he said.

One of the three main specialized positions is the test director, who takes care of the special group tests. The vocational director keeps the counselors up-to-date on available jobs and occupations for students.

The college consultant has the most difficult job: he has to keep up with the college changes so that the counselors will be able to inform the students.

BEFORE TEACHING at Forest View, Stanowski discovered that students had a tendency to talk to him about their personal lives." They come up with ideas which they sometimes can't discuss with their parents. All people have a need for someone to talk to in depth."

He added, "I wish somehow we had the ability, method and time to make students clearly understand what counseling is. Students often just see us changing programs, especially the freshmen and sophomores.

"Another problem is that in talking with the counselors, the individual doesn't come out and say exactly what's really on his mind."

A good counselor must have a basic understanding of psychology. He must be sensitive to what's happening all the time. He'll try to get the student to look at the problem clearly so that it can be solved.

The counselors use registration as their starting point with freshmen. They try to make them feel at ease so that when they come with a problem, they will have confidence.

STANOWSKI finds that talking to an individual is considerably easier than talking to a classroom of students. Talking to a person with a severe problem can be quite difficult because of the emotions involved.

In such a severe problem, when the counselors have enough information, they approach the parents and try to help solve the problem. But this must be done very delicately, he said.

The most important point that Stanowski wants to make clear is that all of the counselors' time isn't spent with severe problems. This discourages students with normal teen-age problems from coming in for help.

The statistics that he gives are, "60-75 per cent of the counselor's time is spent on teenagers with normal problems, which are still important to the individual. About 25 per cent of our time is spent on more severe problems," he added.

Stanowski is quite enthusiastic about what he is doing: "I like my work very much. It's a great feeling to be able to look forward to it each day."

Stanowski has a master degree in guidance and counseling from Northwestern University. After teaching a variety of subjects in Lawerenceville for 10 years, he came to High School District 214.

Commenting on Forest View and District 214, he said, "It's exciting because individual creativity is encouraged by the administration. We don't have to go along with the usual routine. Instead, if we have a better way to present the lesson, we're free to do so." (16Y

Turnabout Dance a Sizzler

by SHIRLEY SERINI

The Sadie Hawkins Turnabout, sponsored by the Junior Class Oct. 22, was a smashing success in more ways than one.

The unusual set-up, a complete "turnabout" from the ordinary boy-ask-girl boy-treat-girl dance, hinted that this would be no ordinary evening.

After picking up her man, providing him with an original "corsage," and paying his way into the dance, each "Daisy May" found her efforts well spent.

THE COUPLES were entertained by the Young Gentlemen, and everything was in a casual "Hillbilly" style! For those ambitious young couples, "Marryin' Sam" had his stand set up. Marriage for an evening seemed to be more popular than expected—"Marryin' Sam" never did get a rest!

Included in all this fun was the enjoyment of helping. Earlier in the week, several freshmen, sophomores and juniors had been nominated for Miss Daisy May and Li'l Abner.

Knute Bauer and Nancy Wesche were chosen by student vote. The voting, however, was carried out differently from most elections. Students were allowed to vote as often as they wished, with each vote costing a penny.

The proceeds went to the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy. Through the generosity of EGHS students, $52.59 was collected. (16Y

IN THE FINAL SCENE of Prospect High School's Variety Show, the cast watches as the evil Phidious and Phoebe Phiend lament over their loss of the prize money. They are portrayed by seniors Mary Hansen and Joe Rosanova. The show was presented in the Little Theater Friday and Saturday nights.

Arlington Students At Music Workshop

Thirty-three students from Arlington High School traveled to Northwestern University to the third choral-vocal workshop conducted by faculty members of Northwestern University on Oct. 22.

Two hundred students from northern Illinois were selected to be in the mixed chorus, which sang under the direction of Dean Howerton. Later in the morning Robert Gay and vocal students of Northwestern University presented excerpts from two operas.

In the afternoon the students were divided into six groups where they had the opportunity of singing for the voice professors, who then worked with the students, helping to improve the students' vocal technic.

STUDENTS FROM Arlington attending the workshop were Heather Baird, Donna Bartels, Marcia Bodenstedt, Melinda Flodin, Ann Franzese, Phyliss Kirchner, Randy Logsdon, Melanie Maloney, Michael Micek, Ruth Nerlinger, Rex Parvin, Paul Reckwerdt, Gail Sauers, Dave Schroeder.

The vocal students from Arlington High were accompanied by their directors Boyd White and Jerome Pugsley. (11Y

Spring Tour Dates Set

by CONNIE ANDREW

The Senior Spring Tour of High School Dist. 214 will be the week of March 18—24.

The seven-day tour will include stops in Williamsburg and Charlottesville, Va., Gettysburg, Pa., and Washington. The cost of $230 will pay for travel to and seeing tours, all meals and lodgings, and gratuities. The price does not include souvenirs or spending money.

The total cost may be paid for at one time; however, there is a payment plan. This plan consists of three payments, the first two of $80 and the last of $70. The first payment will be due the week of Nov. 14-18.

The second and third installments will be due the weeks of Dec. 12-16 and Jan. 16-20. After the second payment deadline, there will be no refunds given to students who change their minds. There will be time to sell the reservation to some other student if this occurs.

THE TOUR will include stops at many historical sights. The first day will be highlighted by a stop in Yorktown with a tour through the battlefield and a special movie.

On Sunday the agenda includes a visit to Williamsburg and a visit to the House of Burgesses and the Governor's Palace. That afternoon the reconstructed city of Jamestown and Charlottesville and a free period of shopping are on the agenda.

New to this year's trip is a tour of Jefferson's estate, Monticello, and Monroe's home, Ash Lawn. The group will arrive at Gettysburg that evening and tour the battlefield the next day.

A tour of Annapolis, the Naval Academy, and a visit to the U.S. Frigate Constellation will be included on the fourth day.

The last three days will include tours of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Smithsonian Institution, and a visit to Capitol Hill. Mt. Vernon (Washington's home) and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier also will be on the agenda. The grave of John F. Kennedy and the Iwo Jima Marine Memorial also will be seen.

THE TRIP will end with the dinner flight to O'Hare from Baltimore Airport.

The tour director and one of the chaperones is Paul Mueller, director of student activities at Wheeling High School. (11Y

Technology Leads Series on Careers

As part of the procedure for an effective vocational program, a career conference is held each month at Prospect High School to acquaint students with a particular vocational field.

The career conference for November is "Careers in Industry and Technology," to be held Nov. 22 during all periods in the Little Theater.

The guest speaker will be Eckhart A. Jacobsen, head of the department of industry and technology at Northern Illinois University. He will show slides in addition to his talk.

He is interested in talking not only to those students who plan to major in fields of industry and technology, but also to the students interested in science and math.

SCHEDULED for December is a conference in engineering. January's meeting will concern purchasing and the distribution of goods.

In February, a special program will be offered on airlines, with classes invited to attend during the fifth and sixth hours. March offers information on employment opportunities and April's conference will be on careers within industry.

'Beacon House' Seeks Volunteers

by VICKI WILKINS

Forest View High School students are again being asked this year to participate in the Chicago Presbyterian Church's Beacon House Program, according to George Sully, French teacher and local sponsor.

"Beacon House Volunteers" was started at Forest View two years ago during the second semester. Five Forest View students went to Beacon House with students from Barrington, Arlington, New Trier and Crane high schools. They worked with elementary age children on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

Sully said, "We teach them mostly the basic skills." The skills taught are help with speech impediments, arithmetic tables and word problems, and also help in reading. They play some games, but they have very little in recreational facilities and no parks.

This year Beacon House will receive help from some Chicago Circle Campus students in tutoring. Each student has one or two of the children.

"BEACON HOUSE" is sponsored mainly by the Chicago Presbyterian Church. The location of the house is on Chicago's West Side at 1414 S. Ashland Ave.

Sully received a telephone call two weeks ago asking if he would see about sponsoring the project here again. He said, "We will go every other Saturday Our main problem right now is transportation."

Sully now has 12 volunteers since he appealed for help from Forest View students.

He would like to start some sort of club at school to get more students interested in helping others.

HE SAID, "They will probably go down four or five times before Christmas, then will wait until the new year starts and see if some more students are interested."

Sully concluded by saying, "It's one way of communicating with other people." (16Y

3,800 Take Part In Area Camping

Over 3,800 boys and leaders participated in the six northwest suburban Boy Scout camp rallies this fall.

THIS WAS A record attendance figure, according to Val Fishburn, chairman of Activities for the Northwest Suburban Boy Scout Council.

Fishburn said the underlying purpose of the local rallies was to pull the scout troops together and offer new boys an opportunity to see camping in action.

1958—Year of THE Trio

by JIM MORAN

The year 1958 was an important one for America in many ways. The U. S. launched its first satellite, the economy was stabilizing, and the midterm elections were held.

It was also an important year for American popular music, for it was in that year that The Kingston Trio revolutionized the industry with its new musical style.

On Oct. 14, when the trio performed at the Arie Crown Theatre, I had the opportunity of talking with them after the concert. They were very friendly and cooperative, and signed autographs and answered questions for about a half hour before they left.

The trio was formed in 1957 by two Menlo (Calif.) College pals, Nick Reynolds and Bob friend of Bob's from Stanford Shane, and Dave Guard, a University. Their first engagement was at a Stanford student hang-out, the Cracked Pot. It was here they met Frank Werber, a San Francisco public relations man, who signed them to a personal management contract.

UNDER Werber's guidance, the Kingston Trio became a professional act, and appeared at top nightclubs across the country in 1957 and 1958.

Their first album was released in July of 1958. It was a moderate success, but nothing spectacular. The same was true of the trio itself—successful, but still waiting for the proverbial big break.

It came within a few months. While the trio was vacationing in Hawaii, their first single, "Tom Dooley," was released. It was an instant sensation, and sold over a million copies within a few weeks. Since then, the Kingston Trio has recorded 25 albums, eight of which have been million-sellers. They also have had 12 million-selling singles, including many of the most popular hootenanny songs around. They have played in every state except Alaska and in 20 foreign countries.

"Sometimes even we don't believe it," said Nick Reynolds. "We've had such a good time, and we're still going strong." Nick is referred to by the other two as the "musical midget" or "the runt of the litter." He protests that not everyone can be tall, so why try? "I get kidded a little about my height, but it makes a good joke, so I don't mind," Nick said.

He can't mind, or he wouldn't be able to live with us," said John Stewart. John is the "new" member of the group, replacing Dave Guard, who left about five years ago. He is a tall, lanky Californian whose special interest is writing songs.

"IN FACT," said John, "that's how I first met the trio. When they were playing in Los Angeles, I took a few of my songs to them. Before I knew what happened, they had recorded two of them." John has since written over 200 songs. "We do lots of them," he explained, "and so do the We Five." John's younger brother Mike is a member of that group.

"John was a natural replacement," Bob Shane, the group's onstage "deadbeat," said. Off stage, he is anything but dead. He is a lively, entertaining conversationalist with a taste for sarcasm.

"If there is any one thing which I have learned on stage," Bob said, "it is that in show business you must satisfy your ego."

"Bobby sure does enough of that!" said Nick. Actually, though, he's right. If you don't get some sort of personal satisfaction from this work, you won't last in it."

"That," said John, "has been the case with many other folk groups who died out when the fad did. They were in it for quick money, and left when the cash did."

When I asked the Trio how long they would keep going, Nick said, "We'll play as long as the crowds last and as long as we remain interested. Surprisingly, the crowds are better than ever, and we certainly enjoy our work.

"We'd like to feel after we quit that we have contributed something positive to the American musical scene," Bob concluded. By most estimates, the Kingston Trio already has. (16Y

Two Bad Traits Behind the Wheel

Self-righteousness and overconfidence—usually harmless human traits—can be deadly if practiced behind the wheel of a car.

According to northwest area auto dealers even "good" drivers, with the fine traffic records, can succumb to these deadly psychological temptations of the road.

He pointed out that "self-righteousness" causes some drivers to try to "teach that wise guy a lesson." What the other driver actually "learns," of course, can be tragically different from what was intended.

Overconfidence can have its fatal effects, too. This can occur when a motorist takes for granted that pedestrians, other drivers, and the driver's own car and reflexes will do the right thing at the right time. On the contrary, the Chicago Automobile Trade Association dealers stressed, defensive driving—being alert for the worst that can happen—is a far better approach to traffic safety.

Impatience, another all too human attribute, can be harmless in most everyday situations, but drivers who want to avoid accidents should eliminate this trait from their motoring manners. Impatience can cause a driver to take needless chances, suppress good judgment, and get into tight situations just to save a little time.

Psychological causes of traffic tragedies are among the worst hazards facing drivers. "Problem" motorists tend to have certain traits in common—for example, they are often aggressive and self-centered. Furthermore, many have appeared before juvenile courts in their youth, and have had difficulty with loan agencies.

Wheeling Band Rated As Superior

by CONNIE ANDREW

The Wheeling High School Marching Band received a superior rating for its performance at the Chicagoland Marching Festival, Oct. 22.

Five bands participated in the festival, which was hosted by Wheeling. They were Lake Zurich, directed by Gerald F. Hug; Lake Central (St. Joseph, Ind.), directed by Douglas C. Jordan; Dundee, directed by Doyle Heffron; Warren, directed by Sam J. Licocci; and Wheeling, directed by Dean R. DePoy.

Each band was rated on the music, both rendition and suitability; marching; required marching movements, and a free drill. Also included in the rating was a military inspection of the position of the band at attention, rank and file alignment, and uniform and instrument appearance.

AT THE conclusion of the festival, the bands were given a rating from the judges. This rating was based on the average rating of each judge and not competition between the bands.

The final ratings were Wheeling, superior; Lake Central, superior; Dundee, excellent; Warren, excellent, and Lake Zurich, good.

Sanctioned by the Illinois High School Association, the purpose of the festival was to provide added stimulus to marching bands through expert adjudication.

Official adjudicators (judges) were Dr. Gordon Bird, director of bands, Northern Illinois University; Art Katterjohn, director of bands, Joliet Township High School; and Edward Volz, director of bands, Syracuse University.

Inspection judge for the festival was Lt. Commander Gordon Fancher, Commanding Officer U.S.N.R. Field Marshalls were George Goven, director of bands, Jack London Junior High and Stan McMurray, director of bands, Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High. (16Y CHRIS HOFFER and Marcia Taugner, both of Mount Prospect, are elated as they observe the corpse of another lonely old gentleman, Bill Cason of Wheeling, whom they have brought to rest in a scene from "Arsenic and Old Lace," Wheeling High School's fall production on Nov. 11 and 12. (16Y

A Little Arsenic in Your Wine?

by CONNIE ANDREW

Wheeling High School's fall play production, "Arsenic and Old Lace," will be presented Friday and Saturday, Nov. 11 and 12, at 7:45 p.m. in the Little Theater.

The comedy-mystery is the story of two sisters, Abby and Martha Brewster, and their kindness toward lonely widowers. Instead of allowing them to live in misery, the two sisters neatly dispose of the widowers with a little arsenic in their Elderberry Wine.

Included in the plot are the spinsters' three brothers. One is a playwright, the second is a psychopathic criminal, and the third thinks he is Teddy Roosevelt.

FACULTY DIRECTOR of the play is David Stiles. Student directors are Carolyn Perez of Prospect Heights, Janet Buerger of Wheeling, and Lynette Olson of Wheeling. Eric Lidh, faculty technical director, is in charge of the construction and scenery.

Cast members for the play are Marcia Taugner and Chris Hoffer, both of Mount Prospect, as the two sisters, Abby and Martha; Scott Decker of Prospect Heights, the Rev. Dr. Harper; Clark Anderson of Wheeling, Teddy Brewster; Craig Taylor of Arlington Heights, Officer Brophy; Jim Kellogg of Prospect Heights, Officer Klein; and Margo Franklin of Wheeling, Elaine Harper.

Other characters in the production include David Spung of Buffalo Grove, Mortimer Brewster; Jeff Soronsen of Prospect Heights, Mr. Gibbs; John Smart of Buffalo Grove, Jonathan Brewster; Bill Cason of Wheeling, Dr. Einstein; Mike McLean of Arlington Heights, Officer O'Hara; Lori Mitchell of Arlington Heights, Lt. Maud Rooney; and Garry Lovell of Arlington Heights, Mr. Witherspoon. (16Y

St. Viator Candy Sale A Success

By BILL EVEN

St. Viator High School's chocolate drive has officially ended with the awarding of prizes to the school's top salesmen.

A feeling of success and accomplishment pervaded the assembly as the winners were announced, for this was the most successful drive in the history of the school, with 112 per cent of the sales goal having been reached.

Although it was believed that an unavoidable late start would hamper the success of the drive, the students were able to go well above the highest expectations during their 9-day period of selling.

ANY STUDENT who sold an extra 12 boxes beyond his quota of 24 one-pound boxes of chocolate-covered almonds was eligible for the raffling of a Honda motorbike, model Cub 50.

Other awards included those to the top-selling home room in each class and top salesmen in the home rooms. These minor awards varied from cash prizes to cafeteria passes.

In a drawing held before the student body, the winning Honda ticket was in the name of sophomore Ken Mattini. Freshman Jeff Lavin received a year's tuition and fees as top salesman in the school.

SOPHOMORE Mark Walinski received a year's tuition award as second highest salesman; sophomore Kip Strean was third and won one semester's tuition.

The Chocolate Drive is one of the major events in the school's program, since it is both the greatest united effort on the part of the students and it is also of great financial importance.

Through the drive, the students are able to help defray the huge cost of the Catholic education which is provided for them. (11Y

High School Highlights

She Started Her Day In Chinese

by BECKY ANDERSON

"Dzai jyan!"

With these words, meaning "good day" in Chinese, summer mornings began for Prospect High School junior Lucy Barale, who studied Chinese at Evanston High School's Institute of Far Eastern Studies.

Starting June 20, Lucy attended four classes a day for six weeks. Her classes consisted of a grammar class, a lab, a character writing class and a conversation class.

IN THE grammar class, she started her Chinese vocabulary and learned how to use these words. The lab was where she learned how to pronounce them.

She was taught how to write in the Chinese alphabet in her character writing class. Finally during her conversation period, she and the other students talked together to acquire fluency in the language.

One day each week was devoted to going to a museum where the class studied Chinese culture by seeing movies and viewing Chinese art and pottery.

To keep up with what she's learned, Lucy still attends classes at Evanston on Saturdays.

THE CARNEGIE Foundation sponsors a scholarship through which students may attend the courses offered at Evanston. By applying early and writing a theme dealing with why she wanted to take Chinese, Lucy received one of these scholarships.

"I want to go into the diplomatic corps or the foreign service. I think a great need will arise for this language in the future," she commented.

Lucy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barale, 20 S. Owen, Mount Prospect. (11Y

TORCHLIGHT PARADE—It wasn't much as political doings go. The Republicans Friday staged a "torchlight" parade with marchers to come from Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Wheeling. Only 75 people showed up for the parade and GOP speechmaking at Miner Jr. High School, Arlington Heights. The parade was to be the "old fashioned" kind with lots of fun. U. S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, sheriff candidate Joseph Woods, and clerk candidate Earl Eisenhower spoke briefly. (Staff Photo)

Plan Fall Festival At Stevenson High

A fall festival of the fine and lively arts, including a book fair, preholiday gift sale and a full length musical comedy will be presented at Adlai E. Stevenson High School, November 10—12.

The three day affair begins on Thursday evening with a book fair by Chandler's; Christmas decoration and wrapping display by Barb White and Ann Flick; records from The Record Shop and games from the Toy Castle.

Sponsored by the Stevenson Library Committee, all profits from sales will be used to purchase library books and audio visual materials.

THE TWO-ACT musical comedy, "Catch As Catch Can," will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings in the auditorium concurrently with the book fair.

The original musical will be staged by Theatre In The Rough a division of the Deerfield Newcomers Club, which includes many members from the Lincolnshire area.

Considerable North Shore talent is assisting the local players in staging the musical which will parody the popular TV series, "The Fugitive." Paraphrasing television star Kimball, will be a leading character named Gimbel who is chased through a carnival-like atmosphere by Macy.

Cast Rehearses Its Way Into the 'Ah, Wilderness'

by SHELLEY HAMILTON

Under the direction of Douglas K. Murphy, the 15 cast members of the play "Ah, Wilderness!" are rehearsing in preparation for Nov. 17, 18, and 19 performances at Arlington High School.

A genial comedy of adolescence and small-town life, "Ah, Wilderness!" was first presented on Broadway in 1933. Eugene O'Neill's one comedy, the play contrasts sharply to his darker works such as "Long Day's Journey into Night," "The Iceman Cometh," "The Hairy Ape," and "Anna Christie."

THE PLAY concerns a typical family during the early 1900s. Nat Miller, owner of the "Evening Globe," and his wife Essie attempt to raise their four children properly. With one boy safely settled at Yale, the Millers' problems center around their 17-year old son Richard. Mildred and Tommy, the other children, also are the cause of some vexations.

Richard, who has recently graduated from high school, is in love with Muriel McComber and intends to marry her. Muriel's father, however, compels his daughter to cut off the romance after he reads some of the letters his daughter has received from him. The letters contain poems which Richard has copied from books.

A distraught, broken-hearted Richard makes a blind date that his brother's school friend has set up for him. Much to his surprise, Richard finds himself in the back room of the Pleasant Beach House with a woman who is accustomed to more mature men. That evening, Richard returns home drunk, causing his parents more concern.

Richard and Muriel are brought back together as the two of them meet secretly at the beach and vow their love.

Aside from the young love of Richard and Muriel, Sid Davis, Essie's brother, and Lily Miller, Nat's sister, portray a tender, more mature relationship. Although they were engaged 16 years ago, Lily still refuses to marry Sid because of his "bad ways." However, the play makes it clear that Lily still loves Sid. "After all," she says, "he's just Sid."

Contrasting with the adolescent love of Richard and Muriel and the inconclusive relationship between Sid and Lily is the warm marriage of Nat and Essie.

ESSIE IS THE conventional mother who wants to follow all the rules of rearing a family, yet relents when her affection stands in the way of harsh measures. Nat is the father of imagination and intelligence; but he rarely is the hero in his own home.

Douglas K. Murphy, an English teacher at Arlington, says that his reason for selecting "Ah, Wilderness!" was a simple one. He commented, "I have been looking for a play which presents the family in an appealing light. Musicals have done this better in the past few years than plays. 'Oklahoma!' and 'Music Man,' though comic and satirical, are good advertisements for America. In 'Ah, Wilderness!' Eugene O'Neill writes honestly and beautifully about the American family."

"Ah, Wilderness!" is scheduled for performances at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 17, and 8 p.m. Nov. 18 and 19 in Arlington High School's Little Theatre. Tickets may be purchased at the door on nights of the show.

Adult School Hits Peak Enrollment

Adult school enrollment in High School District 214 has hit a new high.

More than 3,600 adults are attending late afternoon and evening classes this semester, adult education director W. L. (Pat) Randle reports.

The highest the school district tallied before in adult education classes is 3,000, Randle says.

Included in the more than 3,600 are 398 persons who are attending classes free as members of the Gold Card Club. Any person in District 214 65 years or older may join the Gold Card Club, established this fall by the school board as a way of providing fringe benefits for elderly taxpayers.

COMPARISON of class counts show Arlington and Prospect High Schools almost even in the number of adult school students—978 at Arlington and 956 at Prospect.

Forest View High School has 576 students enrolled in adult education classes, including 200 taking part in training courses as part of their tool and die maker apprenticeship work.

Elk Grove High School, opened this year for the first time, has 152 adult evening students. In addition about 60 women attend once-a-week daytime classes taught by four Elk Grove High administrators.

Another 200-some students attend District 214-sponsored adult education classes off school grounds. Some of them go to college classes in area elementary schools while others take such courses as floral design, taught at a florist's.

OF THE 398 Gold Card Club members attending adult school classes, 337 are signed up for a perennial favorite—the Travel and Adventure film-lecture series. This year 550 persons have tickets for the programs.

Popularity of the Travel and Adventure series among the over-65 crowd is no new thing, of course, Randle says. Last year, of some 400 persons signed up for the film-lectures half were in the over-65 bracket. As such, they received half-price admission to the series.

This year, with two-thirds of the Travel and Adventure series ticket-holders paying no fee at all, the lecture series will lose money. How much, Randle still isn't sure.

He plans to compute the loss, however, for the school board, which has asked to receive regular reports on the Gold Card Club. (ACME

Stevenson Play Tryouts Begin

Tryouts began this week for the comedy-mystery, "Bull In A China Shop," which will be presented by the Adlai E. Stevenson High School Drama Club on Dec. 2 and 3.

A cast of seven women and five men will stage the story of six little old ladies who get mixed up with murder and an attractive police sergeant.

The off-Broadway production was written by C. B. Gilford. Sponsors are William Gallagher and Miss Mary Francis, English instructors. (16Y

Elk Grove Immersed In First Homecoming

by SHIRLEY SERINI

Elk Grove High School this week is establishing one of its most important traditions — Homecoming. Homecoming week has been set up by the Student Council as Monday, October 31, through Saturday, November 5.

The week's activities began Monday with the presentation assembly, at which the five junior candidates for Homecoming Queen were presented to the student body. The candidates are Wendy McRae, Donna Ellery, Leslie Lowing, Pat Hurley and Pat Mullen.

The Queen and respective escorts will be announced this afternoon at the coronation ceremony. Voting was held Monday and Tuesday.

Each candidate will represent one of the five EGHS symbols: The Banner, the Grenade, the Musket, the Saber and the Plume. A short commentary on the symbol she represents will be read when the candidate is introduced.

RAY BAUER, Dave Wheeler, Bob Dunn, Glen DeBerge and Larry Pahl are the royal escorts. The Elk Grove Alma Mater will be sung by the Elk Grove Choir at the ceremony.

On Wednesday, the Elk Grove Grenadiers displayed their school spirit by wearing their school colors, green, white and gold.

Cheerleaders have been especially busy this week. During lunch periods on some days, they have sponsored skits to promote participation in the Homecoming festivities. They have also been busy taking orders for mums to be distributed today. The first EGHS pennants are also being sold this week by the Pep Club.

Friday night at 7:30 a pep rally will take place on the EG football field, featuring speeches by principal Dr. Donald Thomas; cross-country coach Robert Reef; varsity football coach Dick Mudge and skits about cross-country and football.

THE RALLY is expected to last approximately one hour and will be followed by a sock hop sponsored by the Varsity Club. The Druids will provide the entertainment.

The homecoming football game will begin at noon Saturday, when the Elk Grove Grenadiers meet the Fremd High School Vikings. The queen and her court will reign at the game.

During Homecoming week, raffle tickets are being sold for a football raffle, which will take place during half-time at the game.

The football that will be raffled off will be the one used during the first half of the game. It will be autographed by the queen, her court and the team members.

THE HOMECOMING Queen, her court and their escorts will oversee the elegant French-inspired "La Fete du Bal" dance to be held in the school cafeteria from 8-11 p.m. Saturday.

Punch and cake will be served. Music for the evening will be provided by The Bob Stevens Orchestra. (16Y

Bob Richards to Speak At Three Area Schools

Bob Richards, nationally recognized athlete and speaker, will talk at three of District 214 high schools — Forest View, Prospect, and Wheeling — on Thursday, November, 18. His speech is entitled "The Will To Win."

The administrators of District 214 have worked 2½ years to get Richards as a speaker. Following the assembly at Wheeling, his last talk, there will be a press conference for interested students.

RICHARDS HAS A distinctive and versatile delivery, which has established him as one of the most sought after speakers in the country. Through his many talks each year (up to 400), he has motivated many young people to higher goals. His book "Heart of a Champion," also exemplifies his ideas on American youth and individual success.

Most students know Richards as a TV personality and amateur athlete. In 1951 he was awarded the Helms Hall of Fame Trophy for being the outstanding athlete in North America.

He won three national titles—1951, 1954 and 1955—in the decathlon. In the pole vault, his favorite sport, he twice captured Olympic gold medals: at the 1952 Olympics in Helsinki, Finland, where he set an Olympic record; and again in Melbourne, Australia, in 1956.

The U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce recognized Richards' abilities and in 1957 he was voted one of the "Ten Outstanding Young Men in the United States."

Richards is also an ordained minister in the Church of the Brethren.

ALTHOUGH retired from active competition, he stays trim by running, weightlifting and swimming. He currently serves as director of a sports federation devoted to improving fitness and increasing participation in amateur sports, particulary those related to the Olympics.

"We hope Mr. Richards will help our young people seek a fuller understanding of life," commented Valmer Erickson, Wheeling counselor. (16Y

Pretty Tahitian's Views of America

by BARBARA ROMANO

She's 15 years old; she's a freshman at Forest View High School, and she's pretty!

We're talking about Claudine Turi from Papete, Tahiti, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Young of Mount Prospect.

Claudine has been in the United States for three years. When she first came here, she knew no English, only French, her native language.

CLAUDINE compares the United States with her native Tahiti this way: "The United States is beautiful and big! Tahiti is only a small island in the Pacific Ocean. It's always warm there."

One thing Claudine laughs about is the fact that in Tahiti they don't have snow. "One day I looked outside and saw this white stuff falling. I didn't know what it was, and I was scared. Then my mother told me."

She enjoys playing volleyball, tennis, surfing or swimming. She likes to dance and plans to pursue this as her career after finishing college.

Claudine likes it here. "The teachers are pretty nice, but sometimes I don't understand them. My favorite subject is English even though I don't know too much."

The food in Tahiti is much like that of Hawaii. Her favorite food here is pizza and various meats. (16Y

Park District Announces Fall and Winter Schedule

The Arlington Heights Park District announces the following program for the fall and winter months.

A full program of volleyball has been scheduled for junior high school students and adults.

For the girls, junior high and high school age, a program is being established on Thursday evenings from 7:30 — 9:30 p.m. Miss Kathy Finch is supervising the activity and is available to help form teams and assist in practices and games. Girls need not have complete teams before attending.

For the older girls, volleyball begins Tuesday, Nov. 8. The park district schedules exchange games with other women's teams. No fee or registration is required.

THE WOMEN also may play volleyball with men on the second and fourth Saturdays of the month. Next Saturday, Nov. 12 has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Adults may come as singles or in groups to Recreation Park. No advance registration is required.

High school boys and men have the opportunity to play basketball on Wednesday evenings from 7 — 10 p.m. Other gym activities are also available at Recreation Park, including volleyball.

Elementary and junior high school youngsters may play basketball on Saturdays, beginning this week at the following locations: Thomas Junior High School (State Rd. and Thomas St.) 1 — 4 p.m.; South Junior High School (310 W. South St.) 1 — 4 p.m.; Recreation Park (500 E. Miner) 1 — 5 p.m.

Supervised free play and organized games for high school boys are available at Arlington High School on Saturdays from 1 — 4 p.m., also beginning this Saturday, Nov. 5th.

Men and boys in Arlington Heights may swim the year round. The Arlington Heights Park District conducts an indoor swimming program at the St. Viators High School Pool, Dryden and Oakton streets.

The Thursday evening father and son swim program is open to residents of Arlington Heights and the surrounding area. The pool opens at 7:00 and closes at 9:30 p.m. Season passes are sold for $5 at the administrative office or at the pool. Nightly admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Superintendent of recreation William Appleby says a hockey registration and organizational meeting will be held on Saturday, Nov. 12.

The Arlington Heights Park District is planning for the hockey season and those interested in forming teams are urged to attend one of the three organizational meetings. Pioneer Park registration is scheduled for 9 p.m.; Recreation Park has its meeting at 10 a.m. and the meeting for Hasbrook Park is at 11 a.m. All these meetings are on Saturday, Nov. 12 in the large meeting rooms.

Hockey rinks will be maintained at Pioneer, Recreation and Hasbrook parks. Teams, leagues and competitions will be scheduled. Grade school and junior high teams will meet at the rink closest to their homes. High school teams will meet at the Recreation Park rink.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the park district, CL 3-0620. (A

Clergymen Wrestle Verbally With Problems of Ecumenism

"I hope the future of ecumenism does not rest with clergymen," was the dismayed response of one observer at St. Viator's fall series Tuesday evening.

Rabbi Mark Shapiro of Morton Grove outlined "Jewish Misgivings About Ecumenism"—and showed in one session the pitfalls that Christians alone may face.

Rabbi Shapiro cited four points of ecumenical difficulty. They were:

1. Failure of Vatican II Council documents to recognize the Jewish faith and its observances.

2. The Jewish experience of dealing with Christians when "dialogue" means conversion to Christians.

3. Jewish doubts that good human relations come from any sort of dialogue.

4. Jewish inability to trust Christians' intentions because of the memory of the German holocaust.

Oddly, what was supposed to be response on the part of the panel took the form of apologetics.

Pastor Donald Pritz, Our Saviour Lutheran, explained that he could not speak in terms of complete honesty or truth, as he saw the "truth" for Christians as Christ. While he could accept that all men were sons of God, some were also "adopted" sons; "There may be another way that God saves people, but this is the only way I'm positive of," he declared.

Rev. Joel P. Henning, assistant pastor of St. Simon's Episcopal Church, tended to foreswear all dialogue having to do with actual religious beliefs, in favor of moving ahead with action. "A theology of politics and sociology is what we need, to prevent getting bogged down in semantics of historical differences."

REV. ROLAND Koch, Congregational United Church of Christ, agreed with Rev. Henning, and said that overriding all the issues of differences is the primary premise of whether there is a divine reality. "Are we alive or dead to divine concern for justice and mercy?" he asked.

Rev. Henning's approach carried the evening as he insisted that while there are many things Christians and Jews can do together to increase understanding, the best thing is to act together for the good of society.

"Talk can only get you so far; I think we have to work out ecumenism in our concern for humanity. Theological considerations make a difference, but not the kind of difference that prevents us from helping each other."

HOW DO YOU get this to the man in the pew?" asked a listener.

"We can't be any better than you want us to be," answered Rabbi Shapiro. "It's easier for us to get involved with questions of semantics than to really be a prophet, because that's what you want to hear. When the clergyman gets too far ahead of his people, suddenly he finds himself without a congregation."

The next program at St. Viator's, Tuesday, Nov. 8, is "The Golden Age of Comedy," which was announced as a welcome respite from the intellectual rigors of the series to date. (A

Notes from Arlington Acres

The best wishes of friends and neighbors go with the James McArdle family who left Tuesday for a new home in Cheshire, Conn. Jim and Selina lived at 536 S. Phelps with their sons, Chris and Joey, for three years and as long as Jim was being transferred they were anxious to get settled before the arrival of their new baby in December.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hoffmann, 1823 E. Park, who had a wedding anniversary Oct. 27, celebrated at dinner that evening at Al's Old Town Inn in Mount Prospect.

Saturday evening Paul an Bonnie hosted a Halloween party for a dozen friends who declared the organized scavenger hunt set the stage for following events and the eerie atmosphere of the dark back yard during the telling of ghost stories served to send calculated chills down the spines of the guests.

THE RALPH VERLEYS, 436 S. Prindle, were happy hosts to Irene's mother, Mrs. Anthony Ambrosia, for four days last week. Mrs. Ambrosia is from Iron Mountain, Mich., and was in Chicago to attend a convention before her visit to the Verleys.

Rip Van Sky, son of the senior Rip Van Skys, 1915 E. Grove, came home from Western Illinois at Macomb to spend last weekend with his parents. Since he is so busy getting ready for fall quarter finals, Rip's Oct. 26 birthday slipped his mind and he was reminded of it only when his family extended their best wishes.

The Frank Marshalls, 432 S. Forrest, welcomed Margaret home for the weekend. Margaret, a grad student at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, came home for Northwestern's homecoming and to take her parents to the NU-MSU football game Saturday.

SATURDAY evening the Marshalls were guests of the Al Mays, former Arlington Acres residents, at their home in Hawthorn Woods for a pre-dinner cocktail party. The occasion was the Dinner-of-the Month Club's November get-together, this time at the Wing 'n Fin Club in Volo. Enjoying duck and pheasant dinners and an evening of dancing to the music of the '30's were fellow members, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schulze of Des Plaines, and the Mays' houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Gil Behling of Detroit.

Don Cerva, son of Don Sr. and Norma, was heartily congratulated on his 14th birthday Oct. 25 at a dinner at the Cerva home, 425 S. Forrest, a week ago Saturday. The family gathering included grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cerva of Elmwood Park and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Buchwald of Chicago, as well as a score of aunts, uncles and cousins.

Sunday a special birthday treat for Don was a trip to the Blackhawk hockey game at the Stadium with his dad.

MRS. FRANK JENKO, 440 S. Prindle, was pleasantly surprised to answer a knock on the door on the evening of Oct. 24 to find the Carl Schmidt family, 515 S. Gibbons, on the porch prepared to launch into a birthday serenade in honor of Betty's day. The two families are close friends and enjoyed sharing coffee and the birthday cake that Barby Jenko had baked for her mother in honor of the occasion.

Janet Schultz, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schultz, 528 S. Waterman, sat in the chair of the guest of honor at dinner Oct. 19, while her parents, sister, Connie, and brother, Steven, helped make the festive dinner one to remember.

The following Friday being a free day from school, Janet invited several friends over for a celebratory luncheon. Guests were Cindy Straub, Marjorie Harrington, Veronica O'Malley, Lisa Domek, Stacy Weber and Peggy Wilbens.

COSTUMED guests gathering at the Richard La Veau home, 1815 E. Grove, Saturday afternoon were friends of Randy and were there to help him celebrate his fourth birthday. Cake and ice cream were served to Mike Morgan, Darcy Switzer, Robert Miner, Cindy Wright, Nancy Ashbrook, Johnny and Debbie Gordon, Susie Sierakowski and cousins, Billy and Scott Di Gilio.

A joyous event in the Edward Krauss home, 524 S. Phelps, was the third birthday of their son, Alan, on Oct. 26. To help them celebrate, they invited close friends in for cake and coffee that evening.

Many happy returns of the day were wished John Oravetz; 533 S. Prindle, at a family dinner Oct. 29, in honor of his 17th birthday. John is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Oravetz. (A

Study Bid For Rezoning

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission next Wednesday will consider a rezoning petition for a small parcel of land at the northwest corner of Gibbons Avenue and Northwest Highway.

Petitioner Ralph Bruns, of Bruns Real Estate, 1714 E. Northwest Hwy., is asking for rezoning of two lots from non-conforming multiple-family (R-5) to commercial (B-1).

Bruns said he plans to remodel the present office building and provide parking lots on the east side of the building. (A

CHILDREN NEED THIS HEALTH SUPERVISION
They require the very best medical and surgical care. Otherwise, their later years may be plagued by continuous poor health that might have been prevented.
Medical authorities agree that these regular physician checkups should be scheduled. First year — at least every four to six weeks. Second year — every three months. Ages two to six — every six to 12 months. Ages six to 18 at least once a year. If medication is needed we can fill any prescription, even those from physicians in other cities.

A Deadline For Voters

Today is the deadline for filing applications and affidavits for absentee voting by mail at the Cook County Clerk's Office at the County Building in Chicago.

Residents may vote in person at the clerk's office until noon Saturday. Absentee ballots must be returned in time for them to be delivered to polling places before 6 p.m. Nov. 8, according to the Palatine League of Women Voters. (P

Yeats Tells Opposition To the Revenue Amendment

Village President David Yeats has loaned his support to the endorsement of a "No" vote against the revenue amendment by the Palatine League of Women Voters.

In a statement released by the league, Yeats said that he was against the amendment because it contains provisions that should not be in the constitution.

"PROVISIONS for the classification of real estate in Cook County only and the proposal to permit a limited flat-rate income tax, are poorly drawn and unworthy of the term constitutional reform. If classification of real property is desirable, it should be applied on a statewide basis," he said.

The constitution should only permit an income tax and leave all other questions to the legislature. Only the legislature should concern itself with whether the income tax should be applied and, if so, how — to individuals and corporations, flat rate or progressive, he said.

"Most of us are very concerned over the trend toward centralization of government. If we are to overcome this trend, we must provide sufficient flexibility at the state level so that states and local governments will be able to meet their needs and the demands of their constituents," he said.

Yeats added that the electorate would probably approve "four non-controversial provisions" of the proposed amendment, if they were presented by themselves and not as part of the package.

The village president said that he favored the classification of personal property with its accompanying vehicle franchise tax, the provision for a true sales tax, authority to distribute sale taxes to local governments and the change in bonding power of unit school districts.

"These are changes that would almost certainly be voted by the electorate if presented without the remaining proposals," he said.

THE LEAGUE this week has also presented endorsements of the "No" vote endorsement by Mrs. Paul Jensen, president of the Northwest Suburban PTA Council, and Mrs. Andrew Koller, past president of the Palatine League.

Yeats, Mrs. Jensen and Mrs. Koller all branded the proposed amendment "restrictive" and also recommended some other means of constitutional reform.

Yeats said that the legislature should propose a new amendment incorporating only the four "non-controversial provisions" and, later, a complete rewriting of the revenue article should be undertaken by a constitutional convention.

"There are many deficiencies in the present article that are not touched upon at all in the present proposed amendment," Yeats said. (P

Covelli to Distributive State Board

Nicholas Covelli, distributive education coordinator for Palatine and Fremd High Schools, has been appointed to the State Advisory Board of Distributive Education.

The board is a new group operating under the State Department of Vocational Education and Rehabilitation in Springfield.

ITS PURPOSE IS to advise the department on how to improve educational activities for high school seniors engaged in on-the-job retail training while attending half day class sessions.

The board also will supervise the activities of various high schools at the National Distributive Education Convention this spring in Chicago. (P

Mankenberg Is Honored

Dr. Charles Mankenberg of 216 W. Wilson St., last week was honored for his 10-year tenure as a director of the Palatine Savings and Loan Association at a luncheon at the Horseshoe Club.

DR. MANKENBERG, an optometrist, resigned from the S & L board upon his retirement. He and his wife left last week to take up new residence in Dunedin, Fla.

Dr. Mankenberg is one of the founders of the association, which was established in 1956. At the luncheon, he was presented a plaque in recognition of his service. (P

'Prompt' Response Sought in Appeal

Villagers this week were asked for prompt response to mail solicitations sent out two weeks ago by the Palatine Combined Community Appeal.

Dan Vrabec, vice-president of PCCA, said that while returns are slower, the average mail pledge has increased.

ABOUT 8,000 pieces of literature have been sent out by Bee Burtis, mail drive chairman.

The PCCA goal this year is $25,300.

The local organization must raise half of that amount. The remainder is contributed by the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

Presbyterians To Observe Stewardship

The Presbyterian Church of Palatine, 800 E. Chicago Ave., next week will observe Stewardship Visitation Sunday.

Callers Sunday will visit church members at their homes, advising them that the 1967 church budget has been set at $59,200.

Of the budget, more than $10,000 will go to the Chicago Presbytery for mission work. Callers will attend training sessions at 8 p.m. Thursday (today) and 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

On the Stewardship Committee are Russell Rowley, Alban Mann, chairman; Donald Rundle, David Gamble and Clay Bergdahl. (P

Three Special Ballots Are Slated for Voters Tuesday

Voters on Nov. 8 will be asked to decide on two Illinois Constitutional changes.

First one is the Revenue Amendment.

For passage, either a two-thirds vote of all persons casting the Blue Ballot or a majority of all voting in the general election is needed.

Most controversial and most limiting is the section dealing with a state income tax. Presently, a flat rate income tax without a ceiling could be enacted.

IN THE AMENDMENT, the following restrictions are established:

—An income tax shall be levied at a flat rate not exceeding three per cent.

—It shall be levied equally against corporations and persons.

—It may not be extended beyond three per cent without consent of the voters and even then the limit would be six per cent.

—Within four years after an income tax is established, the tax on personal property shall be abolished.

—Not less than one per cent (intended to mean the equivalent of a one per cent tax, rather than one per cent of the total collection) of the income tax will be distributed to local taxing bodies and other purposes specifically decided upon by the General Assembly.

DESCRIBED AS A compromise measure by the two major parties, proponents and critics are apt to emphasize one portion or another.

For instance, critics maintain taxing corporations and individuals equally is unfair; proponents maintain a "favorable tax climate" for industry would be established in Illinois.

The amendment also would permit the General Assembly to classify tangible personal property and allow a true sales tax instead of the current retailers occupational tax.

Opponents feel the voters will ignore or defeat the amendment because it is generally not understood and people will be reluctant to vote on anything of such a complicated nature.

THE SECOND Constitution change before the voters asks that county treasurers and sheriffs be allowed to succeed themselves. Presently, these county officers may serve only one term.

This change has been marked by little controversy with little support being loudly voiced or opposition being given.

The voters also will be asked to pass on a "pink ballot" which would amend the Illinois Banking Act.

The amendments would create a completely independent bank department responsible for supervision and control of state banks and trust companies.

It will also allow banks to have separated facilities, such as drive-in facilities, up to 1,500 feet from the main structure.

THE BALLOT also would allow the following:

—Improve certain areas of operation of national banks which are presently curtailed by the existing law.

—Provide for future operational planning and growth by authorizing creation of subsidiary corporations necessary to efficient banking opeations — such as data processing.

—Authorize Illinois state banks to establish accounts for minors. (A15

Democrats Running Scared in Election

The Democrats are scared. The Chicago organization, more fondly called the "machine" by opponents, is rattling. It just isn't as smooth as it used to be.

One sure sign is the number of celebrities that have come to the state—Sen. Robert Kennedy, Sen. Edward Kennedy, and on Nov. 4, President Johnson.

With a weak Chicago organization, the whole Democratic structure in Illinois falters. Chicago, with 34 per cent of the state's voters, must be kept Democratically-healthy for party victory.

WHILE ONE can be joyful or sad that the machine is in trouble, it should be noted that "backlash" — the latent northern white racism — has caused the trouble. The Republicans cannot claim that brilliant organizational work has turned the trick.

Backlash is particularly flared, according to some sources, among the powerful Polish bloc of Chicago. As a result, such Congressmen as Roman C. Pucinski of the 11th District is in deep trouble.

John C. Hoellen, Republican city alderman, is giving Pucinski a good fight. But, whether openly or not, he is doing it because of the backlash sentiments in the 11th District. The Negro marches around Milwaukee Avenue and Central did more for him than all his years as an alderman which were marked by a lot of noise and ability to get on television.

But Democratic troubles in Chicago (and in suburbia) don't stem just from white backlash. It stems from a backlash of the Negro community against their Democratic white brothers at city hall.

MAYOR DALEY, a growing element believes, has not done as much for Negroes as he would like them to believe.

Nov. 8, 1966, could be the date from which people will say the Democratic Party of Chicago and Cook County started to be fragmented.

What is likely to emerge over the years is a more democratic Democratic organization in Cook County. This is something suburban Democrats have been trying to achieve for several years in their own locales. They've had success. And some failures.

The danger the Republicans face if generally victorious on Nov. 8 is that their party symbol, the elephant, becomes a distinctly White Elephant.

Age Looms as Major Issue In Douglas-Percy Contest

Age.

This is an issue whether anyone likes it or not.

It has developed as a particularly important issue among independent voters, those who give the margin of victory to a candidate.

Sen. Paul Douglas is 74 years old. Charles Percy is 47.

Unless asked to comment, Percy does not bring up the subject of age. When he does comment, he just says he's 47 and Douglas is 74. Period. No more, no less.

DOUGLAS IS doing much to dispel people's worry over his age. He has been vigorous, his voice strong, his gestures emphatic. He has been displaying a lot of political fire.

Maybe too much fire. He has made more direct personal attacks on Percy. This is considered a sign that the 18-year senate veteran knows he's in the toughest political fight he's ever been in.

He's lashed out at Percy from one end of the state to the other.

His campaign literature is full of such phrases as "Percy-Footing" to throw the onus of a vacillator on his Republican opponent.

Percy senses he's got Douglas on the run. He is waging a political high level campaign; that is, he pretty well sticks to "issues."

SOME OF THE "issues" are the regular GOP charges which have grown up over the years while Republicans have been the "out" party.

Others are more serious, such as the all-Asian conference proposal.

Douglas' main theme is that he will continue to be a leader of ideas in the Senate and continue to fight for the "little guy."

THE SENATOR is hailed as having supported and argued for such things as Medicare and other welfare legislation long before final enactment. Douglas maintains the voter knows where he stands whereas Percy has alternately opposed and supported Barry Goldwater.

But such issues aside — age continues to loom as the key issue for the independent voter.

Douglas will be 80-years-old at the end of another term. People worry that at his age, a year, two years from now, he will not be as able as he is today. (A15

Top Caliber Men Vie for Sheriff

The level of politics for Cook County sheriff today is a far cry from what it was only a few terms ago.

Historically, the sheriff's department has been one of the most politically dirty offices in the county. Party dregs of both major parties often were elected, or winners brought with them men of questionable ability, if not character.

Now, the office is being sought by two men with strong professional police backgrounds. They are Democrat Minor K. Wilson and Republican Joseph I. Woods.

WILSON, PRIOR to becoming a candidate, was Chicago Police Supt. O. W. Wilson's chief aide. He has a distinguished background as a army police-intelligence officer and as an investigator in the 1930's.

Woods, most recently chief investigator for the Better Government Association, also had been an FBI agent for 10 years.

Both approach the office with a professional policeman's eye and support many of the same things.

The differences between the two are as much a matter of emphasis rather than actual disagreements.

They do depart on some things such as whether or not to have an internal security force (Wilson wants one, Woods does not think it necessary).

Both agree more policemen are needed—they disagree as to how they may be obtained. Woods wants added personnel; Wilson would obtain them by changing the duties of some bailiffs.

BOTH MEN back a merit system which was started by Sheriff Ogilvie.

Woods gives the impression he personally would be more actively engaged in crime fighting in Cook County. Wilson emphasizes the administrative duties of the sheriff's office.

Both men have pledged that they are independent of political pressures and have said they would not run without the guarantees of their parties that no pressures would be used. (B10

Suburban Eagle Eye Chief Is Appointed

Donald W. Goodman, 514 N. Wille in Mount Prospect, has been appointed suburban coordinator of Operation Eagle Eye according to Thomas Novotny, director of Eagle Eye.

Goodman will direct the activities of coordinators in Cook County's 30 townships in their efforts to recruit poll watchers for election day service in Chicago.

Operation Eagle Eye is the anti-vote fraud arm of the Republican party.

Assisting Goodman will be William L. Griffin, 1521 W. Oakton, Arlington Heights. Griffin will be area chairman for the Northwest suburbs, covering the townships of Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg, Palatine, Elk Grove Village and Wheeling. (B-10

Lutheran General Opening An Addition

by NANCY BENCO
Staff Writer

A vacant corridor . . empty medicine cabinets outlined against a window . . . hospital beds staked in a dusty room . . .

The prelude to opening a hospital's new floors is a time of calm, last-minute activity, the aftermath of which is additional health facilities—more hospital beds and highly sophisticated hospital equipment.

LUTHERAN GENERAL Hospital in Park Ridge celebrates its $6.2 million expansion with an open house and dedication ceremonies Saturday and Sunday.

The completion of construction represents many years of planning, fund-raising and building. Lutheran General officials began blueprinting a massive building program in the early 1960s. In August of 1964, ground was broken for the new five-story wing addition. Three stories were added to the original seven-story building.

The multi-million dollar expansion was partially financed by a $712,000 Hill-Burton federal grant which helped provide additional psychiatric beds, chronic care beds and outpatient facilities. More than $1.5 million has been raised by community contributions.

When it opens, the expanded Lutheran General Hospital will have almost doubled its bed space — from 324 to 587 beds — making it the largest general hospital in suburban Chicago.

NEW EXPANDED facilities include:

—A new emergency department with double the space and twice as many beds to serve an estimated 20,000 patients each year.

—An increase of psychiatric beds from 35 to 81 to help alleviate the present community shortage. Two floors of the hospital will be completely devoted to psychiatric care.

—A long-term care area with special facilities for 41 patients who do not need regular nursing care. This includes patients in the final stages of recovering from heart attacks, strokes, from broken bones and other long term illnesses. Cost of care here will be less than in regular medical-surgical areas. Diagnostic and outpatient facilities will care for 25,000 patients annually.

—A 23-patient intensive nursing care area which will provide specialized and concentrated nursing service and equipment.

—Expanded laboratories featuring equipment performing many tests now done manually.

—FOOD PREPARATION and serving areas enlarged for the 3,000 daily meals needed.

—A new blood bank twice the size of the present unit.

The Park Ridge hospital will aim toward "progressive care" — or correlating nursing care with the degree of a patient's illness.

A HIGH CONCENTRATION of nursing care will be provided in an intensive care unit. Here patients suffering heart attacks or needing serious surgery receive minute-by-minute survey by specialized monitoring equipment and nurses.

A general care area — where the majority of patients are treated — will provide regular hospital nursing care.

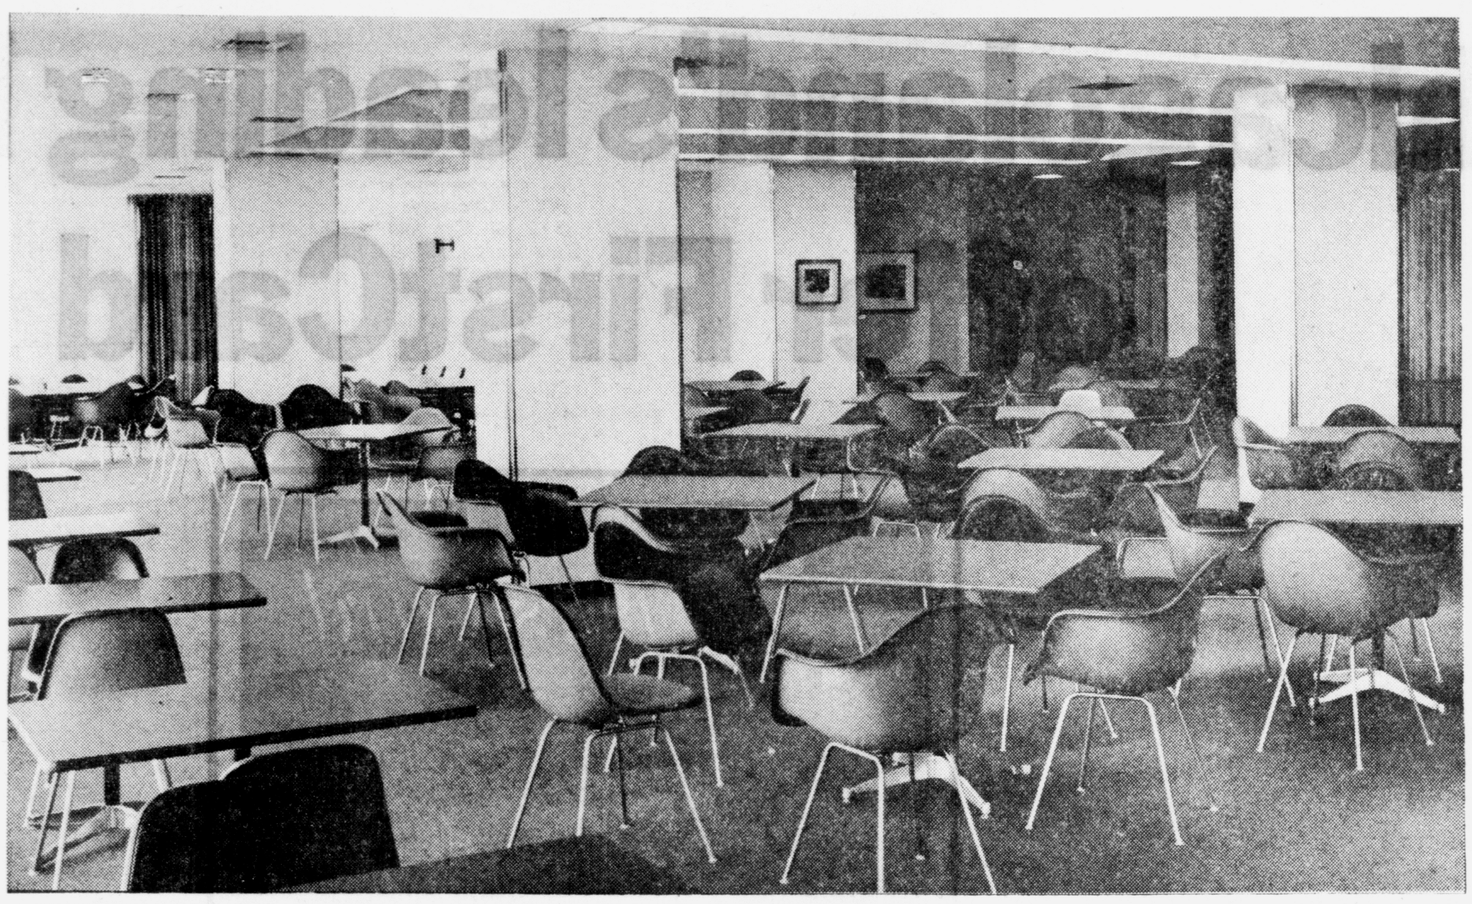
The rehabilitative care area will supply a lesser degree of nursing care. Hospital patients here can eat meals in a common dining room.

A minimal and self-care department and an out-patient area will serve patients who do not need a regular hospital bed. Complete physical examinations is one of the treatments provided in this department.

Lutheran General Hospital opened in 1960. It is a "daughter" hospital of Lutheran Deaconess Hospital in Chicago.

Future building plans in connection with the hospital involve a $100 million medical center. Included in the center — called the Lutheran Institute of Human Ecology — will be the hospital, an alcoholic treatment center, a facility for treatment of emotionally disturbed children, a diagnostic and convalescent building, a short-term geriatrics unit, a research institute and a college of medicine.

Staffed with 250 physicians, the hospital serves a suburban community of more than 455,000 population. (B10



RESTAURANT AT THE TOP of Lutheran General's 10-story main building was part of the $6.2 million expansion. A sweeping view of Park Ridge greets hospital visitors eating in the dining room. Visiting, Services Planned

The public has been invited to attend the open house and dedication ceremony of the expanded Lutheran General Hospital, 1775 Dempster St., Park Ridge Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday, hours for the open house will run from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. On Sunday, open house will be from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Dedication services will be held in the hospital's new lobby at 4 p.m. Sunday.

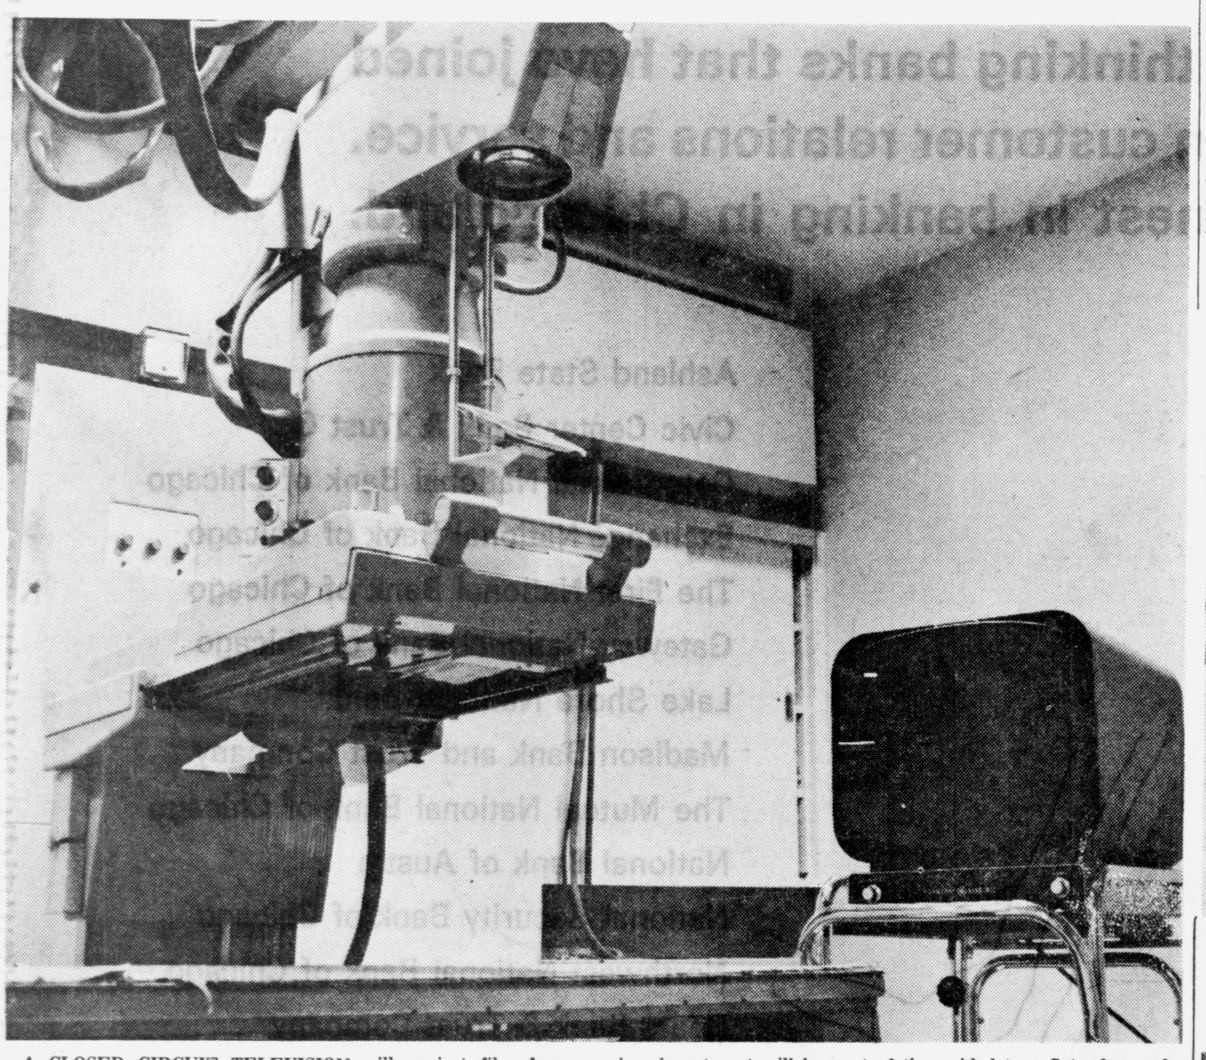
Members of the Service League and Men's Association will act as guides for the tours. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the tour.

AT THE SUNDAY dedicatory services, Dr. George S. Schultz, executive secretary of the board of trustees of the American Lutheran Church, will be featured speaker. His topic is "Of Beds, Bricks and Brothers."

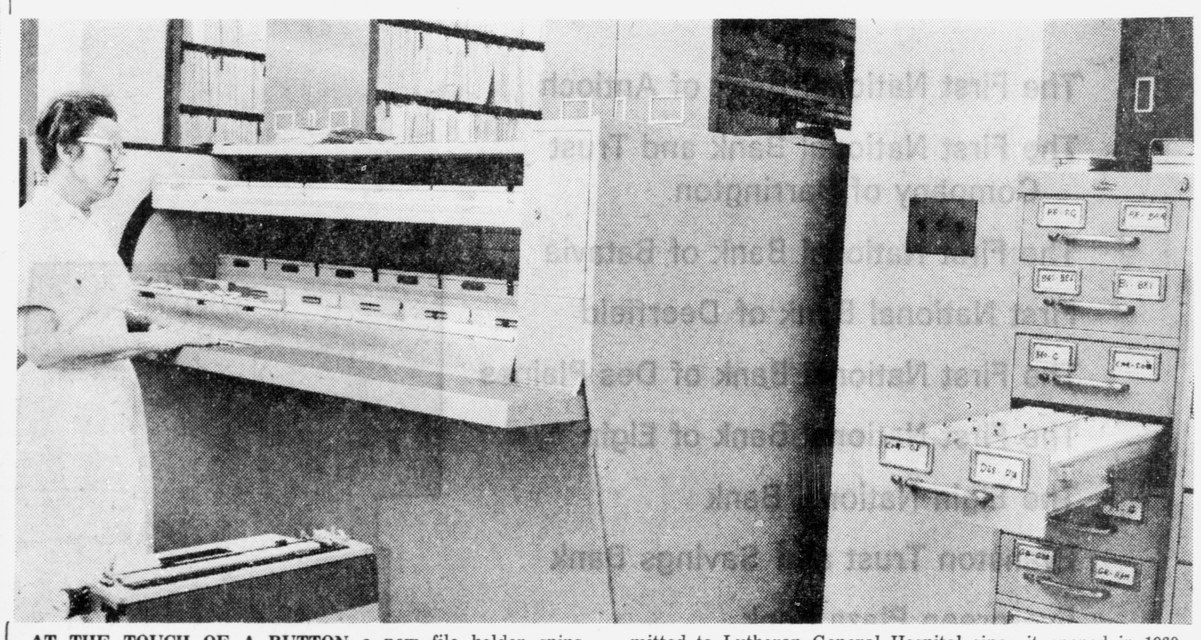
The a cappella choir of Luther High School North will sing during the services.

Special instrumental music will be provided by the brass ensemble of St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect. Guest organist is Robert Breihan of St. Mark Church.

Conducting the service of dedication will be the Rev. Paul Boe, executive director of the board of social service of the American Lutheran Church. Litrgists are the Rev. Lawrence E. Holst, director of the department of pastoral care at Lutheran General, and the Rev. Arthur Knudsen, pastor of Atonement Lutheran Church, Barrington, and a member of the hospital's board of trustees.



A CLOSED CIRCUIT TELEVISION will project film from the X-raying machine (on the left) in one of Lutheran General's new diagnostic X-raying laboratories. The new X-raying department will be part of the guided tour Saturday and Sunday. (Staff Photo)



AT THE TOUCH OF A BUTTON a new file holder spins around and stops at the selected alphabetical roll. Mrs. Viola Matland of Des Plaines, operates the new machine, called a Diebold Elevator. It holds master cards on all patients admitted to Lutheran General Hospital since it opened in 1960 and it replaces the standard file cabinet on the right. (Staff Photo)

University to Open Student Teacher Center in District

by MARY SCHLOTT
Staff Writer

High School District 214 marked a milestone this week with the opening of a University of Illinois student teaching center here with resident supervisors.

Next Wednesday Dr. L. Doolittle, director of student teaching for the university. will be at Elk Grove High School for a 4 p.m. seminar for the student teachers and their supervising District 214 instructors.

At two seminars this week — Wednesday afternoon at Prospect High and the day before at Wheeling — the student teachers were given orientation talks by other university and District 214 staff members.

THE UNIVERSITY of Illinois will have about 30 student teachers in the district during the year, the largest number coming here this term.

Edward Fischer, coordinator of student teaching for the high school district, estimates that close to 70 student teachers will face high school classes here this year.

They will come from six other schools — Northwestern, Northern Illinois University, Illinois State University at Normal, Western Illinois University, George Williams College, and the Art Institute of Chicago — in addition to the University of Illinois.

Several District 214 graduates will be among those doing their student teaching apprenticeships here.

Arlington High graduate Mary Aspengren, now a senior at Illinois, has been assigned to Wheeling High for her student teaching in history. Arles Bosma, a Prospect grad, will do student teaching in history at Arlington High, and Prospect grad Susan Williams will be at Forest View for a student teaching assignment in English.

NANCY LAYER, a Prospect graduate now studying at Northern Illinois, will be at Arlington High during her winter term to do student teaching in mathematics.

Coming here in the spring will be former Arlington graduate Judith Stewart, who has drawn a Wheeling assignment, and Prospect grad Lynne Monfore, who will do student teaching at Forest View. Miss Stewart, a University of Illinois senior and Miss Monfore, a Northern Illinois coed, will both do their student teaching under District 214 English instructors.

A stint at student teaching is a necessity for education majors, but it could be done at many other high schools besides those here. Why does District 214 take on such a large student teaching load?

Because, says Supt. Edward H. Gilbert, the district feels it has a responsibility to help train teachers.

"We think District 214 has a lot to offer these students, too," adds Fischer. "We can give them the benefit of a large school with an up-to-date staff, modern surroundings and a widely specialized diversified curriculum. A student who think he'd like to teach chemistry can do so, where he may not find it offered at small downstate schools."

A MAJOR benefit to the district comes from having a closer-than-cursory look at young men and women who'll be seeking jobs next year.

"Any college student who's really doing a good job of student teaching gets an offer of a District 214 contract before he leaves," Fischer says. Often it's accepted.

The local teachers themselves benefit from exchange of idea, draw salaries and — in the case of those with University of Illinois students — get fringe benefits.

Whether they are residents here, like the University of Illinois student teaching supervisors, or "circuit riders" — like those from other campuses, the college supervisors help District 214 instructors learn new approaches.

All colleges and universities except Northwestern contribute to a fund that helps pay local instructors who draw student teaching supervision. The amounts paid are not large; the average District 214 instructor doing student teacher supervision drew a $45 paycheck last year. The payments are figured on a per-week-of-supervision basis.

THE LOCAL school teacher who draws University of Illinois students receive a card that entitles him to on-campus parking, use of library and research facilities, lower rates for drama or sports admission tickets — and a free tuition to one class. In a profession which stresses regular additional coursework, that privilege is the one most often used. (ACME

Ordinance No. 0-47-66

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE VILLAGE OF PALATINE

WHEREAS, a public hearing was held on August 25, 1966, pursuant to a notice published in the Palatine Enterprise on July 7, 1966, at least fifteen days prior thereto, and

WHEREAS, said public hearing was held by a Commission consisting of the members of the Zoning Board of Appeals, to which the following amendment to the Zoning Ordinance had been referred, and

WHEREAS, said Commission held said hearing and made a report as to said amendment to said Zoning Ordinance,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Palatine, that:

SECTION 1: The Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Palatine as amended, is hereby further amended:

A. By changing the definition entitled "Street" in Article II, Section 2.02 thereof, to read as follows: "A public or private right of way which affords the primary means of access to abutting property."

B. By amending Section 4.11 of Article IV entitled "Front Yard" by adding the following to paragraph (b) thereof: "In Business and Manufacturing Districts only: lighting standards; advertising signs; service station islands with customary appurtenances."

C. By amending Section 8.05, Article VIII, by changing the word "paragraph" appearing in the last sentence of paragraph (c) thereof to the word "Article."

D. By changing Paragraph 1-c of Section 10.02, Article X, to read as follows:

"c (1) To hold public hearings on application for Special Uses as authorized in this Article X, and submit reports on said hearings to the Village Board setting forth its findings and recommendations.

(2) To hold public hearings on petitions for Amendments referred to it, and submit reports to the Village Board setting forth its findings and recommendations in the manner prescribed in this article and as provided by statute."

E. By amending Section 10.05 in Article X, by adding to subparagraph 2 (a)-1 thereof the word "and" and further by changing the word "or" in subparagraph 2(a) thereof to the word "and"

F. By adding the following words to Section 10.07, Paragraph 4, sub-paragraph (a) in Chapter X thereof: "if categorized as (a) by paragraph 1 above."

G. By amending Paragraph 1 of Section 10.03, Article X, to read as follows:

"1. To receive and review all applications for Amendments and special uses; to communicate to the Village Board and, when the Zoning Board of Appeals is the hearing body, to the said Zoning Board of Appeals, its observations pertaining to said applications. In connection with their duties under this paragraph, the members of the Plan Commission shall have access to all evidence, including documents and exhibits, relating to such applications, and may attend the public hearing and offer evidence thereat."

SECTION 2: This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication as provided by law.

PASSED: This 24th day of October, 1966.

Ayes: 6; Nays: 0; Absent: 0; Pass: 0.

APPROVED BY me this 24th day of October, 1966.

Social Activity Shows Renewal as Last Leaf Is Rake

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS THURS., NOV. 3, 1966

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights, Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate

Mary O'Leary CL 9-3827 — Maryann Buczek CL 5-5033

Congratulations, Sidelighters! Things have been a little more active this week, it seems. Although many are still bound to their rakes, there are definite signs of social activity buzzing around. Many local moms spent last weekend dressing their little ones in costumes, ranging from the traditional witches and hoboes to Batman, and handing out treats to all of the visiing trick or treaters.

About the wildest Halloween party around was reported by Barbara Mendl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Mendl, 745 S. Vail. Barbara babysat and helped out with the party preparations at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Freas, 333 N. Kaspar, who were readying the party room of the Salemburg Apartments for the grand event. Besides providing dinner for 19 couples, all were busy giving the decorations a ghostly-ghastly air.

INCLUDED IN the decorations were a false crepe-paper ceiling, a spider web (complete with gigantic spider) behind the bar and a dangling eye-ball mobile hung in the bathroom. The biggest attraction of the entire evening was the arrival of the guests themselves arrayed in all of their "finery." "Way-out" costumes included a wedding cake and chef, two pgymies who had baked their own shrunken heads in their oven at home, two outhouses, two sisters, Reverend Houlingdog and his portable confessional and two Romans. Since all of the costumes were so terrific, there was a great deal of difficulty in deciding who should get the prize for the best costumes. As it turned out, six prizes were given out, but in no particular order, for the best outfits and two booby prizes, to Norm Rice and Mrs. Eva Sinberg were awarded "for the fun of it." All of this activity, which started out Saturday evening came to an end early Sunday morning.

The T. Mendls, George Peaks, William Brines, and the Paul Wheelers recently attended the annual fall dinner dance at the Itasca Country Club. The couples spent an enjoyable evening listening to the Griff Williams dance band and together wound up the festivities with breakfast the next morning.

CURRENTLY VISITING in the Gordon Zwissler home, 114 Brighton, are Mr. Zwissler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Zwissler, who arrived in Arlington Heights two weeks ago from Ontario, Calif. They plan to stay another week or two.

Among the interesting outings the Zwisslers have made with the senior Zwisslers was a visit to the Haeger Pottery plant in Dundee, where they watched pottery being made.

Barbara Stohnke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stohnke, 110 Brighton, and student at the American Academy of Art went to Northern Illinois University in DeKalb to attend homecoming.

A new pledge to the MU chapter of Delta Delta Delta sorority is Sally Godenrath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Godenrath, 301 N. Stratford. Sally is a student on the Madison campus of the University of Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wesler, 322 Derbyshire, went to Madison last weekend to attend the Wisconsin-Michigan football game and to visit their son, Hugh, a student at the University of Wisconsin. Also attending the game were Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith, 517 S. Prindle.

MR. AND MRS. Sidney Alkire enjoyed a short visit on the weekend of Oct. 22 from their daughter Karen, a student at the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

The Norman Bauskes of 111 S. Kaspar celebrated two birthdays this week. Brice, 7, Oct. 18, had a pirate party for some of his friends on Saturday. His birthday cake was a pirate ship to coordinate with the party theme.

Brooks Bauske became a teenager Oct. 27. A party was held in his honor when he and some friends had a day off from school. Norman Bauske treated his son and some friends to an outing at Bauske Boat Basin in Fox Lake, where the boys spent 12 hours riding boats, tractors and construction equipment.

ON OCT. 20, Paula Carstens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carstens, was co-hostess along with Cyn Dee Kort of 207 N. Dwyer in honor of Paula's 14th birthday. Eleven young ladies were guests at the slumber party held in Cyn Dee's home.

Miss Eileen Hanigan from New York will be the houseguest of Henry and Lou Hanigan for two weeks. Eileen is Henry's sister.

The Hanigans are also enjoying a visit from their son, Pvt. Philip Hanigan who is home on leave from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Birthday greetings were extended to Joan Davis, 13 Oct. 28; Pat Hoffman, 17 Oct. 24, and Laura Heiden, 13 Oct. 31.

Anniversary greetings go to Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wroblewski of 209 N. Derbyshire.

ANNIVERSARY salutations also went to Mr. and Mrs. Leander Gatewood on Oct. 29. They celebrated their 11th anniversary with dinner and a play at the Candle Light Playhouse. The play was a Broadway comedy, "Abie's Irish Rose."

Mr. and Mrs. James Hahn of 701 N. Vail were guests at a triple purpose party hosted by the John Kolds of Skokie. The guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Hahn, Jim's parents from Chicago, for whom the party was a combination farewell, anniversary and mutual birthday celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Hahn are planning to move to Wisconsin, and the well wishers at the party were their six children and their families.

Yes, a second name once again appears at the top of the Sidelights column. Both girls are trying hard to accumulate the local news. If you have some to help swell the column, they can be reached on the weekends or during after school hours.

WHAT IF WE DIDN'T HAVE A-BOMB 1st?
EINSTEIN, ATTRACTED BY OUR FREEDOM, HELPS US SCORE VITAL SUCCESS

A group of scientists exploded the world's first atom bomb at 5:30 A.M. Monday, July 16, 1945 at Alamogordo, N. M., thereby ushering in the atomic age.

Part of the story of how the U.S. got the atom bomb first goes back to 1933. That year, one of history's great scientists, Albert Einstein, fleeing Nazi tyranny, came to America to live.

On Oct. 11, 1939 he urged President Roosevelt to investigate use of atomic energy. The Manhattan Project was then established to develop the atom bomb.

One shudders at the thought of what might have happened if the U.S. was not the first nation to have the atom bomb. And we might not have been first if Albert Einstein, seeking religious freedom, had not come here to live.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Visiting Bill and Annaliese Sommerfield recently was Annaliese's mother, Mrs. Anne Dahland of Chicago. Mrs. Dahland arrived to help care for her new grandson, Robert James, born Oct. 16. After spending several days with her daughter and family, Mrs. Dahland took Lisa Sommerfield with her to Chicago for a week's stay. Lisa returned to her home at 1223 N. Race last Friday.

Twins Peter and Kathy, children of the Bill Browns, 1243 N. Wilke, celebrated their second birthday Oct. 27. Coming from Ottawa for the occasion was their grandmother, Mrs. Dorothy Brown. Great grandmother, Mrs. Ida Dick, arrived from Racine, Wis., and the children's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Florence McGrath, came from Arlington. Neighbors Dorothy Clavin and daughter, Katy, were also present. Birthday cake was sent to other neighbors as part of the celebration.

Oct. 28 was the third birthday of Marc Gleeson, son of the Jack Gleesons, 1239 N. Illinois. On Saturday, Marc celebrated with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Gleeson of Chicago, his parents and sister, Vicki.

CINDY ROSS, daughter of the Bill Rosses, 1252 N. Chicago, was 12 on Oct. 31. She celebrated at a birthday supper Saturday evening. A number of her friends were present for the occasion. On her birthday she celebrated again with a family party.

The Terrace bids farewell to Waymon and Barbara Wittman and son, Wade. The Wittmans moved Saturday from 1433 N. Wilke to their newly-purchased home in Buffalo Grove. They were Terrace residents for nearly a year.

Celebrating their 10th wedding anniversary last week were Bill and Freya Jones, 1227 N. Illinois. Oct 27 was the anniversary date. The night before, the Joneses and friends, Pat Sendin of Northbrook, Fred Cooper of Algonquin, and Baird Wallace of Deerfield, went out to dinner at the Evergreens in Dundee. On the night of the anniversary the same group enjoyed a boat ride on the Fox River. They got on the boat at Hansen's Marina and rode to Algonquin, where they got off for dinner at Port Edward.

Oct. 26, Rosemary Shellander, 1716 W. Olive, entertained a group of neighbors at a Halloween coffee. Attending were Vaneta Kellogg, Sally Duda, Jo Anne Herndon, Janet Manthei, Mary Massa, Kay Platte, Lena Duss, Mary Ann Landry, Jo Rozdalovsky, Ellen Wile, and Anne Cardinell.

CELEBRATING her birthday on Saturday was Janine Krewer, daughter of the Paul Krewers, 1256 N. Illinois. Janine was 7. Enjoying the treasure hunt and birthday refreshments were Sherry and Julie Skalicky, Diane Yore, Mary Murphy, Kim Merckx, Sue Kruse, Kathy Schmidt, Jan Ball, Erica Berrier, Jenny Scheldrup, Patti Rosheger, Susan Ringle, Linda Fugate, Carol Robertson, Caren Swisher, and Janine's sisters, Julie, Jo Anne, and Jennifer, and her brother, Johnny.

Cathy Amann, daughter of the Jim Amanns, 1409 N. Wilke, was 10 Oct. 30. She celebrated with a family party Sunday. Present were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Amann, and Leonard Weidner; her parents; sister Dawn, and brother Jimmy.

A Halloween theme was used for the sixth birthday celebration of Mike Duda, son of the Dan Dudas, 1337 N. Wilke. Mike was 6 on October 26 and celebrated the day before with Howard, Laurie, and Jill Redding, Jimmy Amann, Jeffrey Rollefson, Wayne Herndon, Teddy Misch, Bobby Markese, and sisters, Peggy, Sandy, and Diane.

STEVEN POOLE, son of the Bill Pooles, 1329 N. Chicago, was one on Oct. 30. He celebrated by going out to dinner in Dundee with a group of relatives, including his grandparents, the Paul E. Reicherts; aunt and uncle, the Ronald Reicherts of Joliet; aunt and uncle, the John Carlsons; grandparents, the J. E. Pooles of Arlington Heights; his parents, and brother Jeffrey. After dinner the group returned to the J. E. Pooles for cake and ice cream.

Hostesses at the Christmas-card coffees for the St. James Women's Guild last week were Jan Murphy and Kathy Gibbons. About a dozen women met at the Murphys' Wednesday evening. On Thursday morning, Kathy Gibbons entertained a group of neighbor women.

Laura Redding, daughter of the Howard Reddings, 1345 N. Wilke, was hostess at a Halloween party Saturday afternoon. Neighborhood children attending were Wayne Herndon, Peggy and Mike Duda, Jeff Rollefson, Jimmy Amann, and Laura's sister and brother, Jill and Howard. (A

11 Nurses Complete A Refresher Course

Eleven registered nurses graduated Wednesday from Northwest Community Hospital's third refresher course in professional nursing.

The six-week course, offered to nurses planning to resume their careers, is aimed at teaching them new methods and techniques of nursing.

The refresher course consisted of medical lectures given by several staff physicians, nursing care classes, and seminars. Supervised clinical experience was given in the various nursing units with the cooperation of the head nurses and their staff.

According to Mrs. Mary Dugan, director of inservice education, a total of 24 students have graduated from Northwest Community's refresher classes.

New graduates are: Darlene Borgelt, Yvone Chan, Louise Kivland, Regina Shelley, Anne May, Emma Kaap, Helen Norquist, Carol Ortlieb, Marguerite Arras, Elinor Simons, and Edna Spruance.

The course will be offered again in the spring. (B10

Suburban Leaders Question MFT Distribution System

by MARY SCHLOTT
Staff Writer

"Walk into any City Hall in Illinois, ask what is done with motor fuel tax funds, and the respondent will face Springfield while he answers."

That quotation sets the tone for a position paper on which the Northwest Municipal Conference will base its MFT testimony at the state Municipal Problems Commission hearing later this month in Des Plaines.

Written by James L. Galloway, Park Ridge city manager, and Charles B. Hetrick, assistant city manager, the paper was distributed to member governments at a Northwest Municipal Conference meeting last Wednesday in Mount Prospect. It is dated Nov. 17.

The fundamental question raised by the pair is this: How much control should the state have over motor fuel tax (MFT) funds it collects for use by local governments on local streets?

RIGHT NOW, state control of MFT funds is pervasive, perplexing and subject to interpretations that would require extrasensory perception to understand, the report asserts.

These recommendations for amendment of the Illinois Highway Code regarding MFT funds are made in the position paper:

—That cities and villages earmark funds for construction, repair and related right-of-way improvements of all local streets — not just for those declared "arterial."

—That state-local cooperation for improving other than local streets be provided for by mutual agreement rather than a mandatory legislative formula.

—THAT FUNDS be paid to the cities monthly rather than after each project is completed.

—That municipalities be permitted to invest MFT funds, provided that the interest helps finance road repairs.

—That an annual state audit of MFT funds be required.

The Park Ridge officials sent questionnaires to the 49 other states asking about regulation of MFT funds — and received answers back from 47.

They found that 23 states exercise little control over the MFT funds rebated to municipalities. Two other states rebating MFT funds to local governments require fund earmarking and standards controls. Seven states join with Illinois in requiring earmarking, standards controls and procedural controls.

The long time required for state clearance of MFT-funded projects draws caustic comment in the Municipal Conference position paper. Okaying of projects takes 15 forms, multiple copies of all documents and two to six months processing, the writers say.

"It is only natural to question the total need for such overhead," the report asserts. (B10

Taylor-Burton Drama Opens at Golf Mill

Beautiful, violet-eyed Elizabeth Taylor takes on a demanding and unflattering role as the shrewish, vitriolic Martha in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

Playing opposite Miss Taylor is her husband, Richard Burton, as Martha's emotionally-depleted husband George.

The explosive drama of a disintegrating modern marriage, based on the stage play by Edward Albee, will open tomorrow (Friday) at the Golf Mill Theatre.

Directed by Mike Nichols, "Virginia Woolf" co-stars Sandy Dennis and George Segal as the younger but equally dangerous and self-destructive couple.

No children will be allowed to see this movie unless accompanied by their parents.

FIRST NIGHTERS crowd into the lobby of the new Thunderbird Theatre in Hoffman Estates on opening night. Featuring 1,200 seats on one floor, the new theater is equipped with stereophonic sound and a 62-foot screen. It has courtyard lounges with flowers and foliage in season. Located at the intersection of Golf, Higgins and Roselle Roads, the Thunderbird will be available for civic activities on afternoons it is not showing movies.

Form New Youth Musical Groups

Two new youth orchestras have been organized for young musicians who want to play in a large, well-balanced symphony orchestra.

The North Suburban Youth Orchestra rehearses every Monday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Old Orchard Junior High School, Skokie. Auditions may be arranged with the director, C. William Douglass, 272-5579, or 676-9000.

The Chicago Young Judea Symphony has formed a training group that will hold its first rehearsal Monday, Nov. 7, at 7 p.m. at the Zionist Building, 6326 N. California, Chicago. Interested musicians may apply for membership by writing Frank Isaacs, executive director, 72 E. 11th St., Chicago, or by telephoning WE 9-4168 or SO 8-3656. (Bill

Mrs. Flowers Named To Robinwoods Post

Robert Carlson, vice president of Robinwoods West, Inc., has announced the appointment of Mrs. Eve Flowers as mortgage manager of the building firm.

Mrs. Flowers' first responsibility will be the supervision of all mortgage applications for the Robinwoods West community, a new 435-townhome development under construction in the western suburbs. Carlson stated:

EVE FLOWERS

"A knowledgeable person on staff will be able to speed the processing time required to get a buyer's mortgage application approved. In a purchaser's terms, this means construction on their home can start sooner."

Town homes in the $8 million development, which is located approximately two miles west of Barrington Road on Lake Street, range in price from $13,990 to $22,990. Monthly payments, including principal and interest, start at $96. FHA-insured mortgages are available.

The newly appointed mortgage executive stated:

"Because the homes have one to four bedrooms, offering a diversity of floor plans, and they are in an established community, owners have a built-in financial security. At the same time they're building equity, they're living in a home designed to fit a growing family's needs in those important years when extra space is essential."

Prior to joining Robinwoods West, Inc., Mrs. Flowers was in charge of mortgage processing for a multiple-development builder in the northwest suburbs, as well as a home building organization near Carpentersville.

She resides in McHenry with her husband and one son, age 16.

Robinwoods West will be opened in October. The town home community features ranch and two-story homes, as well as a community recreation center, the Robinwood Club. Lifetime membership in the club is included with each home purchase. (RE

Canadians in Regent Development Tour

Twenty-four representatives from the Ontario, Canada, division of the Urban Development Institute got a first-hand look at an "open space" development during a tour of the United Development Company's Regent Park subdivision in Arlington Heights.

The Canadian delegation, which included five women, represented the upper echelon of Ontario's building field. The group had requested that a study of Regent Park be included in its itinerary.

The subdivision, located on Kensington Road about a half-mile west of the Randhurst shopping center, is generally recognized as one of the foremost examples of a planned unit development in the Chicago area.

FRED PETERMAN, director of sales for Regent Park, conducted the tour. He was assisted by Patrick Bracken, a representative of the Home Builders Association of Chicago.

During the tour, Peterman said, the Canadians expressed particular interest in Regent Park's condominiums. According to Peterman, the delegates reported that condominiums are "virtually non-existent in many areas in Canada."

In addition to the condominiums, the Canadians noted such other building sidelights as homes with direct access to attached garages, eight-foot high ceilings in rooms on the second level, and sunken trash containers. None of these features, a delegate remarked, are generally prevalent in Canada. Codes do not allow direct access to an attached garage in their area and 7' 6" high ceilings are standard.

THE CANADIAN market is operating in an atmosphere where demand still outstrips the supply. Representatives of the Urban Development Institute indicated that perhaps the planned unit area—such as exemplified by Regent Park — would provide a new sales outlet. One building organization member reported sales of up to 3,000 homes annually by his company.

"We have multiple dwellings like your town houses," one of the delegates said, "but ours are concentrated in a given area such as is the case in a planned unit subdivision such as Regent Park."

The Candadian added that while "we have a sellers' market, we still have some problems similar to yours—such as different building codes in different areas and a short supply of money available for home loans."

Among its principal objectives, the Canadian Institute works for "better planned communities at the best possible prices to the public," and toward "encouraging the reasonable and economic use of land."

Sabonjian to Speak To Realtors Board

Waukegan Mayor Robert Sabonjian, a write-in candidate for United States senator, is scheduled as the guest speaker at today's (Thursday's) meeting of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors. The meeting will start with dinner at 7 p.m. at Rolling Green Country Club, Arlington Heights.

Sabonjian, regarded as an oppenent of open occupancy legislation of the kind supported by the major party candidates, will speak on the subject, "Your Home is Your Castle." The realty board said Sabonjian "recommends a new society dedicated to the proposition that each individual assumes his own responsibility to God, country and his fellow man. He believes that our heritage which has made this nation great has been the determination by citizens to voluntarily assume the responsibility of self development and to reject control at the federal level." (RE

Programs To Be Explained

"A Briefing Session on Federal Housing Programs" is the title of the Chicago Real Estate Board's luncheon members meeting to be held Nov. 9, 1966, according to A. G. Behnke, CREB Program Chairman.

The meeting will be held in the Maximilian Room of the Bismarck Hotel, 171 West Randolph Street at noon.

The program will feature a panel of three speakers: Jared B. Shlaes, George S. Lurie Co.; Marvin B. Myers, Chicago Realtor; and David Stahl, special assistant to Mayor Daley.

THE SPEAKERS will present a concentrated look at new opportunities available in real estate as a result of federal housing programs. In addition they will attempt to provide those attending with the tools and techniques to profitably develop a project in their own community.

Tickets are $5 each. Reservations may be made through Tom Hughes at board headquarters, 105 W. Madison, CE 6-4688.

Baird & Warner Volume Dips

Baird & Warner's sales volume for the first three quarters of 1956 dropped slightly while the number of transactions concluded showed a small increase 3 per cent growth, which, acover that tallied for a similar period last year, when the real estate firm broke all previous records in the sale of real estate.

According to figures just released by John L. Hall, senior vice-president and general sales manager, volume totaled $68,-795,625 compared with $69,771,-447 for a 1.4 per cent decrease during the first nine months of the current year. The number of sales climbed from 1,734 to 1,743 for one-half of 1 per cent growth.

The biggest gain was reflected in the sale of 95 vacant parcels, including farms, for a 32 per cent growth over the 73 transactions concluded in this category during the 1965 first three-quarter period. The sale of commercial and apartment uildings containing 12 and more buildings containing 12 and more units showed almost a 3 per cent growth, which according to Hall, indicates a renewed interest in investment properties.

THE NUMBER OF transactions involving single family residences, including co-op and condominium apartments, declined less than 1 per cent from 1,531 in 1965 to 1,519 in 1966. The sale of apartment buildings containing less than 12 units dropped about 5½ per cent.

A shortage of property available for sale plus the tight mortgage situation are cited by Hall in explaining the drop in single family residences and smaller apartment buildi n g transactions, and not the fact that there was a scarcity of buyers. With continued building in suburban areas, he looks for the supply of pre-owned housing to improve.

The present supply of listings are mainly from owners finding it necessary to place their home on the market when they move out of the area because of job transfers. Mortgage money, he points out, is still available in limited amounts, but at higher interest rates and with the requirement of good credit ratings on the part of borrowers.

The following is a breakdown of sales by category:

	1966	1965	% of Inc. or (Decrease)
Gross Sales Volume	68,795,625	69,771,447	(1.40%)
Residential Properties (Including Co-op & Condominium apts.)	1,519	1,531	(0.78%)
Apartment Buildings (Under 12 units)	52	55	(5.45%)
Commercial and Apartment (12 units and over)	75	73	2.74%
Vacant Parcels (Including farms)	95	72	31.94%
Miscellaneous	2	3	(33.33%)

Dominick's Stand On Food Prices

Dominick Di Matteo Jr., President of Dominick's Finer Food Stores, has released a statement on the present food price situation as it exists in the Chicago area.

Di Matteo said, "Because of the unusual amount of advertising and publicity now being foisted on homemakers as to a revolutionary trend in food price reductions by some of the large food chains in the area, thousands of homemakers are concerned not only with prices they have been paying, are now paying, but also what the future may bring.

"In fact, many consumers have taken to hoarding since there is a feeling that prices will again spiral upward.

"Back in April, 1963, Dominick's merchandisers re-emphasized their interest in Dominick's price levels; they studied operating figures and made adjustments. There was a concentrated effort to acquaint home makers that Dominick's was and will always be known for lower prices. At that time, many other independently owned food operators made necessary adjustments. This, of course, is based on the fact that since these businesses were independently owned, a smaller margin of profit was acceptable.

"There was no requirement to satisfy stock-holders with reports and dividends always necessary in a public-owned operation.

"It is a consistently low price policy such as observed and practiced at Dominick's that means consistent savings all year around." (BB

Kennedy Unveils Custom Home Plan

"Building a home on your own lot has become a great luxury. We are putting it back into the price range of a home built in our development communities," the president of Kennedy Development Company said this week in announcing the firm's new Custom Home Division.

Robert J. Kennedy said his company is now building individualized Kennedy-designed homes in buyers' chosen communities, or on country or lakeside property owned by buyers.

"We are giving our custom home buyers a firm price before a spadeful of ground is turned. Each knows at the start exactly what his home will cost when it is finished," Kennedy stated.

CUSTOM BUYERS are being offered all the tested floor plans and architectural styles that are available in the firm's three current community developments—Fox Point in Barrington, Charlemagne in Northbrook and Tanglewood in Lake Forest.

Robert F. Pink, manager of the Custom Division with headquarters at Tanglewood, explained how a home plan is individualized.

"The model homes in our three communities make it possible for custom buyers to 'try on' their new homes before they are built. They can walk through full-scale floor plans, feel the true size of rooms, and touch the building materials," he said.

"After that," Pink added, "our architects make whatever changes and additions are required to meet the preferences and special requirements of the family."

CUSTOM HOMES on individual sites, Pink stated, are built to the same quality standards of homes built in Kennedy's own communities.

A new model home at Tanglewood, "Bordeaux," is one of the designs now available for custom building. It is a spacious two-story, four-bedroom brick house in a French estate style, sited on a landscaped 1½ acre lot surrounded by a natural wood. The living room, which occupies a wing, has a beamed "cathedral" ceiling. The house has been decorated and furnished throughout by Barnitz Studios.

Tanglewood is reached by driving Waukegan Road to Everett Road in Lake Forest, then by going west on Everett a half-mile to Oak Knoll Drive and north on Oak Knoll into Tanglewood. (RE

Littelfuse Sales At Level High

Nine month net sales and earnings of Littelfuse, Inc., manufacturer of electronic and electrical protection devices, have been reported at record levels.

Sales were $8,667,148 compared with $7,202,119 for the like period in 1965.

Earnings were $268,558 or 69 cents per share; in 1965 they were $261,329 or 67 cents a share, according to Jack D. Hughes, president of the electronics firm.

"While the earnings are not at the same ratio as sales because of material shortages, we expect that they will return to their proper ratio during the fourth quarter," Hughes reported to Littelfuse shareholders. He also foresaw an even larger role to be played by Littelfuse engineered products in the man-on-moon Apollo program. The Des Plaines firm is a critical parts supplier to the space program.

Walgreen In Credit Card Plan

Shoppers may charge their purchases at Walgreen Drug Stores under the new Midwest Bank System's bank card charge plan, according to C. R. Walgreen Jr., chairman of the board.

The firm has signed up with the First National Bank of Chicago's FirstCard plan, though Walgreen shoppers will be able to use any of the new approved Midwest Bank Cards such as Charge-It, Town & Country Charge, and Illinois Bankcharge

Walgreens is the largest major retailer to participate in the First National Bank's FirstCard plan so far.

Participating will be over 130 Walgreen Drug Stores in Cook, Lake, Kane, Will, and DuPage counties, plus the Indiana counties of Lake and LaPorte in addition to Walgreen stores in Rockford and Kankakee.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED USERS

Before you call an ad-visor to place your

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS AD

consider this:

You are about to invest money for an ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results:

1. DON'T OMIT THE ADDRESS

Many out-of-town readers will write you, but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. DON'T OMIT THE PHONE NUMBER

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. DON'T USE BLIND BOX NUMBERS

Avoid them if at all possible. They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. DON'T CONCEAL THE PRICE DESIRED

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. DON'T LEAVE HOME ON THE DAYS YOU ADVERTISE

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. DON'T OMIT IMPORTANT WORDS TO SAVE MONEY

Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and amount to much less in the long run.

7. DON'T OVERLOOK OUR LOWER RATE FOR CONSECUTIVE INSERTIONS

You'll get the biggest parade of readers at the lowest price. Your Needs Satisfied thru Paddock Publications Classified.

Foster Care Major Service Of Home and Aid Society

At any one time 50 per cent of the cases being helped by the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society are children needing foster care, youngsters who, for one reason or another, are not able to live with their own families and must depend upon others for their care.

This statement was made by Spencer H. Crookes, executive director of the privately supported, non-sectarian child care agency.

"Thirty-nine per cent of our caseload are babies for whom we provide adoption services, and 11 per cent are maternity cases, for the most part unmarried mothers who need help before, during and after the birth of their babies," he stated.

EACH YEAR more than 600 Illinois children are served through the Society's service program of adoption and foster care. In addition to family care, foster care services include residential treatment for children with serious emotional problems, therapeutic group home living for adolescents and counseling help to prevent family breakdown. These services are available to children and families of all races and religions.

Interesting facts and figures about children being helped through the Society's foster care services, according to Crookes, include:

—45 per cent have emotional problems requiring special psychological help

—7 per cent receive special help because they are hard of hearing, mentally retarded or have orthopedic problems

—56 per cent have been under the Society's care for more than five years.

CROOKES NOTED that the average length of time a child is helped through foster care services is eight years.

"Indicative of the volume of service provided by the Society are the number of people who visit our headquarters at 1122 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, each week. In an average week, 326 children, foster parents, adoption applicants, unmarried mothers, volunteers and tradesmen have appointments with our staff," he said.

Founded in 1883, the Society is supported by allocations from community chests and united funds, from payments by parents and gifts from individuals.

An important source of funds is the annual Red Stocking appeal. Since the Society's earliest days, friends throughout Illinois have remembered children at Christmas by returning the little red stocking with a gift for a child's care. (S

Dental Group Meets Nov. 8

Dr. Emmett L. Boyles, Mount Prospect pedodontist, will speak to the Northwest Suburban Branch of Chicago Dental Assistants Association on Tuesday, Nov. 8, after dinner at the Maitre d' Restaurant, Elk Grove Village.

His topic will be "Basic Ideas Regarding the Child Patient."

ALL DENTAL assistants in the northwest suburban area are invited to the 7:30 dinner and meeting at 8:30.

Lucille Richter may be called at 894-3316 (before 1 p.m.) or 253-7686 for reservations. (S

CCD Marriage Counselor Is Club Speaker

St. Theresa Council of Catholic Women will hold its next meeting Wednesday, Nov. 8, in the school hall, 445 N. Benton, Palatine. Mass at 7:30 will precede the meeting.

Speaker will be Fr. Robert Loftus from St. Thomas More Parish who will discuss the reforms in the new liturgy. Fr. Loftus is area director for CCD and marriage counselor for the National Council of Catholic Women. He is now conducting a weekly seminar in three south side parishes on Bible study and liturgy. All ladies of the parish are invited. (S

Secretaries At Conference

Seven members of the local Park-Plaines Chapter of the National Secretaries Association, including the chapter president, Ilda Balhatchet, and Louise Kitto of Arlington Heights and Grace Roth of Palatine, attended the 11th annual Great Lakes District Conference last weekend in Indianapolis.

Held at the Sheraton-Lincoln Hotel, the conference featured as speakers the district vice president, Lenore Forti, Mrs. Louise Bushnell of the National Association of Manufacturers of New York and Miss Fran Riley of New York, public relations director of the National Secretaries Association.

The area secretaries, along with more than 400 others, participated in several forums while at the conference. (S

Food Is Topic At St. Joseph

Mrs. Ruth J. Williams, food and homemaking consultant, will be the featured speaker for the Thursday, Nov. 10, meeting of St. Joseph the Worker Catholic Women's Club. The 8:30 p.m. session begins in the church's newly named Nazareth Hall in Wheeling.

Mrs. Williams will be introduced by Mrs. William Hendrickson, program chairman, after a short business meeting.

At the close of the program, refreshments made by Mrs. Williams and a club committee, headed by Mrs. M. Schuetz, will be served. (S

Sorority Activities

Choral Society Dance Is Friday at Old Orchard

AUGIE ALONZO

"Le Bal d'Automne," a semi-formal benefit dance for the Northwest Choral Society, will be presented Friday evening, Nov. 4, at 8:30 in Old Orchard Country Club.

A hot buffet supper will be served at midnight and on the program will be Augie Alonzo, entertainer, and the Dell Tones, who will provide the dance music.

Tickets for the dance will be available at the door and proceeds will help the Society defray expenses for its next concert to be given Nov. 20 at Resurrection High School. Mrs. Franklin Kulle, 299-6304, may be contacted for further information about the dance or the concert. (S

Motors and Magic Slated For St. Colette Program

Thirty-five minutes of motors and magic will be on the agenda at the St. Colette Catholic Women's Club meeting Wednesday, Nov. 9, when Frank R. Burrows Jr. of the Citizen's Safety Board of Chicago will be guest speaker.

Mr. Burrows, who has been Field Service Director for the Safety Board since 1956, will speak on "Solution or Problem, There's no Magic to It." An authority on traffic safety, he has spoken to many clubs in the area and is also a guest lecturer at the Northwestern University Traffic Institute in Evanston. He was formerly with the National Safety Council.

The Corporate Communion Mass for the women's club will begin at 8 p.m. in the church, followed by the meeting in the church auditorium located at Grouse Lane and Meadow Drive, Rolling Meadows. All ladies of the parish are invited.

Area Women Aid Campaign

Two Elk Grove women, Mrs. Leon Netzer, 270 Cottonwood, and Mrs. Alvin Krasnow, 497 Verde, will be taking part in the approaching membership campaign for the Women's American Organization for Rehabilitation through Training.

Along with other women from the suburbs and the Chicago metropolitan area, Mrs. Netzer, president of Countryside ORT, and Mrs. Krasnow will be manning telephones asking hundreds of thousands of women to join their ranks and support their world-wide program of vocational education.

THE CAMPAIGN will kick off with a city and suburban-wide Telethon on Sunday, Nov. 13.

ORT sponsors more than 600 teaching installations in 22 countries of the free world and teaches 70 different vocation trades to 45,000 underprivileged students each year. (S

Adlai, Prince Are Democratic 'Stars'

State Races Are Tightest

Two top state offices are in the Nov. 8 general election: treasurer and superintendent of public instruction.

Adlai E. Stevenson III is vying with Harris Rowe for the treasurer's post.

Republican incumbent State Supt. Ray Page faces Dr. Donald M. Prince.

It is Democrats Stevenson and Prince, who have emerged in campaigning as their party's front runners. Stevenson, according to polls, is ahead of Sen. Paul Douglas.

IN NORTHWEST suburbia, Prince has scored some sort of a first. Palatine-Schaumburg High School District 211 administrators formally endorsed him. It was highly surprising for a school administration to take a partisan position.

Stevenson has the definite advantage of being the son of a famous father.

Rowe, whose father also was involved in state politics, does not have the readily available name identification for voters.

PAGE, OF course, has the advantage of being the incumbent, but Prince has an advantage of being called "the best qualified person ever nominated" for the post and with some justification.

Page's educational background in schools was as a high school basketball coach in Springfield. Prince currently is director of the Center for Educational Administration at Illinois State University at Normal, has served as a consultant to numerous school districts, headed a nine-county junior college survey, has been a classroom teacher, school principal and superintendent.

Stevenson, 35, was elected a state representative in 1964's at-large election. Rowe, 42, is a six year veteran of the state House.

Both men look at the treasurer's office (a treasurer may not succeed himself) as a stepping stone for possibly higher office.

Stevenson has labeled outgoing Republican Treas. William Scott's administration an "unimaginative" one.

Rowe, not only defending Scott, has most recently slapped back by labeling Stevenson "the income tax man" because of Stevenson's vote for an income tax. He also calls Stevenson a Democrat in the tradition of the "usual fuzzy thinking liberals."

STEVENSON has outlined a five-point program if elected:

1. An educational program for local financial officers.
2. Voluntary, centralized bond sales by local governments through the treasurer's office.
3. Aid in planning and disseminating information across the nation concerning planned borrowings by local governments.
4. An expanded program of centralized, uniform financial reporting by all units of local government and the state.
5. Uniform stands for bond offering statements by local governments.

ROWE, IF elected, will aim for centralization and consolidation of data processing for various offices and financial reporting.

In the superintendent of public instruction contest, Democrat Prince has hammered at incumbent Page's political activities while in office.

He notes that Page worked openly in 1964's primary for William Scott for governor and went to San Francisco for 10 days as a Goldwater delegate.

He also charges that Page has not been creative in helping school districts get the best use they can of federal funds. Prince asserts "the federal partnership has enlarged" and the superintendent's office must be more active in this area.

"When the record is written," Page says, "we will have done the most effective job in the U. S."

The two men split on whether or not the superintendent's job should be appointive by the governor. Prince believes it should and also supported a state board of education.

Page is willing to have the superintendent appointive if the appointment is made by an elective state board of education. He would not want the governor to make the appointment. The state board, however, should be elected on a state or area apportioned method.

Rotarians To Attend Y Seminar

Twenty members of Rotary Clubs of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine and Wheeling will be attending the vocational seminar at Aurora YMCA all day Wednesday, when sessions will be pinpointed to how principles of Rotary can help businessmen.

FEATURED speaker at the noon luncheon will be Dr. Arlo Schilling, president of North Central College in Naperville. Rotarians from both Districts 642 and 644 will be combining efforts for the seminar.

Plans include group sessions in the morning with leaders reporting briefs to the entire group in the afternoon. Ben Schaefer of Maywood, current district governor for this area, will give the welcoming address.

LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORDS BY LINDA NORRIS

Peter de Angelis arranged and conducted the orchestra for Al Martino's latest LP release, This Is Love . . . The songs — all ballads — range from such timeless hits as For All We Know, Don't Take Your Love From Me, and Love Letters to Somewhere, My Love (Lara's Theme from Dr. Zhivago), Strangers in the Night and Al's Just Yesterday . . . Others are Somewhere, Two Different Worlds, This Love of Mine, These Things I Offer You and Who Can I Turn To? This is one of Martino's best, which is the ultimate in praise since he's never had a dud yet in this reviewer's humble opinion . . . . For a mellow evening, try This Is Love by Al Martino.

For her latest Capitol album, Peggy Lee is backed by seven guitars (in addition to piano, bass, brass and woodwinds) through a dozen songs arranged by Dave Grusin, Bob Bain, Dick Hazard and Billy May . . . The album is appropriately entitled Guitars A La Lee . . . . Among those in the LP are Peggy's own composition, Goodbye, My Love; Nice 'n Easy, Strangers in the Night, Mohair Sam, written by another Capitol artist, Dallas Frazier; Think Beautiful, My Guitar and Call Me.

Jackie Gleason lends the romantic Gleason touch of strings and soft brass to his new album, How Sweet It Is For Lovers, containing 11 ballads . . . The title tune was composed by the talented writer himself . . . . In addition, the other love-oriented songs, which were all arranged by George Williams, are: If He Walked Into My Life; Strangers In The Night, The Shadow of Your Smile, Lara's Theme, You're Gonna Hear From Me, The Second Time Around, I Wanna Be Loved By You, Autumn Waltz, Au Revoir and I Will Wait For You.

Korzen Candidate For Appeals Board

Several civic endorsements and tax savings achieved in his five years as county treasurer are being stressed by Bernard J. Korzen in his campaign for election to the Board of Appeals of Cook County.

Korzen, whose name will appear on the Democratic ticket on the Nov. 8 ballot, has won the endorsement of the Better Government Association, the Illinois Good Government Institute, and the Independent Voters of Illinois and has been praised editorially by both metropolitan and community newspapers in Cook County.

As county treasurer for the past five years, Korzen has developed and implemented automated tax collection and distribution, resulting in substantial savings to the taxpayers.

"This permits prompt biweekly distribution of monies received to the various government agencies and enables them to save interest charges on money they formerly had to borrow for operating funds until the distribution of tax funds was completed," he explained.

KORZEN SAID the total savings in interest charges by county taxing bodies came to almost $1 million last year alone.

"Our county treasurer's office is being used as a showcase by the I.B.M. Corporation for demonstrating to local governmental officials from all over the country how their taxing bodies can operate more efficiently and reduce costs," he added.

Korzen has also received an honor that is perhaps unique in politics. A Democrat, he was given an award, the first of its kind, by the Cook County Township Collectors, a group composed of 28 Republicans and two Democrats, for assisting the collectors in carrying out the duties of their office.

Last year, for the first time in the history of Cook County, Korzen undertook the sale of 35,000 parcels of tax delinquent property in Cook County under the terms of the "Scavenger Act," passed in 1939. The county realized $4,500,000 from the sale.

In addition, the action stimulated numerous owners of tax delinquent property to pay their taxes and thousands of parcels of property were restored to the tax rolls.

A WORLD War II veteran, Korzen served eight years as attorney for the Board of Election Commissioners, seven as clerk of the Probate Court and the past five as Cook County treasurer, an office in which he cannot succeed himself by law. He is now a candidate for the Board of Tax Appeals of Cook County.

Korzen attended Harvard University Law School, Notre Dame University, where he received his B.A. degree, and DePaul University. He also graduated from Northwestern University Law School with a J.D. degree.

He is a member of the Chicago and Illinois Bar Associations, American Legion, Loyal Order of Moose, Northwestern Law School Alumni Association, Harvard Law School Association, Notre Dame Alumni Association, Illinois Chapter Municipal Finance Officers' Association, and the Illinois County Treasurers' Association.

Married, and the father of two children, he lives at 4500 W. Rosemont Ave., Chicago.

Suburb TB District Reports New Cases

Five new active cases of TB in one family were reported in Cook County during 1965.

In fact, there were multiple new active cases in 14 families, according to the annual report of the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District (SCCTSD).

There were a total of 285 new active cases reported to the district.

"We have found that in the homes of the 285 new cases, there are 167 other people who also are infected, and the final count still is not in," said Karl H. Pfuetze, M.D., general administrator.

"It is easy to see how TB perpetuates itself." Dr. Pfuetze said. "Some contacts who are infected will become cases in the near future; some will not develop active TB until many years from now."

INFECTED persons break down during times of special stress — emotional crises, pregnancy, illness with influenza, diabetes or arthritis, he explained.

The Suburban Sanitarium District screened 220,251 chest X-ray films taken at mobile units in suburban communities, and 83,514 films taken at the clinics. The mobile unit survey is conducted in the communities with the cooperation of the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County (the Christmas Seal agency).

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

'THANKS' - HERO'S MOM

The Ross Paterson Memorial Fund recently reached the total of $1,000 and was sent to two U. S. Army organizations by Ross' parents, according to Mrs. Paterson. She wanted to thank all of the donors and suggested that this column be the means to do it, since the fund had its beginning in a square dance.

Ross, a Viet war fatality early this year, had been an enthusiastic officer and member of the Cardinal Promenaders, a square dance club for Arlington High School teens. After his death, other former Promenaders organized a benefit dance in his memory and the proceeds started the Ross Paterson Memorial Fund on its way.

Mrs. Paterson says that the money was divided equally between the Army Emergency Relief Fund and the Army Aviation Association Scholarship Foundation, with the stipulation in the latter case that the scholarship be awarded to an orphan of an aviator or crewman.

"WE ARE MOST grateful," Mrs. Paterson said. "The fund far exceeded any of our expectations and was a wonderful tribute to our son. Ross' father and I want to thank everyone who contributed."

Half of the scholarship fund will remain on deposit with the Foundation and will be awarded next year. The Patersons intend to add to it from time to time and it is expected that Ross' fellow officers will do the same. We suggested that local friends might want to continue contributing, and Mrs. Paterson urged that such donations be sent to the Foundation. Its address is: Army Aviation Association Scholarship Foundation, 1 Crestwood Road, Westport, Conn., 06882.

SLOWPOKES

Big news this month from the Mount Prospect club is that the nationally known caller, Frank Lane, will be featured at a Slowp o k e s - sponsored special Nov. 30. It will be a ticket dance, of course, and club members urge everyone to get tickets quick. They're available from any Slowpoke, at upcoming club dances or by calling the Leveckes in Arlington Heights, CL 3-4509; the Brushes in Mount Prospect, 392-2316; the Duncans in Bensenville, 299-7345 or the Carnes in Prospect Heights, CL 5-4234.

THE FRANK LANE special will be held in Wheeling High School, 900 S. Elmhurst Road, Wheeling, and Frank will square 'em up at 8 o'clock.

Slowpokes' next regularly scheduled dance is tomorrow night in Euclid School, 1211 Wheeling Road, Mount Prospect — a perfect time and place to tickets for the special. Everyone's welcome to join the gang tomorrow when club regular, Gene Tidwell, squares 'em up at 8 o'clock. "The rounders," Art Youwer and his lady, will be there too, to cue the rounds between tips. MOUNT PROSPECT

Mount Prospect Camp F i r e Girls wound up a month of activities with a service project. Girls from all groups delivered Combined Appeal leaflets to homes throughout the community.

In less serious activities, 68 junior-high age girls went on a hayride at Levade Ranch in Palatine last Friday and the girls from an Individual Torch B e a r e r group completed a charm course.

The To-Wan-Ka Horizon Club girls, high school juniors and seniors, are working on the Wo-He-Lo (Work, Health, L o v e) Medallion, the highest award a girl can attain in the Camp Fire program.

THEIR ACTIVITIES in the last few months have included: a trip to Colorado where they rode horses, hiked, cooked all their meals out-of-doors, went to a square dance and rode in a 100-year-old surrey; a weekend at Castle Rock Park in Wisconsin; an outdoor miniature golf and badminton party; a visit to Magnus Farm to entertain the residents; and a Halloween party.

ROLLING MEADOWS

The Rolling Meadows Camp Fire Girls recently got together for a hayride at the L e v a d e Ranch in Palatine.

The O DA KO fourth grade Camp Fire Girls held a Halloween party last Thursday at the home of their co-guardian, Mrs. Connie Sedrick. 3502 Bluebird Lane, Rolling Meadows. Guardian of the group is Mrs. LaVerne Nagel.

Camp Fire leaders met at Mrs. Nagel's home last week to discuss Dominick's Day which will be held Nov. 8. At that time the parents and friends of Camp Fire girls will shop at Dominick's store, and the organization will receive part of the proceeds. (A15

Business Ethics Topic at Church

Conflicts between sales practices and Christian ethics will be discussed next Monday at St. Simon's Episcopal Church at a 6:30 p.m. dinner meeting.

Open to all salesmen in the northwest suburbs, the meeting is first of a series of occupational seminars sponsored by the Elgin deanery of the Episcopalian church.

OTHER SEMINARS — similar to those already sponsored by the Chicago diocese of the church — have been planned for persons in the fields of education, medicine, real estate and law.

Dean Robert Gerhardt of St. Michael's Episcopal Church in Barrington will represent Bishop Gerald Burrill at the meeting, hosted by Rev. Samuel Keys of St. Simon's.

Chairman of the meeting is James Ridenour of St. Simon's.

Assisting him will be George Kern and Gus Treffeisen of St. Mary's Episcopalian Church, Park Ridge; William Hoffer of the Church of the Redeemer, Elgin; William Dent of St. Martin's, Des Plaines, and Jack Fisher of St. Michael's Barrington. (B10

Stress Need For Limited Class Sizes

The importance of keeping elementary classes small was stressed this week in a report from the Association for Childhood Education International.

The ACE, c i t i n g research findings that indicate greatest development gains among children in small classes, urged:

—That elementary class sizes be kept no larger than 25.

—That in classes for the "disadvantaged"—such as in Operation Headstart—t h e r e be no more than 15 children, with an adult-child ratio of one to five.

—That s p e c i a l education classes be organized with a maximum of 15.

THE ACE urged that s c h o o l systems take into account a teacher's full-day classload in making kindergarten assignments.

"It is not unusual to find a teacher having 30 in the morning and another 30 in the afternoon," ACE writer Helen Kelliher of Wheelock College, Boston, Mass., said of kindergarten classes.

Prof. Kelliher said that in small classes there was more individual help available, more creative practices tried a n d more varied activity available.

12th Scout Jamboree Is Next August

Ten boys from the Northwest Suburban Council of Boy Scouts will attend the Twelfth World Jamboree in Idaho next August.

Chosen to participate in the 10-day event were Raymond Krause, Troop 51, Mount Prospect; Donald G. Petersen, Drew Smith and James R. Southard, Troop 135, Arlington Heights; John E. Messervey and Gary C. Johnson, Post 76, Park Ridge; Brad Marion and Kenneth Browde, Post 83, Morton Grove; William Metcalf, Troop 284, Elk Grove Village; and David Good, Troop 155, Mount Prospect.

Over 15,000 Scouts and leaders from almost 100 nations are expected to attend.

Joseph A. Brunton, Jr., Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, will be Camp Chief at the Jamboree. He was recently awarded the Silver Wolf Award, the highest honor of the Boy Scouts Associations of Great Britain.

Well Organized

We feel it's important to have youth on our professional staff. Young writers bring zest, imagination, and feeling of freshness to our pages.

More than that, though, their professional training and background permit us to give you information that's accurate, and written with maturity.

Our young writers are a lot like the suburban area, itself — knowledge of past experience, desire to grow today, and enthusiasm for tomorrow.

They are your insurance that you are getting the full story, even though it does mean larger, and larger, and larger Paddock papers, week by week by week.

GARDENING TIPS

Your Garden . . . Day by Day

FROM THE ARLINGTON HEIGHTS GARDEN CLUB

by MARY B. GOOD

November 3

Iris expert Art Murawska of the River Drive Peony and Iris Gardens disagrees with the cut-and-burn-iris-leaves philosophy expressed last week in "Gardening Tips." He asserts the leaves are natural protection for the iris rhizomes and should not be removed from the plant until spring.

November 4

Unlike iris, peonies have deep penetrating roots and should have their stems cut off 1 inch above ground level after killing frost.

November 5

For the lazy gardener: If you want to get your tulips in the ground, but don't have the time or inclination to work out a plan for your spring color spectacular, pot bulbs and bury in the ground. Then re-arrange the pots to suit your taste in spring. You'll have an added bonus too — You won't have to wait until the leaves brown to remove, just pull up, pot and all, and put in an unobtrusive spot until the bulbs ripen!

November 6

The great revival of interest in the art of espaliering is in progress. You can buy already trained plants or do it yourself. To catch up on the craft of espaliering, pick up "Espaliers and Vines for the Home Garden" by Harold O. Perkins, Van Nostrand Publications.

November 7

Japanese fantail willow is an "odd-ball"—it doesn't know which way to grow, but its crooked branches are the flower arranger's delight when autumnal breezes whisk away the leaves.

November 8

Don't cover plants such as roses and perennials at the first cold snap! Winter protection is not applied to keep plants "warm," but to prevent as much as possible damage caused by alternate freezing and thawing.

November 9

Set out bird feeders—but remember once you start, the birds depend on you in their life or death winter struggle. A little peanut butter mixed with a lot of bacon grease is good for starters, but never put out peanut butter alone as birds have been known to choke on it.

Revoke Driver's Licenses Of 8 Suburban Motorists

Reports from the office of Secretary of State Paul Powell indicate that eight area drivers have had their driver's licenses revoked recently.

Five had licenses revoked following a conviction on a charge of driving while intoxicated. They are Clarence A. Hinz, 518 Lincoln St., Addison; Richard J. Habisch, 417 Virginia, and George A. Roehrig, 450 S. Addison, Bensenville; Daniel A. Rico, 2301 E. Oakton, Elk Grove Village; and James R. Walsh, 309 S. Rush, Roselle.

Jose J. Ruiz, 338 N. Grove, Wood Dale, and Paul E. Farmer, 516 Isa Drive, Wheeling, had licenses revoked for three violations, and Darrell D. Bender, U.S. Nike Base, Arlington Heights, lost his for drag racing.

MANY LOCAL residents have had their driving privileges suspended after incurring three violations. They are:

In Addison—Curtis J. Dayhoff, 10K Adams Drive; Gerald J. Vaccarino, 417 Moreland; and Paul W. Sack, 742 Lake Manor Drive.

In Arlington Heights—Fred K. Back, 9 Willow Way Terrace; George H. Foley, 620 W. Central Road; Rick A. Munson, 931 N. Salem; Kevin S. O'Connell, 528 S. Patton; Robert C. Rago, 1200 S. Douglas; Donald A. Stephen, 414 Chatham Ave.; Leslie J. Strzelecki, 1535 N. Pine; Dennis J. Bozovsky, 19 N. Dryden; Alan R. Carlsen, 1314 N. Harvard; Thomas O. Combs, 2001 N. Wilke Road; John R. Crawford, 524 S. Lincoln Lane; James O. Durham, 1704 E. Hawthorne; Kenneth W. Endicott, 32 Poplar; and David E. Ritzenthaler, 2206 Goebbert Road.

In Bartlett—Apolino Lopez RR 1, Box 28J; in Bensenville—Frederick D. Carpenter, RR 1, Box 174A, and Robert A. Gee, RR 2, Box 30C; and in Carol Stream—Charles J. Smith, 595 Comanche Court, and Roland V. Long, 331 Arrowhead.

In Elk Grove Village—Donald J. Doede, 87 Brantwood Ave.; Ronald L. Herodes, 246 Fleetwood Lane, and Daniel A. Rothbauer, 2400 Greenleaf Ave.; in Glendale Heights—William V. McMullen, 30 Armitage; in Hanover Park—Suzette L. McCann, 7331 Briarwood St., and David V. Park, 7091 East Ave.; and in Hoffman Estates—Richard J. Crombie, 169 Highland Blvd., and Alexander Hway, 106 Maywood Lane.

In Medinah—Donald E. Felcan, 6N683 Harvey Road; and in Mount Prospect—Donald W. Gerspach, 1407 W. Catalpa Lane; Irving Goldstein, 714 N. Pine; Jack E. Kamppinen, 1404 Ironwood Drive; Linda L. Chapman Defeat Would Be 'Great Loss to State'

During the 10 years we have been residing in Arlington Heights it has been my privilege to serve on several citizens' committees and to assist in many community projects. In this respect, one of the first persons I learned to know and work with was Eugenia Chapman.

I believe some of the projects we have held in mutual interest are worth reviewing. To begin with, Eugenia, as president of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters, introduced me to the study for the need for additional storm sewer facilities in the times when only a handful of us were present and had any knowledge of the budgets and anticipated expenditures of the various local government bodies. We were among those who served on the committee to study the need for a new village hall. (Remember, the antiquated working conditions we found in the old village hall, where the new shopping center now is at Wing and Vail?) We worked together with many others for the referendum for the new municipal building.

IT WAS ONLY natural that the Chapmans were among those actively participating in the formation and continuation of the caucus system for selecting qualified persons for our village president and trustees, rather than the hit-and-miss system of selecting candidates in the past.

Since we both had children of school age, our efforts were channeled to the needs and concerns of our elementary and high school districts, their various referenda and school board elections.

Eventually, Eugenia became a board member of our High School District 214, and during that time I was privileged to be asked to serve on the citizens' committee to study the need for a community college for our area. It was three years and two referenda later that we finally had the satisfaction of the junior college district becoming a reality.

In the meantime, Eugenia was asked to become a "blue ribbon" candidate for the at-large election to the 1964 Illinois General Assembly. She was a successful candidate, placing 25th out of the 236 candidates running for the Illinois House. Her term as a freshman representative was outstanding. It was natural that she asked to be assigned to the Education Committee and the Public Aid, Health, Welfare and Safety Committee. These were areas nearest and dearest to her heart and where she felt she could serve both her community and her party best.

SHE AND HER family made the necessary arrangements so she could be in Springfield whenever the House was in session. This was not always true of a few of the men members who had business obligations which often kept them at home one or two extra days of the week. She was named to sponsor the Junior College Act as well as a number of other educational measures that became law. She didn't take these assignments lightly and spent many, many hours in conference with educators and legislative leaders, both in Springfield and when she returned home during the recesses of the House.

Because of our long friendship, I was able to help 'Gene with her correspondence since representatives do not have stenographic help at home, and I know the many local projects brought to her attention by her constituents and the interest and time she gave each one. Some of the correspondence she enjoyed writing most was that awarding her General Assembly scholarships to qualified high school students of our area, recommended to her by a scholarship selection committee, according to the students' desire for higher education and their need for financial help. (These scholarships are more generally used by the legislators to further their political stature in their community).

And so we come to the election next Tuesday. Is there any wonder why I am working for and supporting Eugenia S. Chapman for re-election to the Illinois General Assembly? She is the only Democratic woman candidate for the Illinois House in the entire state, and if she is not returned to Springfield as one of our representatives, it will be a great loss to our district, to the Democratic party, and to the state as a whole.

Three representatives will be elected from our district. There are two Republican and two Democratic candidates. I sincerely hope the residents of the 3rd District will see the value of Mrs. Chapman being one of the three. We need her. She is qualified. She can't be elected, however, unless those who can appreciate her value to our district will take the time and interest to vote for her.

'Brazen' Work For Chapman Hit by Writer

I have been following with interest the brazen involvement of our academic community and elected school board members into the current political campaign.

It doesn't seem that too long ago the separation of partisan politics and schools in this suburban area was thought of in the same popular vein as is the separation of church and state. How that has suddenly changed. Today, what is our local politics—school relationship?

WE HAVE the northwest suburban division of the Illinois Education Association (a teachers association) endorsing and working for the election of Mrs. Eugenia Chapman, a Democrat candidate for state representative.

We have members of our high school and junior college boards as key members of an organization stumping for the election of Mrs. Chapman, and reportedly sporting some of their campaign promotional materials at a recent school board meeting.

We even have one of our high school principals lending his name and active support to the Chapman cause.

I personally wonder how and why this teachers' association, those school board members, and especially a member of our high school district administrative staff allowed our school district to be dragged into the arena of party politics.

NOBODY CAN criticize an individual who chooses to actively support a political candidate. However the only significance to these endorsements in question is the use of the name "IEA," "District 214 School Board," or "Junior College District 301 School Board." Without the use of these titles next to their names, little significance would be attached to the political endorsements in the eyes of the public. Certainly the press would not find it newsworthy to single out these personal endorsements for special news items and pictures.

Regardless of the outcome of this election, it appears that the era of total separation of party politics and public school affairs could well be coming to a close in this area. Perhaps the sudden step up in the outpouring of funds and programs at the federal level has hastened this phenomena, but certainly the entrance of members of the academic community and school district board members into the political campaign has not helped to slow up this process. The open endorsements of a Democrat politician in a Republican dominated community can not possibly be looked upon favorably by the majority of the taxpayers or by the local Republican party.

I wonder myself at times if this widely publicized support of a specific political candidate by the local educational community is as widespread as the public is led to believe. I can't conceive of Republican state representative candidates Eugene Schlickman and David Regner being "anti-education." Why wouldn't they also get the backing of the education community?

A wife of one of our teachers remarked recently to me in a discussion of this matter, "You would be surprised. Most teachers are quite independent minded." Perhaps she is correct.

Revenue Article Coverage Deserving of Commendation

You are to be commended for your informative discussion of the proposed new revenue article which will be voted upon Nov. 8. We who oppose the revenue amendment believe that voters who have the opportunity to study the proposal will wisely reject its unfair and restrictive provisions.

IN ADDITION to the groups such as the League of Women Voters, the PTA and AFL-CIO, listed as against the revenue amendment, your readers should know that many other organizations, including the Citizens School Committee; the National Conference of Jewish Women; the National Association of Social Workers; the International City Managers Association and the Municipal Finance Officers Association, are also opposing the revenue amendment.

One other point should be made; the form of the blue ballot includes an "explanation" which was actually written by the proponents of the new revenue article. It therefore contains many misstatements and false implications. For instance, the amendment itself provides that in the event an income tax is levied, "proceeds of not less than 1 per cent of such income tax" shall be distributed to local taxing districts, presumably to partially reimburse them for loss of personal property taxes.

The "explanation" falsely states that "the proceeds of at least the first 1 per cent rate of income tax" shall be distributed to local governments. There is a world of difference between 1 per cent of a tax, and 1/3 of a 3 per cent tax. The proponent's "explanation" attempts to conceal how the proposal would thus shortchange our schools and local government. Similar errors may be found in each of the other four paragraphs of the "explanation."

We hope that voters will not be misled into approving the revenue giveaway.

Haas (Hiss!) Detective Work Not Appreciated

In your "Fence Post" section of your publication of Oct. 20, 1966, we find another letter attacking the Birch Society by none other than Kenneth F. Haas.

As though he was running some kind of super-secret anti-subversive research service, Mr. Haas goes to great lengths in pointing out to your readers that he has definite proof of a "link" between "Support Your Local Police" efforts and the Birch Society. Anyone reading your paper with regularity would have noted this similarity with ease.

WHAT MR. HAAS errs in, however, is his assumption of the end reason for supporting anyone's local police department. He states: " . . . this activity, at least in your local community, is without a doubt, another front activity of the Birchers, no doubt directed against any civil rights activity and/or open occupancy." This, on the part of Mr. Haas, is either pure ignorance or propaganda with design.

The reason for any American supporting their local police department is pure and simple. The international Communist apparatus, together with the Communist Party, U.S.A., have long advocated to their followers the ridicule, isolation and neutralization of police throughout the United States. Pick up any edition of "The Worker," the official publication of the apparatus in this country, and you will find these exhortations to the followers of Communism. Whether the police departments of this country survive this prolonged attack is totally up to the awareness of the citizens.

WHAT DOES surprise me is his failure of intestinal fortitude in telling the readers that he now lives in the Des Moines, Iowa, area. Although he maintains an unpublished phone number, he has relatives there with apparently more fortitude than he.

The editor of the Fence Post would do well to forget Mr. Haas, and his letters.

Local Library Found Material In Short Order

(Following is a copy of a letter sent to Mrs. Mary Gardner, president of the Mount Prospect Library Board.)

In my work as a public relations counselor I have frequent occasion to perform research in the libraries. I must say that while I have always met with courteous treatment and been impressed with a desire to help on the part of the big Chicago institution, never have I seen anyone go to the extent of your chief librarian, Mrs. L. E. Hutchings.

On Thursday morning I called her to seek information on a conference center for groups specializing in study in the area of the humanities. Such information was not available.

AT THE CENTRAL Public Library in Chicago Thursday afternoon a search was made for me by one of the librarians without success. I was referred to government listing of magazine articles and a social science catalog index as well as to the New York Times index for the past three years. All to no avail.

By the time I had returned home to Mount Prospect Thursday evening there was a message for me to call the local library.

Mrs. Hutchings had the basic information and more on the way!! She had run it down at its source. That, neighbor, is public service at its best.

Lions Pleased By Candy Sale

The directors of the Itasca Lions Club, at their October meeting, honored me with the happy task to write and thank you for the support and coverage that your fine newspaper gave us in our "Candy for the Blind" drive on Oct. 7 and 8.

Because of your support, it was made possible for us Lions, to collect the record breaking amount of $442.26 of which we have sent $120 to the Hadley School, and $120 to the leader dog program. The remaining amount will be used to aid the local visually handicapped.

We feel that with a similar support, next year's drive will hit an unexpected high.

Our sincere appreciation and thanks from all of us.

Hits Educators' Involvement in Political Race

I notice that the teachers, administrators, the local Illinois Education Association and school boards are actively involved in politics and endorsements this election.

Does this action open the door for political parties to participate in school elections? If board members, as such, can endorse political candidates, why can't political groups endorse board candidates?

As a voting citizen and a former teacher, I would like to know in future school elections just what the political philosophies of the board members are.

Finds Context For Editorial Was Meaningful

Never have I seen an editorial endorsement for state representatives as appeared in your paper on Oct. 20, 1966. In it you defined the relative role of a state legislator, the problems facing Illinois, and the importance of the quality of state legislators. Paddock's editorial staff is to be complimented for the context in which it prefaced its endorsements.

Also, please accept my appreciation for your kind words for my candidacy. If re-elected, I pledge to aggressively work for solution of the many problems plaguing the Northwest suburbs.

Cites Personal Concern in Viet Nam Situation

In Mrs. Goldberger's reply to my letter she demonstrates a remarkable imagination and talent for fantasy. Since my concern is for the lives of not only my two sons and my country but also our soldiers fighting a perpetual war for an elusive containment, I most certainly neither contemplate nor desire the annihilation of my fellow man.

I, TOO, value a noble and moral nation but I do not believe the sacrifice of over 50,000 dead in Korea and more than 32,000 casualties in Viet Nam in exchange for a temporary containment now and pay with more American lives later policy in some other area of Asia to be "noble," "moral," "rational" nor "knowledgeable."

The Communists have proved repeatedly that their promises and treaties when no longer serving their evil purpose are easily broken. It is impossible to deal with them when their concept of truth and morality is only that which furthers communist purposes and is not based on standards anywhere near resembling our own.

As Whittaker Chambers stated in his book "Cold Friday" in referring to the steady advance of Communism—"It was never a question of comparative physical strengths. Power, on the part of the West, was never lacking. Will was lacking. And the failure of will has been matched by a failure of intelligence. In general, this has taken the form of an ageless complacency that neither knows, nor really wishes to know, the meaning, motives or methods of Communism. But it runs off recurrently, too, into mass delusions that Communism, if coddled, is about to change into the opposite of itself, of all that has given it power and empire, and to become something more like the image that the West cherishes of the West — something more eligible for the garden-party guest list. This, of the most implacably purposeful revolutionists in history."

I can only reaffirm my original position, that to half-way fight communism wherever it rears its ugly head and then to trade and aid it elsewhere and thereby reward its aggression will be just as fatal to freedom and peace as Mrs. Goldberger's nightmare fantasy.

First Time League Has Urged Defeat of Amendment Ballot

On November 8, the voters will be faced with the decision as to how to vote on the revenue amendment on the blue ballot. It is unfortunate that, despite everyone's hopes, close examination of the proposed amendment reveals that it is worse than the existing article. This is the first time in its history that the League of Women Voters of Illinois has opposed a state constitutional amendment. It reached this position after thorough study. We are joined by many other organizations and individuals in opposition, including the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Illinois Municipal League, the AFL-CIO, and many fiscal experts.

Specifically, the amendment is:

1. UNFAIR. Passage of an income tax under this proposal requires that personal property taxes be abolished. Only a flat-rate income tax, applying the same rates to corporations and individuals, would be permissible. The revenue from personal property taxes would be replaced by this flat-rate income tax, paid by the average taxpayer: the wage-earner, the home owner, the farmer. These are the average and below-average income groups on whom the sales tax and other consumer-based state taxes already fall most heavily.

2. Misleading. A 3 per cent income tax will not provide enough revenue to replace the loss of personal property taxes to local governments, meet the needs of the schools, and meet the needs of our overcrowded state institutions.

3. Confusing. It contains contradictions that could lead to years of legal entanglements. As an example, it threatens our present graduated inheritance tax whereby children and spouses receive a $20,000 exemption and lower tax rates than do unrelated persons.

4. RESTRICTIVE. It is more inflexible than the present article in its specific detailing of tax powers and limitations, where a good revenue amendment should be broad and flexible enough to adapt to changing economic conditions. It ties the hands of local governments, including schools, by reducing the base of their bonding power, and it gives greater control over the revenue and budget functions of these local governments to the state.

The League urges defeat of the revenue amendment.

Jane Moore
President, League of Women Voters of Arlington Heights.

Kline Reporting

Mrs. Kline, I feel rather awkward in writing this note, but if I don't it will bother me.

Thank you for the generous "profile" you wrote.

I hope I really am the kind of person you depicted. Sometimes I wonder. I suspect. that the most brutal test to which anyone could be subjected would be to ask himself what his image would be if everyone could literally read his mind. When I feel brave, I do this—and Oh, brother, do I cringe!

Let me take this opportunity to say that I've always found your reporting to be fair and objective. I really mean that; it has nothing to do with my "profile." I've never read any of your work that was petty, distorted or in poor taste.

WHILE YOU WERE covering the council meetings, I never felt that I had to be careful of what I said, because it might be misconstrued by the press. It wasn't that way before you took over.

You do a very good job. I hope Paddock realizes it.

Phil Prete, Alderman
Rolling Meadows

Adlai, Prince Called 'Class Of Any Ticket'

There are those who will blindly vote straight Republican or straight Democratic. Most others are "oriented" toward one or the other major party, but will, nevertheless, try to vote for the "best man." A few ticket-splitters are so "independent," they have no real convictions. There are some in both major parties who are so label-oriented—by birth, passion or stubborness—that they would vote for the same party label even if the two major parties would completely switch on issues and candidates.

I am a Democrat and believe that Paul Douglas has been the greatest United States Senator our state has ever sent to Washington. But I can understand that many Republican-oriented voters would, nevertheless, vote for his opponent because of ingrained policy convictions. And, naturally, any senator generally supports his party on roll calls.

BUT THERE ARE two state offices at stake which involve virtually no party policy considerations. They are both administrative posts and, in part, could just as well be appointive positions. These are state treasurer and state superintendent of public instruction. I sincerely believe that any conscientious voter who ever split a ticket must prefer Adlai Stevenson III and Donald Prince for these offices. They would be the class of any field. In this race, against their present opponents, they deserve an overwhelming victory. The Democratic Party deserves encouragement from all voters for slating these outstanding men.

I hope our preponderantly Republican area will prove that it contains discerning voters.

Vandals Ruin Last Halloween Display Spot

We have lived in Rolling Meadows for over 10 years and even though we have no children we took pride and pleasure in decorating our home for the children as they also pass our home to Salk School. For many years we have bought a decorative pumpkin, pipe in mouth, and had it standing on a small table with a flood light. Wednesday I picked up our usual order, which cost four dollars, and Friday night someone stole it and then broke it all over our front sidewalk.

The pumpkin was very large and heavy, so it had to be a good sized person to steal it. Sorry to say, no more decorating for us; we have no choice. Whoever did it just spoiled Halloween for many youngsters, and we know that in past years enjoyed it.

Retarded Kids Appeal Drive Set on Sunday

The Retarded Children's Appeal, a door-to-door fund drive, will begin on Sunday, Nov. 6, which is also the first day of National Retarded Children's Week. If you think this fund drive does not concern you and your family, please read on to to see why it does.

The greatest part of the funds collected in this suburban area during the Retarded Children's Appeal will be used to provide services for children and families of this area who are now directly concerned with the problems of mental retardation. Community Welfare Association for Retarded Children receives much of its financial support through this fund drive. With these funds Community Welfare provides the following services for retarded children and their families: Bonaparte School which is now located in Addison, a pre-school group located in Elmhurst, counseling and testing services, and recreational activities. Community Welfare is also a co-sponsor of the Ray Graham Rehabilitation Center in Elmhurst which gives vocational training to retarded young adults.

ANOTHER PART of the funds collected during the Retarded Children's Appeal will be used for other-than-local services. An important goal of the Retarded Children's Appeal is to provide funds for research, legislation, and publicity on a state and national level for the purpose of prevention of mental retardation, which is now the largest single handicapping condition in our country. With this thought in mind, more persons should realize they are at least indirectly concerned with the success of the Retarded Children's Appeal.

Research has found treatment for conditions that would otherwise mean certain mental retardation. The measles vaccine and publicity on its importance have saved many children from retardation. Because of legislation passed in 1965, newborn infants in Illinois are hospital-tested for PKU, a condition which causes retardation if not detected and treated in early life. Neither the test nor the treatment has been in existence very long, but both have already given normal lives to many children who would not have been so blessed a few years ago.

These are but a few examples of what the Retarded Children's Appeal means to all of us and our families. When the volunteer calls at your house, give because you are concerned or give because you are thankful you don't have to be directly concerned. Either way, please do give!

Players Opening Night A Success

The Westwood Variety Players have asked me to thank you for the excellent coverage—both articles and pictures—on their recent musical production "Best of Broadway" prior to opening night.

The cast played to a near full house all three nights. I feel that your interest and willingness to inform the public of our show was indeed a vital part in making it a success.

Thank you.

1966 United Fund Drive Successful

As chairman of the 1966 United Fund drive in Schaumburg Township, I must express a great deal of gratitude to the people of this community for their enthusiasm and generosity in making last Wednesday night's United Fund drive the success it was.

And, certainly, special thanks are owing to so many individuals and agencies in the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area for cooperating wholeheartedly:

TO THE CENTRAL committee of dedicated local women who gave so many mornings and afternoons—sometimes five and six days a week—to planning and organizing the drive. They are Mrs. Michael F. Bartnett, Mrs. Robert O. Atcher, Mrs. Roy L. Jenkins, Mrs. Edward F. Pinger, Mrs. James Gannon, Mrs. Bud Arnold, Mrs. George R. Friese, Mrs. James Betchkal, Mrs. James L. Sloan, Mrs. Matthew Mentzen, Mrs. Harold Todd, Mrs. Thomas Kindelin, Mrs. Lawrence Mefford, Mrs. Doyle Erkenbeck, Mrs. William Lindsey, Mrs. Jon Floria and Mrs. Glenn Zolun.

To James L. Sloan and Howard J. Noble who sought and received the cooperation and effort of 22 men of the community to assist the central committee members as "runners" on the night of the drive.

To the more than 600 men and women of the Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg area who gave of themselves as volunteer marchers.

TO CHIEF Martin J. Conroy of the Schaumburg police for providing special protection on the night of the drive.

To The Record and Paddock Publications for their generous editorial support of the United Fund and their splendid cooperation in delivering the message of the drive to the people of this community.

To Ward Weaver, president of the Schaumburg State Bank, for heading the industrial-commercial solicitations, still in progress for the United Fund drive.

To the village officials of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg, and, especially, Mayors Roy L. Jenkins and Robert O. Atcher, for allowing free use of village facilities for numerous meetings in planning the drive.

TO THE community's supermarkets for distributing United Fund brochures the weekend before the drive.

To the United Fund executive board for its encouragement and assistance.

To the steering committee of the Village Party of Hoffman Estates for volunteering and providing organizational assistance.

The 1966 United Fund effort was the first ever undertaken here and represents, in the view of its organizers, a most worthwhile community endeavor. The community response to the drive indicates that most residents share the view.

'Disappointed' by Coverage Of Revenue Article Issue

I was very disappointed in the Paddock coverage of the revenue amendment in your Oct. 20 edition. It was my impression that the article was meant to explain the amendment and not to take a definite stand. If this was the case, the author seems to have been able to find only "pro" explanations. It followed too closely information already sent to the voters by the secretary of state's office which was very poorly done and in fact downright inaccurate in places. Your explanation fails to mention:

1. That classification of real property in only one county may be declared invalid by the U.S. Supreme Court under the "equal protection under the law" provision of the U.S. Constitution.

2. That trusts and businesses whose owners reside in Illinois, but whose business is carried on out of state will be exempt from tax on intangibles.

3. That the "1 per cent rate" in the explanation to the voters is not the same as the "not less than 1 per cent of the proceeds of an income tax" as it is actually stated in the amendment. (There is a considerable difference between a whole 1 per cent rate and a 1 per cent or 1/100 of the total proceeds from a 3 per cent rate.)

4. That not only a majority of states do not treat individuals and corporations alike; but only one state, Mississippi, considers that individuals can afford the same tax rates as corporations.

5. That during the four years after enacting an income tax and before personal property tax must be abolished, we could wind up paying both.

6. Whether or not exemptions will be allowed on sales tax (which is questionable) the state needs the $135 million a year in revenue from this source too badly to exempt it.

7. That the double bonding power granted to unit districts will not do one bit of good for dual districts in this area who are bonding at the limit, and abolishing personal property tax will cut their tax base so as to raise taxes automatically for the real estate owner.

Two groups are noticeably missing from that "something for everyone" mentioned in your headline, the homeowner who pays the bills and the children who won't continue to get the good education they need. Individuals will continue to be burdened by higher property taxes because the proposed amendment will not produce needed revenue to increase the state's share of cost of the schools. The voters are being offered nebulous promises of exemptions for the "little guy" in exchange for sure protection for big business. Here's hoping this week's part of the series gives the other side.

Prospect Heights Couple Wins Trip to Miami Beach

by MAGGIE IRWIN

The Randhurst Merchants' Association and Eastern Airlines congratulates Mr. and Mrs. Sisson of Prospect Heights. They are the happy winners of the trip to Miami Beach via Eastern Airlines' Whisperjet. They will bask in the warm Florida sunshine for a week.

It would be nice if we all could get away for just a little while, but we're not so lucky. As long as we have to stay here we may as well stop daydreaming and get into the swing of the season.

So many things call out attention to the time of the year, the bare trees, the pungent smell of burning leaves, the large harvest moon, the frosty nights, the shorter days and the nippy north wind that quickens one's step toward a haven of warmth.

NOW THAT MORE time is spent in the home, are you satisfied with the way things look? Maybe your home needs the bright sparkle of new candles. The Bazaar Level at Randhurst houses a charming little shop called The Candle Nook, where you are welcome to browse around and look at the many lovely candles. They come in fascinating shapes, marvelous colors, and oh! the fragrances that mingle together and permeate the air with a tantalizing spicy aroma.

Thanksgiving will soon be here and you just can't do without the flattering glow of candle light that adds so much to the festivities. While you are selecting your Thanksgiving candles, why not keep in mind the possibility of giving candles as gifts. If you like the idea, we suggest you select a variety of candles that can be used for different occasions all through the year. They will be a most welcome and unusual gift, and you know it really isn't too early to shop for Christmas.

Just a little reminder—don't forget to vote for the party of your choice Tuesday, Nov. 8.

On Niles Chamber's Calendar

Vince Johnson, vice president and program chairman of the Niles Chamber of Commerce, announced that Dick Klein of the Chicago Bulls will be the speaker at the Nov. 9 luncheon meeting. He will also have Ben Bentley, public relations director, with him.

Klein, president and general manager of the Chicago Bulls Basketball Club, has realized an ambition of more than four years. Klein was able to convince a syndicate of top-flight Chicago businessmen that Chicago would support a basketball team. A former professional basketball player himself with the old Chicago Gears, he won all-American honors as a guard at Northwestern University and later as captain of the Great Lakes Blue Jackets team during World War II. He was also in the Cleveland Indians farm system as a rookie pitcher.

Klein coaches a Little League team in Kenilworth and also teaches Sunday School.

EVERYTHING KNOWN IN MUSIC
LYON HEALY

"NOVEMBER IS STEINWAY MONTH AT LYON-HEALY"

STEINWAY—choice of great pianists—will make music mean more to your child!
—and prove again the economy of quality!

Both the enjoyment of music and the sense of accomplishment derived in learning piano are heightened when your child has the plus benefits of learning music on a Steinway piano. There are two basic reasons:

WHAT'S IN THE STEINWAY
First, Steinway pianos possess physical and mechanical superiorities that permit superior playing. Patented Accelerated Action, for instance, means that a Steinway responds to the touch of a key faster than any other piano. Steinway's tapered soundboard of sitka spruce results in a more resonant tone quality than other pianos can produce.

These and other Steinway qualities have been acknowledged by virtually all outstanding concert pianists for generations, from Rachmaninoff to Rubinstein, Horowitz, Serkin and Van Cliburn. While these superiorities may seem small to a non-musician or beginning student, a beginner cannot be too young to start training the ear to the recognition of superior piano tone and to start benefiting from the readier response of the Steinway action.

WHAT A STEINWAY DOES—
The second reason your child will enjoy music more and learn better on a Steinway might be called inspiration or motivation—whatever makes someone try harder to excel! That certain spark may be fanned by a stimulating home environment, by the guidance of a superb teacher, and most certainly it will be fired by the pride and pleasure there is in learning at the keyboard of the finest instrument made.

COSTS LESS THAN YOU THINK!
You can own a Steinway for as little as 50¢ a day more than a medium-priced piano, on our 36-month payment plan. If you were to deduct from the original cost, the value of your Steinway after many years, you would find your actual cost surprisingly low . . . less than for a lesser piano! That's the economy of quality!

WHY NOT CHECK THE FIGURES
For trade-in estimate, prices and payment plans—with full-color brochure on Steinway styles and the full details on Steinway construction—phone or visit your nearby Lyon-Healy store tomorrow!

Steinway pianos, only at Lyon-Healy in the Chicago area. Verticals (consoles) from $1650, grands from $3695. Liberal terms.

The Way We See It

Charles H. Percy For U.S. Senator

Illinois voters are blessed with a surplus of outstanding candidates for the United States Senate. Both the Democratic incumbent, Paul H. Douglas, and the Republican candidate, Charles H. Percy, have earned the respect and admiration of the majority of Illinois citizens.

Our choice is Charles H. Percy. The choice does not come easily, nor is our recommendation of Percy to our readers made lightly.

Paul Douglas has been a good senator and in some respects, a great one. He has consistently and firmly championed the interests of the average citizen above special interests. This was most recently demonstrated in the success of his long struggle to preserve a portion of the Indiana sand dunes. He also has supported efforts to assist the consumer. He fought for suburban interests by blocking the effort of Senator Dirksen to overturn the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote decision. That ruling is transferring voting power from formerly over-represented rural areas to the fast-growing suburbs.

Through such efforts, Paul Douglas has earned a permanent place in the hearts of our citizens.

Working against Douglas, however, is his age. He is far from feeble, but he is 74 now, and will reach 80 before this six-year senatorial term expires.

Recognizing this limitation, Senator Douglas told our staff he would not offer himself for an administrative job —governor, mayor or president — because of the "grueling pace" of such a position.

"But in the Senate, the job is primarily one of judgment, provided you can do an eight to 12 hour day, which I can do."

We doubt the atmosphere of the Senate is quite as leisurely as that or, if it were, that there would be demand for additional men whose age prevents their putting in a grueling schedule. We think Paul Douglas should have retired at the end of his current term. He told our staff he thought "I could be of more service as a senator than as a private citizen." Politically, that may be true. But Paul Douglas in retirement will be respected and listened to by his fellow citizens.

Charles Percy has not held public office and thus presents less certain a quality. That aspect of the Percy candidacy has been referred to, rather unfairly, by his critics. Yet the record is not blank. We find Percy a courageous, forthright man who has taken quite seriously the position he is seeking and has worked hard to familiarize himself with the problems of that office, of his constituency and of the United States in general.

Percy has challenged the public, as he challenged our staff, to review its impressions of the realities of the international situation—which he feels is the major problem facing the country today. He seeks a reevaluation of the U.S. involvement in Viet Nam and of the worldwide commitments we have accumulated during the post World War II period. He is pledged to work for reduction of nonessential federal spending during the current inflationary period. He has offered suggestions for improving the status of the Negro. And he has made specific, thoughtful proposals for improving the U.S. educational system.

He is concerned with problems particularly acute in fast growing suburban areas.

The youth of the Republican candidate also is an attraction for voters. He is a full decade younger now than Douglas was when he started the first of his three terms. He has the ability to put in grueling days, and we feel that is important.

We are concerned that over a period of many years there has been a shift in power within the federal government, with the President and his Administration assuming a growing, and frequently unwise, share of power. Congress must be stocked with strong men doing a grueling job if it is to regain its traditional role.

Percy touched on this point when he told our staff:

"I have an absolutely independent voice, free to support the Administration when I think it's right and free to criticize, and I think that's the essence of a senator . . . an absolute independence."

We think Illinois and the nation will profit from Charles Percy's election.

Our Endorsements

Following is a summary of our endorsements in the Nov. 8 election:

IN STATEWIDE CONTESTS: Charles H. Percy (R) for U.S. senator, Adlai Stevenson III (D) for Illinois treasurer, and Dr. Donald Prince (D) for Illinois superintendent of public instruction.

ON STATEWIDE ISSUES: Vote "No" on the revenue article, vote "Yes" on the county officers succession article, and no recommendation on the banking act (pink) ballot.

IN COOK COUNTY ELECTIONS: Richard B. Ogilvie (R) for president of the county board of commissioners, Joseph I. Woods (R) for sheriff, and Noble J. Puffer (D) for superintendent of schools. For U.S. representative in the 13th District, Donald Rumsfeld (R). For state representative in the Third District, Eugene Schlickman (R), David J. Regner (R), and Eugenia Chapman (D).

IN DuPAGE COUNTY ELECTIONS: Ray W. MacDonald (R) for county clerk and Merrill Gates (R) for superintendent of schools. For U.S. representative in the 14th District, John N. Erlenborn (R). For state senator in the 39th District, Michael Butler (D). For state representative in the 37th District, William Redmond (D) and Gene Hoffman (R).

Critic's Corner

. . . And Still Sounding Off

by DAN PRIBILSKI
Associate Editor

Do you know what today is? Think hard! Think real hard!

Okay, here're some hints:

It is vegetable, it's five years old, and it's sometimes very confusing.

Give up? Well, why not? Sometimes the important things in this world go unnoticed until too late except for regrets.

Today is the fifth birthday of the Critics' Corner. (That's this column.)

IT WAS five years ago with this week's issue of Paddock Publications that Bruce Ladd, now sounding off in Washington, D. C., launched this column.

He noted, "A valuable by-product of the column may be its ability to shatter the myth that there exists on this staff a unanimity of opinion as regards issues both large and small."

That's a mouthful, and it was then too. Know what he learned in the first column? Confusion. He learned there's confusion and really found that on large and small issues a great diversity of opinion exists.

PRIBILSKI

In the first column, he was, it must now be admitted, rather mundane. The column dealt with politics and where our editors stood politically.

One general opinion then voiced:

"I AM PART of that minority which deplores the lack of prophetic spirit in the United States—the kind of idealism that dares to shout that this is not the best of all possible worlds and believes our destiny is tied to the welfare of the earth's hungry and homeless."

But, then, perhaps another opinion should be included that was voiced and is more in keeping with the season—the political season, that is. Here it is:

"I view the two-party political structure as one within which an individual can vacillate with prudence."

SINCE THESE auspicious words were published on that auspicious occasion, our staff has expressed that ideal "that dares to shout that this is not the best of all possible worlds."

And our staff has "vacillated with prudence" on occasion.

All of which is designed to inform, soothe, anger, comfort and irritate. It's a column to allow our staff to get rid of their pet peeves, voice their "editorial" views; in other words, as the first column stated, "Our Editors Sound Off."

It's a way to let each staff member be a columnist for a week.

How successful it has been has been up to the individual writer. Admittedly, sometimes the "success" has been lacking. But, we claim to be really human beings with all the failings just like you. So sometimes failure is inevitable.

ALL IN ALL, we hope you've enjoyed the column whether you've agreed with it or disagreed with it.

A little inside information: one guiding light for this column (although the writers don't always consciously think it) is that we should hold true to the old saying of what a newspaper's duty is—to comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable.

So often though, we are faced with the problem of how to stir something up in those suburban nooks and crannies that are both afflicted and comfortable.

The coming year, we'll see how we do. Stick around. It should be fun.

Behind the Headlines

Future of O'Hare

by ED MURNANE
Staff Writer

O'Hare Airport, which has been largely responsible for the rapid residential and industrial growth in the northwest suburbs, may soon find itself in the position of "Number Two" in the Chicago area.

But if O'Hare does bow to a second major Chicago airport, there would probably be no adverse effect on the northwest area.

In fact, one of the men who is proposing a second Chicago airport does not even see a minor slowdown in the rapid growth pace in the northwest.

MURNANE

Loren Trimble, director of industrial development for the Commonwealth Edison Co., suggested the need for a second airport in a recent issue of Commerce magazine.

TRIMBLE POINTED out that O'Hare is quickly reaching a maximum point in air traffic, and that expansion or Chicago's southwest suburbs and Joliet.

Trimble sees a new airport mainly as one which would handle the overflow traffic from O'Hare. But, he concedes that the overflow would probably pass up the volume handled by O'Hare.

FOR THIS reason, he has proposed an airport twice as large as O'Hare.

What would be the result? What would happen to the northwest suburbs? Would the industrial growth slow down? The residential growth?

Trimble answered these questions in a telephone conversation recently, and he made it quite clear that the northwest suburbs would not suffer.

IN FACT, he went so far as to say that the area itself will not only continue to grow, but the rate of growth will also increase.

"It's hard to stop a ball from rolling," Trimble said. There is tremendous industrial interest in the area and property values are still relatively high.

"This," he said, "would indicate that the area is popular, with or without the airport."

Trimble does not think an airport is as important to development as others do. In the Joliet area, for example, Trimble said there will be a big population boom, but it will come whether or not there is an airport there.

"INTERSTATE 80 will give that area some identity," he said, "just like the Kennedy Expressway and the Northwest Tollway have done for the northwest suburbs."

Because it would take anywhere from six to ten years to get a second airport in operation, Trimble thinks there is no time to waste.

"The land will cost a lot more five years from now, as the area begins to develop," he said. "It would have been very difficult for them to build O'Hare ten years after they did."

TRIMBLE SEES most of the pressure for a new airport coming from the business sector of the economy. With the increase in air freight, he said it would be possible that a new airport would be predominantly for freight, leaving the passenger traffic to O'Hare.

This, it would seem, is the logical conclusion, since studies have shown that the great majority of air passengers live in the northwest suburbs and on the north side of Chicago.

This would possibly cause concern among the businessmen who have settled in the O'Hare area because of the airport.

But whatever the result is, Trimble says it is absolutely necessary to begin planning now.

And if nothing else happens, residents in the northwest suburbs can find comfort in the possibility that someone else may soon have to endure the noise from jet planes.

a new airport would be a necessity within several years.

He suggested a second airport somewhere between

A Career in Witnessing?

by DAN BAUMANN
Managing Editor

I read that the House Committee on Un-American Activities had hired a recent witness. The man was given a $1,000 contract for preparing a study of "ultra revolutionary groups." The compact was made less than a week after the revolutionary expert had appeared before the committee.

BAUMANN

Since I have opinions on nearly every subject, it immediately occurred to me I was in the wrong business. The contact-potentials of bearing witness could lure me from the writing trade.

FOR EXAMPLE, I could testify before the House Banking and Currency Committee about the effect of inflation on my pocketbook. The testimony could be followed by a special study, based on personal experience, showing either 1) how inflation has prevented a typical editor from saving, or 2) how it has failed to change his nonexistent saving habits.

I've grown rather familiar with zoning procedure over the years and could command a fantastic "fee" for study. Let's say I were to appear before the county zoning board, testifying in favor of a high-rise development in unincorporated territory. I could follow up with a study to show how no existing high rise development in unincorporated territory has been too badly hit by lack of police and fire protection.

I have operated a tape recorder and could go to Springfield to report to the special committee investigating the controversial currency exchange recordings. After explaining to the committee the techniques of making high quality recordings, I might offer to do a study of conversations occurring in all lobbyist hotel suites.

DOORS OPEN even wider for the court testimony specialist—the "expert witness." This activity has gone on for years, and no one has raised an eyebrow.

For example, I could determine I knew enough about land planning to open my own firm. I could act as a paid witness for villages fighting taxpayers; a good presentation might even result in a few contracts for planning. I could save some effort and give sure-to-please results by allowing the officials to dictate what appears in the plan. I've heard speculation that occurs on occasion.

But, again, maybe the writing game isn't as dull as I've portrayed it in comparison with the testimony game. I can't think of one expert witness who could attack me through a column.

Looking Back on Football History

1966 Cards Hope to Equal 1938 Standard

Arlington Was 7-0-1 Under John Grose

(A Paddock Sports Exclusive)

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

For historians, the fall of 1938 is best remembered for the Munich Pact, as great a triumph for Adolf Hitler as it was an abysmal defeat for the democracies.

When the Munich agreement was signed, giving Hitler everything he wanted at the time in his drive for Nazi expansion, the stage was set for the German armies to plunge into a non-resisting Czechoslovakia.

But tension-filled Europe in that fall of 1938 seemed so very far away to the communities of the United States.

Of major concern to the residents of Arlington Heights, Ill., a quiet suburb northwest of Chicago, was a vote of the school district on a proposed $172,000 addition and improvement of the high school. The issue carried by 99 votes.

The Arlington Theatre had a popular attraction called "Love Finds Andy Hardy" with Mickey Rooney, and the A & P featured a special sale of "four tall cans of milk for only 25 cents."

Arlington Heights was just like every other community, involved in its own problems.

But the folks in Arlington had something to brag about that fall, something that has taken on added significance through the years.

Arlington High School had an unbeaten football team, and the town was excited.

At the time it was noteworthy in that it was the school's first unbeaten varsity eleven since the sport was introduced at Arlington in the fall of 1925.

It is much more noteworthy today.

That 1938 Arlington High varsity is still the only unbeaten team in school history.

When the 1966 Arlington Cardinals, the 42nd team to represent the school in varsity football, tangle with Glenbrook South this Friday evening, they'll be seeking to equal the performance of that '38 powerhouse.

Coach Al Allen's Arlington outfit stands 6-0-1 today, tied only by Maine West.

Coach John Grose's Arlington team in 1938 finished 7-0-1, tied only by Libertyville.

Only two Arlington entries in history have won as many as seven games in one season, the '38 squad and the 1934 unit which finished 7-1 overall with the only loss to Des Plaines.

Only three Arlington High School teams have ever won conference championships—1934, 1938, and now 1966.

Football at Arlington High has come a long way since the sport was initiated at the school in 1925 with 24-year-old Noble Puffer, now campaigning for his eighth term as Cook County Supt. of Schools, serving as the first head coach.

NOBLE PUFFER
First Card Coach

There was some hesitancy about starting a football program, but as the Arlington Herald noted in a front page story on Sept. 18, 1925, "Because of the spirit of team work, fair play and cooperation, which all clean athletics teach, especially football, it has been deemed time to begin this gridiron sport here in Arlington Heights."

Coach Puffer fashioned the team from raw recruits, 23 eager teenagers, and he served the squad as coach, manager, water boy and first aid man. That first Arlington football team won four, lost two, and tied one.

For the past 42 years Arlington High School has fielded varsity football squads.

There have been good and bad seasons, some exceptional ones and some marked with agonizing futility.

There have been some great performers to wear the Arlington High School uniform. You still hear the long-time area residents talk about the exploits of Red Koelling, Steve Szasz, Norb Rohlwing, Earl Gieseke, Augie Mayerck, Bill Beckman, Bob O'Hagan, "Ozzie" Aldrich, Al Stroker, Pat McDonald, Bill Robinson, Wally Beckman, Augie Krause, Marv Berschet, John Shanley, Gordie Busse and many, many others.

Of more recent prominence were Jim Intravartolo, John Eakins, Dick Winterbauer, Johnny Sujack, Jack Weber, George Bork, and Mike Dundy and now Steve Allen, Dave Lockwood, and Steve Conley.

What many people fail to realize is that Arlington does have a rich tradition in football. There have been admittedly some lean years since 1950 but just ask someone about those outfits turned out by John Grose, Armand Seidler, and Curtis "Tego" Larsen. and "Bus" Ormsbee's powerful 1959 crew was one of the finest to ever perform at Arlington.

However, through those 42 years, through many fine seasons, only one team—that 1938 bunch—managed to escape defeat.

It's a season worth recalling in some detail because it was a season of such significance to the entire Arlington High School football story.

Arlington fans were hoping for a big season in '38. Coach Grose had directed his squad to a second place finish in the Northwest Conference in 1937 and had several veterans returning.

"It was a big club for the time," Grose, who now lives only three blocks from the high school, told Paddock Publications this week.

"We had several 200-pounders we could use and some boys who really loved to play football."

Grose, who coached for 17 years at Arlington, recalled that a transfer and an injury played prominent roles in helping mold this unbeaten outfit.

The transfer was Bill Beckman, a scrappy 156-pounder who moved to Arlington Heights from Nebraska where he had played on a state championship team.

"I was in a quandary about what to do with the middle of my line," Grose remembers. "And then Bill arrived and his value to the team was tremendous. He was a real competitor."

BILL BECKMAN
On 1938 Powerhouse

Beckman today is athletic director at Forest View High School, and he served as the head man of Prospect High's grid fortunes when the Knights terrorized all competition. Bill guided Prospect to an unbeaten season in 1960.

The injury that Grose referred to hit in the Arlington backfield. "I was looking for a tailback for our offense when Bob O'Hagan came up to me and said 'Coach, give me a chance. I can outrun anybody on this team.' And, you know, he could."

O'Hagan was sensational and he teamed with hard-running Augie Mayerck to give Arlington a brilliant set of backs.

O'Hagan, who is the father of 16 children, has moved out of the area, but Mayerck lives in Rolling Meadows and works in Arlington Heights.

Arlington launched that 1938 campaign with a so-so 20-0 victory over Elgin. The team only had eight practices and it showed in the over-all performance.

O'Hagan passed for two touchdowns and Mayerck pounded in from the one-yard line for the third.

Grant was next for the Cardinals and Arlington coasted, 39-0, with the locals showing vast improvement in all phases of play.

One of the highlights of that win over Grant was when Ed Bublitz drop-kicked an extra point.

"That's something I'll never forget," recalls Bublitz, who lives in Arlington Heights and who has three children at Arlington High School.

Guides '66 Unit

Arlington and Libertyville, the two teams expected to slug it out for the Northwest Conference championship, collided the following Saturday afternoon and battled to a scoreless deadlock, the only blemish on the Cards' 1938 record.

"Libertyville had a good club," Beckman remembers. "but we had our chances to win it. I remember that Grose used to send his two ends and guard down under punts, and we forced a fumble once that put us in good scoring position. But our own fumbles hurt."

Arlington toppled Lake Forest the following Saturday, 12-6, as O'Hagan and Mayerck scored and the winners piled up 277 total yards.

"That was the first time we were scored on," Beckman

Wheeling Travels to Maine Saturday

KICKIN' IT AROUND

Gone But Not Forgotten . . .

It happened late in the opening quarter Saturday afternoon at Prospect High School.

Arlington's Dave Lockwood slipped behind the deep Knight defenders and gathered in a Steve Allen pass for a 62-yard scoring maneuver.

With that touchdown pass by Allen, his eighth of the season, one of the most famous names in area sports history vanished from the football record books.

The passing standards of George Bork, that slender aerial artist who delighted area fans with his performances in 1958 and '59, now have been eclipsed in every category by Allen.

But until Steve uncorked that bomb to Lockwood Saturday, Bork still held a share of one Arlington passing record, most touchdown passes in a single season. Allen has them all now, and he threw two more scoring strikes before calling it a day against Prospect.

Although the Bork name has been taken out of the record book, the football achievements of this young man will not soon be forgotten in the Paddock area.

And George still has a couple school basketball records that haven't been shattered.

It's natural at this late stage of the season, with only one game remaining, that many football buffs are talking in terms of comparison, Bork vs. Allen.

Discounting the records because they sometimes can be misleading, just who was the better quarterback?

Certainly any comparison has to be limited strictly to the performances as high school performers. Allen's future, however promising, is still a question-mark. Bork achieved national recognition with his passing antics at Northern Illinois University and now is seeing more service in the Canadian League.

As high school passers, there

is little to choose between Bork and Allen. We saw them both through their entire varsity careers and Allen has one game left. They're both outstanding, let there be no question about that.

There are certain things professional scouts, for example, look for in passing quarterbacks. First, they must be able to get the ball away quickly without a windup. Second, they should be able to throw off-balance and be able to dodge tacklers and still throw. And when their primary receivers are covered they should be able to quickly spot the secondary men.

Both Bork and Allen showed this equipment to a degree as preps. There was the quick pump and then the throw, short or long. There were the amazingly quick wrists.

Allen is the better runner and the better executor of plays although Bork certainly wasn't lacking entirely in these departments. But George was primarily a thrower and a picture passer he was, throwing a softer ball than Allen.

As an all-around prep quarterback, the nod would have to CRUNCH!! Wheeling halfback Dan DeVito (33) runs into a swarm of football bodies during Saturday's Wheeling-Palatine game. Among the Pirates in the pile are Dennis Lynch (13), Chris Green (73) and Art Zajonc (15), while Wheeling's Jon Hittman (32) looms at the right. DeVito picked up 71 yards rushing for the game, and was one of the principals in a 30-7 'Cat triumph. (Staff photo by Bob Strawn)

Wildcats Eye Second Place

Warriors Need Victory For Share of Loop Title

by KEITH REINHARD

Usually, if the book is a good one, they make a movie out of it.

This weekend a new rule of thumb could have some Mid-Suburban League mentor so enjoying a movie, he molded a football game after it.

The coaches in question are Wheeling's Bill Daletski and Maine West's Ken Olson. The movie is entitled: "How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb."

For an entire football season these two headmen have been grooming their charges into steady, powerful, meticulous caissons of the gridiron. Save for two teams, both the Warriors and Wildcats have overwhelmed one opponent after another with simple football tactics: A devastating defense, a solid ground game, and an occasional pass to keep the foe honest.

The results are a 5-1-1 record for Maine West, the only league blemish a 14-14 tie with Arlington, and a 6-1 slate for Wheeling, their only loss a 7-0 squeaker to the same Cardinals.

IT'S THE LAST week of the season now and Arlington, having accomplished its task, waits and watches with interest as these two machines collide on a battlefield strewn with significance. The terrain is bound to be rocky and neither side is averse to signaling for air support.

When the Warriors allow Wheeling into their arena this Saturday at 2 p.m., here are the points of importance surrounding the clash:

Arlington is through with the MSL this year. Having finished with a 5-0-1 mark they tackle Glenbrook South in a non-league encounter Saturday to close their season.

Maine West is 4-0-1 in loop action. Saturday's performance will not only decide if they are to share the MSL crown with the Cardinals, it will be their swan song as they ready to shift to the Central Suburban League at year's end.

WHEELING possesses a 4-1-0 showing in league contests. They cannot win a chunk of the championship. They can, however slip into sole possession of second place by dropping the Warriors out of first Saturday.

And with the combatants so evenly matched, results of this scramble at the top may well be determined by one side's ability to outmaneuver their opponent via the bomb sight, the heretofore rarely-used passing game.

For Daletski at least, the thought of an aerial attack is extremely reasonable. "Our concentration all year has been on a poised attack. We've polished it now to the point where we feel our air game is potentially explosive and bears watching."

DALETSKI'S STRATEGY for taming the Warriors calls for a strong defensive game coupled with this offensive poise, which he hopes will jam up the Maine machinery by destroying their confidence.

According to the head coach however, "The Maine West ground game will undoubtedly put our defense to its toughest test. While we feel confident we can deter them there, this opens the door to an assault on our secondary and that is where we are anticipating the fireworks."

Olson on the other hand, considers Wheeling the strongest team Maine West must face this year. He also is aware of the potential of the long pass, both as a weapon in the Warior arsenal and dangerous tool to be

In Final Contest

Falcons Host Knights

by BOB NORDIN

Coaches Don Williams of Prospect and Bob Scott of Forest View have at least one thing in common right about now.

For both, this has been a frustrating and disappointing football season.

This weekend will be the deciding feature on which of the two is to have the more frustrating season as Prospect will travel to Forest View Saturday.

With these two teams boasting the records they do at the moment, there is nothing more at stake than personal pride, but you can be sure this will be a head-buster.

IN THEIR THREE previous meetings the Knights have had the better of the Falcons in two of those clashes and in last year's battle they fought to a 19-19 standoff. The Falcons would like to have this one just to set the record straight and break the Knights' dominance of the series.

The Knights, on the other hand, have yet to win a ball game this season and a win against Forest View would at least salvage something from an otherwise lackluster season.

Both the Knights and the Falcons have been hit with the injury jinx this year and this can have a telling effect on a season's outcome. This past week the Knights lost Bill Whittmeyer to the injured list and so his guard spot will be handled by Bob DeStafanis.

FOREST VIEW lost their top pass catcher earlier in the season when Howie Brasch suffered a dislocated shoulder and was shelved for the season. This loss was evident last weekend when the Falcons lost to Glenbrook North and were able to complete only four passes out of 18 attempts.

Besides these major injuries that remove a player from competition, the small nagging injuries that slow a man down have been suffered by both teams. It makes a difference in the outcome.

With the exception of Whittmeyer, the Knights will be pretty much intact for this weekend's struggle. Besides DeStafanis in the line, coach Williams will have Roger Anderson at the other guard and they will be flanked by tackles Butch Leonard and Jeff Schneider. The Knight ends will be Bob Anderson and Tom Lundstedt. Lundstedt. Lundstedt has been a standout this season and is fourth in the league in receiving with 12 catches for 169 yards and one TD.

The Knights will be quarterbacked by Bob Youngquist and go to Allen although the differences are slight.

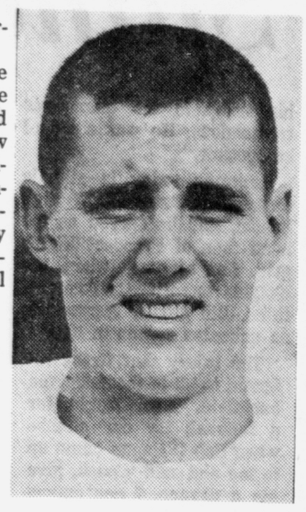
Allen has the size advantage at 6-3½, 175. Although the school publicitors liked to add some pounds, Bork admits now that he was only 6-1, 165 in college. That lack of size undoubtedly was the biggest reason George was by-passed by the National and American football leagues in the professional draft.



STEVE ALLEN

College frosh football team although he spent some time on the sidelines with a dislocated shoulder.

"I don't suppose it matters now," Bork said recently, "but they gave me a big buildup when I came to Montreal and they exaggerated my weight. I'm up to 178 now, but I think it's natural growth and development. At six-feet-one I'm not so well padded."

Both Bork and Allen had the opportunity to play on outstanding Arlington High School teams, perhaps the finest to ever represent the school although there undoubtedly are some old-timers who may argue that point.

It's no secret that the college recruiters are hounding Allen's every move, but there wasn't that big a furor over where Bork would go to school.

When Bork was a senior, the big names among the prep quarterbacks in Illinois were Bill Pfeiffer of DePaul Academy, Ron Fearn of East Rockford, Bob Sadek of Rich Twp., Harry Kent of Freeport, Terry Isaacson of Oak Park, and Ron Buchanan of Proviso.

"Michigan and Wisconsin made scholarship offers," Bork recalls, "and I received questionnaires from Northwestern and some other big schools. But Michigan and Wisconsin, which showed the greatest interest, wanted me to play basketball only.

"I wanted to play both basketball and football but they seem to frown on it at the big schools because the seasons overlap.

"Al Eck (Palatine grad now coaching at Maine East), who was a Little All-American end at Northern Illinois, got me interested in DeKalb. But there I got the same story at first—until coach Fletcher (Howard) heard about it and they straightened it out so I could participate in both sports."

It remains to be seen how many sports Allen will participate in at a college level although if he weren't a football stickout, there would be no question that he'd be hustled for basketball where he has been a varsity regular since his soph year.

What does the future hold for these two boys?

For Steve Allen it's an uncertain future where only time, and each passing season, will supply the answers. But the future does look good.

For George Bork the future as a professional performer now appears much brighter than it did last fall.

As of last week, George was considered the number one quarterback for the Alouettes of the Canadian League with veteran Bernie Faloney the backup man.

"I never became discouraged," says Bork, "even when I didn't play much for two years. I never wanted to suddenly take off. Someday, I knew I'd be running this team on the field."

Although some of the Canadian buffs feel Montreal will still go with vet Faloney in the crucial encounters as the season draws to a close, Bork doesn't mind. He knows he's arrived in the pro game.

"I feel stronger now," admits George, "than at any time since coming to Montreal. I've reached my highest point of personal confidence in three seasons."

Prospect High grad Dan Agard, who earned All-State honors last fall for Don Williams' Knights, has been working as a starting linebacker on the Augustana (Ill.)

Grenadiers To Tangle With Fremd

The Elk Grove Grenadiers will play host this Saturday to the Fremd Vikings from Palatine, and the Grovers will be doing their utmost to win this one and keep from being shutout of the win column for 1966.

The Grenadiers, who have two ties on their record, will start basically the same team as they have in the past.

This will be the first time this season when Grove will meet a team that is the same age they are with no seniors. This may make a difference in the outcome.

The Vikings are 3-4 for the season.

This should be a good ball game to see between the two newest schools in the area and the outcome is anyone's guess.

Action will begin at 2 p.m.

1938 Cardinals Were Unbeaten for Season

points out, "and they got the jump on us. It was kind of startling to find ourselves behind someone even though it was still early in the season. But we scored, missed the extra point, and then scored again the next time we got the ball."

The Arlington Herald emphasized in its game story that "Bill Beckman was chasing Lake Forest ball carriers all over the field" and also praised the effort of Mayerck.

"Too much credit can't be given to Augie Mayerck," the story said. "He gained consistently and did a workmanlike job of blocking."

Arlington treated a homecoming crowd to a 27-12 victory over Barrington to remain unbeaten in five games. Mayerck scored two touchdowns on a two-yard run and 60-yard gallop with an interception, and Bublitz and O'Hagan both tallied on 18-yard dashes. O'Hagan was the big ball-carrier with 94 yards in nine carries.

O'Hagan had his finest game the following Saturday in Arlington's 26-7 victory over Niles Center. He scored four touchdowns on runs of 3, 5, 15, and 17 yards and big Bill Langhorst (6-4, 200) pulled down five passes for 65 yards in one of his top efforts.

Langhorst works with Beckman today at Forest View, taking care of the Falcon athletic facilities.

With an unbeaten season in sight Arlington then proceeded to rip past Leyden, 38-0, piling up 453 rushing yards. Mayerck picked up 161 in 18 carries and O'Hagan added 120 in 16 cracks for the winners.

Unheralded reserve back Ken Koelling dashed 55 yards for one score, and Rollie Koenig, whose son Mike later played for Arlington High, picked up one score on a run of 20 yards.

That victory clinched a title tie for Arlington in the Northwest Conference and set the stage for the dramatic non-league meeting with highly touted Crystal Lake, champion of the McHenry County League.

It was strictly no contest. With O'Hagan picking up 109 rushing yards and scoring three touchdowns, Arlington breezed to a 33-13 victory to finish a banner campaign unbeaten.

As those Cardinals, excited over finishing an unbeaten season, dashed off the field that Saturday afternoon, they never realized that they would stand alone in the school football annals for 42 years.

It was an outstanding team with many talented performers. Everyone contributed to the unbeaten effort, including the manager.

The manager was Joe Bodor, who now works at the Arlington Heights News Agency and is a veteran campaigner of the golf and bowling leagues in the area.

"And what a great manager Joe was," Beckman emphasizes. "Why, he was like another coach. He'd really get on you if you made a mistake and he helped keep the spirit high."

So many boys contributed to the success of the 1938 team that it would be remiss to leave out any major letter winner.

Earning major "A's" on that squad were O'Hagan, Mayerck, Beckman, Langhorst, Koelling, Koenig, Capt. Bartelt (who died about five years ago), Erwin Lemke (whose son Gerry plays for the 1966 Wheeling team), Bill Hull, Warren Henken, Norm Busse, R. J. Rosch, K. Koehneke, J. Heidemann, Howard Heller, George Milligan.

Bob Goedke (whose father once served as mayor of Arlington Heights), George Grossi (who was killed on a mission in World War II), B. Thoman, A. Harth, Bob Haake, and Bublitz.

That was the 1938 Arlington High varsity team, the only unbeaten squad in school history.

On this Friday evening in Northbrook, twenty-eight years later, Arlington High School goes after its second unbeaten football season.

Face Touted Meteors

Lions Tackle Leaders

by BOB FRISK

They just don't get any easier for St. Viator High School.

One weekend you're playing St. Patrick and seven days later you're asked to bump heads with DeLaSalle.

But the Lions responded to one challenge—and they're ready for the next.

St. Viator coach Joe Gliwa, naturally disappointed with the 13-7 setback to St. Pat's after an exceptional effort by his boys, sees no letdown by the time his club takes the field Sunday afternoon against the league leaders.

"Sure, we were disappointed in the loss," Gliwa admits "The boys turned in a great effort. Anytime you can hold St. Pat's to no points for three quarters it's an accomplishment.

"THEY SHOWED an advantage in statistics, but we always seemed able to come up with the big play on defense. We've got some incentive going for this game Sunday. DeLaSalle is No. 1, but we showed last week that we can give anyone trouble. They had to work for those scores.

DeLaSalle comes into the loop fray Sunday at Shrewbridge-Stagg field needing only a victory or tie to grab an undisputed claim to the Chicagoland Prep League championship.

The Meteors are the only unbeaten club in the division with only one wek remaining. St. Patrick and Marian Catholic of Chicago Heights, who'll collide this weekend, are one lap behind with 3-1 standards.

DeLaSALLE expects a rough game Sunday. They lost to St. Viator last fall, 13-6, and watched the Lions give St. Patrick a rugged argument last weekend.

"I wasn't surprised with St. Viator's showing," said Meteor coach Pat Cronin. "This certainly is one of the better Viator teams, good team speed, and some big, tough linemen in boys like Forston (Denny and Rocca (Paul)".

Cronin, who has seen his Meteors lose only once this fall, a 7-0 decision to Joliet, says his club has "one big fear" and "one big thing going for us."

"THE FEAR," the head man points out, "is that we don't have the good size. We're not real big in the line with one exception."

But Cronin doesn't feel that size has been a big handicap.

"These kids are tough," he says. "There's not a lot of ability here but they hit hard."

Cronin points to right tackle Ron Curl (6-2, 225) as the key man up front. "They don't come any more dedicated than Curl," the coach praises. "He's big time material and he wants to play pro ball some day."

ANOTHER BOY Cronin feels has big time football ability is center Joe Zigluch (6-0, 190), a rugged senior.

The Meteors can run or throw. Right end Mickey Kwiatowski (6-0, 175) has pulled down nine scoring passes as an impressive encore to an all-conference junior campaign.

The key back is Tom Shinnick, a 6-0, 170-pounder, but there's some talent in that backfield with senior Mike Wagner (135) at the controls, soph flash Bill Willkins (145) at right half, and senior Albert Brown (161) at fullback.

"I'll settle for a one-point victory Sunday," Cronin concluded. "We respect St. Viator."

ALTHOUGH the Lions didn't show much statistically against St. Pat's, they did repeatedly come up with the big play on defense.

"The interceptions really hurt us on offense," Gliwa said. "But this was one of the best efforts by a St. Viator team since I've been here. They came to play football and they hit hard."

Gliwa passed out post-game plaudits to the entire unit, praising a team effort, but he did mention another superb effort by linebacker and end Kevin Laird.

"POUND-FOR-POUND Kevin's as fine a linebacker," Gliwa said, "as I've seen in a long time. He doesn't have to take a back seat to anyone despite his size (5-11, 175) which certainly isn't big for a linebacker."

Gliwa hopes for a better showing on the attack this coming Sunday, pointing to some mixups on the pass patterns against the Shamrocks.

The Lion passing game, so effective against St. Mel when 13 clocked for 177 yards, connected only four times for 44 yards against St. Patrick.

OVERALL, the Lions picked up only 115 total yards Sunday while yielding 298.

"We'll need a big effort this weekend," Gliwa summed up. "DeLaSalle shut out St. Pat's so we know what to expect. This is our final game, and the boys want this one."

DeLaSalle wants sole possession of the Chicagoland flag. St. Viator wants to jolt those aspirations.

The battle unfolds at 1:30 Sunday afternoon.

Wheeling Travels

defensed against.

ALTHOUGH THE Warriors are less prone to pass than any team in the MSL, and Wheeling relies primarily on their strong ground game as well, both are surprisingly impressive in unleashing the bomb.

Arlington's Steve Allen is without question the most proficient quarterback in the circuit this year, but statistics show four league quarterbacks sporting higher touchdown percentages in respect to passes attempted. Three of these will be in uniform on the Maine West turf Saturday.

Wheeling signal-caller Robin Melzer has only five touchdowns to his credit during the season, but 7.8 per cent of his 64 passes have developed into scores. Allen's overall mark is ten touchdowns on 146 attempts, a 6.8 per cent mark.

ANOTHER WILDCAT who has thrown the ball occasionally is Rich Haddock. In loop play one out of ten of his tosses was gathered in for a scoring romp, earning him an even 10 per cent ratio.

The best bomb thrower without question however, is Maine West's Bob Binger. He was reared back and fired only five times this season and three were completed. All three were for touchdowns, rating him at an unbelieveable 60 per cent.

Should the bomb fail to detonate, or never be required, the match still promises action. Olson is able to fall back on his principal gambit: Dial M for Offense.

M IS KEN Mandelky, top MSL ground gainer and virtually assured of maintaining that status through the close of the season. He has picked up 531 yards in five league games and his nearest rival, Steve Conley of Arlington, has already finished for the MSL year.

M is for Phil Murdock, Maine West quarterback and also capable of throwing the bomb. He has attempted only 12 hurls this season, but three receptions have netted 88 yards and a TD.

M is for Dick Manny, another dangerous runner who has accumulated nearly 200 yards in five contests.

Daletski can counter with equally capable backs in Tom Bastable, Jon Hittman and Dan Devito. All three average better than four-and-a-half yards per carry and double solidly in defensive roles.

Haddock, who was injured two weeks ago, will play for Wheeling but probably only on defense. Daletski's only other question mark is lineman Tom Traversone, who aggravated an injury and may not be able to play.

With all eyes focused on Maine West, one query reigns as a formidable one prior to the game both sides have worked up to all season: Which side will be lugging the "Ban the Bomb" signs when the dust settles on MSL football for 1966.

Cougars Host Saturday Tilt

Rivalry Should Outweigh Disappointments Of Both

The fates have not been kind to Palatine and Conant in football this year, but the schedule-makers could not have been wiser in ordaining when the two would meet.

The fates—and a variety of other events and misadventures—decreed that Palatine would now be 2-5 for the season, and Conant 1-6, with each standing at 1-4 in the Mid-Suburban League, tied for fifth.

Those are the standards they'll bring together when they meet this Saturday in the last game of the 1966 season for both, and that happenstance of scheduling alone has lifted the game from a confrontation of also-rans to a thing of meaning.

It is, of course, the great rivalry of Dist. 211, albeit a rivalry now only in its second year. But beyond that, because it is the finale to the season — the finale to a season of disappointment — it is the one last chance to achieve something of memory out of the shreds of hopes.

THERE WOULD logically be no better way for Palatine and Conant to conclude their efforts this autumn, and now — considering what has gone before — their game this Saturday will be a special season in itself. And in that regard, the presumption goes, there'll be no great need to put the whip to the partisans to swell their enthusiasm.

The opposing coaches — Palatine's Arv Herstedt and Conant's Ron Rio — are assuming that spirit and attitude for the battle of neighbors will be generated without assistance within the players, and the bulk of the work this week was for mending wounds and making game plans.

The past history of the conflict shows Palatine with the advantage. For in the one game played to date, the Pirates — in their perfect season of 1965 — prevailed over early Conant resistance and won going away, 35-0. That was on Palatine turf. This Saturday, Conant is hosting the struggle, and if there is any advantage in that, give Conant a plus.

BUT WHAT IT will come down to in the end is personnel and attitude. And there both sides have suffered, physically and emotionally in absorbing the bruises and contusions of 1966.

Knights, Falcons

he will have halfbacks Vince Curry and Al Wilcox behind him along with fullback Gary Cobe. Curry is the Knights leading rusher for the season and has 165 yards for 46 trys. Wilcox is a standout safety and has picked up 372 yards on kickoff and punt returns. If they could get everything working at once they could be tough.

THE FALCONS under head coach Scott were picked to be contenders at the beginning of the season but they have never jelled and have suffered through a most disappointing season.

They have had certain flashes of brillance such as when they rocked the Palatine eleven and when they played Wheeling and lost 7-6, but they have never reached their potential and this is very frustrating to Scott.

What makes matters worse is that in a number of instances they have completely dominated their opponents in statistics and yet have come out second best on the scoreboard.

THE FALCONS will be trying again this week and they came through the Glenbrook game with no lasting injuries.

The Falcons will utilize roughly the same team as they fielded last week and although their big offensive gun, Henry Tasche, was nearly idled by the tough Glenbrook defense last week, he will be looking for running room or people to run over this week. Joining Tasche in the backfield will be halfbacks Bob Arnold, and Jeff Jacoby and the starting quarterback will probably be vet Rich Gillespie although Mike Otto is expected to see some playing time.

In the line Scott will probably start ends Dan Smith and Steve Allen. The tackles will be Tony Jungblut and Bob Savage. Savage, though only a junior, played an outstanding game against Glenbrook on the defensive unit and has been progressing week to week.

Scott's two guards will be Dave Kaspari and junior Spence Dreischarf. Dreischarf is a boy that bears watching as he is proving to be a standout as his little-heralded guard post.

THE STARTING center this week will be either Jeff Nordlund or Mark Frankel, but both boys will see action.

This is the final week of football competition for both teams and they will both be shooting for that closing win. The Prospect Knights have nothing to lose, but they would like to have this one to keep from having a winless season.

The Falcons will be shooting for a victory because they have never beaten the Knights and because they have personal pride to uphold.

The outcome of this game is uncertain but even in losing both of these squads never stopped trying.

This is the last game of the year and the last game of high school for some of these boys.

Both teams are "second best" and both will be trying harder!

For Cards' Finale

Goals Aren't Lacking

by BOB FRISK

They wrapped up the Mid-Suburban Conference season with a convincing rout of Prospect and clinched at least a share of the league flag.

They can take it all if Wheeling knocks over Maine West Saturday afternoon.

What's left is a non-conference engagement with Glenbrook South Friday evening at the Glenbrook North field in Northbrook.

Normally, a non-league tussle is no way to end a season. It's difficult for the coaches to get a club ready for a game that has no bearing on the standings and for an opponent that has not been making much noise.

BUT THIS IS no ordinary season at Arlington High. This is no ordinary team.

There's plenty to shoot for Friday evening in the trip to Northbrook.

There's an unbeaten season at stake, only the second in the school's 42-year football history.

There's the school mark for victories in a single season, seven, shared by two teams.

And there are some individual school records that could fall.

ARLINGTON WANTS this one badly. The Cards have come too far this year to suffer a letdown now.

And what more incentive do you need than the fact that you stand so close to becoming only the second team in school history to fashion an unbeaten season.

It happened one other time—in 1938. Those Cardinals won seven and tied one and shared the Northwest Conference flag.

Arlington also won seven games in 1934 after dropping the season opener (19-0) to Des Plaines.

ONLY EIGHT teams at Arlington have won as many as six games in a single campaign so the 1966 outfit already shares this distinction.

Coach Al Allen's club will put a 6-0-1 record on the line Friday evening in the battle with Glenbrook South.

Dick Walker's Titans have been suffering through a so-so campaign, and they'd like nothing better than to knock off one of the big guys in the season finale.

Glenbrook is 2-5 on the year with victories over Niles North (7-6) in Central Suburban action and New Trier West (24-19) in a non-league tussle.

St. Viator shaded the Titans, 9-7.

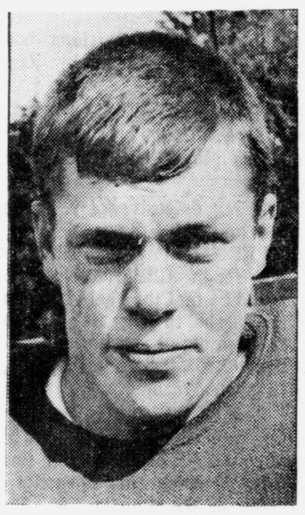
THERE HAVE been no common opponents although Glenbrook gave a Maine South team a pretty stiff argument (losing 14-7) and those Hawks handed Maine West its only setback of the year.

In Central Suburban play Glenbrook South has tripped up Niles North while losing to Maine South, Niles West (33-0), and Glenbrook North (23-0).

Walker feels he's gotten his top performance up front from right tackle Gary Engberg (6-0, 210), and the Titan head man also says quarterback Jay Gregg (5-9, 180, a two-year vet, has been turning in some capable efforts.

THE TITANS suffered a severe blow on the attack when regular fullback Buzz Avery, a hard-hitting 205-pound junior, quit the squad. Avery was a regular as a soph.

Arlington's Allen was high in his praise of the Cards' effort in the 48-6 win over Prospect with special plaudits for the work of two veteran seniors, Bruce Weber and Dave Lockwood.



BRUCE WEBER

"BRUCE WAS just great," Allen enthused. "The films showed he caused three fumbles and he was in on about 16 tackles and 16 assists. And his offensive blocking was excellent. That had to be his finest effort for us."

Lockwood's contributions were four pass receptions for 113 yards and three touchdowns and another steady game in the defensive backfield.

Lockwood, the greatest pass receiver in school history with 39 career grabs for 796 yards, closed in on another school mark with his big game.

THE FLEET END needs only four yards on pass receiving in his final prep outing to top the single season standard set last fall by Bruce Hubbard.

Hubbard pulled down passes for 499 yards over eight games. Lockwood has grabbed 19 aerials for 496 yards in seven contests.

One other mark which appears certain to fall Friday is the most passes completed in a single season. Steve Allen, who is making a strong bid for All-State recognition, has completed 72 for 1215 yards and ten touchdowns. He set the record last year with 73 completions.

But the individual marks aren't of primary concern to this Arlington football team as it concludes the '66 campaign.

They want that unbeaten season. They want to earn a very special place in the 42-year history of Arlington High football.

Evanston Underclass Meet

Prospect Dazzling In Harrier Action

Prospect's underclass harriers carved a niche at the top of a new record book Friday with impressive showings at the Evanston Invitational cross country meet.

Nearly monopolizing the freshman run and capturing four of the top dozen places in the sophomore event, Knight runners bagged first and second team prizes for their work.

The first offering of what is slated to be an annual affair, the meet featured nearly 90 runners from eight schools.

In the frosh competition, Prospect's Tom Klinker, Keith Matthews and Pete Dumke clipped the tape 1-2-3 in that order enroute to a 22-61 team triumph over the hosts. Other entries were Highland Park (74), Palatine (89) and Forest View (121).

KLINKER'S WINNING time was 11:05.5 with Matthews and Dumke less than four seconds behind. Other contributors to the near-perfect performance were Greg Glade (7) and Al Morrison (9) with Bill Allen (12) and Chuck Vandenbosch (14) faring well as pushers among the field of 37.

Palatine was paced by Steve Bahnfleth, one second behind Dumke in fourth. Other Pirate scorers were Tom Krege (19), Bob Louis (20), Tom Carkeek (22) and Dave Davenport (24).

Forest View's Mike McCormick was fifth, less than seven seconds off the winning time. Trailing him were Falcons Ryan Maly (25), Jerry McEvilly (28), Don Johnson (30) and Glen Spiegler (33).

The Wildkits captured their own sophomore run, easily outdistancing Prospect and five other entries. The standings read: Evanston (27), Prospect (63), New Trier East (66), Arlington (96), Highland Park (149), Palatine (154) and Forest View (174).

ALTHOUGH THE hosts sauntered off with five of the top ten positions, individual honors went to Palatine's Mark Visk, hitting the chute at 10:10.7.

Dave Proudfoot crossed the finish line sixth to pace the Knights to their second place slot. Prospect's other scorers were Doug Bach (8), Dick Paulson (11), Bill Treece (12) and Don Dall (26).

The five best Cardinals were Dave Marszalek (15), Bill Price (16), Al McKay (20), Rick Pelland (22), and Jim Kolari (23).

Pursuing Visk for Palatine were Scott Smith (30), Jim Weyhenmeyer (33), Howard Weld and Jerry Hoffman (46).

The top five Falcon sophs were Tom Vaughn (31), Brian Finch (32), John Hanely (34), Mike Kinneman (37) and Brad Davis (40).

FV And Grove Frosh Divide

The freshman football teams from Forest View and Elk Grove squared off with each other over the weekend and split decisions.

On the freshman "A" level the Grove Grenadiers took a 26-14 win but on the "B" level Forest View won and shut out the Grenadiers 12-0.

JUST DOGS

By Dave Terrill

Shedding—

Much has been written on the subject of shedding and there will be more to come, including this little discussion on the subject. At the start, one thing should be understood, all dogs shed. If they don't, you have a problem.

No matter what breed of dog, and even though some folks say their dog never sheds his hair, it is only a natural thing for a dog to shed and replace old hair with new. Some dogs will shed less than others, but no matter what anyone tells you to the contrary, it is a natural thing to occur. It takes place with humans and with dogs, plus I imagine, most animals that have a hair or fur growth.

Hair shedding is nature's solution to the dog's seasonal wardrobe problems, and as pointed out by the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York, there are a number of ways to make things easier for you and your dog. Some dogs shed twice a year, others seem to shed constantly. Nature takes a hand when dogs live outdoors. They grow a heavier coat in the winter months. It sheds out in the spring. In the fall, the dead hairs of their summer coat shed out and so goes the cycle.

Excessive shedding may indicate some ailment, an improper diet or parasites. Go over your dog's coat regularly. If you find fleas, and they are often more active in the fall than in summer, use a good powder or dip, making sure to follow directions, and clean out the dog's sleeping quarters. Dogs kept as house pets often suffer from overheated rooms. Their coats become dry and excessive shedding can take place. Groom the pet dog frequently and apply a coat conditioner occasionally. Keep in mind that exercise tones the skin and coat as well as developing muscles, stamina and blood circulation.

How Much?

A recent conversation with some folks who were selling puppies brought to light one fact about human behavior which always has caused this editor to wonder about people.

It seems that many individuals would call about buying a puppy, having seen an ad in the newspaper or elsewhere, and although they wanted a pure-bred pup, when the price was mentioned they would hang up. Just what do they expect, a pure-bred dog for nothing? The case in question and the price involved was very fair.

The main problem seems to be that people who are not breeders and want to buy a good pup, don't seem to understand what it costs to bring a puppy up to eight weeks of age, or more. Stud fees, feeding, shots, trips to the veterinarian, all of this enters into the picture and folks who want to buy a good pure-bred dog should realize, you don't raise a litter of pups for nothing.

People should be commended for wanting a pure-bred dog. At least they know what it will look like when grown and just about what type of temperament they can expect, but please consider the cost involved in breeding such a dog.

South Side Obedience Trial

The South Side Obedience Dog Training Club held its annual obedience trial Sunday, at the International Amphitheatre, with 322 dogs entered in the event. Total class entries hit 379, to make it one of the largest obedience trials in the country. Your editor judged a class of 50 Utility dogs, and needless to say it was a long, but enjoyable day.

Barks & Bays—

While man's normal heartbeat rate is 70 to 100 a minute, a dog's heartbeat is about 100 to 120 a minute.

Lion Frosh Show Power

What was expected to be their toughest game of the season turned into a surprising 31-0 rout Saturday as St. Viator's unbeaten frosh eleven rocked St. Patrick.

"Breaks helped," said Lion coach John Zid, "but our boys turned in an exceptional effort. St. Pat's was unbeaten and they had a good running offense."

The Lions, who have not yielded a point this season, scored on their second offensive play as Anderson raced 65 yards.

Larry Quinnett tallied on a four-yard dive play, and Steve Aylward scored twice on runs of one and 11 yards.

Mark Truester took in a 60-yard pass for the final Lion touchdown.

TOM BASTABLE picks up several of the 117 yards he gained on the ground in Saturday's Wheeling-Palatine game. The standout Wildcat transfer also scored three touchdowns in the 30-7 win. He's menaced here by Palatine's Bill Gill (84), while Bill Surmin (44) takes in some of the action for Wheeling, and the rest of both teams piles up in the background. (Staff photo)

Crown Champions in Boys Football Play

The championship of the varsity division of the Arlington Boys Football League was won by the Giants Saturday when they defeated the Vikings, 13 to 6.

The Giants had the division's sturdiest defense throughout the season, allowing only 24 points while registering five victories against one defeat. The Vikings, with the highest scoring teams, 82 points in six games, were also tough on defense allowing only 33 points.

In this showdown battle for the title, the Vikings jumped off to an early lead when Ricky Clemens took the opening kickoff and scampered 70 yards for a touchdown. This gave Clemens the division scoring championship with 31 points.

THE GIANTS didn't cross the Viking goal line until the third period. Then it was John Norton who broke away for a 35 yard touchdown run. In the fourth period, with the score tied, Norton climaxed a downfield drive by going over from the two. Ken Peters added the extra point.

The Giants gained 198 yards rushing and 15 yards on one pass. Other offensive standouts, in addition to Norton, were Ken Peters, who gained 99 yards rushing, Kevin Sweeney and Dana Morken.

The Giant defense, that held the powerful Viking offense to only one first down and minus yardage for the game, was sparked by Richie Crowell, Brian McHale, Scott Mislan, John Norton and Mike Kaskie.

VIKING COACH Wayne Mueller praised his entire squad for the fine season and passed out plaudits to the following boys:

Mueller said Johnston, Kelly, and Brinkworth would have to rate with the top linemen in the league.

THE STEELERS evened their season record at three victories and three defeats with a 12 to 6 victory over the last place Eagles.

The Steelers jumped off to a first quarter lead when Steve Kuebler went over from the five to climax a downfield drive. The try for extra point was missed.

In the second quarter, the Eagles faked a kick and completed a 50 yard pass play to Tom Burger to even the score at halftime, 6 to 6.

The Steelers put across the winning touchdown in the last quarter when Steve Kuebler scored from the two yard line. With this two touchdown effort, Kuebler finished fourth among league scorers for the season with 19 points.

SENIOR DIVISION

With a one-sided 45 to 0 victory over the Redskins, the Rams Saturday completed an undefeated season and with it claimed the senior division championship of the Arlington league.

In sweeping to six consecutive victories without defeat, the mighty Rams amassed 185 points while holding all of their opponents scoreless. They were the only team in all three divisions of the Arlington Boys Football League to be unscored upon this season.

Individual star for the Rams last week, as he has been all season, was fleet Gene Elsberg who passed for two touchdowns and ran 55 and 50 yards for two more. He ended the season as the division's leading scorer with 85 points.

The Rams started their touchdown parade against the Redskins in the first quarter when Elsberg passed 15 yards to Tom Cannon for the first score. John Coulter added the extra point.

In the second quarter, Mike Pettenuzzo climaxed a downfield drive by going over from the five for the Rams. Elsberg then added another touchdown to give the Rams a 19 to 0 halftime edge.

The Rams were held to a single touchdown in the third period, that being a 55 yard by Rick Parkin. In the fourth quarter the game broke wide open. Elsberg passed 20 yards for one touchdown to Gary Falle. Elsbert then ran 50 yards for his second touchdown of the day after which Tom Cashion added the extra point. Parkin made the final touchdown on a 30 yard end sweep and Willie Hay added the extra point.

PLAYING outstanding football for the Rams on defense were Mike Locasio, Dave Greiner, Cannon and Danny Grant. Outstanding in defeat for the second place Redskins were Bruce Frase, Steve Chase, Dean Taggart, Ken Martin, Bob Meyers, Ed Leister and Tim Trummer.

The Lions waited until the final game of the season to come up with their first victory, a decisive 27 to 0 shut out of the 49ers. The Lions thus finished third in the Senior Division and the 49ers fourth.

Even though the Lions were second only to the Rams in defensive prowess throughout the season, this game represented the first shut out by their defensive unit. In their best previous performance they had held the Redskins to six points.

SPEARHEADING the Lion attack was Scott Douglas who scored three touchdowns. Interestingly enough, this was the first game in which Douglas had scored all season.

Douglas started the scoring in the second quarter when he went over on an off tackle slant from the two. Dennis Foreman added the extra point. Later in the same quarter Douglas again went off tackle to score, this time from the one.

In the third quarter Foreman put the Lions on the scoreboard again with a 65 yard run after which Bob Williams took a pass from Ormsbee for the extra point.

Scott Douglas added the final touchdown in the fourth quarter when he went two yards around end on a sweep. Foreman again added the extra point.

JUNIOR DIVISION

The Packers, champions of the junior division of the Arlington Boys Football League, finished the season undefeated Saturday as they beat the second place Bears, 12 to 6.

Throughout the season the Packers rolled up 106 points while holding their opponents to only 12.

The champions jumped off to an early lead when Greg Fink, playing on defense, intercepted a first quarter Bear pass and returned it 40 yards for a touchdown.

In the second quarter, Barry Richards of the Bears blasted off tackle for 55 yards and a touchdown. Score at halftime was tied 6 to 6.

THE GAME was decided in the fourth quarter when John Stavropoulus went 22 yards to score the final touchdown for the Packers. Again the try for an extra point was missed.

The Cardinals finished third in the division standings by beating the Colts Saturday, 13 to 0.

The Cardinals gained possession of the ball after stopping the Colts opening drive. Starting from their own 30 they used slants and sweeps to advance the ball to mid-field. Larry Lins then completed a 25 yard pass to Barry Brown. On the next play, Brown swept left end and raced 25 yards to score. He also added the extra points.

In the third quarter, the Cardinals launched a sustained down field that was climaxed by Randy Lechelt slanting off left tackle for 30 yards and a touchdown.

Outstanding on defense for the Cardinals were Mark and Dane Heinz, Scott Bittner, John Burkhart, Rich Shoengert, Dane Smith, Steve Turner and Steve Weber.

Outstanding for the Cardinal offensive line were Mike Demarr, Jeff Cleveland, and Robby Emerich. David Tubbs was outstanding at fullback for his blocking and halfbacks Lechelt and Brown ground out more than 200 yards rushing.

Lambert, Dieters to State Harrier Meet

By BOB FRISK

There wasn't any time wasted Saturday morning separating the top five runners in the district cross country competition at Maine West High School.

It wasn't quite that easy picking out the two teams that would rule the rugged field and earn spots in the state finals this coming Saturday in Urbana.

Almost from the very beginning on this cold, windy morning, as the harriers spread out and started on the gruelling run for state berths, the five boys who eventually would pick up those state tickets took command.

THERE WAS some switching of positions throughout the race, but class showed as Lee LaBadie of Maine West, Dave Abernathy of Evanston, Fred Wharton of Evanston, Ted Lambert of Forest View, and Dave Dieters of Arlington broke ahead of the pack.

That's the way they stood for a good part of the race.

LaBadie, as expected, exploded to an early lead. Abernathy, the fine Evanston junior, stayed close behind with only a few seconds separating the three other runners.

And then they started over the final yards of the course and Abernathy made his move, striding easily as he fought off LaBadie's challenge and sprinting into the chute one second ahead of the previously unbeaten Warrior junior.

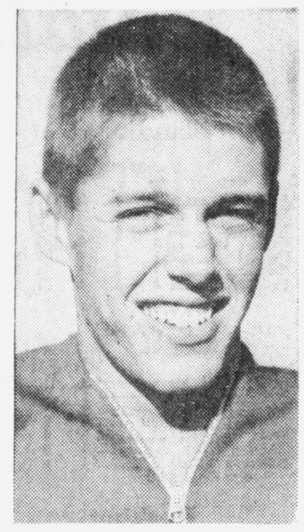
ALTHOUGH Abernathy was one of the touted entries in the district, a third place showing on his own team in the Suburban League meet labeled him a definite question-mark in Saturday's confrontation with LaBadie.

But the Evanston runner stayed close to LaBadie all the way and then made his move when it counted.

LaBadie was followed into the chute by Forest View's Lambert, a varsity performer for three seasons who earned a trip downstate as a soph and finished sixth in the district as a junior.

Lambert was clocked in 10:20, two seconds ahead of Evanston's Wharton, a surprise standout in the district.

TED LAMBERT
Next stop . . .



DAVE DIETERS
. . . is state meet.

ARLINGTON'S Dieters earned his state berth with a fine 10:25 effort, and Dave never appeared in serious trouble of losing that fifth spot.

As the runners flashed into the chute, it became obvious that Evanston was the team winner with the big battle for second place. The champ Wildkits finished 1, 4, 7, 14, and 20.

When all the returns were in, host Maine West, at an advantage on its home course, showed 78 points, 32 behind champion Evanston but, of more significance, six in front of third place Arlington in the battle for the state berth.

LaBADIE WAS expected to run with the leaders, but Maine received superb efforts from Ed Lusk and Scott Schlesser who finished sixth and ninth respectively to afford some cushion for the two other Warrior scorers.

Following Dieters across the line for the young Arlington team that should rank with the state's finest entries next fall were Rory Cassidy in 11th, Tom Swanson in 13th, Capt. Greg Busch in 19th, and Rich Saxton in 36th.

Only Busch graduates from that top five so this Cardinal entry, which undoubtedly could have qualified for the finals in several other district events around the state, looms as a team to watch in 1967.

THE NEXT PADDOCK area team in the rankings was fifth place Palatine with 157 points. Counting for Dick Storm's outfit were Dennis Denton in 18th, Bruce Atkinson in 29th, Bill Bahnfleth in 35th, Mike Ferguson in 37th, and Mark Visk in 38th.

Forest View had 231 for seventh with Lambert's third, Cliff Kuhnlohe's 45th, Joe Branka's 50th, Oscar Pequeno's 61st, and Bob Troutman's 72nd.

The other Paddock area entries were as follows:

Conant (303) — Dick Ledford, 33rd; Glenn Lee, 46th; Bob Lesher, 68th; Sam Burns, 69th; and Bill Lee, 87th.

Fremd (340) — Ray Sommer (41st); Keith Wojtas (49th); Mark Aggerbeck (59th); Bill Schult (92nd); and Pete Conforti (99th).

Prospect (373) — Steve Holmes (40th); Owen MacBride (64th); Dave Proudfoot (78th); Dick Paulson (88th); and Gary Bach (103rd).

St. Viator (383) — Bob Nemec (56th); Pat Jenkinson (71st); Mike Cunningham (83rd); Fred Booth (84th); and Greg Peterhans (89th).

Elk Grove (398) — Gary Steen (15th); Wayne Wille (53rd); Tom Swiatek (104th); Gary Pleickhardt (108th); and Jerry Ancona (118th).

Small But Mighty

Spartans Show Class In Win Over Falcons

by BOB NORDIN

The score by which the Glenbrook North Spartans beat the Falcons of Forest View last Saturday is not by itself impressive.

Other and better teams have lost 6-0 to their opponents, as did the Falcons, but the significant thing is that Forest View is the third area team that has played Glenbrook North and the third area team to be beaten and shutout this season by the Spartans.

Earlier in the season the Spartans made quick work of the Palatine Pirates as they dumped them 26-0. Then in the second area tilt the Spartans whitewashed Elk Grove, 50-0.

Forest View had hopes of upholding the area pride when they visited the Spartans, but those hopes were quickly dashed as the Glenbrook eleven unveiled an outstanding ground game and a strong defense.

TO LOOK AT the Spartans on paper would not frighten anyone. Their biggest man is Craig Campo, their fullback who is 5'9, 190. After Campo they get steadily smaller and to look at them standing on the field you might think you were looking at the junior-varsity squad.

But when they start to play, there is nothing small about the way they hit or the way they move. They are a well-coached team that has a complete grasp of the fundamentals of the game of football and they execute their blocks and tackles with finesse.

For one of the few times this season the Falcons were outplayed and came out on the short end in the statistics. Only once in the game were they really able to threaten and then they lost their opportunity because of a penalty and outstanding defensive play by the Spartans.

PERHAPS AN indication of the tough Glenbrook defense would be that they held big Henry Tasche to only 26 yards in 12 attempts at rushing and held the entire Falcon offense to only 79 yards rushing.

By contrast, Campo, the Spartan fullback, gained a total of 115 yards rushing behind fine, crisp blocking that opened big holes in the Falcon line. The Spartans went to the air only four times in the evening and took advantage of their ground game to completely dominate the Falcons in first downs 12 to 7.

The Spartans opened the action by taking the opening kickoff and only a fumble at the seven yard line stopped a march that looked certain to bring a score. After the Falcons were unable to move and punted back to the Spartans, they went right back to work and again after a sustained march, were at the Falcon two yard line. Again the Falcon defense caused a fumble and a second threat was stopped.

THE ONLY SCORE of the game came finally late in the second period. The Spartans took over at their own 43 and in a drive without one pass they moved to the Forest View one yard line. From there the Glenbrook bread-and-butter man Campo belted his way into the end zone for the score. The try for point was no good and that ended the scoring for the night.

At the end of the third period the Falcons had moved the ball to the Glenbrook North two yard line. But a five yard penalty and three losses in a row moved the ball back to the 18 and Forest View lost the ball on downs.

That was the extent of the Falcon threat for the evening as the Spartans played ball control and tough defense to keep the game on ice. In the entire fourth period the Falcons had the ball for only 13 plays and never got inside the Glenbrook North 45.

Three Contests Highlight Mount Prospect's Pageant

Three exciting All-Star games highlighted Sunday's Mount Prospect Midget Football Association's 10th annual pageant held at the Prospect High School Stadium.

In the senior battle, the Colts-Packers combination of outgoing players shut out the Bears-Cardinals aggregation. The American League junior and bantam all-star squads both won close decisions over their National League counterparts.

SENIOR DIVISION

The Colts-Packers unit scored twice to shut out the Bears-Cardinals alignment 13 to 0. Ralph Gebert and Don Koehler thumped the turf for a long touchdown sprint apiece. (The Colts-Packers did not submit any game information)

Halfbacks Jack Schultz and Casey Rush were the Bears-Cardinals hardest and most steady runners despite the losing cause. Bob Frantell did some sharp passing while John Kudalis contributed some key blocking. Linebacker Paul Pauluzzi, tackle Al Basquez, center George Bauer and safety Bill Grady all made numerous smashing tackles.

JUNIOR DIVISION

In one of the most exciting junior all-star contests in recent years, the American League eleven edged the star-studded National Leaguers 7 to 6 on a tremendous team effort, sparked by the quarterbacking of Tommy Hughes and Bobby Broeren.

John Bicego, John Glasgow, Mike Weik and Phil Radtke contributed some fine running. However, it was the backfield combo of Mike Martin, Chris Wilson, Norm Smith and Hughes which drove for the score with the latter going over on a plunge. Mike Weik converted the extra point.

Tom Parker, Keith Mundt, Mike Dittmer, John Layer, Jeff Pollard and Allen Willert played well in the line.

The National League tallied first on a nice pass from Tom Freyman to Mike Kinney but missed the all important extra point. Don Divito displayed some of his excellent running while quarterback Barry McEneely called a fine selection of plays Mark Teichert made several beautiful pass snatches. Denny O'Keefe, Jim Conway along with Bob Lowe sparked the defensive unit.

BANTAM DIVISION

Quarterback Bill Langefeld's four yard touchdown scoot and extra point late in the fourth quarter enabled the American League (Lions, Badgers, Wolverines, Gophers, and Hawkeyes) bantam all-stars to overcome an earlier safety to defeat the National League eight-year-old squad 7 to 2.

Halfbacks Mike Crnich and David Thoma ripped off several long runs apiece. Tim Dooley, Jim Tangney, Greg Gatto, Paul Kudalis and Billy Chamberlain all did a fine job on the defensive unit as did Eddie DiGangi, Ricky Holan and Mike Baldwin.

The National Leaguers made up of players from the Wildcats, Buckeyes, Panthers, Spartans, Boilermakers did not submit any game information.

Falcon JVs Fall 12-0 To Glenbrook

The Forest View junior varsity football team traveled to Glenbrook North Friday night to battle that school's JV Spartans. When the final score was in, the Falcons had come out second best 12-0.

This was a game that was mostly defense with neither team having any strong offensive threat. The Falcons were unable to put together any scoring drives in the entire evening as their offensive unit faltered.

The Spartans had two scores for their total and both were earned after long, hard fought ground battles. On the first score of the night, halfback George Guarnaccio took a hand off and scooted ten yards off left tackle for the TD. The try for the point failed.

Later in the game the Spartans scored again, this time on a one yard plunge by halfback Rollins. Again the try for point after failed and the final score had been posted and remained 12-0 in favor of Glenbrook North.

Smith Is Top 'Cat Finisher

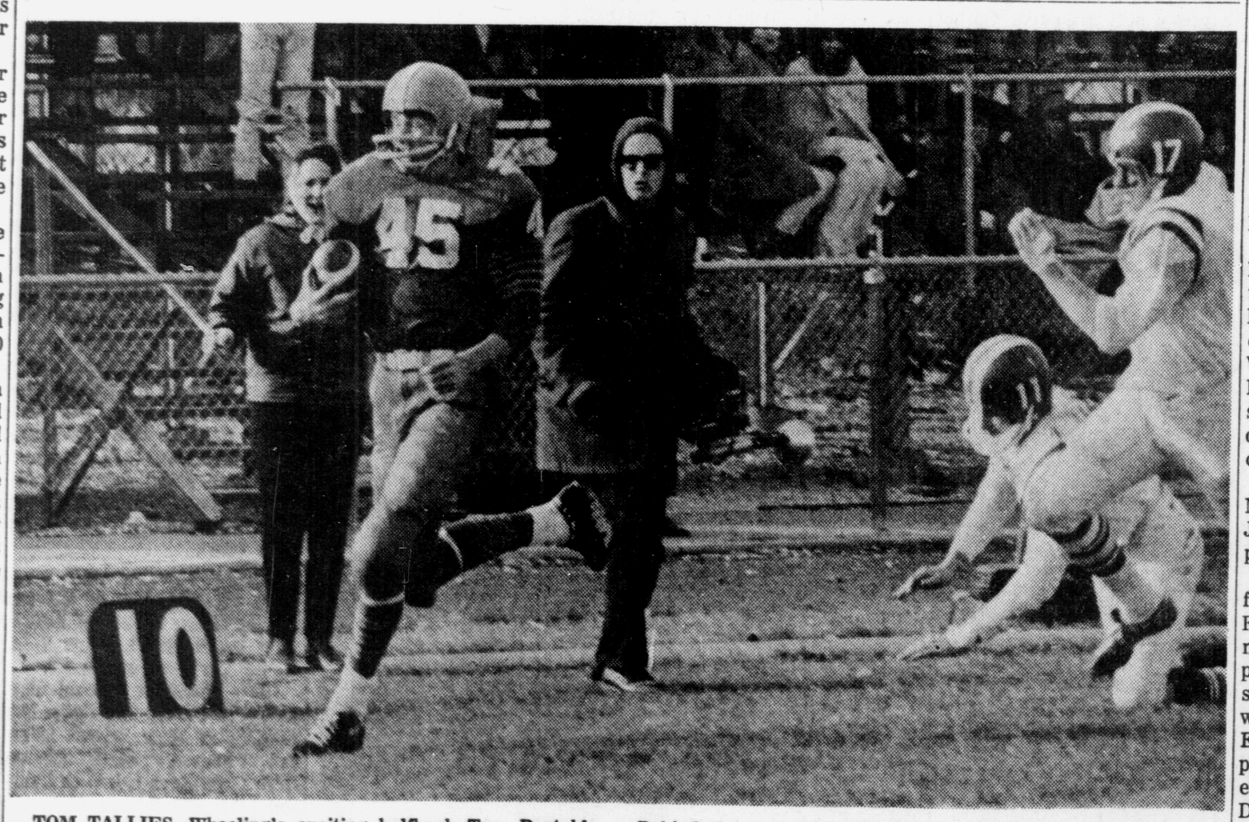
Phil Smith provided Wheeling's cross country squad with their only bit of excitement Saturday morning by slipping into the chute ahead of 160 runners to capture eighth place in the Mundelein district harrier meet.

The Wildcats placed tenth overall, with a 264 tally. Winner was Dundee, in a hotly contested match with Libertyville 109-111.

Smith slipped out of the starting line among the leaders and maintained his position over the entire 1.9 mile course but was unable to overtake any of the top five runners for a berth in the state runoff.

Other members of coach Ken Carter's crew finished 24th through 119, led by Len Eaton and followed by Bill Martin (62), Andy Black (66), Keith Gresons (104), Austin Trice (106) and Larry Ault.

Consolation for Carter and assistant coach Gary Tjarks is the fact that all members of the team will be welcomed back next season and both the sophomore and varsity units should be considerably stronger with this year's experience under their belt.



TOM TALLIES. Wheeling's exciting halfback Tom Bastable races to the goal on one of three touchdowns he tallied Saturday in the Wildcats' clash with Palatine, leaving Pirate defenders Howie Tuttle (11) and Jeff Teach (17) in pursuit. Behind the running of Bastable and fullback Jon Hittman, and another stellar defensive effort, Wheeling triumphed 30-7. (Staff photo by Bob Strawn)

Lion Sophs Fall

St. Patrick of Chicago edged St. Viator's sophomore Lions last Saturday morning, 7-6.

The Lions will close out the season this Saturday with a home game against DeLaSalle. Action will begin at 10 a.m.

After 28-Year Wait

Cards Have 3rd Crown

by BOB FRISK

The question for the week is this:

What do the 1934, 1938, and 1966 Arlington High School varsity football teams have in common?

It should become obvious when you consider that the '66 powerhouse has just bagged at least a share of a conference football championship.

You're right if you said those three teams are the only entries in the school's 42-year football history to claim league titles.

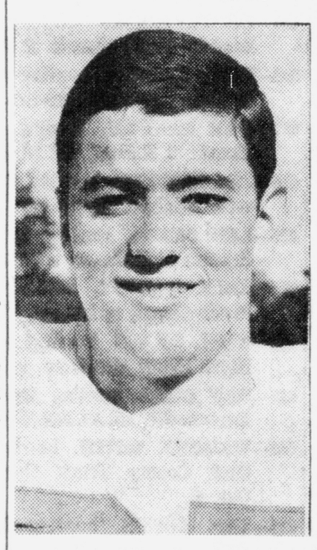
Coach John Grose's 1934 outfit, sparked by backs Steve Szasz and Norb Rohlwing, rolled through six Northwest Conference games without a setback to claim an undisputed title. Arlington finished 7-1 overall for the season with the only loss a non-league decision to Des Plaines.

GROSE HAD another powerhouse in 1938 and as Bob O'Hagan and Augie Mayerck ran wild, Arlington High posted a 5-0-1 Northwest Conference mark to share the crown with Libertyville.

But there had been a long dry spell since '38 until coach Al Allen's 1966 Cardinals rollde over Prospect last Saturday, 48-6, to gain at least a share of the Mid-Suburban Conference flag.

Some area buffs with excellent memories may argue that the 1948 Arlington team also won a league championship, but that squad only played two games in the three-team Northeast Conference which was breaking up.

SO IT WAS A very special day Saturday for Arlington High School.



JERRY ENRIGHT
Scoring Scamper

A famine of 28 title-less years ended for the oldest school in District 214.

There was nothing complicated about the victory. Once the visiting Cardinals got their offense untracked the decision was never in doubt.

A stubborn Prospect defense checked the Cards on downs on their first series and forced a fourth and eight situation on the second, but Arlington's Steve Allen opened the scoring with an eye-popping 41-yard field goal.

THE CARDS moved out to a 9-0 advantage late in the first quarter when Allen and Dave Lockwood teamed up on a 62-yard bomb down the middle with Lockwood gathering in the aerial on the Knight 30 and racing in for the six points.

A fumble gave Arlington possession early in the second period, and they needed 13 plays for the touchdown, Steve Conley bolting over from the five with 6:46 left before the intermission.

Conley, who had another big game for the winners, was called on nine times in the march, and he picked up 35 yards, including a big seven-yard thrust on a crucial fourth and six situation at the Prospect 26.

ARLINGTON penetrated 84 yards in seven plays for its third touchdown with passes from Allen to Lockwood and Brad Somers eating up 21 of those yards. The pitch to Somers put the ball on the one and Allen bolted in for the touchdown.

It was 27-0 with 39 seconds remaining before halftime when Allen drove across again from the one.

Conley initiated the drive with a theft of a Bob Youngquist pass and two pass interference raps helped Arlington move to the 17. Allen hit Jim Donchess at the four and Conley carried to the one from where Allen smashed in.

ALTHOUGH TIME was running out, Arlington wasn't through yet.

An interception gave the Cards another chance at the Card 36 and Allen hit Conley on a pass to the Prospect 28. As the clock ran out, Allen fired a 28-yarder to Lockwood for the touchdown.

Brad Somers, who was called on to try the extra points when the first four failed, converted to set the margin at 34-0 at the intermission.

ARLINGTON'S reserve backfield figured in the next Cardinal score with sophomore Todd Somers directing a 55-yard march in the third quarter.

Somers, Jim Swanezy, and Jerry Enright contributed key yardage to the march and Tom Chandler came in to bang for two yards and a first down at the Prospect 15.

Somers hit Enright on a pass to the Prospect 12, and one play later Enright, eluding two Knight defenders in his own backfield, exploded for the final 12 yards. Brad Somers converted.

PROSPECT, battling to the wire despite the one-sided score, hit the scoreboard for the first and only time with 5:52 remaining in the fourth quarter, and the Knights made their move against the top Arlington defensive platoon.

A pass from John Phillips to Vince Curry that covered 10 yards started the drive. Phillips then hit Tom Lundstedt for 15 more to the Arlington 31 and in three plays the Knights were at the 16, a 17-yard Phillips to Lundstedt pass the big maneuver.

A penalty gave the Knights five more yards and Curry and Al Wilcox combined to drive the ball to the six. Pete Smith hit for one and a first down at the five, and Curry carried to the four.

PHILLIPS FIRED a four-yard pass to Lundstedt for the touchdown.

But this was Arlington's day and they scored again with 4:28 left on a 12-yard pass from Allen to Lockwood, Dave's third touchdown of the game. Brad Somers added the 48th and final point.

Arlington's Conley was the top ground-gainer for the afternoon with 105 yards in 17 attempts, and 99 of those yards came in the first half. He only carried once for six yards over the final two stanzas.

ALLEN HIT ON nine passes for 205 yards, and his first touchdown pass to Lockwood gave him sole possession of every school aerial record.

The Cards held the Knights to seven yards rushing, but the Prospect passing game, with Youngquist and Phillips at the controls, did collect 77 total yards, 51 on the one scoring effort.

When it was all over, Arlington had clinched at least a share of the Mid-Suburban Conference championship.

And that long wait for a third league title was over.

DAVE LOCKWOOD, who already holds four Arlington High School pass receiving records, could add a fifth Friday evening when the Cardinals travel to meet Glenbrook South in the season finale. Lockwood has gained 496 total yards on pass receiving this fall, only three yards short of the record set by Bruce Hubbard in 1965. For his career Lockwood has caught 39 passes for 796 yards. He pulled down three scoring pitches in Arlington's win over Prospect. (Staff photo)

To Conquer Lions

Shamrocks in Rally

by BOB FRISK

When you're playing one of the big guys, one of the respected powers, you need that exceptional effort, that something extra.

St. Viator got that effort Sunday afternoon—and still lost.

Every loss hurts but some sting just a bit more than others. This one really was painful.

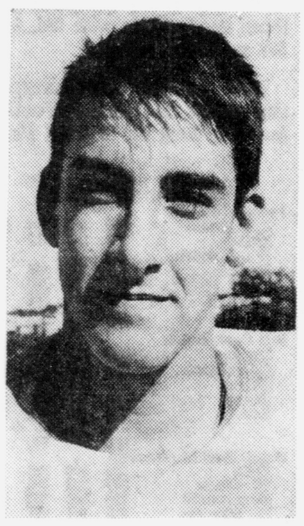
Battling back for two touchdowns in the concluding period, Touted St. Patrick knocked over upset-minded St. Viator, 13-7 at Hanson Park in Chicago.

There may have been Lion elevens in the past that have turned in more polished performances, but you'll have a hard time finding one that showed more fight, more sheer determination than the outfit that tangled with the Shamrocks Sunday.

COACH JOE GLIWA'S fired-up charges battled St. Pat's down to the final gun. They took an advantage in the first half, saw that wiped out in the final quarter, and still kept the pressure on in the closing seconds.

This was one the Lions wanted. They wanted it badly. And they almost pulled it off at chilly, wind-swept Hanson Park.

But the Shamrocks, stunned by DeLaSalle a week earlier, weren't to be denied. Operating without veteran quarterback Jack Cloherty who was shelved with the flu bug, St. Pat's turned an intercepted pass into its first touchdown and then added the clincher on a time-consuming 73-yard march.



PAUL ROCCA
Tackle Eligible TD

The second score came with 4:30 left in the game, but both clubs handled the football two more times in the hectic windup.

AN INTERCEPTION checked one Lion series, but St. Viator got the ball back at the Shamrock 26 on a fumble by Mike Meere. Denny Forston covered the loose football to put the Lions into excellent scoring position.

On a first down maneuver Denny Palubicki shot an 11-yard pass to Kevin Laird at the 15. After an incomplete pass John Wendell hit for two yards to the 13 but the penetration died with a fumble at the 13 on a third down play.

St. Pat's killed the clock with two quarterback sneaks by Bill Schaeffer.

WHAT REALLY seemed to lift up the Lions in the first half was the ability of the defensive platoon to contain the Shamrocks in two serious advances.

St. Patrick reached the Lion five yard line on the final play of the first quarter, but some defensive gems that featured the sharp tackling of Larry Snyder, Dan Klingberg, and Paul Rocca halted this penetration short of the goal line.

Midway in the second period the Shamrocks were knocking on the touchdown door once again, moving to the 11, but Denny Forston Decked Dan Allegretti for a two-yard loss and then Larry Niwa was off the mark on a fourth down pitch.

THE EXCEPTIONAL punting of St. Viator's Palubicki helped drive the Shamrocks back with the junior getting off towering boots of 58 and 64 yards before the intermission.

That 64-yarder put the hosts in a hole that eventually set up the only St. Viator touchdown.

On a third and two play at their own 14 the Shamrocks fumbled and tackle Bob Rose, getting his first start with the defensive unit, fell on the ball for the Lions.

JOHN WENDELL, who received a stiff rush, was off the target on a pass, but then Palubicki uncorked the scoring flip.

Paul Rocca, in a planned tackle eligible maneuver, whipped the defender to take the perfect strike and move into the end zone for the six points.

Palubicki sent a line drive through the uprights for the conversion and a 7-0 Lion lead.

FOR THE most part the Shamrocks dominated the second half although the Lions did fashion one nice 48-yard march that was killed on downs at the St. Patrick 27.

The Shamrocks went on the board for the first time on the second play of the fourth quarter and then added the big one with 4:30 remaining on a nifty 14-yard bolt by Allegretti.

Allegretti's effort climaxed a 73-yard drive which featured some fancy footwork from halfback Charley Hampton, who also knows his way around the basketball floor.

The Lions had their chances in the closing minutes but couldn't cash in.

Some defeats are more painful than others. This was one of those defeats.

Card Jayvees Top Knights

Arlington's powerful jayvee football team scored in every quarter Saturday afternoon as it registered an impressive 32-0 victory over host Prospect.

Flashing an effective running and passing game, the Cardinals of coaches Brendan Flynn and Bill Myers built up a two-touchdown advantage at the intermission and coasted the rest of the way.

The victory was the sixth in seven outings for Arlington.

After thwarting a serious Prospect penetration early in the first quarter, the visitors went to work Saturday.

A FAKE PUNT by Denny Meacham ignited the first scoring drive with quarterback Bob Graham hitting Dean Schmelzer on a 12-yard payoff pass on a fourth and nine maneuver.

Graham was nailed as he passed by Prospect's Don Burkardt, but he still got the ball away for the touchdown.

Arlington scored again with 4:14 remaining in the first half, exactly one play after Graham picked off a Prospect pass at the Knight 16.

Graham and Schmelzer collaborated again for the touchdown.

ARLINGTON'S Gene Kennedy recovered a Prospect fumble and then Meacham exploded 25 yards around right end for the third Cardinal touchdown early in the third quarter.

Meacham went 48 yards for a tally the next time he handled the football with 6:39 left in the third stanza. Keith Culberson added the extra point.

Arlington reached the Prospect four early in the fourth quarter, but the Knights' Dave Jones covered a fumble to check the threat.

THE VISITORS struck again on a nine-yard burst up the middle by Schmelzer, his third touchdown of the game. Culberson again converted.

After that serious threat in the first period Prospect was fairly quiet on the attack until late in the third quarter. Some hard-running from Ron Richardson pushed the Knights to the Arlington 25 where they lost the ball on downs.

With Richardson supplying a big 12-yard pickup Prospect drove to the Arlington 26 late in the fourth quarter before yielding the football.

Arlington will meet a host Glenbrook South team Friday evening while Prospect will tangle with Forest View as area schools conclude their 1966 campaigns.

Niles Vikings Trip Up Grove

by BOB NORDIN

The winless Elk Grove Grenadiers traveled over the weekend to battle the Niles North football eleven, but once again the fates were against them and they dropped a 27-7 decision to the Vikings.

Prior to this ball game, both teams had been winless but Niles North is a team much better than their record. In earlier games the Vikings had lost a number of close contests that could have gone either way and their record was deceiving.

The Grenadiers, in their initial year of competition, are in the process of developing, but improvement is apparent in each of their games. rremembering that this is a team that does not boast even one senior, the Grenadiers have done a creditable job.

NILES NORTH broke the scoring ice with 3:08 showing on the clock in the first period as quarterback Scott Schirmer, on a very well-run belly series, took the ball in from the four. Mark Olefsky booted the extra point and Niles North had a 7-0 lead.

In the second period the Grenadiers showed a good passing attack but had little success in their running game. After being stopped at the Niles 27 the Grenadiers tried a field goal from the 38 but it fell far short.

Late in the second period the Vikings again put together a march that took them to the Elk Grove three. From there Schirmer again took the ball in on the same belly series play that had worked so well before. Olefsky again made the point after and the Vikings held a 14-0 lead.

WITH JUST 49 seconds left in the second period the Grenadiers fumbled on their own seven yard line. In one play Rick Fisher had the Vikings third TD of the afternoon, and the Niles North aggregation took a 20-0 lead into the locker room at half time.

In the third period Niles took the kickoff and didn't give up the ball until they had their fourth and final score of the afternoon. This time it was halfback Lewis Levinson who dived in from the two yard line for the score. Olefsky again converted to mount the Niles score to 27.

But the Grenadiers never gave up and were in the ball game until the very end. In the fourth period, after a sustained drive, quarterback Larry Pahl threw to end Tom Pomey and the Grenadiers were on the scoreboard. The extra point was good.

FV Sophs Stop Grove

The Forest View sophomore football team ran up a 26-0 score to defeat the Elk Grove Grenadiers and work the Falcon record to five wins and two losses for the season.

The Falcons scored in all but the third period of play and held the Grenadiers scoreless throughout the entire game. The scoring opened early as Falcon Keith Bauer scored on a one-yard plunge. Jim Daggett kicked the point after and Forest View took an early 7-0 lead.

Again in the first quarter the Falcons scored, this time on a 40 yard pass play with John Caltigerone taking a pass from John Turner and racing into the end zone. Daggett missed on his conversion attempt and Forest View led 13-0.

In the second stanza John Turner scored on a one yard plunge that raised the Falcon total to 19 for the game and it remained at that count when Daggett again missed the try for point.

The third period was scoreless but in the fourth quarter Steve Blaser banged his way in from the two yard line for the final TD of the game. This time Jim Daggett's kick was good and the Falcons had a 26-0 win.

Cage Clinic

Larry Nomellini, varsity basketball coach at St. Viator High School, will help conduct a clinic on cage fundamentals next Tuesday at Ridgewood High for grade school coaches in the Norridge area.

Knight, Cardinal Freshmen in Split

Arlington High took frosh 'A' honors and Prospect ruled a wild 'B' contest Saturday morning in football action.

The Cards scored a single touchdown in the second period and two in the fourth stanza for a 21-0 'A' victory.

Scoring for Arlington were Carl Bratko on a 12-yard run, Paul Greene on a 35-yard dash, and Sam Wit on a 30-yard pass from Craig Moritz.

Bratko added three extra points.

Bill Bergstrom was the leading tackler for the winners.

The 'B' game was decided in the final 10 seconds as Dan Brush cracked over from the one foot line to give Prospect a 24-19 victory.

The touchdown by Brush climaxed a 70-yard march that started with four minutes remaining.

Arlington scored first on a 75-yard punt return by Mark Jacoby, but the Knights tied it up when end Kim Walter pitched to Ken Pitts for a 35-yard scoring maneuver.

Dan Brush passed to Jim Nickelson for a 60-yard tally and then Brush scored on a 30-yard rollout to push the Knights into an 18-6 advantage in the third quarter.

Arlington scored again with a sustained drive of 65 yards, Dave Kurrasch taking a payoff pass from Mark Jacoby, and Todd Opela added the extra point.

The Cards went on top by a single marker on another pass from Jacoby to Kurrasch, and that's when Prospect went to work for the deciding touchdown.

Prospect was the first team to score on the Arlington 'Bs' this fall.

Big in Defeat

The highest losing score was recorded in Big Ten action in a game played between Wisconsin and Ohio State. Ohio State ran up 46 points to win but the losing Wisconsin team tallied 34 points of their own in the losing effort.

FUN and FACTS About Bowling.....by Dick Ericson

PUSHAWAY: A maneuver employed by the smooth bowler. A pleasant chore necessitated by the proximity of adoring fans.

PUSHAWAY: A smooth pushaway insures a smooth delivery. From a proper stance, the ball moves out and the right foot moves forward at approximately the same time. The length of the first step is determined by the length of the pushaway. If a bowler is taking a rather large, even awkward, first step, he corrects this by cutting back on the energy he puts into his pushaway—smoothing out his entire delivery. The pushaway starts the bowler into motion. Therefore, it is extremely important.

Wheel Inn Falls 3-1

Lattof's Lead Grows Wider

The ladies from Lattof Chevrolet continue to run away with the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League, as this week they picked up three points to expand their lead over Wheel Inn to 26-18.

The other team standings remain unchanged after last weekend's competition but the battle continues. After Lattof and Wheel Inn come Striking Lanes in third place, Morton Pontiac in fourth, Sylvia's Flowers in fifth, and River Rand in last with seven points.

JOANNE CHRISTENSEN

Actually, Wheel Inn and Striking Lanes are tied for second and have been in that position the past two weeks but Wheel Inn has a total pin count that is higher than Striking Lanes.

In this past weekend's competition Lattof and Wheel Inn battled and Lattof came away with the better of the match. Joanne Christensen led the Lattof girls with an excellent 604 score. Her high game of 224 was high for the match.

FOR WHEEL INN, Bonnie Kuhn had the high series with a 593 reading. She had one game of 233 which was high for the night, and for the year. Four out of the five Wheel Inn girls had scores of 500 or better.

Morton Pontiac picked up four points at the expense of Sylvia's Flowers and boosted their season point total to 16. Ruth Baurhyte led the Pontiac gals with a 560 total. No one on either team had a 200 game but Ruthie had a 197 and a 198. For Sylvia's Jean Ladd led the way. She totaled 511 pins for her efforts but a 185 was the highest game she could muster.

River Rand picked up three points during the weekend's competition and downed the Striking Lanes team in all but the first game. A 559 by Ethel Juenger was the high for the match but Gloria Lucchesi rolled the high game as she came up with a 202 count.

Next Saturday, Nov. 5, at Striking Lanes, Wheel Inn will roll against River Rand Bowl, Sylvia's Flowers will go against Lattof Chevrolet, and Morton Pontiac and Striking Lanes will clash with each other.

On Position Night . . .

Bowlers Show Well; Buick Assumes Lead

The men in the Paddock Classic Traveling League had an excellent night this past weekend as they met in the position round of league competition.

Perhaps the most impressive of the evening's events was the new high individual series rolled by Ernie Koche of the Karlsen Pharmacy team. In three games Koche rolled up a total of 697 pins and in so doing set a new high for the season. Ernie's high game in his series was a fine 279 effort.

Koche's teammate, Bill Smith also added his name to those who have rolled an excellent series as he split the timbers for 685 counters. Smith bowled very consistently in his three games as he scored 236, 225, and 224 to make up his total.

Ray Olson had a good night for Morton Pontiac as he put his name with those who have rolled high games for the year. Ray also rolled consistently fine games as he scored a total count of 646.

CITY WELDING moved into the third spot for high team game for the year as they came up with a collective 1038 effort. While on the subject of things outstanding, two of the league's bowlers still boast averages of more than 200. Al Jordan of Bill Cook Buick and Les Zikes of Morton Pontiac both sport averages above the magic 200 mark.

The position round of the past weekend played havoc with the team standings and brought about a number of changes. Sports Chalet slipped from first place into second, thanks to head-on competition with the now first place Bill Cook Buick team. In that battle, the Buick boys picked up 5 points to Chalet's two and went ahead of all with a total of 36 points for the year.

George Schmidt was high man for Sports Chalet as he bowled a 594 series. For the competition Al Haase was the top man and led the Buick team with a 644 total. He had three good efforts with 245, 204, 195 scores.

THE BRASS RAIL dropped five points to Morton Pontiac but still hung on to third place with 32 points. They are only one point ahead of fourth place Karlsen Pharmacy, but only two points out of second place.

Les Zikes was the high man for the Pontiac team with his 659 series but Ray Olsen gave strong support with his 646.

The Brass Rail salvaged only one game in the duel with Morton but three of their bowlers were knocking on the 600 mark door. Harry Both rolled 591, Warren Olson rolled a 594, and Karl Simonis had a 593 marking.

KARLSEN Pharmacy worked into the fourth place spot by dumping Elk Grove Bowl for seven points. Smith and Koche were, of course, the top men for Karlsen, and although Elk Grove bowled consistently their scores were no match for the Druggists.

City Welding got the best of Jeffery Lanes in their tussle with the Welders, picking up five points to the Laners two. Bob Hurwitz posted a 639 for his evening's efforts for the Welders and Bill Harris scored 601 for Jeffery to lead that team.

Big Passes Show Way

Warriors Soar 48-0 Over Conant Eleven

by MARV PRELLBERG JR.

It was tuneup day for Maine West.

Head Coach Ken Olson put his respected Maine West varsity football machine through one last conference workout last Saturday afternoon and, after the 48 minute drill against a visiting Conant High eleven, Olson must have felt that his charges were in fine shape for this weekend's important Mid-Suburban league encounter with Wheeling High.

Undoubtedly in agreement with this analysis were the Maine West players' dads. The proud pops were the honored guests for the aternoon and were treated to a 48-0 Warrior rout over the Cougar aggregation.

For one quarter of play, the first, it was an even battle, but in the second period the Warriors broke the game wide open. A 67 yard scoring pass from quarterback Bob Banger to end Tom Pyron on the third play of the quarter signalled the beginning of a flurry of Maine West tallies.

Maine West prides itself with its highly regarded running game, but surprisingly enough the Warriors used the long pass as the big scoring weapon in this encounter.

OF THE 399 yards gained from scrimmage by the home team, 177 came via the airlanes. The Warriors only attempted seven passes and completed four, but these four completions chewed up distance in chunks of 67, 40, 40, and 30 yard increments. Three of these completions went for touchdowns.

Conant apparently had decided that its best chance for pulling the upset of the season in Mid-Suburban play rested on its ability to stop the Maine West ground attack. This strategy seemed to work in the first quarter, as the Warriors found it difficult to penetrate the eight man Cougar line for any sustained march. However, when Banger let loose with Maine's first pass of the contest in the second quarter, it was quite obvious that the eight man line defense employed by Conant left a big dent in its pass defense.

Banger's aerial sailed approximately 40 yards in the air and was hauled in by Pyron, who didn't have a Cougar defender within 20 yards to bother the reception. This same wide open pass completion scene was repeated twice more during the quarter, only each time to a different receiver.

MAINE WEST bombarded Conant with 35 points in the second quarter, scoring each time that it had possession of the ball for a series of downs.

The 67 yard Banger-to-Pyron bomb came with only one minute and fifteen seconds elapsed in the period. Three minutes later Ken Mandelky scored on a four yard run, following a 41 yard punt return by Al Fritz.

Slightly over two minutes later the Warriors again scored on a second down 40-yard pass from Banger to a wide open receiver, Fritz.

FULLBACK John Szaltis banged his 203-pound frame through the Conant forward wall on an eight yard run for the next Maine West tally, culminating a 55 yard drive that took only five running plays. That was TD number four of the quarter, but the worst was yet to come for the Cougars.

On the very last play of the period Phil Murdock rolled out to his left from the quarterback slot and pitched a pass some 35 yards to Ken Werner, who gathered it in on the five and went in for another Maine score. Andy Sanchez kicked his fifth straight extra point of the game to give his mates a resounding 35-point second quarter and a 35-0 lead.

After Banger rambled 48 yards on a crowd pleasing reverse-the-field type maneuver early in the third quarter for another Maine touchdown, coach Olson yanked the regulars and turned over the rest of the days chores to the second and third stringers.

THE RESULT was one more TD. This came early in the final quarter on an off-tackle slant by Szaltis from the one yard line, after a 30 yard Murdock to Werner pass had put the Warriors in that position.

The closest that Conant was able to come to the Maine West goal line was in the fourth quarter, when halfback Mike Berns moved down to the Warrior 41 for Conant's only rushing first down of the game.

After suffering two successive, agonizing losses, 33-0 to Wheeling and 48-0 in this tilt, Conant will end its season this Saturday in a game with crosstown rival Palatine High on the Cougar field.

Wheeling JV Unit Beats Fremd 14-0

Wheeling's junior varsity eleven waited one quarter before unleashing Coe Meyer, then rolled to a 14-0 triumph over Fremd Saturday to jack their season mark to 4-2.

Meyer put the Wildcats on the scoreboard and ripped off 80 yards while a solid Wheeling defensive wall was holding the Vikings to a minus nine on the ground.

The loss was the fourth issued Fremd this season against three triumphs.

After neither side could sustain a first period drive, a Viking fumble on the last play set the stage for Meyer's trip into the end zone in the second quarter.

MEYER NEEDED six tries to dent TD territory, however, going around right end from the two for the tally.

In the second half, Wheeling's longest march moved the ball from their own 44 to the Fremd 10 before giving out. Three plays later, a Viking punt attempt materialized into a safety when a poor center sailed out the back door of the end zone.

Early in the final stanza, Wheeling solidified its lead after taking control of the ball at Fremd's 21. Unruffled by a five yard penalty, the 'Cats sent Meyer upfield for 12, Tom Russell picked up two more, and John Hass capped the drive by faking a handoff and slipping around right end for the final 12.

Passes from Jeff Hodge to Larry MacPhee and Kevin Freund netted the Vikings over 40 yards in the closing minutes of play but neither materialized into a serious threat.

Final statistics had the hosts outgaining their opponents 57-42.

End 9-1 In Duals

Vikings Romp To Twin Harrier Win

The first cross country season ended in splendor for Fremd High School last Thursday, as the Vikings romped in a double dual with Grayslake and the new Adlai Stevenson high school.

Ron Menely's runners ran past Grayslake 17-40, and totaled the perfect 15-50 score against Stevenson, a pair of achievements that boosted Fremd's first year dual performance to nine victories in 10 tries.

At the same time Pat Brogan's Fremd frosh-soph, running Grayslake only, also turned in a perfect score, evening the underclass record at 3-3 for the dual season.

Ray Sommer, a sophomore who made some huge strides in his first effort at cross country, led the varsity success. He came in first in both the Grayslake and Stevenson portions of the double dual, winning in 11:28 on Fremd's 2.1 mile course.

That was 10 seconds ahead of junior Keith Wojtas, and 19 seconds ahead of junior Mark Aggerbeck, who ran second and third for Fremd in both races.

THE VIKINGS, in fact, made it the first eight places against Stevenson, with Sommer, Wojtas, Aggerbeck, Bill Schult, Dave Kehe, Bill Boward, Steve Alborn and Don Wickersham all coming in ahead of the first Patriot.

Against Grayslake, fourth was yielded, as Schult had fifth and Kehe sixth. But there was no doubt about the finish.

The victorious frosh-soph effort was led by Craig Stitt who came to the chute in 12:20, 18 seconds ahead of runnerup teammate Keith West. The next five places also went to Vikings, with Rick Reynolds, Neil Westergaard, Rick Bowman, Gary Davis and Chuck Porter filling out the team score.

The action was the last of 1966 for the Fremd harriers, due for competition next fall in the Mid-Suburban League.

Nightmarish Season

When Arlington High's football team stumbled to an 0-7 West Suburban Conference record in 1960, they scored only 37 points while allowing league opponents 249.

Arlington's Soph Eleven Rolls Past Knights, 40-7

In a battle of unbeaten Mid-Suburban Conference soph football teams Saturday morning Arlington High School rolled to a convincing 40-7 victory over Prospect.

The Cardinals scored two touchdowns in each of the last two periods in running their season mark to 7-0.

Will Heinemann scored four touchdowns for Arlington on a 25-yard pass from Dave Ewart, 60-yard run with a fumble, 60-yard pass play from Ewart, and 57-yard run.

Jim Baumgartner covered 76 and 45 yards for two more Cardinal scores.

Jay Harris added four extra points.

"Our offensive line helped the backs break loose for some long runs," Arlington coach Tom Pitchford said. "The boys who deserve some credit are Steve Stratton, Scott Larson, Tim Shannon, Paul Stevens, Jim Ulrich, Wayne Bartholmew, Don Bieber, Jay Harris, Craig Deehring, and Al Lalond.

Prospect's only score came in the fourth quarter on a 55-yard run with a fumble by Tony Lazzeroni.

Bastable, Hittman Lead

'Cats Clinch Third; Drop Palatine 30-7

by KEITH REINHARD

Running up a skull and crossbones of their own, Wheeling's grid galleon coaxed Palatine into hostile waters Saturday, and with Tom Bastable and Jon Hittman at the helm, proceeded to scuttle the Pirates, 30-7.

The booty was Wheeling's fourth conference conquest—their sixth over-all—and assurance of at least third place in the final Mid-Suburban League standings. The loss dropped Palatine to a 1-4 MSL mark.

Bastable and Hittman outbuccaneered the Pirates by churning up 228 yards of enemy territory between them while co-piloting a defensive unit that ran their foes aground. Only after they had sailed to a 30-0 advantage did the Wildcats allow Palatine in on the plunder, via a 24-yard aerial manuever.

The touchdown was still a big one. Not only did it halt a string of 13 varsity shutout quarters extending back to the Wheeling-Arlington battle, it loomed as the only opposing score in five Wheeling matches all day and accomplished what teams have been unable to do to the Wildcat football program in ten straight matches over a period of three weeks.

IN 15 ENCOUNTERS against six different schools at four levels, 'Cat teams have pounded out a devastating 406 points while yielding only three touchdowns. Against Palatine and Fremd crews Saturday, the composite score was 198-7.

Bastable brought his MSL scoring total to 42 points with a three-TD barrage in the varsity match and doubled his league reception mark with five snares that earned 67 yards. Hittman jacked his TD output by one, and although slightly outgained by Bastable on the ground, was able to maintain a 10-yard grip on the team rushing lead with a 384 total.

The best showing of the day, however, was the consistently stingy Wildcat defense. Going into the game with an average ground yield of less than 50 yards per game, Wheeling's forward wall was tapped for a meager 14 yards by Palatine.

THE 'CAT secondary was almost as impressive. One lapse though, provided Pirate end Bill Gill with sufficient room to latch onto a 24-yarder launched by Bob Young. It came three plays into the final stanza after a host of Pirates had charged in to block a Hittman punt on the preceeding down.

Pat Kinsella of the visitors then proceeded to do what Wheeling was unsuccessful at all afternoon. His kick converted the extra point attempt.

Palatine's tally had little effect on the outcome. The Wildcats moved in front to stay in the opening period on their second sustained drive.

AFTER RECEIVING the opening kickoff, Wheeling marched 74 yards along the field before the Palatine line anchored down at the one. When the Pirates could return it no further than their six, the Cats took over after a punt on the opponent's 36 and nine plays later Bastable cracked off left guard from two yards out to initiate the scoring parade.

Palatine retaliated with their only extended drive of the day. After the subsequent kickoff — an onside boot — went out of bounds on their own 46, they drove to the Wheeling 11 before the door slammed with Ray Pace felling Kinsella six yards behind the line.

The hosts then journeyed 83 yards back down field with Hittman diving into the end zone fro mthe two.

When the Pirates failed to counter, it took Robin Melzer only one play to ring up Wheeling's third score. He connected with Bill Surmin and the lanky end ambled unscathed across the goal line, the pass play netting 58 yards.

WHEELING KICKED off in the second half, handcuffed the enemy on three plays and required just eight more after the punt to score again. Bastable capped the march by plunging off left tackle from the two.

Again after the KO, Palatine was shackled and forced to punt after one series of downs. Bastable rounded out the scoring from seven yards out after Dan Devito had positioned it with a 34-yard scamper.

Key contributions to the steller Wheeling defense, in addition to Hittman and Bastable, were made by Pace, Devito, Gary Krueger, Paul Berwanger and George Legh-Page. The only Pirate with any success formula over the turf was Dennis Lynch, with 36 yards on eight efforts.

Triumphs Over Fremd's Frosh

Fremd's freshman football players were victimized by Glenbrook North last Saturday, as the Spartans worked out a 21-7 verdict on the Fremd turf.

The lone touchdown for Charles Wolfe's crew was turned in by Rick Gaare on a one-yard plunge. Bob Moloznik added the extra point.

Fremd Sophs Drop 18-0 To Glenbrook North

Glenbrook North's sophomore football team handled Fremd 18-0 in an underclass clash on the Fremd field Saturday.

Headman Tom Howard, however, reported himself happy about the team effort, and he especially cited the work of Bill McGuinn, who rushed for 77 yards on offense and turned in 11 tackles on defense.

Conant, Maine Frosh Divide

Conant and Maine West divided the fortunes in freshman football last Saturday, Maine winning the frosh "A" tilt and Conant the "B" action.

Maine, with a 33-20 decision, put Conant's "A" record at one win, four losses and a tie for the season, while the "B" team, with its first win, put its standard at 1-5.

Maine Sophs Slam Cougars In 31-0 Final

Maine West's sophomore grid team completely overwhelmed Conant last Saturday in a preliminary game played at Maine West by a 31-0 count.

The victors sent five different gridders across the Conant goal line in achieving this victory.

Gary Behrens tallied first on a pass from Randy Hann that covered 37 yards all told.

Joe Morrison followed with a one yard smash for the second TD; Tom Buttner scored on a 29 yard pass interception; Hann sneaked over on a short plunge; and Joe Sanchez made it 31-0 on a one yard run in the final quarter.

Bears' Rabold To Speak at Fall Banquet

The Booster Club of Prospect High School will hold its annual Fall Sports Banquet in the school cafeteria on Wednesday, November 9, at 6:45 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Mike Rabold of the Chicago Bears.

Rabold, in his seventh season as a pro, joined the Bears in 1963. He was an All-Big Ten line selection and captain at Indiana in 1958 when Detroit drafted him on the second round and made him a rookie starter in 1959.

Rabold's aggressiveness won him the starting offensive guard position after he had been a reserve his first two seasons with the Bears. Rabold is 6'2" and weighs 250.

The menu for the evening will feature fried chicken with the trimmings and a large attendance is anticipated.

Awards will be given out at this time to all the boys who participated in the fall sports program.

'Cat Soph Unit Rips Palatine

Jack Bastable brought his three-game touchdown total to eight as he teamed with Stew Oakley to account for most of the scoring in a 41-0 Wheeling sophomore romp over Palatine.

Oakley also tallied twice and added three conversion points to his Saturday morning output. Along the way, he paced the Wildcats with a 142-yard rushing performance.

Bastable was first to rattle the scoreboard, on a 40-yard punt return. Oakley also tallied in the first period, on a 50-yard jaunt.

In the second quarter a 28-yard touchdown pass from Ron King to Jay Lesniak made it 20-0 and Oakley rounded out first half scoring with a 26-yard scamper to the Pirate end zone.

Bastable scored again in period three on a 22-yard run. Lane Louma rounded out the point avalanche with a 19-yard TD dash in the last quarter.

Wheeling soph coach Wayne Selvig lauded Bastable for his superlative blocking job and also praised the offensive work of Oakley, King, Luoma and Glen Roth. He was also pleased with the way Greg Craighead and Joe Whittington handled their chores.

The Wildcat sophomores are now 3-4 for the season and 2-3 in conference play. Palatine is 1-5-1 overall.

THE ATTACK IS ON. Wheeling's stalwart defensive unit thrashes for a shot at Palatine quarterback Bob Young (10) late in the action in Saturday's Cats-Pirates contest. Among those straining for a piece of Young are Mike Henry (73), Jon Hittman (32) and Paul Berwanger (71), while those trying to protect the signal-caller include Bill Schroeder (64) and Jeff Daniels (60). The scoreboard shows that Wheeling was then well on the way to its 30-7 conquest.

Wheeling's Freshmen In Two More Big Efforts

The spectacular season continued Saturday for Wheeling's freshman football players, as the young Wildcats romped to a pair of triumphs over Palatine.

In the frosh "A" tilt, Wheeling prevailed 62-0 in a 10-touchdown explosion that had the winners up 32-0 at the first quarter and 50-0 at the half. Scott Feige led the way with four touchdowns, tallying on a 75-yard kickoff return, a 60-yard punt return, a 40-yard run from scrimmage and a 35-yard dash with an intercepted pass.

Steve Schuler had a pair of TD's, going over on a 60-yard pass from Rich Kreutzfeld and a 35-yard run. Single tallies came from Gary Schweitzer on a 12-yard run, Mike Ryder on a 20-yard run with an intercepted pass, Alan Barthen with a 40-yard pass from Schuler and Ken Peterson on a 30-yard run with an intercepted pass. Lu Lambert and Schweitzer added extra points, as the 'Cats A team continued a season domination that has seen them outscore six straight opponents 214 points to six.

The B team, which has now outscored its opponents 111-45, ran its mark to 5-1 overall with a 51-0 trouncing. Three players tallied twice each, Steve Wiesen on runs of 40 and six yards, Mike Hart on a run of 30 yards and a gallop of 60 yards with an interception, and Jim Knotts on runs of 21 and two yards. Randy Grimes ran a punt back 55 yards for another tally, and Kirk Kieffer went in on a sprint of 47 yards. Kieffer, Knotts and Bruce Meyers all added extra points. Besides the offensive fireworks, the defense didn't allow a Palatine first down in the game.

This Saturday, Wheeling's freshmen play Maine West, and for the A squad, a Mid-Suburban League title will ride on it. The Wildcats will host the affair at 9:30 a.m.

Tryouts Scheduled

Music on Stage, Inc. will hold tryouts for its production of "Bells Are Ringing" this Sunday afternoon and again Sunday, Nov. 13.

Auditions will begin at 2:30 p.m. both days and will be conducted at the Mount Prospect Civic Center, Prospect Plaza Shopping Center on Rand Road.

There are 29 speaking roles plus dancers and a chorus in this musical about two girls who run a telephone answering service. The girls get mixed up with detectives, a bookie ring and a dentist who wants to be a song writer.

TOM VENTRISS, who has directed for Twilight Ridge, Encore Theatre, Theatre First and the Des Plaines Theatre Guild in addition to Music on Stage, will be directing this production.

Music will be under the direction of Gordon Palmer, music teacher at Prospect High School, and choreography will be handled by Mrs. Henry B. Vandenboom of Wheeling, a former professional dancer and active member of Music on Stage.

Additional information may be obtained from Roy Quid, CL 3-3905 or Hrs. L. Lindemann, CL 5-6976. (Bill

Too Slow Pace Mars 'My Three Angels'

by JOAN REDDY
Paddock Drama Critic

Every director of little theater should be equipped with a metronome and baton and devote his time to beating out the tempo for his productions. Amateurism and inadequacy of performance can be overlooked in a lively, well-paced play.

A case in point is Stage, Inc.'s weekend performance of "My Three Angels" at Palatine's Cutting Hall. Director Walter Kirby did a fine job of blocking and moving his performers around the shallow stage. But who cared where the actors were placed when you had to wait for almost every line?

Kirby apparently didn't understand or was unable to convey to his cast that people in plays do not converse as people in real life. The lines must almost overlap, dovetailing closely together. There's no such thing as a pleasant lull in the conversation on the stage.

PERHAPS THE Stage, Inc. players had inadequate rehearsal time. There was definite evidence of missed cues and forgotten lines in the first night performance. But such lapses are forgivable. In fact, the actor most guilty of poor memory was the production's saving grace. Herbert Gegenhuber, with his rotund silhouette, gravely voice and rolling eyes displayed an innate sense of comedy which often overcame all the obstacles.

"My Three Angels" is the tale of how three convict workers in the penal colony of French Guiana at the beginning of the century "adopt" a respectable family and put their house in order.

Besides Gegenhuber, as the literary convict (he was an embezzler and forger), the trio consisted of Robert Bennett as the thoughtful wife killer and Daniel Yelovich as a murdering wastrel. Neither Bennett nor Yelovich had the comic talents to overcome the drag, but Bennett displayed quiet assurance in the play's more serious moments. Yelovich was miscast as the youngest convict. He had the proper virile quality, but the urbanity of a man who was a habitue of Maxim's was missing.

AS THE HEAD of the cinderella family in need of three fairy godfathers, Angelo Polvere appeared properly bewildered, but too often both he and Barbara Wickline as his wife seemed to be actors reciting lines rather than believable characters. They often appeared to pose, rather than react.

This unnaturalness, an understandable problem of an amateur performance, could have been minimized by a faster pace. The trick is not to give the actors time to pose.

Annette Bettin, with her long blonde hair and delicate features, was an attractive ingenue, but she lacked the enthusiasm of a young girl in love. Fred Kunz, as the young man unworthy of her love, proved unconvincing as either a lover or a scoundrel.

TWO RELATIVELY minor roles proved to be better filled than many of the major ones. Betty Kandlbinder was able to bring more than one dimension to the character of a conniving woman in her two brief appearances. And Gerald Davis was thoroughly unlikable villain, conveying menace just beneath the surface.

The only other cast member, young William Kimble, was not required to do much more than make an appearance and look attractive in his uniform.

The care with which the set and costumes were designed and executed indicated that Stage, Inc. is not a slipshod group. They obviously wanted to do a good job, and it is sad that better results could not be reported. That missing pace was all-important. But it's a fault not too difficult to correct. Let's hope that in their next production they grab hold of that metronome and baton.

Caricaturist To Give Program For Countryside

Countryside Art Center invites the public to hear Bob Bowman, a Mount Prospect artist, who will present a program of caricature tonight (Thursday), at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

The doors will open at 7 p.m. for refreshments and a social hour, and the program will start at 8 o'clock.

Bowman will select his subjects from the audience and will present the finished caricature to the person he has drawn. (Bill

M&S Slates Readings

Masque and Staff, Elk Grove Village's community theater group, will hold tryouts for the Ira Levin drama, "Interlock," Monday, Nov. 7, at 8:30 p.m. at Dempster Junior High School.

The play, the second in the group's current schedule, has roles for three women and two men. Previous experience is not required, according to director Mrs. Shirley Johnson.

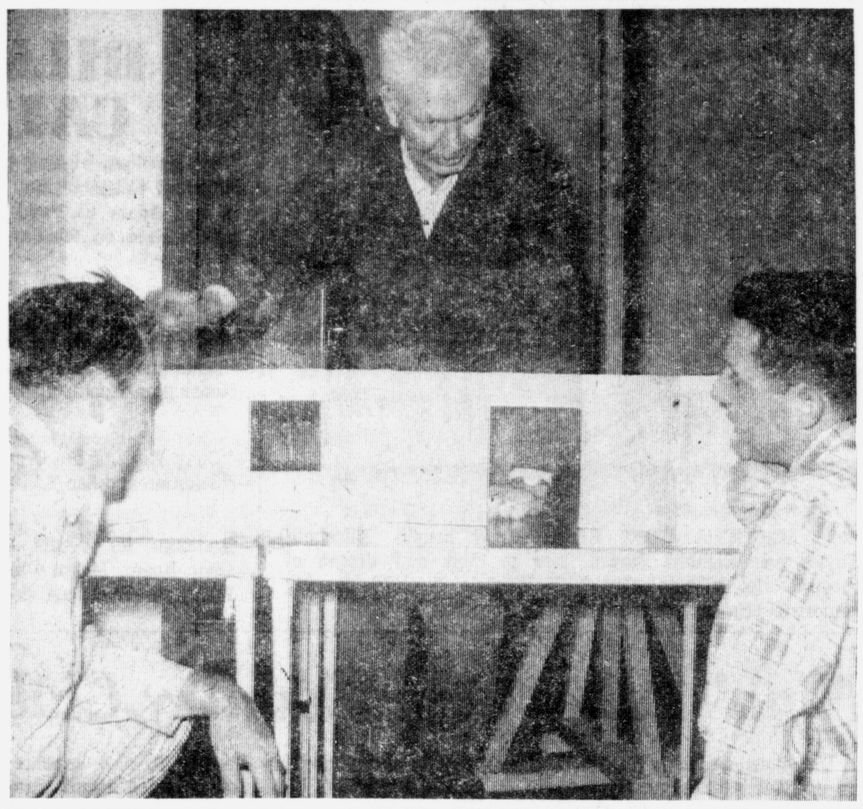
"Interlock" tells the story of a young student pianist, a refugee from Nazi Germany, who becomes the protege of a neurotic, possessive invalid. The drama develops as the invalid, widowed and crippled by an earlier accident, schemes to win the young man's attentions away from his German fiance. The play starred Maximillian Schell and Celeste Holm on Broadway. The author, Ira Levin, also wrote "Critic's Choice" and "No Time For Sergeants."

Further information about the readings may be obtained by calling Mrs. Johnson, HE 7-0679.

VT Tryouts

Village Theatre will conduct tryouts for its children's play, "Witch's Lullabye," Wednesday, Nov. 9, at Hasbrook Park, 333 W. Maude, Arlington Heights. The auditions will begin at 7:30 p.m.

There are parts for five women and three men in this play. Especially needed is a teen-age boy who can sing. (Bill



BOB GALLAGHER, center, stage crew chief for St. James Theatre Group's production of "You Can't Take It with You," explains the set design to two of his helpers, Chuck Mueller, left, and William Slpers. Crews Announced For St. James Play

Crews for St. James Theatre Group's fall production, "You Can't Take It With You," were announced this week.

Heading the stage crew will be Bob Gallagher. Assisting him on set construction will be Chuck Mueller.

Set design will be the responsibility of Mrs. M. Ptak, who also has an acting role in the play.

Properties will be handled by Maria Ptak and Mrs. O. Moros. Make-up is the responsibility of Mrs. Rick Janda and Mrs. M. Butcher. Ushers will be Mrs. Charles Willworth, Mrs. Moros, Marie Kertay and Maureen Smith.

Mrs. Leonard Kurp and James Kelly are in charge of tickets.

GEORGE BULL, an active member of Best Off Broadway Players, will be making his first attempt as a director in directing "You Can't Take It With You."

Producer will be Thad Ostrowski, president of the St. James Group, who has acted and worked backstage in previous plays.

Written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman in the middle 30's, "You Can't Take It With You" has enjoyed a revival recently in New York and other cities.

Tickets for the St. James production Nov. 17, 18 and 19 at Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows may be obtained by calling Barbara Kurp, 259-5925, or James Kelly, CL 3-3609. (Bill

'Nina' Takes Over Country Club Stage

A vivacious wench is flirting with audiences at Mount Prospect's Country Club Theatre and she is appearing in the Andre Roussin play of the same name.

Starring in the French farce are Norma Young, Dennis Kennedy and John Cox.

Miss Young played Hilary in "The Grass Is Greener" which departed the Country Club Theatre stage last week.

She was nominated during 1965-66 for the Sarah Siddons Award as Best Actress of the Year for her portrayal of Desdemona opposite William Marshall in the Harper Theatre production of "Othello," and she has appeared in theatres throughout Chicago and the Midwest.

DENNIS KENNEDY has appeared in several Country Club productions, including "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma's Hung You In The Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad" and "Boeing-Boeing."

He has worked this past summer as guest director in Joliet, Ill., directing "Arsenic and Old Lace." He also appeared with James MacArthur in "John Loves Mary" and spent some time with the Peninsula Players at Fish Creek, Wis., doing a variety of roles.

John Cox also has appeared before Country Club audiences in "Marriage-Go-Round." Besides his talent as an actor, he has been director of four major Equity companies in the East and Midwest, acted in numerous TV and radio programs for major networks and recently he staged and produced several Chicago area musical productions.

"Nina" will remain at the Country Club Theatre, located at the Old Orchard Country Club, Rand Road at Euclid, until Dec. 11. Further information may be obtained by calling CL 9-5400. (Bill

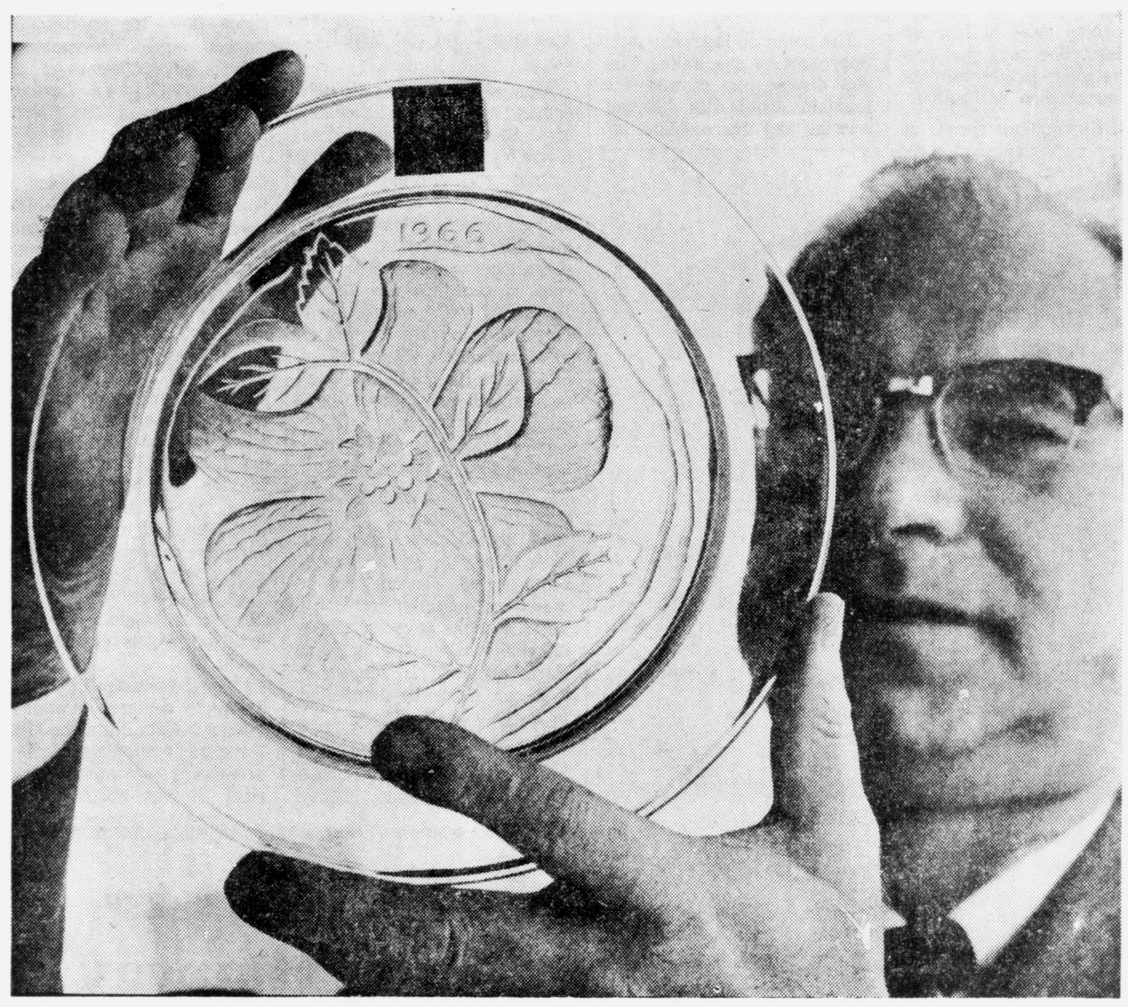
Lalique Crystal: Artistry in Glass

THIS GRACEFUL BIRD is typical of the crystal figures designed by Mlle. Marie-Claude Lalique, granddaughter of the founder of the Lalique glassmaking firm and its chief designer. It may take several weeks before the original design becomes the finished piece of art glass as each creation is individually handcrafted. Polishing gives Lalique its famed satin finish. (Staff photo)



A SECRET PROCESS produces the frosty appearance of this design in the Lalique decorative glass plate held by Ben Persin of Persin and Robbin Jewelers, Arlington Heights, franchised dealer in this area for the famed Lalique crystal manufactured in France. Founder of the firm was Rene Lalique, a jewelry designer of some renown before he turned to artistic glassmaking. His son and granddaughter now carry on the tradition. Lalique is prized by glass collectors all over the world. (Staff photo)

To glass collectors the world over, the name Lalique means the very finest in crystal.

The founder of the now renowned French crystal manufacturing firm, Rene Lalique, was a designer of jewelry before he turned his artistic talents to creating fine glassware. For his jewelry design he won much acclaim but nothing like the fame resulting from his work with glass. Examples of his glass creations may be found in almost every museum in the world.

Rene Lalique died in 1944, but carrying on the tradition of fine crystal today are his son, Marc, and his granddaughter, Marie-Claude, nine years old when her grandfather died.

MARC LALIQUE is the present head of the Lalique glass works, and Mlle. Lalique is chief designer for the factory, located in the Vosges mountains of Alsace-Lorraine in the heart of the French glassmaking industry.

The glass from which the Laliques manufacture their prized crystal has a 27 per cent lead content. Pick up a piece of Lalique glass, and it is heavy. Yet the forms of Lalique figures are so graceful, there is little sense of heaviness. And the patterns on plates, stemware, vases and other decorative pieces are delicate, seeming even more so because of the crystal's characteristic frosty appearance, the result of a secret process.

Famous also for its satin finish, Lalique glass is as smooth to the touch as the fabric.

FOR THE MOST part Lalique glassware is cast in a mold, then either cut, treated with acid or polished to produce the various patterns and surfaces. Each piece is individually handcrafted and may take several weeks to fabricate. If it is not right, it is discarded, and the usual ratio is one out of 25 pieces that is salable.

Today the artistic glass tradition begun in 1920 by Rene Lalique is continued by several hundred artisans, each a specialist.

Lalique crystal is sold on a franchise basis in the United States. The dealer for the northwest suburban area is Persin and Robbin Jewelers in Arlington Heights.

They Toured Europe's Fashion World

by MARY THERESE DRESSER
Staff Writer

Cathleen Combs looks at her collection of European dolls, authentically dressed down to the tiny bobbins in the small Belgian lacemaker's lap, and gets a wistful look on her face.

"I want to return some day," Cathleen says softly. "I think I'd like to go to Ireland and study design with somebody like Clodagh."

Phyllis Schuelke puts down the papers she is grading for her senior American Living class and remembers the care and craftsmanship put into European handwork.

"They are taught to be proud of their jobs," Phyllis says. "That's why you can see the quality in what they do."

MRS. ULA Barringhaus' eyes sparkle as she shows the pictures she and her daughter, Cathleen, took as members of a two-month summer tour of the European fashion industry.

"Europeans and Americans have so much to share with each other," she says.

These are some of the memories brought back to America by 36 graduate and undergraduate students who participated in the tour, sponsored by Northern Illinois University at DeKalb to acquaint home economics majors with the European fashion and textile industry.

Miss Combs and her mother, Mrs. Barringhaus, both of 2001 N. Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, and Miss Schuelke, 149 Villa No. 2, Addison, were members of the Northern Illinois group.

THEY LEFT Chicago June 19 and returned Aug. 15 after visiting 13 European countries, traveling on airplanes, buses and ships and seeing aspects of European working life rarely investigated by ordinary travelers. They brought back slides, patterns, clothing, yard goods, souvenirs, dolls and memories.

Miss Schuelke, a home economics teacher at East Leyden High School, remembers how tired she was the morning the tour left Innsbruck, Austria, and how her plans to take a nap on the bus were interrupted by Alpine scenery so beautiful that "you couldn't take your eyes off it."

Mrs. Barringhaus, home economics teacher at Waukonda Junior High School, remembers seeing the Queen of England in Edinburgh, Scotland.

"THE QUEEN was attending a formal ball," recalls Mrs. Barringhaus. "She was so gracious and pretty. The ladies wore satin brocaded Oriental kimonos over their evening gowns and the men wore forest green dinner coats with plaid kilts."

Cathleen, a junior at the University of Missouri majoring in merchandising and the design of clothing, remembers the warmth of the people of Ireland.

"They were so kind to us at the Clodagh fashion show, in Dublin," she says. "It was Clodagh's first showing at her new shop and her hospitality was wonderful."

The tour began in New York City at a showing of the fashion collection of Bill Blass of Maurice Rentner, Inc. The women spoke of Blass with great respect, regarding his collection as one of the finest seen on the trip.

IN DUBLIN, besides visiting professional fashion houses, they saw wool being made and witnessed linen weaving. Cathleen purchased a dark green, loosely tailored woolen shirtwaist dress with handsewn top stitching on the pockets.

Mrs. Barringhaus remembers Ireland as her favorite place because of the unpretentious hospitality and vivacity of the people. She tells how impressed she was at the sight of Irish children going to school in spotless handknit sweaters that showed the obvious care and love their mothers had put into clothing for their children.

After a stop in Belfast, North Ireland, to observe spinning and weaving operations, the students flew to Edinburgh, Scotland. Miss Schuelke says she was especially impressed by Lynton Tweeds, Ltd., which produces the finest of Scots woolens.

SHE REPORTS "Watching the workmen handle the material in the showroom gave me an idea of how much respect these people have for their craft. They value their own work and if the material is expensive, it's worth it."

The group boarded the steamer Kronprins Frederik in England for an over-night sailing to Denmark. In Denmark they met Mrs. Ellen Repsdorph, who was to be their guide for the next 4,000 miles.

Miss Schuelke remembers a sight-seeing trip some of the students took on a bus in Copenhagen. The women were having difficulty getting the driver to understand them when a Japanese gentleman rose from his seat and began to interpret perfectly. He delighted in explaining the beauties of Denmark and ended up taking them for a complete tour of the Tivoli Gardens.

MRS. BARRINGHAUS noticed that the Danish merchants used display techniques unfamiliar to Americans, such as training spotlights on store entryways and displaying merchandise on rugs in the doorway.

After a visit to the Royal Porcelain Factory, where Royal Copenhagen porcelain is created and manufactured, the group went to Hamburg, Germany, to see the wig factory of Carl Brehmen.

In Holland, their next stop was the 120-shop Amsterdam shopping center that is said to be the largest in the world.

"It's even bigger than Randhurst," comments Cathleen.

As they traveled across Holland and Germany, Mrs. Barringhaus noticed the marvelous reconstruction that had been done since World War II. Panes of cut glass had been removed from damaged mosaic windows and replaced precisely.

"IT SOMETIMES took them two months to get the glass out of the windows and 15 years to get it back right," she says. "In America, we'd simply cart all the rubble away and build something new, but in Europe they value their old buildings."

Two weeks of the tour were spent visiting Italian cities such as Venice, Ravenna, Rome, Milan and Florence.

Miss Schuelke found Florence a delightful city. She remembers the outdoor markets in Florence with merchandise displayed on the sidewalks and the streets crowded with people and cars. She says it was fun simply to wander through the straw market, to see the fabrics on open tables and to visit the jewelry stores on the shopping bridge.

OUTSIDE FLORENCE, they visited homes of cottage workers, women who work in their homes, knitting and crocheting sweaters and hats for American export. Some 3,000 women are employed in the Florence area, producing one sweater and sometimes five hats a day. The cottage workers are paid 80 cents a sweater and 20 cents a hat for merchandise that sells for much more when it finally reaches the United States.

Miss Schuelke says the cottage workers were happy women who talked in enthusiastic Italian while their knitting needles clicked continuously. She remembers seeing two five-year-old girls, sitting companionably on a doorstep, crocheting hats— "just like mommy."

In Italy the travelers visited the fashion houses of Fontana, Fabrini, Valentino and Pucci.

CATHLEEN SAYS that one of the differences she noticed between European and American dress is that in Europe,

CATHLEEN COMBS of Arlington Heights surrounds herself with "Dolls of Different Countries," which she bought while on a tour of Europe with members of a student group studying fashion and textile houses. She wears a beige linen dress that she made from fabric purchased on her trip. Miss Combs is a junior at the University of Missouri, majoring in merchandising and design. (Staff photo)

although there is less money available for clothes, everyone dresses in good taste. She doesn't recall seeing any shorts, blue jeans or hair up in rollers. She says that one can see more Beatle haircuts in America then in Europe.

Mrs. Barringhaus speaks of seeing store window manikins in various figure sizes.

"Maybe they're more realistic then we are," she observes. "They know that not everybody is a size nine."

The home ec instructor was impressed by one Italian window display that showed five manikins, each with different coloring and figure shape, all wearing the same outfit to emphasize the versatility of the dress.

THE STUDENTS finally reached Paris where they visited the fashion houses of Fabriani, Heim and Nini Ricci.

After observing the French collections, Miss Schuelke, Mrs. Barringhaus and Miss Combs agreed that skirt lengths are definitely coming down. Some of the designers showed dresses in two lengths, and others were showing coat-dress combinations with the coat longer than the dress. Designers were telling their customers to buy the skirt most attractive, subtly trying to prepare the public for longer skirts, the travelers observed.

Miss Schuelke says that while watching the Paris fashion shows she finally realized why the designer's can ask such high prices for their work. Not only is the design original, but the material is made specifically for the dress, and the attention to detail and workmanship in these Paris originals is something that can never be duplicated in a ready-made dress.

MISS SCHUELKE says that her experiences in Europe made her see more clearly what quality workmanship means. It is attention to detail, pride in the job, concern for balance and design, she learned.

After a week in Paris, the group flew to London for another week of visits to fashion houses. Some of the students visited Carnaby Street, home of the "Mod" fashions.

"You don't see as many 'Mod' fashions in England as you might think," Cathleen says. "I got the impression that the clothes were being worn by only a few to gain attention—maybe rebelling. I personally didn't care for 'Mod'."

LEAVING LONDON, the students flew home with their work still uncompleted because the undergraduates had papers to finish to be eligible for the five hours credit offered by the university, and each graduate student had to complete a thesis on a specific aspect of the tour.

As Mrs. Barringhaus says, "It was a wonderful, but exhausting way to get graduate credit."

"Now I see more then I saw before," declares Cathleen. "When I walk down the stret, I see an interesting line in a dress or a coat and I get excited. It was worth it!"

La Leche To Present Third In Series on Breastfeeding

"GERRY CARRIER" is one of the methods of better mothering used by many members of the Arlington Heights group of the La Leche League. Mrs. Quentin Ford Jr. of Arlington Heights, leader of the group, demonstrates the device with the aid of her 8-month-old daughter, Krista. The group is now conducting a series of meetings to which all interested women are invited. (Staff photo

"Mothering" is the objective of the La Leche League, and breastfeeding is advocated for a good relationship between mother and new infant, according to Mrs. Quentin Ford Jr., leader of the Arlington Heights group of the league.

This is the reason for discussing childbirth at the Tuesday, Nov. 8, meeting of the Arlington group. Mrs. Raymond Hornbostel, 2112 E. St. James Place, will be hostess for the 8:30 p.m. session, which is the third in a series of four monthly meetings on breastfeeding.

"THE BABY Arrives: The Family and the Breastfed Baby" is the subject of the meeting, with Mrs. D. Bleckman, instructor of evening adult education classes in childbirth at Prospect High School, giving a demonstration of some relaxing techniques used.

Although this is the third session of the current series, any women interested in the subject may attend, whether they are mothers, expectant mothers or neither. The first and second meetings may be attended in January and February, when a new series begins again. (S

Hello Hostess

by MARY KAY ROBBINS

Grass roots . . . the hot stove league . . . cracker barrel politics. These old familiar phrases theme a real man-pleasing party that's especially appropriate in this election season. Schedule this Cracker Barrel Party on election night to listen to returns. Or afterward to celebrate a victory. Or just any convenient evening as a pleasant, easy way to entertain a few favorite couples.

It's primary strategy to phone your invitations early. If you write them, make each like a ballot and ask guests to "VOTE YES—for a Cracker Barrel Party." Then add the necessary details.

MAKE YOUR decor "old country store." Set out wooden crates for extra seats, a real soap box if you can find one. Use candles, lanterns — whatever you have that suggests an earlier America.

Provide nuts to shell, popcorn to pop, a basket full of shiny apples. Plus, of course, a cracker barrel! (Stuff the bottom of a nail keg with cardboard boxes and paper. Fill the top part with crackers and set your bunch to munching.)

Your platform promises fun for all, so set the checkerboard on another barrel for an old-timey Checker Tournament, round-robin style. (You remember—each first-round winner ner, second-round winners play off and so on, until you have a Checker Champion.)

CHALK 'N TALK provide enough additional entertainment if you're listening to election returns. Appoint your most avid psephologist to keep the figures current on a blackboard. (What's a psephologist? A student of elections—watcher of polls. And a very fancy, two-bit word that we just learned ourselves!)

Or plan your own Campaign Game. Invite your guests to make up slogans, placards and platforms for imaginary candidates or causes. Or ask them to identify photographs of local and national political figures. Or see who can remember the most old campaign slogans—or losing vice presidential candidates.

FOR OLD-FANGLED, star-spangled refreshments, serve apple pie, rat cheese and coffee. And color your table red, white and blue. White cloth, blue napkins and red flowers in a well-stuffed "ballot box."

Or how about red and blue balloons in a huge goldfish bowl? (The balloons, of course, are "trial balloons," the goldfish bowl, where politicians live.)

And favor each guest with a milk-bottle-cap campaign button, lettered with such silly slogans as "Down with Up" or "Peanuts for President."

And that's all you need to win in a landslide — with a Cracker Barrel Party that's a barrel of fun for you and you "constituents."

R.S.V.P. We wish you'd come to the aid of the party! Just send your party contribution—your ideas on entertaining—to "Hello, Hostess." C/o this newspaper.

PARTY LINE: A Chicago-area reader wrote us about the clever name chosen for a suburban flower show last spring: "Arlington A-Gro Gro." We don't know who thought this one up, but it's such a natural you might like to adapt it to your town for a flower show, plant sale or other gardening event.

Sorority Activities

Delta Gammas Collect Discarded Eyeglasses

DELTA GAMMA

Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter of Delta Gamma sorority is sponsoring its sixth annual campaign to collect discarded eyeglasses during the month of November. Containers have been placed in all local drugstores, in some banks and in some supermarkets. The collection is not limited to eyeglasses which are intact but include frames, lenses, sunglasses, cases, and old gold and silver jewelry.

Last year Delta Gamma was able to send 3,000 pairs of glasses to New Eyes for the Needy, a non-profit, non sectarian, volunteer organization in Short Hills, N. J. This organization has helped more than half a million needy people see better. For example, simple non-astigmatic glasses are sent to medical missions all over the world, and sunglasses are provided for lepers whose eyes are sensitive to sunlight. Good plastic frames are reused, while the metal frames and the gold and silver scrap are sent to a refinery to help pay for the cost of new prescription glasses, stated the chapter's president, Mrs. R. A. Landes, general chairman.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

Northwest Suburban Alumnae of Alpha Omicron Pi will have a "Creative Session" Wednesday, Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. George Kaeding, 711 Riverside Dr., Park Ridge.

The meeting will be devoted to putting the finishing touches on decorations to be used at the group's luncheon-bridge, "Holiday Fantasy." The benefit will be held at Old Orchard Country Club Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 12:30 p.m. Featured at the luncheon will be a display of bazaar-type items for the holiday season.

Profits will be used to assist the Illinois Children's Hospital School which serves children with handicaps too severe to attend regular schools.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Robert Corbett at 255-0657.

PI BETA PHI

Arlington Heights alumnae of Pi Beta Phi have just been informed of their role in the preparations for the sorority's centennial convention to be held June 25-30, 1967 in Chicago. The area alumnae club will be in charge of the chapter dinner, one of the highlights of the convention where delegates are seated according to their own college chapter.

Mrs. Harold Whitacre of Arlington Heights is centennial chairman for the club, and her co-chairmen will be Mrs. Lawrence Brown, also of Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Hoyt Mathews of Mount Prospect.

Local Pi Phi alumnae will start rolling up their sleeves Wednesday, Nov. 9, and start working on table favors for the dinner. The Nov. 9 date is the group's monthly meeting, and will be held at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Gerald Hall, 325 N. Benton, Palatine.

Pi Phis new to the area may call Mrs. Robert Lollar at 255-5594 for further information concerning the group.

GAMMA PHI BETA

Gamma Phi Beta Sorority celebrates its 92nd birthday this month. Eighty-two collegiate chapters and 207 alumnae chapters throughout the United States and Canada will commemorate the founding of the sorority at Syracuse University, N. Y. on Nov. 11, 1874 by four Syracuse coeds.

Northwest Suburban Alumnae will celebrate the occasion with an Italian dinner Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 6:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Philip Loncar, 901 Topango, Palatine. Mrs. Robert Green, Palatine, will be cohostess.

Traditional dessert at the dinner will be birthday cake topped with candles representing each active chapter with members present.

Following dinner, a blouse bazaar will be held with proceeds earmarked for the sorority's philanthropic projects for retarded children. A New York shirt company is donating the blouses.

Mrs. Page Engelke, 437-4391, may be called for reservations.

SIGMA KAPPA

"Plan Ahead" is the theme set for the Northwest Suburban Sigma Kappa evening group's next meeting, Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 8 p.m. Mrs. Bruce Isaacson will present a gift wrapping demonstration in the home of Mrs. Thomas Fennell, 1504 N. Fernandez Place, Arlington Heights.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

The monthly meeting of Alpha Chi Omega Northwest Suburban Alumnae Club will be held Monday, Nov. 7, at the home of Mrs. John Roberts, 112 S. WaPella, Mount Prospect.

The program will feature Mrs. Jenkins of the Elgin Easter Seal Work Center discussing the rehabilitation of crippled children. This program ties in with the Alpha Chi national philanthropy which is Cerebral Palsy and Crippled Children. Any area Alpha Chis interested in attending this meeting may contact Mrs. William Schumaker, 253-3241. (S

A FORMER ARLINGTON HEIGHTS girl, Phyllis Elaine Nelson, recently exchanged vows with Harry Otto Wolf Jr. of Excelsior, Minn. The bride is the daughter of the Everett M. Nelsons of Crystal Lake, and the groom's parents are the H. O. Wolfs of Marengo. After their wedding in Southminster Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights, and a reception at Long Grove Country Club, the newlyweds are living in Excelsior, a suburb of Minneapolis. The bride is a graduate of Arlington High School and Lutheran General Hospital School of Nursing.

Biology Expert Is Next Speaker for Area AAUW

Ray DePalma will be the guest speaker at the general meeting, Nov. 10, of the Arlington Heights branch of the American Association of University Women at Pioneer Park. Mr. DePalma will use slide films to augment his talk, "From the Greeks to DNA."

Mr. DePalma has a B.S. degree in biology and chemistry from Rocky Mountain College and a M. S. degree in biology from Northwestern University. He has 16 years teaching experience and is currently assistant science department chairman and head of the biology section at Forest View High School.

Mr. DePalma has participated in several National Science Foundation institutes in Radiation Biology, B.S.C.S. Biology and Gifted Youth Program. He has directed team teaching programs in biology at Forest View and is currently working on TV teaching programs.

PREPARATIONS are in full swing for the Used Book Fair at Randhurst, Nov. 18 and 19. The Fair is the AAUW's one fund-raising activity. Money raised will be donated to the Association fellowships fund, which provides partial support for American women scholars doing advanced research.

A reminder that AAUW members should canvass their neighborhoods for books will be made at branch study group meetings this week and next.

Arrangements for pick-up of donated items may be made by calling Mrs. Francis Egan, 392-5882. (S

Nurses Will Reveal 'Secret' At Fashion Lunch Saturday

Can women really keep a secret?

The committee in charge of the luncheon-fashion show planned by Elk Grove Village Nurses Club hopes so. Because of their uniqueness, centerpieces for the luncheon tables have been a closely guarded secret, to be revealed the day of the show, Saturday, Nov. 5.

Allgauer's Restaurant will be the scene of the affair, beginning at noon and concluding at 4 p.m. Club members will be modeling frocks from Speiglers in Des Plaines.

Proceeds of the show are earmarked for the scholarship fund to aid student nurses. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

IN LIEU OF a guest speaker the club had an informal discussion period after its regular business meeting this month.

Led by the president, Mrs. James Carroll, members exchanged ideas on goals of the club: what influences keep members coming; how far a club can extend itself and still keep members faithful; and should the programs be confined on strictly a professional level or should some include broader information?

Although no changes in policy were made, members agreed this self examination was helpful to further its basic goals and to plan future projects. Members expressed prime interest in having a club which is both stimulating to members and a service to the community.

Pussycats Double Sales At Local Gas Station

Hanover Park Junior Woman's Club doubled the usual gasoline sales over a recent weekend at the Pure Oil station located on Lake Street in the village. Dressed as pussycats, the women washed cars and pumped gas.

Next project of the club will be a detailed map-booklet of Hanover Park including street names and house numbers. Past projects have included a bridge tournament, given in conjunction with the Hanover Park Board, and a get-acquainted tea for new members.

AT THE TEA, slides showed the origin of women's federated clubs and their services. Along with two other junior clubs in the Seventh District, members of Hanover Juniors, most recently federated club in the district, served as hostesses at the Oct. 20 district meeting held at the Clearbrook Center in Rolling Meadows.

Now making the rounds of Hanover Junior Club members is the "friendship basket." As each member receives the basket, she accepts the accompanying gift, decides on its value and tucks the money into the bank inside the basket. She then has three days to make another gift and deliver it to the next member on the list.(S

Gardeners Study Bulbs

At the Countryside Garden Club meeting tonight (Thursday), members will discuss the correct way to plant and care for bulbs. The meeting begins at 8 p.m. in the Rural Park District building, 530 S. Williams, Palatine.

John Zan Koningsveld of Knupper Nursery will show slides recently taken in Holland and will answer questions which members may ask on bulb planting.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Siegfried Jung and Mrs. August Mellenthin. Anyone interested in attending the session may call Mrs. Donald Guenther, CL 5-5330. (S

Inner City Program Is Film for Palatine WSCS

A film relating how a public school in Detroit changed the focus of its program to meet the needs of children in the inner city will be shown at a Wednesday, Nov. 9 luncheon meeting in Palatine. Sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist Church, Palatine, the affair will be held at noon in the church's Fellowship Hall.

A board meeting conducted by Mrs. Herbert Chidley, president, will convene at 10 a.m. In charge of the luncheon is Mrs. Joh Wilson, chairman of Mary Circle, and members of the circle will act as hostesses.

FOLLOWING the regular business meeting, Mrs. Carl Johnson will lead the devotions, and the Christian Social Relations secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, will introduce the film-program, "Children Without."

Mrs. Ann Walasek, director of Christian Education of the church, will lead the discussion and question period following the film. (S

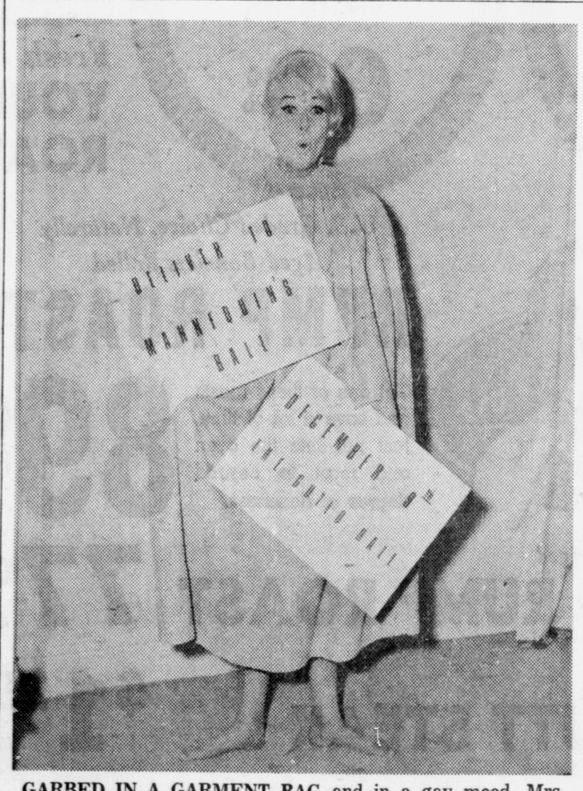
Synchronized Swim Clinic Nov. 13 at 'Y'

The Mermaid Mamas of Northwest Suburban YMCA will sponsor a clinic on synchronized swimming Sunday, Nov. 13.

Mrs. Pat Hauter of the International Academy of Aquatic Arts, Milwaukee, will present the clinic, stressing the fundamentals of water ballet, including choreography as well as stunts.

Synchronized swim club teachers and directors from local high schools and from the metropolitan YMCA's have been invited. Anyone interested in this sport-art form is welcome at the event, to be held at the "Y" pool beginning at 2 p.m. No admission will be charged.

Members of the Mermaid Mamas will demonstrate various skills during the clinic under the direction of Mrs. Hauter. (S



GARBED IN A GARMENT BAG and in a gay mood, Mrs. Allen Grobman, 504 Willow Wood, Palatine, isn't telling what she will wear to the preview party Monday, Nov. 7, when designer ball gowns will be shown in the Sarah Siddons Walk of the Ambassador West Hotel. Mrs. Grobman is chairman of the Mannequin's Ball to be held in December. Proceeds of the ball will benefit the Rehabilitation Institute.

Saturday Is Dance Night For Juniors

Tickets are still available for this Saturday evening's "Golden Harvest" dance sponsored by Wheeling Junior Woman's Club. Glenview Petty Officers' Club will be the setting for the steak dinner and dance.

Mrs. Raymond Olsen may be called at 537-1753 for reservations.

Members worked on decorations for the dance at their meeting Tuesday evening, after an initiation ceremony was held for six newcomers. Mrs. Joseph Hille, Mrs. Frank Straka, Mrs. Walter Diens, Mrs. Helmut Heitkotter, Mrs. Glen Oaks and Mrs. John Young each received a carnation corsage tied with lilac ribbons, the club's color, as she was welcomed into membership.

Plastic Net Makes Good Containers

Save those plastic mesh carrying cases that turkeys come in. They can be used as bags to hold household and family items and for other uses.

To make a bag, take off the clamp on one end of the net used for the turkeys. Then weave ribbon, yarn or twine through the mesh to make a drawstring neck.

Use longer drawstrings on bags for children's mittens, scarves or overshoes. They then can be looped over doorknobs, chairs or utility room faucets.

THE NET cases also can be used for washing vegetables or fruit and for storing them in refrigerators.

They make good containers for hair rollers, garden bulbs, children's blocks, small toys or balls, moth cakes in closets or drawers and kitchen sponges, too.

The bags can be filled with suet and used for winter bird feeding, and one mother reported using the bags to make a net for her children's basketball hoop. (S

Varicose Veins Can Be Helped

While the wrinkles of middle age may add character to a woman's face and the rounding of her hips enhance her voluptuousness, there is no saving grace about one other frequent concomitant of middle age—varicose veins.

Unsightly, and sometimes the cause of health problems, varicose veins are "dilated, tortuous blood vessels which have lost their elasticity," according to the American Medical Association. Since their function of maintaining return flow of blood is impaired, varicose veins can lead to impaired circulation and decreased nutrition of tissues.

VARICOSE veins seem to be a hereditary characteristic, and if they run in your family you'll probably develop them. But there are simple measures, says the AMA, which can delay their occurrence and make them less bothersome.

If possible, choose an occupation that doesn't involve long hours of standing. Avoid clothing that might constrict the veins at the groin and knees and interfere with blood flow. When sitting, elevate the legs.

Suburban Living

Especially for Women

WISCONSIN STATE UNIVERSITY students, Susan Helen Estes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Estes of Palatine, and LeRoy Joseph Herman, son of Mrs. Daisy Herman of Wausau, Wis. were married in a summer wedding. The bride completed two years at the university and the groom was graduated this year. The newlyweds are residing in St. Charles, Minn. where the groom is employed in nearby Rochester as an accountant for IBM.

Storkfeathers

Edward Francis Guzik III, namesake of his father and grandfather, arrived Oct. 26 in Northwest Community Hospital. He is the first child of the junior Edward F. Guziks, 1101 W. Cottonwood, Mount Prospect, and a grandson for the E. F. Guziks of Bensenville and Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Schultz of Arlington Heights. The 6 pound 13 ounce newcomer has a great-grandmother also living in Arlington Heights, Mrs. Sophie Wilk.

Michael John Trausch was born Oct. 26 in Northwest Community Hospital, the third child of the Albert G. Trausches, 225 Placid Way, Elk Grove Village. He weighed 6 pounds 14½ ounces and is now at home with Richard, 4, and Nancy, 17 months old.

Paul James Kemper's birth adds a fifth child to the Edward Kemper home at 614 Catino, Arlington Heights. His weight was 7 pounds 4 ounces on arrival in Northwest Community Hospital. Paul's brothers are Eddy, 10, and Jack, 6, and sisters are Jill, 7, and Gail, 3. He is another grandson for Bartol Sikich of Gary and Mrs. Edward Kemper of Chicago Heights.

Denice Sherell Birch is the name of the newcomer in the Charles J. Birch family of 321 E. Dennis Road, Wheeling. Born Oct. 22 in Highland Park Hospital, she is a new sister for Laurie Jean, 3½, and Suzanne, 2½. Grandparents of the three girls are Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Hicks of Duluth and Mrs. Donald Birch of Proctor, Minn.

Christopher John Bishop, first child for the James D. Bishops, 3 N. Dryden, Arlington Heights, arrived Oct. 5 in Lutheran General Hospital. He weighed 9 pounds 4 ounces. The John Bishops of Elk Grove and the John Blomquists of Arlington Heights are his grandparents.

Danette Renee Schmid is the name of the daughter born Oct. 24 to Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schmid, 27W285 Devon, Bartlett. She is a sister for 2½-year-old John and weighed 6 pounds 6½ ounces on arrival in Gottlieb Memorial Hospital. Grandparents are the Elmer Schmids of Tombstone, Ariz., and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ricketts of Coos Bay, Ore.

Patricia Irene Nash's birth Oct. 27 in Northwest Community Hospital has evened the count in the Philip J. Nash home at 815 W. Fairview, Arlington Heights. The couple now has two daughters as well as two sons. The boys are Philip, 8, and Joey, 6. Their older daughter, Margaret, is 3. Grandparents of the children are Mrs. Theodore Giese of Harvey and the John H. Nashes of Springfield. Patricia weighed 8 pounds 4½ ounces.

Gift Wrapping Program Set For Juniors

Headlining Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club's November meeting will be Mrs. Elaine Busse of the Gift Box of Mount Prospect who will present a program on novelty gift wrapping and how to do it.

Hostesses for the Thanksgiving-themed evening will be Mrs. Arthur Stevens, chairman, Mrs. L. Koeder, Mrs. R. Malcomson, Mrs. D. Noakes, Mrs. J. O'Brien and Mrs. J. Charles.

The meeting will be held Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 8:15 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Community Center. All interested ladies are welcome and for more information may call Mrs. Jack Piper, CL 3-7976. (S

Investment Study For Palatine Unit

This month's meeting of Palatine Homemakers' Extension Unit is slated for Tuesday, Nov. 8, at 12:45 p.m. in the home of Mrs. R. W. Johnson, 2160 S. Ela Road, Palatine. The lesson, "Investment Studies," will be given by a Cook County home adviser.

Co-hostesses will be Mrs. N. P. Stanczak and Mrs. A. R. Tindell.

THE PALATINE unit is a part of Cook County Home Extension Association of the University of Illinois. Members are primarily interested in education for a better home and family living. Programs are tailored to fit the needs of the group, and a wide variety of crafts and hobbies are part of the unit's activities.

"An Afternoon in Japan" was a special event for the unit, taking place Oct. 28 in St. Paul United Church of Christ. The afternoon included instruction on the art of flower arranging, a kimono demonstration and the showing of slides on Japan by the guest speaker, Mrs. Leonard Berk.

MRS. R. SWANSON was in charge of this program, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Medek, who headed a refreshment committee, and Mrs. E. Bartz, who headed ticket sales.

The unit met Tuesday in Mrs. R. H. Golterman's home to work on Christmas crafts. (S

Plum Grove Garden Club Event Draws Full House

A capacity crowd filled the gymnasium of Pleasant Hill School, Palatine, on Oct. 24 to hear a demonstration on holiday decorations. Guest speaker Harold Busse, of Busse Flowers and Gifts, Inc., Mount Prospect, was introduced by Mrs. Walter Dreyfus, ways and means chairman of Plum Grove Garden Club, which sponsored the program.

This was an open meeting for the club, and ticket sales have been earmarked for a local beautification project.

MR. BUSSE'S arrangements, created on stage as the lecture proceeded, ranged from a Thanksgiving display of dried and artificial materials centered by a plump candle to a winter theme of juniper, cones and bright berries clustered around a brown St. Francis bird feeder.

An arrangement of flowers which had been antiqued brought out a new showing of flower treatment. Mr. Busse urged garden club enthusiasts to use all types of material to beautify their homes.

MANY OF the displays which he made can be easily duplicated in fresh flowers for various occasions, he explained.

Mrs. Charles Pease created a fall flower setting for the refreshment table, and hostesses were Mrs. Andrew Obara and Mrs. Amil Holper, assisted by members of the club. (S

A Dec. 17 wedding has been set by Miss Lois Ann Westerberg and her fiance, LeRoy Eugene Gaskin, son of the Eugene Gaskins of Lockport, Ill. The couple's engagement and approaching marriage is announced by Miss Westerberg's parents, the T. J. Westerbergs, Roselle Road, Inverness.

Miss Westerberg was graduated from Cornell College and received her masters degree in child guidance and counselling from the University of Ohio. She is now teaching first grade in Lansing, Mich. Mr. Gaskin received his B.S. degree from Southern Illinois University and is doing graduate work at Michigan State in the field of soil science.

Peggy Ann Holmes

Mr. and Mrs. A. Earl Holmes of Overland Park, Kan., announce the engagement of their daughter, Peggy Ann, to Alan J. Blomquist, son of Mrs. Hazel S. Blomquist of Mount Prospect.

The couple's wedding will take place June 17, 1967 in Hillcrest Covenant Church, Overland Park.

Miss Holmes is a junior, majoring in psychology, at Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Iowa, where her fiance will receive his degree in religion next June.

Jacqueline Koeppen

Palatine residents, the Edward Koeppens, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Jacqueline, to Pfc. Robert Flathau, son of the Vincent Flathaus of Rolling Meadows.

Miss Koeppen is a 1964 graduate of Palatine High School and is now employed at the Pure Oil Co. Mr. Flathau is a 1964 graduate of Forest View High School and is now with the U.S. Army stationed at Fort Hood, Texas.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Sandra Lechman

A Palatine High School graduate, Miss Sandra Lee Lechman, is engaged to Richard Darby of Bensenville, according to an announcement by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lechman of Glen Ellyn.

Miss Lechman works for Farrell Photographers in Palatine, and her fiance, son of the Thomas Darbys, 48 Lehman Court, Bensenville, works for Cutler-Hammer, Inc. in Elk Grove.

The couple will be married Jan. 14.

Margaret Ribar

A February '67 wedding is planned by Miss Margaret Marie Ribar and Ernie Garber, son of the Ernie Garbers of Des Plaines. The couple's engagement and approaching marriage is announced by Miss Ribar's parents, the Louis A. Ribars, 1601 S. Quinten Road, Palatine.

Miss Ribar is a graduate of Palatine High School and is employed at the Pure Oil Company in Palatine. Her fiance is a Maine West graduate and is employed in Norridge.

Lyn Johnson

Miss Ellen Lyn Johnson's engagement to William Francis Shean Jr., son of the senior William F. Sheans of Clarendon Hills, has been announced by her parents, the Alger G. Johnsons, 309 S. Stratford Road, Arlington Heights.

Mr. Shean is a graduate of the University of Michigan where he was an Evans scholar. Miss Johnson attended Denison University where she was affiliated with Delta Delta Delta Sorority.

An April 8 wedding is planned.

Marilyn Tedrahn

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tedrahn, 4N436 Gary Ave., Bartlett, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marilyn, to Warren Tyler, son of the Gerald H. Tylers of Glen Ellyn.

Miss Tedrahn was a 1962 graduate of Glenbard West High School and received her B.A. at Concordia Teacher's College. She is currently doing post graduate work at the Maywood campus of the Lutheran School of Theology of Chicago. Her fiance, who also graduated from Glenbard West High School, studied music at Illinois Wesleyan for a year, after which he came to Concordia in River Forest, the college from which he will receive his degree in May.

The couple plans to be married in the summer of '67. (S

AN ORIENTAL ATMOSPHERE will prevail at Chevy Chase Country Club in Wheeling Saturday, Nov. 5, when the Junior Woman's Club of Palatine presents its ninth annual Monte Carlo dance, "The House of Chan'z." Mrs. Paul Johnson, ways and means chairman of the club, and Mrs. William Heise, committee member, have announced that proceeds will go to local charities and organizations. Mrs. Robert Hirsh, 358-7009, may be called for tickets.

Fashion Show Nets $1000 For Juniors

An approximate $1,000 profit was realized by Elk Grove Village Junior Woman's Club from its ninth annual benefit fashion show held recently at the Hyatt House. All proceeds from the benefit go to the club's philanthropic activities which include the library, St. Alexius Hospital and the Northwest Mental Health Clinic.

"A sincere thanks to all the village residents and their friends whose support makes possible these contributions to our community-wide projects," said Mrs. Arnold Shaw, ways and means chairman. A second benefit for the same recipients will be held in the spring.

Turkey Got Its Start In America

The Pilgrims hunted wild turkeys for the first Thanksgiving, but the birds apparently were not new to them.

The Butterball Turkey Institute points out that authorities believe the turkey reached Europe from America in the early 1500's, and some may have been brought back by the Pilgrims themselves.

There were wild turkeys in America from deep in Mexico to Maine and Canada, and Indians developed domesticated stock from them before Columbus arrived in 1492.

TURKEYS were raised by the Aztecs, and the Butterball Institute points out that some of them were taken to Spain early in the 14th Century. They spread into other parts of Europe and reached England nearly 100 years before the Pilgrims arrived in America in 1620.

Various authorities believe turkeys were brought back to America by early colonists, and some say the Pilgrims brought several with them. (S

Juniors Adopt Viet Nam Platoon

Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club has adopted a platoon in Viet Nam and the first box is packed and on its way.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Char Livingston, the Home Life Department will gather items including cookies and candies made by club members, and ship the cartons. The department will also make dressings for the American Cancer Society.

Bridge Department Chairman Mrs. N. Gorny and her committee are gathering good, used clothing, toys and canned goods for the Indian family they have adopted. At Thanksgiving they will bring this family a complete turkey dinner plus other items. Extra gifts will be distributed to other needy families through the Indian Center. Department members also collect playing cards and pocket books for veterans at Hines Hospital.

WITH THE HELP of Mrs. J. Strickland, youth chairman, the Home-Life and Literature-Drama committees will make hand puppets and self help books for Clearbrook Center. After the library Trick or Treat party, members will read monthly for the pre-school hour at the library.Mrs. R. Maginnis, chairman, also announced the collection of magazines for a new project, "Friendship through Magazines for S.E. Asia."

Mrs. D. Noakes and her group announce that in November the Senior Citizen Group will celebrate its sixth anniversary. She plans this party to be "the best ever" with the help of club members. (S

Flower Experts to Appear For Garden Club Benefit

The team of Mrs. Frank Leber and Mrs. Harold Osborn will report on "Trends in Flower Arranging" for Prospect Heights Garden Club and guests at 1 p.m. Nov. 8 in Randhurst Town Hall. This event is the fall ways and means project of the club, proceeds to go to the beautification of Wheeling High School.

Mrs. Leber is president of Northlake Garden Club and also landscape design chairman of the Garden Club of Illinois. She is an accredited instructor in flower show schools and lectures in the area on flower arranging and horticulture.

MRS. OSBORN is a former president of the Northlake club, teaches arranging and is a talented designer. She has served a term on the Illinois Garden Club as chairman of the Flower Show Judges' Council.

Tickets for Tuesday afternoon's demonstration can be obtained from Mrs. George Rasmussen, CL 9-2474, or Mrs. Rodger Ericson, 392-7324. They will also be sold at the door.

The Town Hall is on the lower level of Randhurst shopping center. (S

Comfort Key To Setting Thermostat

There was a time when 68 or 72 degrees—or some other equally arbitrary thermostat setting—was believed to be the "right" temperature to maintain in your home.

This idea is old-fashioned and obsolete, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. The basis for selecting the temperature in a home should be the comfort of the people living in it, and this can vary during different times of the day or in accordance with certain factors.

These factors include how active you are, the type of clothing you generally like to wear around the house, what the humidity is, whether your home is located in an exposed area where it's buffeted by high winds and so on.

IT ALSO depends upon the age of the occupants. Older folks, for example, usually like more heat than do younger members of the family. Some people like to turn the thermostat down overnight to cool off the house, then raise it again in the morning.

Modern thermostats are designed to give precise control of your heat within one or two degrees. Your heating contractor will be glad to recommend and install controls that will give you maximum comfort at all tmes. (S

Clearbrook Director Is Twins Club's Speaker

Byrn Witt, executive director of Clearbrook School for Retarded Children, will be guest speaker at the November 10th meeting of the Double Dydee Mothers of Twins Club. Members are invited to bring guests.

Also on the agenda for the evening will be a donation of gifts from members of the club to be sent to servicemen in Viet Nam in time for Christmas.

At the fourth annual state convention held in Springfield in October at which fourteen Double Dydee members attended many interesting meetings and workshops, Mrs. Robert Collignon of Hanover Park was elected chaplain of the state convention for the year 1967.

Any mother of twins interested in further information concerning the club may contact Mrs. Harold Chamberlain at FL 8-1757. Meetings are held at 8 p.m. in the downstairs room of the Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

Relate Smoking, Fatty Deposits

An examination of the coronary arteries of 645 men indicates that the coronary linings of heavy smokers had greater fatty deposits than those who smoked moderately or not at all. These fatty deposits narrow the channel through which blood flows. When the coronary arteries nourishing the heart are affected, the stage may be set for heart attack. (S

Suburban Living

Especially for Women

Self-Protection Is Topic For B&W Meeting Nov. 10

What women should know about self-protection will be discussed by a Chicago policewoman at the coming meeting of the Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club. This meeting will be held Thursday evening, Nov. 10, at the Arlington Carousel, opening with a hospitality hour at 5:30 followed by dinner at 6:30.

Guest speaker will be Miss Kathleen Gaughan of the City of Chicago Department of Police. She will be introduced by Mrs. Alice Platt, chairman of the club's personal development committee in charge of the evening's program.

IN ORDER that other women may have the opportunity of hearing Miss Gaughan's talk, this meeting will be an open one and guests are invited. A short business session conducted by the club president, Mrs. Ruth Hofmeister, will follow the program.

Membership in the Mount Prospect B and PW Club is composed of women who live and/or work in the northwest suburban communities. Prospective members and others interested in attending the Nov. 10 meeting or learning more about the club may telephone the membership chairman, Mrs. Jayne Shutt, at 392-1717. (S

Next Missionary Union Is a Program on Japan

A program on Japan will be presented at the Monday, Nov. 14, meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church of Wheeling. Speaker will be Mrs. Bonnie Dill, wife of the church's pastor.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the church, Elmhurst Road at Edwards St.

At the group's first fall meeting, held Oct. 17, speaker was Mrs. James E. Godsoe, wife of the language missionary of Northern Illinois under the Home Mission Board. Mrs. Godsoe also installed Mrs. Charles Miller of Mount Prospect as president of the WMU.

The WMU has as its purpose, missionary study, community and youth education activities.

Garden Club Plans 2-Day Fall Show

"November Moods" has been chosen as the title of a 2-day show planned by Palanois Park Garden Club members. To be held Saturday, Nov. 12, and Sunday, Nov. 13, in Salt Creek Rural Field House, Palatine, the show will feature floral arrangements, horticulture specimens and displays in the fall theme.

Among the special features will be a Christmas Mood Work Shop Booth selling hand-crafted items and white elephants and a display on the history and origin of nuts grown in Illinois. The Education Committee is doing the research and organizing for the display of nuts.

THE JUNIOR displays will include "Woodland Creatures," animals created from gourds by children of the third grade. Students in fourth, fifth and sixth grades will create scenes in baking pans and have entitled their work "Injun Summer." A "turnabout" corsage will be the display of seventh graders.

Horticulture specimens, including house plants, terrariums, potted herbs and mounted, identified evergreen branches will make up still another display.

Doors of the field house, 530 S. William Drive, will open to the public Nov. 12 from 2 to 9 p.m. and again Nov. 13 from 2 to 7 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Co-chairmen of the show are Mrs. John Hayes and Mrs. Thomas Bouffard. (S

Six New Members Join Palatine Infant Welfare

Six new members were welcomed into the Palatine Center of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago at a luncheon held recently in the Plum Grove Estates home of Mrs. Paul K. Tell.

Joining the group were Mrs. Fredrick A. Brown, Mrs. Read Q. Chalfant, Mrs. Hugh S. Kelley, Mrs. F. Joseph Scharon, Mrs. Seth Simms Jr. and Mrs. Earnest B. Howard.

Guest speaker at the luncheon was Mrs. W. J. Haring of Wilmette, first vice president of the Society. She presented a report on the progress of the Infant Welfare's Child Rehabilitation Center and explained how the Society is again a pioneer in helping underprivileged mothers and their children. "For over 50 years, Infant Welfare has been the only charity group that has worked directly through the home, with personal contact," stated Mrs. Haring. (S

Bensenville Cook Shares Armenian Recipes

MARK MOOMJIAN watches with interest as his mother, Mrs. Harry Moomjian of Bensenville, stuffs green peppers, tomatoes and cabbage leaves with Dolma. A savory meat mixture, Dolma is prepared by an authentic Armenian recipe which calls for ground lamb or beef. After the vegetables are stuffed, they are simmered in a tomato sauce to make delicious and hearty dinner fare.

Dolma, Yogurt Are Family Favorites

by LOIS SEILER

Versatility is the keynote of the Armenian recipes being featured today. They are favorites in the Harry Moomjian household at 717 Algonquin Road in Bensenville.

One is for Dolma, a savory stuffing which can be used for any number of vegetables—green peppers, succhini squash, tomatoes, grape leaves or cabbage. The other is for homemade yogurt, the nourishing health food which Armenians use for everything from a cold soup to a topping for baked potatoes.

"Dolma is a standard in almost every Armenian household," Mrs. Moomjian explained, "and it can be made with either ground lamb or beef."

She combines the ground meat with rice, chopped onion, parsley and tomato sauce. Mrs. Moomjian prefers to season hers with curry powder or allspice, but any seasoning of your choice may be used.

CAROL MOOMJIAN scoops out the pulp from tomatoes, green peppers or zucchini squash (sometimes substituting the tomato pulp for the tomato sauce in the dolma) and fills these with the dolma. Or she simmers cabbage or grape leaves until tender, spoons on the dolma and rolls up the leaves.

This good cook usually makes a variety when she prepares this recipe and then simmers the stuffed vegetables in a tomato sauce or water. Often she doubles or triples the recipe, making enough for dinner and freezing the remainder.

"They are wonderful to have on hand for a busy day," Carol commented, "as they can simply be removed from the freezer and warmed on the stove or in the oven before serving."

THIS DISH is virtually a meal-in-one, containing vegetables, the meat and rice. A light dessert is all that is needed to complete this tasty meal.

"Although yogurt is commonly used by health fadists, the Armenians use it simply because they were brought up on it," Mrs. Moomjian explained. "We always have it on hand in the refrigerator," she added.

Easily made, Mrs. Moomjian's yogurt is thick and custard-like. It can be served as a substitute for sour cream, and Carol also serves it over stuffed grape leaves or green bean stew.

During the summer months she often dilutes the yogurt (half water-half yogurt), and combines it with sliced cucumbers to make jajik, a cold soup. The yogurt can also be diluted with water, seasoned with a little salt and served as a refreshing summertime drink.

YOGURT AND the dolma are enjoyed by both her children, Robin Lynn, 11, and Mark, 4½.

Cooking is just one of Mrs. Moomjian's many interests. A past president to the Mohawk PTA, she now is historian and publicity chairman. She also serves as corresponding secretary for the PTA Council and is an election judge. A member of St. Gregory the Illuminator Armenian Church, Mrs. Moomjian belongs to the Young Women's Guild there.

DOLMA

1 pound ground lamb or beef
½ cup uncooked regular rice
2 medium onions, chopped fine
Little parsley, chopped
¼ cup tomato sauce
Salt and pepper to taste
Curry powder, allspice or seasoning of your choice

Combine ingredients in a bowl and mix well. Stuff lightly into scooped-out tomatoes, zucchini squash or green peppers. Or roll up the dolma in grape leaves or cabbage leaves which have been simmered until tender.

Place stuffed vegetables into a pan and cover with tomato sauce or water or a mixture of both. Cover pan and cook long enough for rice to cook and become tender, about 45 minutes to one hour on the stove. Or cover and bake in the oven for 1½ hours. Serves 4 to 6.

YOGURT

1 quart milk
½ cup old yogurt

Bring milk to a boil. Pour into a glass or earthen bowl and let cool to 125 degrees on thermometer. Add a little of the cooled milk to the yogurt and then stir yogurt into all of the cooled milk. Wrap towel around bowl and set in a warm place or warming oven. Within 3 to 4 hours the mixture will get thick as custard. Place in refrigerator. Use as you would sour cream.

To make jajik (an Armenian soup), use half yogurt and half water and add to sliced cucumbers. Serve as a cold soup.

Budget Buy

Macaroni is a food of the week during October, but for most mothers with large families, there's a macaroni day in every week.

With an eye on the food budget, why not honor the week with a macaroni and cheese casserole by adding to it 2 jars or packages (2½ ounces each) of dried beef or 1 can (12 ounces) of luncheon meat, cut in strips?

Catch the eye with sliced green stuffed olives placed in spokes like a wheel across the top. (SH

Economist Predicts Record Turkey Crop

More turkeys will be available for holiday tables this year than ever before, says R. P. Bentz, University of Illinois agricultural economist.

Bentz points out that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has predicted that turkey numbers this year will exceed the 1965 volume by 10 to 12 per cent. If the USDA predictions are correct, the 1966 turkey crop will amount to 115 to 117 million birds. Illinois is expected to produce about 1.3 million birds, ranking seventh among the 12 north central states.

At Thanksgiving and Christmas, 8- to 16-pound turkeys are expected to sell for about 45 cents a pound, says Bentz.

"This price is four cents less than last year's average, and it's a welcome change for consumers who have recently faced so many food price increases," he says. "Heavier turkeys may sell for less than 40 cents a pound."

"TURKEYS ARE going to be a good buy this year because of price competition from both broilers and pork and because of a record turkey crop," Bentz explains. "As a result, average retail prices for turkeys should be lower in most areas this fall."

Here are Bentz's observations on supply and farm price situations for the fall season when more than two-thirds of the year's turkey supply is consumed:

—Turkey slaughter for the first six months of this year was 32 per cent higher than the same period last year. Despite the effort to market birds early, the bulk of the turkey crop has yet to move off farms.

—COLD STORAGE stocks of turkeys fell this summer to the lowest level in five years. But by Sept. 1 stocks had increased to nearly 166 million pounds, a record high for that date. Carryover on Jan. 1 is also expected to reach a record high.

—Farm prices for turkeys this fall are expected to average about 21 cents a pound. This means the 1966 average farm price will be down only slightly from the 22.6 cents per pound average in 1965. During the first eight months of this year, turkey prices averaged 23.2 cents a pound, one-half cent above last year's average for the same period.

—The North-Central Region will produce about 46 per cent of this year's turkey crop. Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri are the three leading turkey-producing states in the region. But each of the 12 states in the region, except Kansas, will probably raise more than a million birds this year. (SH

A Half-Century of Respected Service
"Should I arrange for my own funeral?"
This is the question a woman in her eighties asked a newspaper columnist. She was encouraged to do so, particularly since the woman felt her children were not dependable. We think it makes good sense for elderly persons to make such arrangements to their own satisfaction.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburban Area

Bazaar Bargains

'Tis the Season—for the Holiday Bazaar

Yes, this is the bazaar season.

Back in the "good old days" hardly anyone, not even the merchants, gave Christmas much thought until Thanksgiving was over. Shortly after "turkey day" the stores and shops began to decorate for the holidays, and even then the shoppers felt that they were being rushed.

But those were the days when turkey was served only on Thanksgiving, and Christmas greeting cards didn't have to be mailed until just a few days before Dec. 25th.

THOSE TURKEYS sometimes were gifts from country cousins and arrived in crates to be dressed later at the local butcher shop; today, frozen turkeys can be purchased the year round and Christmas shopping starts even before Halloween.

Yes, this is the bazaar season.

Hundreds of early bird shoppers have already begun whittling down their lists at the holiday bazaars and in shopping they are also lending financial support to the churches and other organizations which sponsor the sales.

Some of the bazaars still on the November calendar are listed below by towns for the convenience of Paddock readers:

WOOD DALE

Daisy bedecked booths and gaily dressed booth chairmen in granny dresses and western garb will lend a countrified atmosphere to the Holy Ghost Council of Catholic Women's "Country Fair Bazaar." This bazaar will take place Saturday, Nov. 12, from 11 a.m. till 8 p.m. in the church recreation rooms, 254 N. Wood Dale Road.

Mrs. William Stejskal, Ways and Means Chairman, announces that early Christmas shoppers will have their choice of many new and exciting items from the boutique booths featuring dolls and doll clothing in all sizes, timely religious articles, jewelry, holiday decorations, toys and handicrafts.

Sure to be a big favorite will be the "Kountry Kitchen" stocked with homemade breads, cookies, candies, pies and fancy cakes. Also for the shoppers' convenience, there will be a game room to keep the younger set entertained, and a refreshment booth to delight all.

Co-chairmen for the bazaar are Mrs. John Knaff and Mrs. Ralph Madonna. Busy making and collecting items for their various booths are the following chairmen: holiday decorations, Mrs. William Millen and Mrs. James Moschini; jewelry, Mrs. Karl Bauer; toys, Mrs. Francis Murphy; bakery, Mrs. Salvatore Alaia; handicraft, Mrs. Albert Ladubec; doll clothes and dolls, Mrs. John Mader and Mrs. Frank Pawlowski; religious, Mrs. Ray Gillie; prizes, Mrs. Richard Ciesla and kitchen, Mrs. Duane Kuffel. Decorating the booths is Mrs. Herbert Jones.

ELK GROVE

The women of St. Nicholas Church, 1072 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village, will be having their Christmas bazaar Saturday, Nov. 5, in the church from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Available will be many gift ideas and decorations for the holiday season. Coffee and dessert will also be available in addition to bakery items, according to the chairman, Mrs. C. N. Smith.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

The Dorcas and Ladies Aids of St. Peter Lutheran Church are sponsoring a Christmas bazaar Friday, Nov. 11, in the gymnasium and cafeteria of St. Peter School, 111 W. Olive St.

Hours are from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Luncheon will be served beginning at 11:30. Business people will be given immediate seating.

The bazaar will feature booths of home-baked goods, gift items, Christmas cards, gift wrappings and white elephants.

ELK GROVE

Ladies of the Altar and Rosary Society of Queen of the Rosary Catholic Church, 750 E. Elk Grove Blvd., are planning their annual Christmas bazaar for Nov. 19-20 at the church. Saturday hours will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

"Yules of Yesteryear" is the theme. There will be gift items and toys for sale, and games and Santa Claus will attract the children.

WHEELING

A "Holiday Bazaar" is slated for Friday, Nov. 11, and Sunday, Nov. 13, at St. Joseph the Worker Church hall, 181 W. Dundee Road, Wheeling. Sponsored by the churchwomen, it will feature a "Five and Dime" booth for children, decorations, aprons, needlework, Christmas cards, games and home-baked goods.

The Friday sale, from 1 to 4 p.m., will be directed to women shoppers, but that evening from 7 to 9 and Sunday from 6:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. will be geared to dad and the children.

BENSENVILLE

The first Christmas bazaar at the new St. Bede's Episcopal Church, 5N047 Route 83, Bensenville, will be held Wednesday, Nov. 9. It begins at 11 a.m., with a sandwich luncheon from 11 to 2 and dinner in three sittings, 5:30, 6:15 and 7 p.m.

A Gay Nineties setting will prevail, the booths appropriately named Lads and Lassies, Trim the Tree Shop, Snooper's Paradise, Toyland, Glitter Gulch, Wood Cutter's Shop, Tired Treasures, Village Bakery and Apron Bar.

A barbershop quartet will entertain during dinner.

ROSELLE

Roselle Methodist Church will hold its third annual bazaar this Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. in the church, 206 S. Rush St.

Sale items include potted plants, religious articles, decorations, baked goods and a Kountry Kitchen for light lunches.

ROSELLE

St. Walter's Church annual Medical Missions Bazaar takes place Saturday, Nov. 12, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the parish hall, 117 W. Maple, Roselle. In addition to home-baked goods, Christmas novelties and handsewn items, there will be a lunch room, children's grab-bag and a pic-an-ornament tree.

SCHAUMBURG

St. Marcelline Organization of Catholic Women is planning a Christmas bazaar for Sunday, Dec. 4, in the new Schaumburg Fire House on Schaumburg Road. It will open at 10 a.m. and feature booths of Christmas gift items, decorations, homebaked goods, and a "children's only" nook.

Coffee will be served to shoppers.

PALATINE

The Plum Grove Club, 400 Park, Palatine, is the setting for the Friday, Nov. 4, bazaar of the Woman's Alliance of Countryside Unitarian Universalist Fellowship.

A spaghetti dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. to precede the sale of gifts and baked goods. Later in the evening there will be games for all.

ROSELLE

Trinity Lutheran School, 405 Rush St., will be the scene of an old-fashioned Christmas bazaar on Saturday, Nov. 12, featuring candles and centerpieces, Christmas gifts and home-baked goods.

Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., and booths will be open from 11:30 to 3.

ELK GROVE

One dollar and fifty cents will buy one-half a home-cooked chicken, french fires, roll and butter at the St. Xachary Christmas bazaar Saturday, Nov. 12 in the parish auditorium. Located at 567 Algonquin, Des Plaines, the church serves the Elk Grove area.

Hot meals, including children's portions, will be served all day beginning at 11 a.m. Hot dogs and sandwiches will also be available.

Shoppers will be invited to browse among the 20 booths which offer games for all ages and gift items for children, teens and the home.

BERKELEY

Helping to set up a gift show on Saturday, Nov. 5, at Berkeley American Legion Hall, Wolf and St. Charles Roads, is Mrs. Hobert Wiggins of Bensenville. She is treasurer of the Northern Christian Association Women's Auxiliary, which is sponsoring the show. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

BENSENVILLE

The Milwaukee Railroad Women's Club in Bensenville will hold its annual Christmas Bazaar Friday, Nov. 18, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the clubhouse, York Road and Railroad Avenue. Homemade bakery goods will be on sale.

RUMMAGE SALES

Buffalo Grove

Wheeling Jaycee Jills will sponsor a rummage sale Thursday and Friday, Nov. 10 and 11, in the Ranch Mart Shopping Center in Buffalo Grove. Sale hours will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on both days.

Adults and children's clothing, juvenile furniture and miscellaneous articles will be offered.

Coffee will be served throughout the sale hours. (SSD GRANNY GOWNS will be worn by booth chairmen Mrs. James Rudden, Mrs. Joseph Vicceli and Mrs. Frank Pawlowski at the Holy Ghost Country Fair Bazaar Saturday, Nov. 12. A countrified atmosphere will prevail in the church recreation rooms from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., hours of the bazaar. A game room for the kiddies and boutique booth for shoppers will be included in the Fair. (Staff photo

GIFT IDEAS AND DECORATIONS for the holiday season will be on display and for sale Saturday, Nov. 5, when the women of St. Nicholas Church, Elk Grove Village, hold a Christmas Bazaar from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. A handmade Raggedy Ann doll has caught the attention of Mrs. Loren Michaels and Mrs. Jack Hettel, both of Elk Grove Village. Coffee and desserts will be served during the sale hours, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Staff photo)

'Kitchen Kut Ups' Spark Program at Our Redeemer

The "Kitchen Kookie Kut Ups" band will highlight tonight's (Thursday) meeting of the Women's Guild of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Prospect Heights.

Mrs. Charlotte Thorsen will lead the opening devotions at 8:30 p.m. in the church social hall.

THE KITCHEN band comes from Messiah Lutheran Church in Chicago and has been together for 12 years. It appears free of charge for hospitals, churches and other non-profit organizations and has been seen on the Ted Mack Amateur Hour on television.

The band was founded by Mrs. Leo Rennhack, who is also the director.

Hostesses at tonight's meeting are Mrs. Charles Stearns, Mrs. Robert Jensen and Mrs. Thorsen.

Mrs. Wayne Zimmerman may be called at 537-5117 for details.

Public Health Service Wives Make Changes

Mrs. Raymond D. Johnson of Arlington Heights recently resigned as president of the U.S. Public Health Service and Federal Water Pollution Control Administration Wives Club of Chicagoland because her family has been transferred to Oklahoma City.

She is succeeded by Mrs. Stanley Witt of Chicago, who assumed duties at a luncheon Tuesday in the M&M Club of the Merchandise Mart. The club toured the Mart before the luncheon meeting.

AMONG THE committee chairmen of the club are two local women, Mrs. Walter Hedrick of Addison, who serves as coffee chairman, and Mrs. Lee Van Winkle of Rolling Meadows, parliamentarian.

The club, which is four years old, promotes friendships and offers mutual help to area families associated with professional public health services.

Plans are being made for a dinner dance on Nov. 19 at The Hut on the grounds of the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital, 4141 Clarendon Ave., Chicago. (SSD

Area Pilgrims Is Newcomer Luncheon Theme

"Pilgrims — Arlington's First Newcomers," will be the theme of the Wednesday, Nov. 9, luncheon planned by Arlington Heights Newcomers Club.

To be held at Old Orchard Country Club, the menu will feature breast of chicken, cantonese, and peach melba. Reservations may be made through Mrs. Samuel Shutt, 259-5451, or Mrs. Theodore Turkcan, 392-7685.

Newcomers with residency of 18 months or less may receive further information about the group from the membership chairman, Mrs. Gerry McIlraith, 259-3656. (S

Clipped Wings to Entertain At 25th Anniversary Party

"Coffee, tea or milk?"

It's in a more mature voice, but with the same gracious, hospitable manner they acquired while serving United Air Lines passengers that members of Clipped Wings use when entertaining their husbands and friends socially.

Although members have been grounded by marriage they have retained the zest and friendliness remembered by the passengers. This enthusiasm and amiability will again be in evidence when members of the Chicago chapter entertain in honor of the organization's 25th anniversary.

To mark the silver anniversary, members have planned a semi-formal dinner dance to be held Friday, Nov. 18, in Old Orchard Country Club. Chairman of the Founder's Day affair is Mrs. Robert Lee, 105 S. Kenilworth, Mount Prospect, who states that an ever increasing number of members are now residing in the northwest suburbs.

FOUNDED IN 1941 by an Oak Park woman, Mrs. Jacqueline Jos Ceaser, the first meeting of the organization was held with eight charter members attending. As each charter member moved from the area, she was asked to contact girls in her new city. "It was with constant correspondence and with great motivation and desire that we grew" said Mrs. Ceaser.

The group was incorporated on Nov. 16, 1948 and now has 26 chapters in leading cities across the nation. Membership now stands at 1135 with 95 listed on the rosters of the Chicago chapter which serves the northwest suburbs. Corresonding secretary of this group is Mrs. T. P. Crigler of Addison.

Members the nation over support the National Association for Mentally Retarded Children. Locally, the group supports the Austin Special School and the Florence Crittenton Anchorage.

Dessert Tea, Fashion Show

A pastry parade and a showing from the world of fashion will fete the ladies of the Beth Tikvah Sisterhood at their annual "Early Bird" affair. This year the event will be held Monday afternoon, Nov. 14, from 1 to 3 at the Temple, 275 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates.

The Early Bird dessert tea and fashion show is a reward to all Sisterhood members who have, or will have, paid their dues by Nov. 7.

Mrs. Norman Shalett, membership chairman, may be reached at 437-2580. (SSD

DAR to 'Bone Up' On Use of Flag

"How Well Do You Know Your Flag" is the topic set for tonight's (Thursday) meeting of Eli Skinner Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Hostess will be Mrs. John W. Schaff, 515 E. Rockwell, Arlington Heights, who will also present the program.

Christmas gifts for DAR-supported schools will be brought by members.

Mrs. L. S. Harmer and Mrs. Basil Regione will be co-hostesses. (S
